BUCKIE.

Held in Fishermen's Hall, Nov. 26, and passed off very successfully. Owing to its situation in the North of Scotland the entry of cage birds has never been very big, as these can only be drawn from the surroundings districts, the southern exhibitors not daring to venture the distance. This year, however, there was a marked improvement in this direction, and we are pleased to see a livelier interest is now being taken in the British bird section. The challenge cup for best bird was awarded Mr. Todd's winning Crest, a bird of much merit. Several of the Inverness winners put in an appearance here. Mr. James Garrow, Loanhead, judged, handling the exhibits carefully and well.

WIRKSWORTH.

Held in the Town Hall, Nov. 29. There was a very fair entry, and quality was A1. The withholding of several prizes caused a lot of grumbling among the exhibitors. The birds were staged to the best advantage in a well-lighted position, and everything done for the comfort of the exhibits. Mr. Charles Ward judged.

DUBLIN (South County).

Second annual show of the South County Dublin C.H.A., held Nov. 26 and 27, was a great success. Entries were thirty in excess of last year, making a total of 427. Unfortunately the fixture clashed with Cork, and received less than twenty entries from that district, whereas last year they had one hundred and forty. This clashing of shows in Ireland, where they are not so numerous as in England, might be avoided, both Cork and Dublin suffered through the occurrence. One could not find a more imposing building than the King-town Town Hall, and the interior is quite equal to its external appearance. The main hall, where the show is held is a large, roomy, well lighted place, and capable of holding double the number of birds quite comfortably, the staging was perfect, and so arranged that the exhibits were easily examined. Yorks. were the main feature of the show, and of these there was a grand gathering of most of the best in the North of Ireland, but we missed the bonny birds from Sligo, where Messrs. Devins, Mulligan and Tighe bred some of the best seen in the green island. Mr W. Sholdice, of Dublin, almost swept the deck in Non. Feds. In point of merit the novice birds were almost equal to the champion. Mr. Morgan's yell. ck., and Mr. Burtenshaw's buff, were both grand specimens. A few good Crests and Norwich made up the Canary section. There were some capital Hybrids, and British were quite high class. Mr. Mulcahy did well, his grand Chough once more added a prize to his already long list of honours. The management was all that one could desire. Mr. D. Synth, the sec., is painstaking and thorough in his methods, consequently everything went well without the slightest hitch. He has many willing helpers, among them being Messrs. O'Brien, Dwyer, Ward, Price, Waters, Beegan, Carroll, Sholdice, Keating, and others. The show was well patronised by visitors, and should be a decided success. CAGE BIRDS' 10s. champion special was won by Mr. D. E. Alexander, with a lovely Goldfinch-Bullfinch, and the novice by Mr. McKeon. Mr. H. Norman judged, and his awards met with very general satisfaction.

IRVINE.

Third open show, held Nov. 29, in Masonic Hall, a most comfortable one, being extra well lighted and free from draughts. The birds were nicely staged round the hall and down the centre, making a very nice display. The management of this fixture has nothing to learn in running a show, everything went like clockwork. Mr. H. M. Ferguson is a most obliging secretary, and is a most valuable asset to the society. Office bearers are Messrs. J. Nairn, Pres.; T. Cowan, vice; and a large and enthusiastic committee, viz., Messrs. McCall, Spratt, Rankin, J. Young, H. B. Young, McKean, Jeffrey, Harvie, Duncan, Alexander, Conner, Adraine, Savage, Murray, McGhee and Garthland. Entries were 11 in excess of last year. Borders were a feature of the show, and gave the judge a heavy day's work. Yorks. are gradually gaining favour in this district, and though the classes were not large, quality was good. British were well filled, and were a big attraction, some well known winners being forward. Mr. Morrie won Border Club's medal with a real gem, a cl. yell. hen. Judges were: Yorks and Nor., A Cant.; Bord., T. Findlay; Mules, Brit. and For., A. W. Watson. The awards seemed to please most of the exhibitors, as very little grumbling was heard.

WHITBY.

28th annual show held Nov. 26, in the Market Hall, a place well adapted for the purpose, having plenty of light. The thirteen classes provided brought an entry of about 110 birds, which we are certain could be considerably increased by more advertising and a little better classification. Yorks. numbered 14 in the two classes, the chief honours falling to Miss Pyman. In the Norwich unflighted, Mr. Parlett won with a grand clear buff, good all round, and shown in the pink of condition. The main feature of the show was the British, several of this season's first prize winners being on view. Mr. Inman scored first with a real good Linnet of beautiful shape and markings; in the A.O.V. class, containing 13 birds, some champion birds were on view. We could easily pick out seven birds good enough for premier honours, Mr. Parlett's beautiful Bramble having to stand down to an extra good Goldfinch shown by Mr. Inman. In the two cup classes for unflighted, bred within fifteen miles, the cup presented by Dr. Mitchell was won by Mr. Fletcher with a varieg. yellow Nor., a bird of grand type, and hot colour. The cup presented by Miss Coble fell to Mr. Walker, with a fine yellow Yorks. The management under sectional Sec. Mr. Harland and a good band of stewards was all that could be desired. Mr. F. Marwood, Eaglescliffe, judged, and his awards were well received.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

Fifth members' show of the year, held Nov. 25, at Park Chapel Schools, West Bowling. Messrs. R. Halliday (Shipley) and H. H. Towers (Keighley) judged, and gave every satisfaction; 79 birds were staged in 14 classes, and keen competition was manifest in many classes, the results of which were eagerly awaited to ascertain possible chances for the final show, Dec. 27. Most points with 4 highest birds were secured by the following in their sections: Messrs. G. White, J. Northrop, W. Laycock, S. Woad, W. Myers, and W. Walker.

READING.

12th annual show held at the Palmer Hall, Nov. 26. The show was under the guidance of Mr. Pyke, whose tremendous efforts to make a record of show were amply rewarded, for entries were 40 more than last year. He was assisted by Mr. O. C. Smith, and a hard working committee, comprising Messrs. Brooker, Viner, Yates, Avis, Munday, Dearlove, Tremlett, Laurence, Maisey, E. T. Smith, and Hayward, who worked hard in unpacking and packing birds, and all birds were out of hall by 9.45 p.m. The entries were the best ever seen at Reading, quantity and quality being in great evidence. Norwich were a grand lot, in unlighted buff Mr. Litchfield had hard lines, his bird arriving too late for judging, it was a sure winner, although Mr. Saunders, the winner, had a beauty in a variegated bird of rare size. Open Yorks. were even a bit better than Norwich, some birds of rare length, colour, and feather being staged. British open were a little disappointing, two classes having to be cancelled; but Goldies were an eye-opener. Foreign classes were well filled, and were a great attraction to all visitors. Parrakeets were a beautiful lot, Mr. Acton getting nearly all the honours, his Blue-crowned Hanging being a lovely pair. In A.O.V. larger than Budgerigar, Mr. Cox exhibited an unknown variety, and, although a special prize was offered to name it correctly, it was still nameless when show was over. Members' classes were not quite so good as previous years, but held grand birds. In amateur memb. a Norwich unlighted yell. shown by Mr. Church carried off the cup for the best bird bred by amateur or novice. In novice members' classes the unlighted yell. or buff Norwich was the largest class in show, bar pet class, and the quality of birds speaks well for members' future. Novice Yorks. were a failure, only totalling 7 in three classes. The children's pet bird class was a great success, and secretaries should make a note of this, as it brings in a lot of gate money. The special prize to member selling most tickets was won by Mr. E. J. Smith, £1 4s. worth, Mr. O. C. Smith being a good second with £1 0s. 6d. Mr. Robson judged.

BRADFORD WEST

SAD SLUMP IN ENTRIES.

Annual show held Nov. 29 in the Council Schools, Girlington. The room is an ideal place for a show being well lighted and free from draughts. Entries came up very poorly, only 261 in 26 classes, a very bad average for the Yorkshiremen; most of them must be holding back for the National Show next week. The society is sure to drop a lot at this show, as only four classes had sufficient entries to pay their own prize money. This was very disappointing in view of the patronages and trophies and competitions which had to be competed for, also it being a CAGE BIRDS Coupon Show. Mr. F. Armstrong (Halifax) judged, and gave general satisfaction. In champion classes Mr. H. H. Towers, with his Hc. yell. winner in Class 3, wins the 10s. spl., and Mr. Tidswell will take the Diploma with 1st in Class 13, seeing that Mr. Towers has won a Diploma before. In novices Mr. Chew, of Leeds, takes the cash special with a buff cinn. mkd. hen, winner in Class 21; a good one. The quality all round was not quite up to the standard of the Union shows, and several of the best will seem to have got new clothes on next week. The management was excellent considering they had the stulling taken out of them with such a poor entry. Pres. Mr. Crabtree was there working as hard as anyone, and Sec. Mr. Cooper had charge, and did his duty well, being ably assisted by Mr. Kilburn. The show stewards were Messrs. Terry, Greaves, Clegg, and Bennett, and were assisted by most of the committee.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertisor, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertisor, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager, "Cage Birds"

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers in all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system would be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IT'S EARLY YET

to speak of Christmas, but what about the bit of bird-catching you are hoping to have? Are you quite prepared, with all your appliances ready? Don't wait until the last moment before ordering everything you require, but, even if you should be late, just send your order to me, and I guarantee not to disappoint you. Everything required for successful catching always in stock, and all guaranteed brand new, up-to-date stock. Clapnets made from superfine thread, ¾in. mesh, 3 yards long, 5½ feet deep, and 4ft. poles, 4/- pair; ditto 4 yards, 5/-; 5 yards, 6/-; 6 yards, 7/-; 7 yards, 8/-; 8 yards, 9/-; 9 yards, 10/-; 10 yards, 11/- per pair. Clapnets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of stated size, and are fitted up complete with all pegs, poles, lines, etc., ready for immediate use. Sparrow nets, fitted on 14ft. bamboo poles, 5/6; ditto, 17ft., 6/-; ditto, 19ft., 6/6. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 by 18 inches, 1/2; ditto, 20 by 16 inches, 11d. post free. These net traps are by far the simplest and most effective on the market; they can be baited for hard and soft bills at same time, and are used by all the leading softbill catchers. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 1/-; treble, 1/3; all with separate compartment for call bird, in addition to traps stated. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages (Reg. No. 23927), warranted to automatically reset immediately each bird is caught, 1/6 each. Call cages, all wire, soldered tops and wood bottoms, 4d. each. Genuine Italian hemp pull lines, strong as boat lines, specially spun without snarl, 60 yards long, 1/4 post free. Original Japanese bird lime, guaranteed absolutely strongest lime made, stands all weathers, and especially good for fog and rain, ½lb., 6d.; ½lb., 10d.; 1lb., 1/6; sample, 3d., all post free. Please note this is the original Japanese lime, as sold only by me for years past, and is entirely different to any other lime on the market. Loose netting, specially made for bird catching, and same as used in my clap nets, made from 60's/3-cord superfine tbread, ¾in. mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; ditto, 9ft. deep, 4d. yard; ditto, 12ft. deep, 5d. yard. Extra stout netting 5/8in. mesh, 10ft. deep, 5d. yard; all post free. Bird calls for imitating call and song of any bird that flies, 2d. each; six, 6d., post free. Brace swivels, three 2d., twelve 6d., post free. Stave poles, pegs, and everything else required by catchers always in stock. Send stamp for full list, which also gives hints on net making. Kindly note following letters from well-known bird-catchers, etc.:—"16, Owen's Row, Kilney, Nov. 22. Sir,—Please send ½lb. lime. The sample is beyond expectations.—Yours, T. Jones." "School Hill, Broughton, near Kettering, Nov. 20. Sir,—Received nets; many thanks for same.—Yours, A. Boxall." "23, Levenhaugh-st., Dumbarton, Nov. 11. Sir,—Send ½lb. lime; the last I got was splendid.—Yours, S. Campbell." "Sheringham, Norfolk. Sir,—Received nets. I am perfectly satisfied; they are well worth the money.—Yours, E. Sadler." "10, Merefield-st., Rochdale. Sir,—Received netting, and am very pleased with it. It is very good, and just what I required. Thanks for quick delivery and straightforwardness.—Yours, J. Jackson." "Crowle, Lincs. Sir,—The last netting I got from you five years ago has been best I ever had; in fact, best in England.—Yours, G. Frith." "50, Andersonn-st., Partick. Sir,—Please send 2lbs. lime. The last you sent me was best I ever had from anywhere.—Yours, W. Burke." "Nelson-st., Scarborough. Sir,—Please send 1lb. lime. Yours is best I can get anywhere.—Yours, E. Banks." "Gorse Lane, Turleton. Sir,—Received clapnets safe, and they suit me first-class.—Yours, R. Coulton." "Norton-rd., Pelsall. Sir,—Please send another pound lime. I cannot get any to beat it.—Yours, J. Felton." Please note, everything is guaranteed exactly as represented, and sent on approval on the distinct understanding that if not satisfactory the whole of your money is refunded.

EXPERT CANARY - REARING.

Large sums of money can be made breeding Canaries for sale and exhibition, once you have mastered the science of Mating, Crossing, and Judging. An artistic 20-page Brochure has been specially prepared for CAGE BIRDS readers regarding these matters and other details of great interest to fanciers. It is a gift to you, and you are entitled to it free of charge.

In this booklet will be explained an easy method by which, for the small payment of 1s., you can be the immediate possessor of a magnificent volume, entitled "Our Canaries." It weighs 5lbs., and contains 133 illustrations and 32 coloured plates. The balance is payable at the rate of about 1d. a day for a few months. This slight cost is not, of course, an expenditure at all, because the facts you will be put in possession of when you have read this wonderful manual on Canaries will pay for its cost many times over.

Cut round this Free "Brochure" Ticket dotted lines. Fill in your name, address and occupation, put it inside a halfpenny stamped envelope and post it to-day.

What a Reader thinks of "OUR CANARIES."

5, The Station,
Shineliffe,
Durham.

I am very well satisfied with "Our Canaries," and, as far as I have gone into this wonderful book, I have found some very useful hints. Although only a Novice, I tried my hand at washing a few birds and getting them ready for our Local Show. I washed nine birds in all, only spoiling one. I have had them examined by a friend, who is considered an expert at the game, and he gave me credit for washing them very well, this being my first attempt. I am delighted to think I did so well. The information, which is very concise, that enabled me to wash them so well, was in "OUR CANARIES."

USE DITCHFIELD'S

Famous bird medicines, as supplied to the London Zoological Society. They are genuine remedies, which can be given with perfect confidence to all classes of cage birds. We have hundreds of testimonials testifying to the value of our bird medicines A. Sammons, Southend-on-Sea, writes: "You have got a genuine remedy, which no fancier should be without." B. Hutton, Holbeach, writes:—"Your Revivo is a marvellous remedy." R. Seekings, March, writes:—"Have saved three young birds with your Tonic Drops." W. Addison, Brynwhelach.—"Your Tonic has worked wonders with my birds." W. H. Harris, Halberton:—"I find your medicines very excellent." F. Clay, Settle:—"Have used your medicines with great success." J. Sherwin, Regent's Park:—"I have found your Tonic Drops most valuable for my birds." Special Notice.—When ordering medicine, kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, going light, not singing, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and inflammation of the bowels. Sold in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For bronchitis, wheezing, hoarseness, and inflammation of the lungs, get Ditchfield's special Lung Tonic, also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This tonic is undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds. For cases of constitutional weakness and debility get Ditchfield's Revivo. There is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the bird. As a pick-me-up for birds before and after showing, Revivo is absolutely unequalled, in 7d. and 1/1 Bottles. To advertise our medicines, we will send two 7d. bottles of either of the above medicines for 1/-, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9. All medicines are sent post paid per return; any bottles broken in transit replaced, also two seed recipes: How to feed Linnets and Rollers for song, given free to all purchasers of our medicines: Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. (1004)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

DAY IS SUPPLYING

Winners every week all over England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales. If you want something good send where they are in stock, not on paper; all kept in large up-to-date aviaries, not cooped up in little back cages; all birds are healthy and as advertised. One bird from me makes you a regular customer; I have hundreds of birds through my hands weekly; if you are visiting Hull pay me a visit; I guarantee to show you more birds than any three dealers. I am a direct importer of Siberian birds, so send to the fountain head and get the best. No matter what you want I can supply you; testimonials arriving every post; read the following: Mixbury, Brackley, Northants, Dear sir,—Siberian Bullfinch arrived safe; was quite surprised to see such a large fine bird; he is a beauty, and quite tame; thank you for selecting such a splendid bird.—H. Rayler to Mr. Day. Back Hill, Auchenlick, Ayrshire, Dear sir,—A line to tell you I won 1st prize with Siskin I got from you in Class of 14 at Cumnock Show, see report in this issue; please send, etc.—J. Mitchell to Mr. Day. The Ravine Rabbitry, Filey, Dear sir,—A line to let you know I got one 1st, two 2nds, two 3rds, and one 4th last week, all with birds bought from you; I think this good for one show; shall be wanting more shortly.—W. Watkerson to Mr. Day. 33, Waterloo-rd., Wellington, Somerset, Dear sir,—Seifert Roller arrived safe and was singing lovely as soon as unpacked; thank you for honest dealing.—J. Exton to Mr. Day. Gentlemen, I could fill this paper with testimonials, not invented, nor are they as old as Adam. I have some grand cock Waxwings now ready for the bench and bound to win anywhere, 18/-, 25/-, and one of the best ever seen 30/-; also a monster Siberian Corn Bunting, a sure winner, 5/6, and a few monster Siberian cock Greenfinches, 2/6, and some rich Yellows 3/6 each; Siberian cock Linnets, real giants, well pencilled, 2/6, 3/6 each; extra large Siberian Redpolls, grand caps and bibs, 1/6, 2/6 each; Chaffinches, 1/-; Siberian Yellow cock Siskins, extra large, grand caps and bibs, extra well laced, 7/6 each; only a few for exhibition, first P.O. to arrive gets them, other good healthy cocks, 2/6, 3/- each; hens, 1/- each; Siberian Bullfinches, biggest ever seen, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6, and a few extra specials, 7/6 and 10/6 each, cocks or hens. Just arrived, another 200 Leipzig Rollers, on full rolling song, with many lovely changes, free from any harsh notes, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, and a few good high-class Schoolmasters, 10/6 each; Hartz cocks, good loud singers, 4/6, 5/6 each; and over a hundred Siberian cock Goldfinches, the biggest ever imported into England, 4/6, 5/6; and a few specials that can win anywhere, 7/6, and 10/6 each. If you don't see here what you want write to me, I can supply you no matter what you want: Parrots, monkeys, dogs, aviary moulted Cockatiels, Budgerigars, White Java Sparrows, Roller hens, Norwich or Yorkshire Canaries, cocks or hens; Mules, Goldfinch or Linnet, on full song; don't hesitate, but send at once; all on approval; cash or deposit: John Day, The Aviaries, Porter-st., Hull.

WHICH IS BEST

to buy birds that are backed up by a lot of bunkum and idle boasting, or those that are guaranteed to be accurately described, and exactly as represented? I depend solely upon the merits of my birds for my trade, not by the art of "drawing the long bow." Everything I sell is guaranteed exactly as described, and is sent on approval, on the distinct understanding that unless your every expectation is realised, you only have to return it, and back comes the whole of your money. No unmentioned conditions whatever, you either get fullest satisfaction or all your money back. I have magnificent stock of Worcestershire cock Goldfinches in full colour, and perfect health and condition, at 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6; specially selected larger cocks, guaranteed in song, and likely mulers, 3/- each, three 7/6, six 13/-; exhibition specimens, 4/- and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/6; grand lot cock brown Linnets, every one warranted with nut-brown backs and rose-red breasts, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/6; specially picked large cocks for muling or contest singing, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; exhibition specimens, 2/6 each; please note these Linnets are guaranteed exactly same as the scores of dozens I sell weekly to dealers and fanciers; splendid cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-; yellows for muling, 1/-; exhibition specimens, 2/6 each; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6; exhibition specimens, 2/6 each; cock Skylarks, all big bold cocks, not half hens, nor skeletons, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; picked, steady birds, guaranteed in song, 1/-, 1/6, and 2/- each; magnificent lot Mealy Redpolls (caught in England, but sold by some as Siberians), 1/- each, three 2/6, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; exhibition specimens, 2/6 each; Lesser Redpolls, 6d. each, three 1/6, six 2/-; few finger-tame hen Siskins, in perfect feather, 1/- and 1/6; cock Siskins, 2/- each, three 5/-; Siberian cock Goldfinches, in full song, for muling, 5/- each; house-moulted cock Linnets, full song, guaranteed bred Mules, 3/6 and 5/- each; ditto, white-legged cock Goldfinches, 5/-, 6/-, and 7/6 each; special travelling cages, for all birds, 3d. per 3 birds extra. Please note: All birds are properly netted by expert catchers, employed solely by myself, and all are guaranteed thoroughly on hard seed before sent out. I probably handle more genuine English birds than any man alive, and send out nothing but what I am certain will give satisfaction. I have a 22 years' reputation in the bird trade, and that reputation is behind every bird sent out. These are facts, easily substantiated, and not a lot of nonsensical fairy tales to trap the unwary. See Hartz Canary and also Appliance columns for further advts. (1111)

To Crest Exhibitors and Breeders.

If you are requiring a Crest or Crested-bred for keenest competition, let me know, and I believe I can set you up with your requirements, or if wanting a change of blood with something you can rely upon, and not with a false pedigree. I leave such tactics to people that can stoop to such, who, in many cases never had a really good one in their lives. For the cheapest (that is, the best value in England to-day), send for list of stock.

Comparison.

With any Birds previously, or at present time, had from elsewhere.

This is the favour I ask. Pay for the value you see on the perch, and not fairy tales and palpable fals hoods. I will select and match some of the best stock pairs ever seen (so far as value goes), at 21/-, 30/-, and 40/- per pair. Odd Cocks or Hens, same quality, 13/6, 15/-, 20/-. Others as follows: 5/0, 6/6, 8/6 upwards; hens, 2/3, 2/6, 3/6; some slashing good hens at 5/6 each; pairs, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; cages 3d. On approval. Many testimonials received by every post, which can be seen. Illustrated detailed list others free. Easiest of easy payment by joining my Bird Club. Distance no object.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

The BULL-DOG STRAIN.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS

This strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of the leading champion shows, where my birds are consistently winning highest honours in the keenest competition.

I am also constantly receiving letters from clients who are winning regularly with birds supplied by me, or with birds bred from my stock.

I have had a very successful breeding season, and have now for disposal a large number of birds, both cocks or hens, yellow or buffs, in clears, ticked, marked or variegated.

Blood is sure to tell in the end, and now is the time for the amateur to make a start with the best possible stock, or for the old hand to introduce a little fresh blood into his room at a reasonable price. I can now send out good birds for stock or exhibition at the following prices:—Cocks or Hens, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each upwards. Pairs, specially matched for breeding winners, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, to 100/- per pair. I am prepared to give a guarantee that these are bred from my own strain, and will send to any address at my risk on seven days' approval with pleasure.

I have also a few real good, short, thick-set birds from other noted strains at following prices:—Cocks, in full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each; Smart Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each; Matched Pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/- per pair.

I invite you to visit my rooms and select your own stock, but if unable to do so I will select the birds personally, and send to any address at my sole risk on seven days' approval. Easy Payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers. Send a P.C. for my free illustrated catalogue, and remember I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every client, or cash returned in full.

From the HARTZ MOUNTAINS to Norwich

Great Value in Europe.

Read a few unsolicited opinions up to date; ORIGINALS can be seen:—

Dec. 3, 1913, Burford, Oxon.—"Received the Roller quite safe, and I am pleased with it.—S. Jordan." Dec., 1913, Salisbury Road, Batford, Harpenden. "The Seifert Roller arrived safe last Tuesday. I was very pleased with it indeed. He was in full song within an hour after arrival. I am sending another order very shortly.—Yours truly, H. C. Dearner." Dec., 1913, 50, Linfield Road, Belfast, Ireland.—"Dear Sir,—Roller Canary safe to hand, and has been singing. I had a good few visitors here on Sunday, and they could not believe me when I told them when I received it, and I did not forget to mention your name. My wife and daughter are both pleased with. I thank you for sending me such a good one for the money. When I want another bird I can assure you I will send to no other. I would advise all intending purchasers to send to Mr. W. Rudd, Norwich, if they want a good bird.—Robert Gibson." Parkstone-on-Sea, Dorset.—"Received Roller quite safe. It started singing as soon as received. This is the fourth bird I have had from you this year, and all turned out well.—Yours, etc., J. Sergent."

Genuine Trained Seifert Rollers, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/- 30/- each. Hens, same strains, 2/6, 3/6, 5/-. Other Roller Cocks, 5/6, 6/6; Superior, 7/6; Hens, 1/6, 2/-. Pairs, matched for breeding, good songsters, 7/6, 8/6. Cages, 3d. extra. These birds are offered without any meaningless, nosily, sensational "gush" and foolish exaggeration, which only exploit the ignorance of those making such. They are at the same time the best value to be obtained in Europe, these marvellous little songsters. Easiest of easy payments by joining my Bird Club. Distance no object. Special Handsome Box Cages, imported direct from Germany. Illustrations free.

I INVITE YOU

to come, see, and hear my birds any day (except Sundays), and you will be convinced who has the best collection, and who gives the best value in singing Canaries. If you cannot come to select the bird you require, allow me to send you one on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee to give you satisfaction. I have thousands of genuine solicited testimonials open for your inspection, of which the following are samples: "Ballachwlish, East, November 28, 1913.—I received Roller safely, and am highly pleased with same; he is a high-class singer.—D. Campbell." "58, Pearl-st., Chessells.—Roller arrived safe and sound, singing lovely; many thanks for your prompt attention.—J. Salter." "91, High-st., Guildford, 28/11/13.—Many thanks for Roller, safely to hand, in splendid condition, singing well on arrival; he is a beauty, and has such a good note.—W. Charman." "Hill Top, Broadsall, 28/11/13.—Received Roller in good condition; the family are delighted with him; your care in packing does you great credit.—A. Moore." "South Burn-rd., Airdrie, 29/11/13.—Received Roller in splendid condition; it was singing grand the whole day long; I am delighted with it, and shall send you more orders.—G. Bell." My genuine St. Andreasburg Rollers are imported direct (by myself) from the most reliable and experienced breeders in Germany. No middleman's profits, hence the high quality at reasonable prices. St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, with full change of song by day and artificial light, genuine, up-to-date songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each; a few extra good contest singsters, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-; hens, same strain, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6 each (not common German rubbish). For cheap reliable songsters my Hartz cocks are unequalled, and acknowledged by all to be the real working man's friend. Birds in full, loud, free song by day and gaslight, real loud, sweet songsters, Hartz cocks, 4/9, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each, according to quality of song. Matched pairs for breeding songsters, 7/6, 8/-, 8/6. Neat travelling cages, 3d. each; special quotations to clubs and dealers. Travelling cages from 2/- dozen, 20/6 per gross. All birds on 7 days' approval at my sole risk; cash or deposit: E. L. Storey, The Roller Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

I KNOW IT'S RUDE

to point, but I must point out to you the very special qualities of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, as imported solely by myself. For 22 years the breeders have devoted the whole of their skill to improving the song of this strain, and the result is round about perfection. They have none of the monotony of the ordinary Roller about them, their song being made up a a splendid variety of ever changing harmonious music, and this song they will retain during their whole lives, not merely for one year only. They are particularly strong and hardy, and thoroughly acclimatised before sent out. At present I have an exceptionally large stock (over 900) of these Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh, objectionable notes whatever, price 7/- and 8/- each. Special bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and bubbling water tours, 10/6 and 12/6 each. I also have a limited quantity of very special contest Rollers; these birds are of purest blood Germany can boast of, and are gems of very first water, fit for immediate contesting, 15/-, 17/6, and 21/- each. Leipzig Roller hens, 2/3 each, 4/- couple. No contest Roller hens yet. For those who like a loud, noisy singer, I have a splendid lot of free singing vigorous Hartz cocks in full loud song, day and gaslight. These are particularly good-looking birds, and will stand any amount of cold; just the thing for public bar or coffee house, etc.; price 5/- each; Hartz hens, 3/6 couple. Special travelling cages 3d. extra. All safely and warmly packed with water and seed for 48-hour journey and sent on full week's trial at my sole risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. See following few letters and notice full address and date to each: "83, Cobham-rd., South Park, Ilford, Dec. 8. Sir,—Referring to birds from you a week ago, the cock bird has now begun to sing very nicely. I also beg to acknowledge receipt of hen you sent to replace one that died (owing to delay on railway.—W.G.). This is first transaction I have had with you, and in addition to giving me every satisfaction it has proved that I have been dealing with a straightforward business man. I shall not hesitate to send to you again. Yours, J. Chepeck." "Stonyhurst College, nr. Blackburn, Dec. 4. Sir,—A word to let you know how highly satisfied I am with Roller you sent me. His song is so soothing to the mind and quite different from that of other birds, whose song consists of a short, monotonous squeak, and thanking you for honest dealing. Yours, S. de Freitas." "1, Princes-sq., Longport, Nov. 28. Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Joynson." "11, Gethin-rd., Penygraig, Nov. 30. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in pink of condition. I thought I had some good singers, but he knocks them into a cocked hat, and has secured you another order. Yours, T. Watkins." "Thorpe Terrace, New-rd., Luddenden, Nov. 25. Sir,—Roller to hand on Wednesday. He commenced singing as soon as unpacked, and for beauty of song I have yet to find his equal. I am perfectly satisfied, and wish to tender my sincere thanks for your straightforward dealing. Yours, Wm. Margatroyd." Please note, all Roller cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and as I am sole importer of this strain no other man can sell as much as one feather unless he first purchases it from me. I publish but a very few of the testimonials I receive, but the Editor has frequently examined bundles of them which have never been published. (1111)

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES, CRESTS and BORDERS,

I make no bounce about my birds, but simply refer you to the reports of all the leading shows, where my Yorkshires are regularly securing premier honours in hottest competition. I am now offering some real clinking stock and show birds, bred from these winners at very reasonable prices; and am also prepared to sell any of my winners at a working-man's price.

The following is one out of a large number of testimonials received during the last few weeks, all of which are liked for inspection:

East Kirkby, Notts, Nov. 28, 1913.—I had three nests with the Yorkshire cock you sold me, and last Saturday I won two firsts and two specials with two of the youngsters, which is not amiss for a novice in his first year of breeding.—F. B. Blackburn to Joe Thomas.

If you require any stock, let me send them on approval, and compare with all others. Note the following prices: Lengthy Yorkshire cocks, in full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards; smart, erect, racy Hens, feathered to perfection, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each; Matched Pairs, personally selected by me to give best results, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair.

EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES.

I have some grand birds ready for immediate benching, can win their first in prize-money; Cocks or Hens, in clears, ticks, or marked, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each.

CRESTS AND CRESTED-BRED.

I have acquired the entire stock of a well-known breeder, and can now supply birds bred from some of the best blood in the Fancy at following prices. Crested Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Crested Hens, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Crest-bred Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Crest-bred Hens, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Matched pairs at proportionate prices.

The above are large, massive, feathery birds, and will suit anywhere.

BORDER FANCIES, ETC.

Smart, typical Border cocks, from winning strains, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Grand Hens, from same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- per pair upwards.

I have also a splendid collection of Goldfinch and Linnet Mules, Scotch Fancies, Lancashires, etc., etc.

I send every bird on 7 days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full.

EASY PAYMENTS arranged to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers. Send a P.C. for my new free illustrated catalogue, and remember I invite you to come at any time but Sunday to inspect my rooms and stock.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle." This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against.) It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks 'trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember, we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. List of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

Meeting held Dec. 8, at 60, Paddington Street, Mr. W. A. Shepherd in the chair. Mr. V. Wynn, Hon. Sec., and 34 members present. Correspondence was read and dealt with. Mr. Giles, Cricklewood, was elected a member, and 6 nominations received. The chairman presented cups won outright at annual show, viz., Mr. Parrington, Mr. Weston's cup and Mrs. Weston's cup; Mr. F. Wright, the Wynn cup, and Mrs. L. M. Thynne, the lady's silver-mounted shield. A judging competition in Border Fancies was then proceeded with; 22 birds were staged. Mr. H. Norman acted as final judge, and at conclusion gave his reasons for placing the birds. Replying to numerous questions, Mr. Norman was able to give members instructive results gained by his long experience with this now popular variety. Members were unanimous in according Mr. Norman a very hearty vote of thanks for his kind attendance and very interesting remarks.—F. Thynne, Asst. Hon. Sec.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL O.S.

Annual general meeting at The Raglan Hotel, Dec. 4, Mr. J. W. Ramsden presiding, some 40 members being present, one of the largest meetings of its kind. Balance sheet, showing a substantial increase on last year, was read by the chairman, in the absence of the treasurer, Mr. Crabb, through illness. Letters were read from Messrs. Matthes and Bamber, who were absent through illness. A vote of sympathy was proposed by Mr. Trower to each of these gentlemen. The usual votes of thanks were passed to all the retiring officers. Result of voting papers:—President and treas., Mr. G. Crabb; auditors, Messrs. Matthes and Mortlock; committee, Mdme. Madewell, Messrs. Hodder, Pretty, Salter, Ramsden, Law, Day, Lathleiff, Bamber, Couzens, Harris, Ward, Bullen. Cooper, Graham, Huggins, Kiesel, and Newley. Mr. Couzens was elected chairman of committee; Mr. Hodder, vice-chair; Mr. Law, sec.; and Mr. Huggins, assist. sec. It was agreed that as our London membership is so increased, we should make some special attractions at our monthly meetings. Pair show, Feb. 19 (evening show). 26 classes for Canaries, Brit., Mules, and For. We are giving 7 silver and 7 bronze L. and P.O.S. medals (now, intending members), 20s. presented by the society; silver medals by Messrs. Trower and Newley, money special, Mr. Fairman, and 4 specials by Mr. J. W. Ramsden, 3 for colour food, and 1 for lady members. Judges, Mr. Norman or Mr. G. Gardner (Canaries), and Mr. Silver or Mr. Frostick (Brit. and For.). In March we are trying to make arrangements for a very interesting lantern lecture, with slides of all the most interesting exhibits at the Zoo, birds in preference. In July, the young bird show will be made quite as attractive as the pair show, and even more so. In October, a washing competition and exhibition by Messrs. Ramsden and Hodder, each using his own materials, and showing his own methods. In November we are trying to arrange a lantern lecture, with some 40 slides, describing the L. and P.O.S. ramble, with the nests, birds seen, and groups of members. This ramble as a rule takes place in May or June. The other evenings will be given up to lectures, etc. Those wishing to join the society should send along their names and be in time for the Palace, also share in all the good things we are providing from Jan. to Dec. We want real live enthusiastic members, taking an interest in the society, and doing their best to keep up the name and the proud position which the L. and P.O.S. is always trying to maintain, namely, "The Premier Cage Bird Society." Another successful year is closed, and we return grateful thanks to our old friend, CAGE BIRDS, in whose columns members will always find L. and P.O.S. news and happenings.—C. W. Law, Hon. Sec.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON THIS.

ACCRINGTON AND DIST. C.B.S.

Dec. 4th, Mr. Dormer (Rishton) gave a washing exhibition. He put three birds through in good style, and answered a good many questions. Much interest was taken in the drying cage he brought with him. Decided to have members' show Jan. 17th; there will be two cups and some specials to compete for. We had 5 new members join. We want all the fanciers in the district to join, as we intend to make it a success, if they will rally round. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Dormer concluded the meeting. Next meeting, Monday, Dec. 23rd.—D. Harwood, Sec.

NEW CROSS C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, Dec. 4. Report of annual show was considered satisfactory. Programme for 1914 (a very interesting list of fixtures) was drawn up, including 5 shows, judges for which will be selected next meeting night. We have changed annual show date to Oct. 29th, 1914. Chairman presented specials won at last annual show, and commented upon the great increase this year, 46, as against 11 last year, and said it looked well for the prosperity of the club and the enthusiasm of the members. We shall be glad if members who owe money for tickets and subs. will let us have same at once to enable us to prepare our books for the auditors. Don't forget that Jan. 1st is the only date to get rules altered and added to, so that those who have any suggestions to make please let us know a few days beforehand.—Burton Bros., Hon. Secs.

COLINTON AND CURRIE PARISHES O.S.

Annual general meeting held Village Hall, Juniper Green, Dec. 6, Vice-president, Mr. Michie, in the chair. The auditors said they had gone over the books and vouchers and found everything in good order, and the Society in a very flourishing condition. Office-bearers for ensuing year: Pres., Parish Councillor Alex. Begbie; Vice-pres., Mr. Jas. Michie; treas., Mr. Alex. F. R. Scott; sec., Mr. Jas. Napier (Lanark Road, Juniper Green); Committee, Messrs. J. Johnston, D. Campbell, J. Ferguson, G. Crabb, and R. Davidson. Decided we have no meeting in January, but a smoker on the 10th of January. Left in hands of sec. to make arrangements for the smoker. New members admitted: J. I. Yellowlees (Whinton), Miss E. Shiels, J. Marshall and W. Downie, all of Juniper Green.—J. Napier, Sec.

WEST BROMWICH C.B.S.

Meeting held Dec. 1st. Everyone was pleased to again see our worthy chairman in attendance after his recent illness. Members' prize-money for open show was paid. Decided to have series of fortnightly night shows for champ., amateur, and novice, the society giving medal for each section, for most points at end of series, value to be decided later. First show December 16th, meeting, with Norwich (champ., amat., and novice). Classes: Cl., tkd., or var. yell. cock, ditto hen, in each section. Judge picked from non-exhibitors. We hope every member will put down a few birds, and so make the meetings interesting. A discussion on the merits of birds staged will be commenced after birds are judged. Three new members made; total on books, 25—not strong numerically, but we make up in enthusiasm. A brief survey of the late show was given by secretary. It proved one of the best financially, and the society is to be congratulated on having a good balance in hand.—W. G. Andrews, Hon. Sec.

FOREIGN BIRD EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE.

Twitterings.

We have fixed the date of Cheltenham next open show for Nov. 4 and 5, writes Mr. A. S. Treasure, hon. sec.

It will interest many of your readers to know Mr. Alex M. Gardiner has been elected one of our Parish Councillors, writes Mr. Anderson (Newtongrange).

The next autumn show of the London and Provincial O.S., writes Mr. Law, the hon. sec., will be held Oct. 21 and 22, 1914. Will societies kindly note, to avoid clashing.

We are holding a members' show on New Year's Day, writes Secretary Nelson, Warrington C.B.S. (466, Knutsford Road) and anyone joining now will be eligible to compete.

The Old Shildon Workman's Club C.B.S. have appointed, we are informed, Mr. T. Parnaby, 14, Deut St., as secretary; chairman, Mr. E. Richardson; treas., Mr. G. Ingill.

Report of L.C.B.A. show credits Mr. Laccohee with the 2nd prize in open novice hens, instead of me, writes Mr. W. H. Phipps (Isleworth). This is a pity, as I have put an advert. in Cage Birds asking fanciers to look up my win.

OBITUARY.

It is with deep regret I have to inform you of the sad blow sustained by one of our members, Mr. G. Siddown, who has lost a daughter at the age of ten years. Fanciers will extend their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Siddown and family in their sad bereavement.—T. Smith, sec. Ilkeston and Dis. C.B.S.

Mr. C. Hunter (Glasgow).

Mr. C. Hunter passed away on Saturday, Dec. 6, in his forty-seventh year, after a long and painful illness, borne with great patience and fortitude. Long connected with the West of Scotland O.S., he was one of their staunchest members. All who knew this worthy fancier will join me, I know, in expressing their deepest sympathy towards Mrs. Hunter and family in their present sad bereavement.—W. Hutchinson, sec. W. of S. O.S.

Mr. H. Hunt (Ilkeston).

It is with sincere regret, writes Mr. T. Smith, sec. Ilkeston and Dis. C.B.S., I inform you that we have had the misfortune to lose one of our oldest members, Mr. H. Hunt, of Messrs. Hunt and Brentnall. Mr. Hunt was one of the founders of our society, and has been chairman for the past thirteen years. He was a keen fancier, and one whom we shall sadly miss, as such workers we can ill spare. It has been a big blow to all our members, as Mr. Hunt was of a lovable nature, and well respected in the neighbourhood. I am sure the deepest sympathy of the Fancy and of the members of our society will be with Mrs. Hunt and family in their severe bereavement

A sympathetic reference to the late Mr. Hunt also reaches us from Mr. E. Fox (Long Eaton).

A mistake has been made in Birmingham show printed award list, writes Mr. J. H. Jones, the hon. sec., as best novices (rung) class 20, No. 5, should be class 11, No. 10 (Mr. Derry). I should like to tender the best thanks of this society for the splendid support given to our show, both in entries and gate.

The result of Irvine show on Nov. 29 was most satisfactory in all respects, writes Mr. H. M. Ferguson, the sec.; entries an increase of 43 on last year, with substantial balance in favour of society, so the committee's hard work has been amply rewarded. I desire also to thank neighbouring club secretaries for their support in sending entries, etc.

Birds and Music at Islington.

The Islington F.A. annual show is being held in the Congregational Schoolroom, Waiters Road, Holloway, N., on Dec. 13, writes Mr. Brown, the sec., when there will be a fine display. Open 2 o'clock; fanciers invited. A ladies string band will play all day.

Entries at Ashbourne are extended to Dec. 16.

We are asked to notify the following change of address: Mr. A. Maggs from Cardiff to Rice-street, Port Talbot.

At the meeting of the Wingate F.S., Dec. 6, writes Mr. J. Burdett, hon. sec., it was decided to extend the radius to six miles from Wingate.

Would any fancier or club support us by guaranteeing classes? writes Mr. E. Stevens, hon. sec. Guildford and District F.A., 7, Manor-road, Guildford.

Many fanciers have written thanking me for getting away their birds to suit their trains, and saying they never had their prize money paid so quickly before, writes Mr. Robert Lamhie, sec. Whitburn show.

Thank you for your splendid report of Reading Show, writes Mr. W. H. Pyke, the secretary. All prize-money has been paid, and congratulatory letters are coming by every post.

GRAND BUSINESS BRINGERS.

The Tom-Tit's Early Start.

A tom-tit's nest has been found on a smallholdings farm at Soham, Cambs. The bird has laid an egg in it.

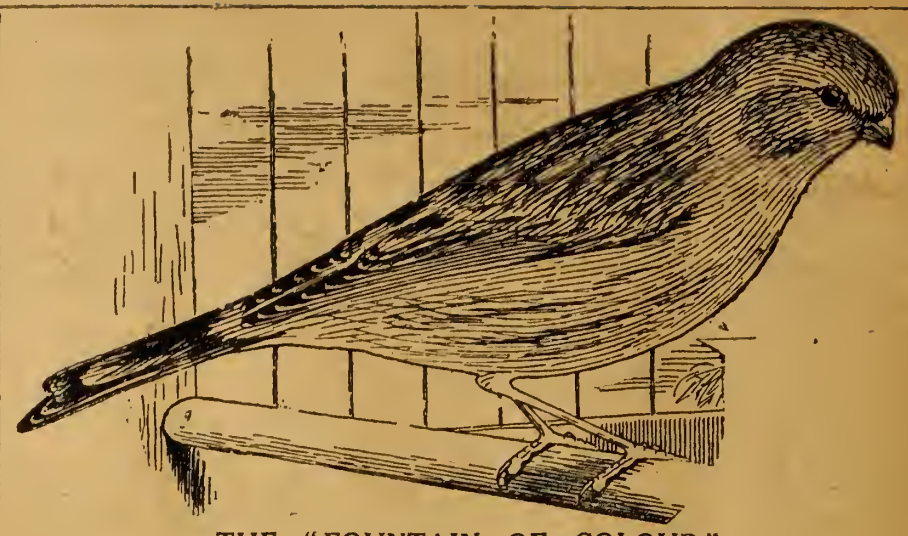
Prize Money Paid.

We hear that prize money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Anyone overlooked should apply to the various secretaries: Stockton, Whitburn, Cockermouth, Reading.

An Address Wanted.

May I enquire the address of Mr. Bugby, of Wellingborough, writes Mr. Geo. Oglethorpe, Lorton, Cockermouth, as he omitted to give it in his last letter to me.

A Promising Career Ended.



I am sorry to inform you, writes Mr. J. Walsh (Blackburn) that I received my Linnet back from Bradford show, with a note from the secretary that the bird had died over-night. This was a very fine specimen, only a young bird, once house-moulted. I refused £5 for it the same day it went to Bradford; it has only been out four times, and was 1st at Alnwick, 1st at Coventry, 1st at Stockton, and 1st at Whitehaven.

Corrections in Show Reports.

At Wirksworth, Mr. A. E. Fox won 2, 3, and members' cup in the A.O.V. class; at the L.C.B.A. show Mr. T. Parker won 2 and 6 in Green Bord. cock class, not Hamilton 2 and Roberts 6, as reported; the name of the owner of 2nd Yellow Hammer is Checksfield, not Chesterfield; Mr. C. Roehl won 1 and 4, and Mrs. Newmarsh 3 in the Macaw class. At Dundee Mr. G. Baxter, jun., won 1st in Buff. class, not Greig. At Reading Mr. C. E. Silk won 2nd in Buff Norwich, not Hill as reported.

Southern Border F.C's. Progress.

There is very shortly, writes Mr. R. A. Newley, treasurer S.B.F.C., to be a meeting of committee to decide date of annual general meeting, etc. As treasurer, may I ask all unpaid members to send in their subscriptions immediately to our hon. sec., Mr. F. Moore; and if, at time of sending, any member feels disposed to subscribe to the Club Cup fund, we shall be pleased to acknowledge same? I consider that the club has done good work, and will undoubtedly take rank with the best, given time to develop.

THE "FOUNTAIN OF COLOUR."

The Green Norwich Canary is looked upon by breeders as a grand bird for the production of colour. Our drawing depicts the hen first prize at the Crystal Palace show for Mr. G. Godfrey, Leytonstone.

MAKE MONEY FOR XMAS.

YOU will do this if you advertise next week.

"I had 30 replies from my last advertisement, which speaks well for CAGE BIRDS." J. ASHCROFT (Withington).

"My last advert. in your paper brought me so many replies that I had hard work to make a choice of offers received."—R. KEALEY (Lincoln).

"Thanks to CAGE BIRDS, I have now sold all my Yorkshires, so please discontinue the advertisement in regard to them."—F. H. G. GALVAYNE (Wembley).

"Kindly thank all who answered my advert. I have sold out. I had about 30 replies. It just shows what a grand paper CAGE BIRDS is for adverts. I would not be without it, as it is too, so full of interesting articles."—F. A. HASLER (Wennington).

"I must speak very highly of your paper, as I have had five or six replies to each small advertisement I have put in, and they have come from all over the country, so CAGE BIRDS must be well read."—P. C. JULIAN (Battersea).

"I had several telegrams on Friday and numerous letters on Saturday morning for the Light Mule advertised. Bird went into England on Saturday. Purchaser thoroughly satisfied. Another manifestation of the real value of your paper, CAGE BIRDS."—DAVID MORRINE (Glasgow).

TWO INSERTIONS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE-AND-A-HALF.

In order to save our advertisers trouble during the Christmas Holidays, we will insert advertisements in our next issue and the one following (Dec. 20 and Dec. 27) for the price of one insertion and a half.

This offer is open to all small prepaid advertisers, so that our readers who want make money for Christmas should take advantage of it. Rates: 18 words for 6d., 2 words 1d. after, prepaid. Enclose the fee for the two insertions at the price of one and a half; also write on your order, "Two Weeks' Special Offer."

Offer closes Tuesday, Dec. 16th.

Evening Amusement for Border Fanciers.

By J. STEEL (Dalkeith).

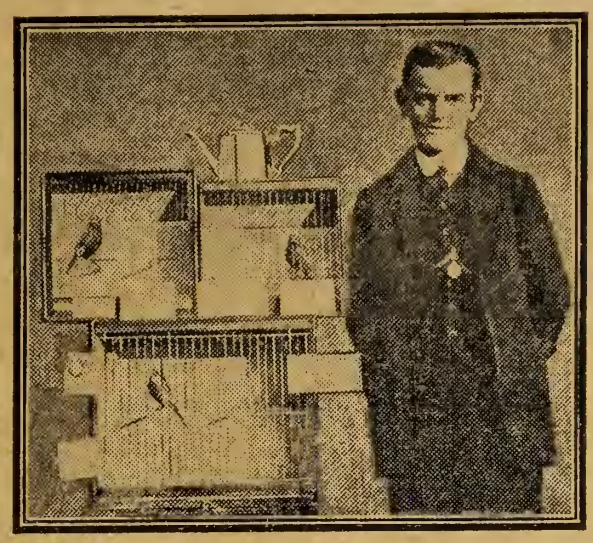
The illustrations referred to below appeared in the instalment published in our issue of date No. 29th.

THESE bolt holes must correspond. When the two parts are bolted together, with grooves to the inner side, the grooves form a series of holes through centre of mould. Before using the mould each hole should be tried with a piece of 17 gauge wire, as if any should be too tight, this may be troublesome. The wire should slide easily.

To set mould: Take length of wire, measure off 6½ inches, and make a slight bend at that distance with flat pliers. Bring the long end over bow of mould and make a similar bend at last hole. Measure off 6½ inches and insert as shown in sketch 3. Place spires, and insert in posts, making them firm. It must be borne in mind that no bending, beyond the spring on wire, is necessary to form the bow. The mould will keep it in position.



The Wiring and Soldering.

It will be found that this measurement of standard wires will give us a height at centre of arch of 10½ inches, and 9 inches at each corner, measuring from table. This should not be exceeded, as too great a bow spoils the appearance of the cage, and the above gives the bird quite enough head room. The grooved part of mould should always be kept to inside of cage. Proceed to fill in wires, as shown in sketch 4, resting the lower edge of mould on top of spires. The wires may be any length, as all surplus can be cut off. When mould is filled, lay a piece of wire along from A to C, and wrap same with wrapping wire. To use this fine wire, it is best to wind a few yards on a short piece of cage wire. When securely wrapped, solder from A to B, with the exception of wire marked X in sketch. I will now deal with the soldering.

The soldering bolt, a piece of copper rivetted to an iron stem, and inserted in a wooden handle, may be purchased at ironmongers. Solder may be either purchased or, if a piece of block tin can be procured, made, by melting same with three parts of lead. To get the solder into convenient pieces, take an old tablespoon, bore a fairly large hole at the mouth, heat spoon, dip it in the molten metal, and then by tilting a spoonful of this and drawing the spoon along the hearth, the solder flowing from the hole forms long sticks, which are very convenient for use.

The bolt must be tinned. This is done by heating same till fairly hot (but not red hot). Rub point with file till bright, and rub on a piece of old tin, which has previously been sprinkled with powdered resin, and a small piece of solder added. This has the effect of plating, or coating, the point of the bolt with solder, and without which solder would not adhere to it. Tinning may be done with spirits of salts or Baker's mixture, but resin is considered best for that purpose.

These various items are termed fluxes, and without them the solder will not adhere. The most commonly used for cages is spirits of salts (Hydrochloric Acid, poison) reduced by having a few pieces of clean zinc added, which are at once dissolved by the acid. A dense vapour being given off during this preparation, it is best to do it in the open air, care being taken that the vessel is not more than one third full as effervescence takes place; heat also is generated, so that an old jam pot, or other strong vessel, is advisable to withstand same. When settled and cool it is ready for use and need not be kept corked, but care, of course, should be taken to keep it out of the way of children.

Mr. Ewart Davies, of Tenby, with some of his Norwich Plainheads, a variety he breeds and exhibits with success.

Another flux, and one I prefer to use, is that alluded to as Baker's mixture, a clear fluid, non-poisonous, procurable from chemists or tinsmiths. When about to apply solder, the part must be painted over with the flux, and a small drop of solder taken up on point of the bolt, by touching. This is applied to the wires and the bolt drawn along in the direction required, which distributes a coating over same, and is termed sweating. Holding the cage in a slanting position while applying the bolt helps to make the solder flow, and no beads of solder should be left. Many make the mistake of putting too much solder into their cages, which adds neither to their appearance nor strength.

Keep Your Eye on the Cat!

A brush for applying the flux may be made by inserting a few hairs (from the kitchen broom) into a small piece of gas pipe and flattening same with a hammer. The bolt should be fairly hot; by holding near the face, in the manner common to laundry-maids, one soon learns to recogise the proper degree. Never allow the bolt to get red, as this burns off the tinning from the point, and makes re-tinning necessary. Never cool a bolt with water. And never allow children or cats to get under you when using a bolt, as a drop of hot solder, beats all medicine as a disperser of "that tired feeling." The cost of soldering a Border cage does not exceed one farthing, and adds so much to the strength that I,. at least, would never attempt making them without it.

Coming back to our wiring, wrap the wires tightly, apply flux and solder, then bend down ends (as shown in sketch 4), and by drawing same between finger and thumb a slight circle can be made, as shown at opposite end. Cut these to equal length, and fix to standard wire with loop. Loops are bent in the form of a mark of interrogation "?". The bottom of curve should be brought well down, 1¼ inches from edge of rail. Wrap up and solder; then slide mould up to top of cage and wrap, giving a double turn round each end of wire (as shown at C) and a single turn round bow, or frame wire.

Making the Drinking Hole.

When all are soldered with the exception of wire marked x, cut off all surplus ends as close to bow as possible, and give each end a rub with the file to remove the sharp point which cutting imparts. Then unscrew mould and remove. A tight and absolutely true front will be the result. The back is built up in a similar manner, with the exception that no loose wire is left for removal to form drinker hole. Sketch 5 explains how the latter is inserted. The pear-shaped loop is made by bending wire round handle of bradawl and tying with wrapping wire and soldering. Fix bottom part in position first and then top part may be attached with a small loop and soldered secure. A little should be allowed for insertion of perch at base of drinker hole.

CANARY BREEDING AND THE LAWS OF INHERITANCE.

By MISS L. M. DURHAM.

WHEN one comes to the different types, Yorkshire, Norwich, etc., the case is not so simple. In these types, made up of a variety of characters, you will understand from what has gone before that the immense amount of crossing, to improve the different varieties, which is carried on will account for the fact that a prize winner is not necessarily the parent of a prize winner. I often see the advice given to novices not to start by buying a prize winner in the hopes that he will be able to breed a prize winner from the bird. Many qualities are required to ensure a prize winner, and as each of these qualities may be inherited independently of the others, and perhaps require another factor to let them off, it is quite impossible to be certain of success.

Light Mules.

One other point I should like to touch on before drawing my remarks to a close, and that is the question of Light Mules. It is and must be a great puzzle to Mule-breeders why certain Canaries will produce light Mules, while from other Canaries apparently possessing all the same qualities it is quite impossible to obtain light Mules. I have not tested the subjoined suggested explanation myself, but I think it is worth considering, in view of the facts I have laid before you.

It is quite possible that the power to produce light Mules is an hereditary character, and that when a bird is found to have this desirable quality, if she is suitably mated she should be able to transmit this to her offspring. It would be rather tedious to work it out, but possibly the quickest way would be to mate her back with her father or one of her own brothers, test her young, and mate the successful hens again with the males of her family. This is, of course, sib-breeding, and no doubt accounts for why sib-bred hens are considered to be the best for the purpose, and also explains why all sib-bred hens are not equally able to produce light Mules. Only by careful, patient breeding can the proper cocks for the purpose be found, a somewhat tedious process, but once they have been got it ought not to be difficult to set up a strain which will always produce light Mules.

New Forms and Varieties.

You will have observed that I deal only with the inheritance of characters which already exist, and I have said nothing about the production of new forms and varieties. At present we are quite in the dark as to what happens when a new form—such, for instance, as the White Canary—appears on the scene.

The Appearance of the White Canary.

In the histories of plant or animal breeding, it is very difficult to get accurate accounts of new varieties or sports. It is of the utmost importance that we should have these histories, but they are exceedingly difficult to obtain. Thus of the origin of the various varieties of Canaries we know nothing. But within the last few years the white Canary has appeared in several places. I would urge everyone who is interested in this new variety to try and get as much information as possible in tracing out the pedigrees of the parent birds, in order that we hay have as complete an account as possible. The difficulties are many, because, as a sport of this nature arises unexpectedly, the records and pedigrees of the ancestry have not been kept, perhaps. But it would be very interesting to know whether the birds which have given white Canaries can be shown in any way to be related. In her interesting and valuable contribution to "Knowledge" Mrs. Martin, of New Zealand, has given a very complete account of her extremely careful breeding experiments with these birds.

If we could get a full account of the origin of these birds, it would be a most valuable contribution to the science of Genetics.

In conclusion, I have to add that my experiments are being carried out with the aid of a grant from the Royal Society.

Points from the Discussion.

In the discussion following the reading of the paper, Messrs. Crisp, Harris, Bamber, Weston, Shakespeare, Crabb, and others took part.

Questions were asked as to what effect environment and food had on the improvement of species, and it was allowed that these influences had their effect in producing superior specimens for show in all kinds of birds and animals up to cattle and horses; still, the point was rather beyond the scope of the paper.

With regard to sex production, it was alleged that prepotency of one parent was not a predominating influence. Equality, or near equality, of sex seems to be the rule.

Crossing of the Lizard, which is what may be described as a pure variety of Canary, was tried with Norwich or Cinnamon, and it was stated that the clear cap, or nearly clear, was a more permanent feature than the mooning, but this point produced some opposition of opinion.

It was stated that the late Mr. North, in his paper on Cinnamons read before the members of the L. and P.O.S. in 1905, stated that a self Cinnamon hen could be produced containing no more than 1-32nd of pure Cinnamon blood, equal to about 3 per cent. In other words, only one progenitor out of thirty-two would be a Cinnamon, all the others would not be possessed of any cinnamon blood at all.

On the other hand, it was stated in the same paper that green cocks may be bred "containing, in fact, 100 per cent. of Cinnamon blood."

These statements led to questions as to whether Miss Durham had been quite satisfied as to the progenitors of the Cinnamon and green birds she commenced breeding with, and the meeting was assured she had been careful on this point. However, she remarked that she doubted if any green hen was pure—in other words, all green hens free from cinnamon blood, as far as can be traced, seem to have in them some factor which has a tendency to produce Cinnamon when appropriately mated.

Hens and the Crest Breeder.

With regard to Miss Durham's experience of breeding Crests from two Plainheads, more than one Crest fancier has had the same experience. However, the Plainheads used by Crest fanciers would, in almost every instance, be bred from Crests. With regard to equality in sexes in Crest breeding, it was stated that there was nearly always a shortage of hens reared, and it was generally agreed among Crest breeders that the hens were the more difficult to rear, being the weaker sex.

Birds of type, such as Norwich, Yorkshire, etc., have been crossed and re-crossed, and made up of so many and varied influences that it is very difficult to reproduce the exact champion required to take first all round. In this connection it was stated that breeders often went on with a strain of birds believing them to be pure and to breed true, and that even fresh influences might be introduced without disturbing that belief, until a special influence was introduced which brought out a quality in the strain which had been latent for a long time. The question of light Canary hybrids was discussed, and important evidence was adduced to show that light Canary hybrids followed more some occult influence in the male Finch than all the influence that can be brought to bear from sib-bred Canary hens, but, at the same time, this is a matter which still requires elucidation. That there are laws regulating the production of light Canary hybrids does not admit of doubt, but it cannot be said that breeders are as yet fully acquainted with them.

A hearty vote of thanks to Miss Durham terminated a very pleasant and instructive evening.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

For rules, etc., see last week's issue.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

RETURN FROM SHOW (Shoer).—In this reply last week a line of type, or MS., seems to have been inadvertently omitted. The end of the first portion of reply should read: "moisten the tips of the curled feathers with warm water, and gently draw them between the tips of the thumb and forefinger in such a way as to take out the curl and cause them to lie in the proper direction."

COLOURED RINGS (H. Wilson).—Sorry, but to give addresses in these columns is strictly taboo. If you look up the advts. in our prepaid columns under heading "Appliances" for a few weeks past, I feel sure you will find just the addresses you want. But I doubt whether you can get a sufficient number of different colours to identify an aviary full of birds. If you cannot find the addresses, send a stamped envelope, per the Editor, and I will see if I can help you.

YOUNG NORWICH RAGGED (Constant Reader).—I assume you are satisfied the bird is a young one, and that it has already moulted, though you say nothing on the latter point. But as your treatment is not of the best, try the following, and then write again if bird does not tighten up properly under it. Give a staple of plain Canary. In addition, give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of cod-liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed, and a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, and teazle. Continue this diet for three or four weeks. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight.

HEAVY BREATHING (In Trouble).—Yes, I am inclined to think you are in for trouble by starting with birds of the type these appear to be. I doubt whether they will be of any service at all only to produce disappointment, and if the following treatment does not quickly set them right you would be well advised to clear them out and start with sound, healthy birds. Keep them in a comfortable temperature, not overheated, nor yet quite cold, as equable as possible; don't hang them high up near ceiling, nor near or over a burning light in the evening. Give a staple diet of plain Canary seed. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed. Twice a week on the intervening days give a spray of watercress or a morsel of banana as a substitute, and on two other days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, and teazle. Keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand. In the drinking water give the rhubarb and soda aperient as advised to "Constant Reader," for a week, and afterwards give 20 drops of the following mixture in the water every second day for three or four weeks. Mixture: Two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one drachm each of chlorodyne of ipecac. wine, and eight grains of iodide of potassium. Any chemist will mix this.

THE BEST ROLLER (Nor-west).—This query is like greeting an old friend. There is no best variety of Roller. All the multifarious names attached to Rollers signify one and the same breed of bird—the old German Canary—in more or less advanced stages of training as songsters. If you look through these queries for a few weeks back you will find quite a number of replies on this subject. As a beginner you will find a trained bird of the St. Andreasberg type of song the most satisfactory all round, and after breeding a year or two with these, during which time you may seize any opportunity to hear and acquire a knowledge of the more technical types of song favoured at Roller singing contests, you will be able to take up the latter class of bird if you desire with a better chance of success. There is nothing whatever to choose in the hardihood or ease of breeding the different so-called types of Rollers, provided you get healthy stock to begin with. High-class singers require a little different treatment from other varieties. Get a copy of No. 10 Nutshell booklet, post free, 2½d., which will give you full details.

YORKSHIRE AND ROLLER (W. J. G.).—(1) It is just possible that the introduction of the Rollers has kept the Yorkshire from coming in song as early as usual. Such cases undoubtedly occur, but are not very common. It is just as likely that the moult has tried the bird a little more severely considering his age. Treat him for two or three weeks the same as advised to "In Trouble," but instead of the final chlorodyne mixture, give twenty drops of whisky, ten of lemon juice, and six of glycerine. (2) If the Roller is of the right gender and in good health, he should not need any forcing to induce him to sing now. Feed him the same as advised to "In Trouble" for a week or two, except that in your case give a staple diet of a mixture of two parts canary to one part summer rape, and every second day give half a teaspoonful of scalded rape with the banana. Also omit the aperients named in that reply, and give instead the mixture advised for the Yorkshire cock above for a fortnight.

SHOWING (Shoer).—(1) As the bird appears to be in good condition apart from the temporary softness and slight wheezing, I do not think there can be any doubt of him having got a slight cold somehow in connection with the last show. You should see that your case, wrapper, or whatever you despatch to show in, is in good condition, and not likely to expose bird to chill in transit to and fro. Keep in comfortable place as suggested in last reply; give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it every second day for a week, and on the alternate days give the chlorodyne mixture as advised to "In Trouble." This should right matters. (2) No, it will not be too early to show him again on Jan. 6 after showing him at your local show this week. It is more distant shows which take the bird away from home anything from two or four days at a time, that you must not attempt so often. Please note a correction of my reply last week, which appears in another paragraph.

HEAT OR NO HEAT (T. B.).—It is very much a matter of individual opinion as to whether a bird-room should be artificially heated or not. Some fanciers swear by heat and others swear at it. Personally, I know that, given healthy, sound stock which has been bred and kept in a normal temperature, heat is totally unnecessary, but if you have stock raised under artificial conditions, then it is much too expensive a hobby for the average fancier to acclimatise them without heat. If your room is properly ventilated, dry, and tolerably well sheltered, and your stock in good health and vigour, I should certainly say leave well alone. If you begin to heat it you will be obliged to continue, and should maintain an equable heat as near 45 degrees as you can keep it.

A DUET (J.M.C.M.).—(1) Certainly it is advisable to let the birds have a bath as usual when they are breeding. The only time when it would be advisable to withhold it is when a hen is sitting in the early part of the season and the weather happens to be very cold and damp. But during hot dry weather a bath is even more than usually necessary during the second week that a hen is sitting. (2) If only a small number of birds are being catered for, the yolk only of the eggs should be used, and in all cases the yolk only is best used for young up to about one week old. After the latter age, if a number of birds are kept, both yolk and white of the egg may be used for economy's sake, as well as for convenience.

A RAGGED TAIL (Scottie).—Am I right in assuming the bird has moulted this autumn, but has not cast the old feathers from the tail? If so, you should now catch the bird and remove the tail feathers with a steady, gentle pull—one at a time. It would be best to take out only four—two from the middle and one from each outside, at one operation, with an interval of a week between, thus spreading the whole affair over three weeks and three pluckings. Give the bird a morsel of bread and milk, dusted with flour of sulphur, and finally sprinkled with soft sugar, twice each week for a month, and on two other days add to the drinking water ten drops of glycerine and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence. You did quite wrong to pull out the sheathed feathers after the previous moult. If this occurs again when the new feathers reappear, add twenty drops of Chemical Food to the water daily for a fortnight, and write me again for further advice; but do not pluck the feathers out.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

GOLDFINCH WITH BENT CLAW (Novice).—A bent or twisted claw lying on the top of the perch is not at all uncommon. The small outside claw is the weakest, and it is that which generally goes wrong. If you can handle the bird I would advise you to hold the feet in warm water for a few minutes, and then massage it with your finger and thumb, greasing them first with a little vaseline. Remove your present perches and give him some very small ones, about the size of a lead pencil; to grip these he will have to use his claws more freely, and they may possibly come all right again. It is just likely his perches have been rather too large for him.

KEEPING A WAXWING (A.B.C.).—A Waxwing is a bird that requires plenty of exercise, or he will soon get fat and ungainly, so you should keep him in a cage as large as you can spare the room for; one about twenty-four inches long would do nicely. Waxwings are quite hardy, and should be kept in a cold room in preference to one heated. As regard food, they are insectivorous and fruit-eating birds, and would require insectile food mixed for them fresh daily. You can purchase it ready made, or mix your own—three parts biscuit meal, two parts ants' eggs, and one part dried flies; to this you could add a few grocers' currants. For fruit there is nothing to equal bananas at this time of the year, with a grape or two occasionally. He should be allowed to bathe freely on fine days, and his cage must be kept perfectly cleau. If fed and attended to properly, he should require no special treatment to get into show condition.

GOLDFINCH FOR SHOW (Seven Years' Reader).—As you say your bird is in the "pink of condition," it is just possible that he is. The fact of our report saying that he was rather slack in feather would mean that he was so at the time of taking notes. It is just possible that the temperature of the show-room was different to what he has been used to, and so he would naturally look a little bit open or slack. If you are not quite satisfied with him, you might give him a tonic. Get an ounce of the crystals of citrate of iron and quinine, dissolve as much as will cover a sixpenny-piece in his drinking water, and give it to him every other day for a week. Bathing would certainly not make him slack in feather, but have the contrary effect; it is, in fact, the best tightener of a bird's plumage that we have. Are you keeping him too warm? Remember, the Finches are quite hardy, and require no artificial heat whatever.

TREATMENT OF GOLDFINCH (James Anderson).—A freshly caught Goldie should be treated as follows:—Place in the cage a pot of cracked hemp, and give teazle, niger, maw, linseed, and cracked sunflower seed. Soak some rape and teazle, but do not continue the soaked seed too long; gradually wean him off them as soon as you see him feeding on the dry seeds. Offer a spray of chickweed, groundsel, etc. After you have had him a week and he is feeding well, give him an aperient, as much glauber salts as will cover a shilling in his drinking water for one day. If you are buying one direct from a dealer, and the bird is well on to seed, give him the above medicine when you have had him a couple of weeks. I expect this is how you lost your other one, the medicine would possibly have saved him. I am sorry you have been so unfortunate, and hope your next Finch will live.

TO FEED A HEDGE SPARROW (Bemrose).—The Hedge Sparrow is a seed and insect eater, and requires both while in captivity, or seed and insectile food. I have kept one myself for months on seed alone, but find they do better on a little soft food as well. Give him canary and rape as staple food, and a spoonful of mixed seeds, such as hemp, niger, maw, and linseed, twice a week. He would feed on almost any soft food; soak a little fine chicken meal with a pinch of meat meal in it, and give him this two or three times a week. He would also eat mealworms or other insects; two or three occasionally would do him good. The sexes are practically alike, the cock birds being a little richer in colour in the breeding season.

A few answers unavoidably held over.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

WHITE JAVAS AND BUDGERIGARS (J. Columbia).—Yes, you can keep Java Sparrows with Budgies. The white variety, once you get started, usually breed fairly freely, though individual pairs vary a little. A husk, enclosed box, with entrance hole in one side near the top, or a Hartz travelling cage, with the fittings removed, will answer for nesting purposes, and a little hay and moss will suffice for nesting material. The food supplied to the Budgies will meet the needs of the Javas.

LOVEBIRDS (M. A. Smith).—With the exception of the Blue-winged Lovebird, which is not a true Lovebird, all are known as Lovebirds, but Passerine Parrakeets is the proper designation of the Blue-wing. Occasionally they are called Parrotlets. As regard the "Nutshells," if you get the one on Budgerigars, and follow the directions given there, as to diet, etc., it will meet the needs of the above; the only difference being that for such species Madagascar, Black-cheeked, and Blue-winged, you must supply straws, leaves, and small pieces of this bark for them to line their nest receptacle with. The species usually on sale are Madagascar (Grey-headed), Blue-wing, and Black-cheeked—they can be kept with Budgerigars.

SUGAR-BIRDS, ETC. (Amb-Egypt).—The bread would be better steeped in hot milk than water, and should not be injurious to the birds you name, unless allowed to become very stale. I should not discontinue the milk-sop, but keep up a small supply regularly—birds, like humans, prefer a change of dietary when they can get it. The sop will certainly do no harm, either to the Bulbuls or Pekin Robins. The 1912 hatched Gouldian Finch, if in full colour and good condition, should be quite old enough to breed with now.

SHAMAS, ETC. (E. E. S.).—The Shama and Gold-fronted Bulbuls are hardy birds once they are established, and could be kept out of doors in the summer, and in a cold room in the winter, but new arrivals (newly imported birds) need a little nursing at first; and if bought at this season, would be better for the temperature of an ordinary living room. Budgies might lay eggs in the cage; but if you do not supply a nest receptacle, they cannot breed. I cannot advise either Whydahs or Weavers for the purpose you name. I saw only the other day, a Grey Java Sparrow that was quite a "pal" with its owner, and I have seen also other species, but such is not usual. A small Parrakeet, such as the Canary-wing, soon becomes tame and "pally," but the price is about double what you want to pay. There is no reason why what has been done once should not be done again, why not get a Grey Java (about 2s.), and try your patience, kindness and care upon it. There is no cheap, comprehensive book on foreign birds, but if you apply the representative articles in your book to all others of the same group, your want is met.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

G. R.—As we are not seed merchants we cannot answer your question as to the value of the wild seed. Your best plan would be to submit samples to the large seed firms, state how much you have, and get them to make you an offer for it. Both samples contain a deal of rubbish (waste), particularly sample No. 2, and require thorough screening. The value at present would be low.

Gwalia.—The gamekeeper has no right whatever to take and keep your ferrets, nets and rabbits. You could sue for their value and damages in the County Court; or you could appear before the magistrates and apply for a summons against him. You would do well to get legal assistance. If the facts are as you state, the gamekeeper would have to pay any costs you incur.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

E. E. E.—Pneumonia was the cause of death. I see no necessity for getting rid of the Finches, nor would mice be accountable for the trouble. Perhaps this was its first winter outdoors, and the recent cold, wet weather is quite sufficient to account for its death.

Miss H. M. Bates.—All the symptoms you describe were associated with diseased changes taking place in the nervous system, probably senile in character, which are consistent with the post-mortem lesions. There was haemorrhage on the surface of the brain due to arterial degeneration. I do not think your method of treatment has anything to do with this, as it was not of recent occurrence, but had been coming on for some time.

E. E. E.—I can find no direct evidence of injury in the second bird, but there was a blood clot on the surface of the brain as though death resulted in a fit. Fright, of course, would be sufficient to induce this. Upon second consideration I should advise removal of the Green Singing Finches as the possible source of danger. The aviary is all that can be desired with the exception of warmth, and the food bears no relation to your losses in any way.

THE GOLD MINE AT THE PALACE.

A Foretaste of the Good Things Awaiting Diploma Winners at the Crystal Palace Show.

Dec. 20. Newtongrange: Secretary, W. Bryson, 42, Fifth Street.

There remain then five other fixtures before the Crystal Palace Show, at which the "grand finale" takes place. There are the Scottish National (Dec. 31 and Jan. 1), Bangor, Ireland (Jan. 8 and 9), Doncaster (Jan. 10), Llanelly (Jan. 13), and Boscombe, Bournemouth (Jan. 20 and 21). Exhibitors, therefore, should lose no time if they wish to secure one of CAGE BIRDS handsome diplomas, and the right they convey of competing for our specials at the Palace. The chances of everyone are still excellent, as by now so many fanciers are no longer eligible to compete, having already won one diploma, which is all the rules permit in each section.

At the Palace Show CAGE BIRDS will offer for competition solely amongst those who have won a diploma during the present season a

£10 10s. cash for best champion coupon bird.

£10 10s. cash for best novice coupon bird, and

£78 in cash specials, divided into 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th prizes in the 12 sections specified below.

In addition we have decided also to give 24 hand-painted Diplomas of Honour to the 12 best champion and the 12 best novice coupon birds, two going to each of the sections we specify.

Now, exhibitors, surely here you have something worth striving to win. Don't be too late; hurry up! The conditions of entry are simple and will be found printed below.

Some Opinions of Competitors.

I beg to thank you for diploma and 10s. special, which I won at Paignton Show. I may say it came a great surprise to me when birds arrived home. A friend of mine was talking about your scheme, and, of course, said, no doubt like a good many more, "What is the use of you competing against all the big exhibitors?" Anyway, I decided to send for half-a-dozen coupons, and had only used two when I won your diploma and special. So it was a good investment for me.—W. Buckingham (Watford).

Diploma to hand, for which I thank you very much. The design is excellent.—W. D. King (York).

Many thanks for diploma safely to hand. It is handsome, and I am very pleased to receive it. The same bird won a "Cage Birds League" medal for me in 1912.—G. J. Slade (Southampton).

May I express my appreciation of the diplomas, which are now framed, and greatly admired by all, and which will be valued by me to the end of my days? "Cage Birds" is to be congratulated on a scheme of such interest to bird lovers.—G. T. Jones (Brecon).

Many thanks for the fine diploma of honour won at Liverpool Show. — W. Blanchon (Doncaster).

Many thanks for the two fine diplomas of honour. I have had them framed and hung in my bird room. "Birdy" visitors pass the remark that the diplomas are well worth competing for.—R. Taylor (Bideford).

Diplomas we consider very neat and nice indeed.—Hall Bros. (West Hartlepool).

Thank you for diploma of honour, which I am delighted with, and I am getting it framed.—E. W. Allen (Upper Parkstone).

Many thanks for the fine diploma of honour, won at Warrington Show.—Miss Kitty Cooper (Birkenhead).

How Exhibitors May Enter.

All who intend entering Coupon birds at these shows must do so under these conditions: CAGE BIRDS offers the following Championship Competition prizes:—

10s. cash for best champion coupon bird.

10s. cash for best novice coupon bird.

Diplomas of honour for the best champion and the best novice coupon birds in each of the following sections; or in as many of these sections as are included in the classification:—

(1) Yorkshire Canaries.
(2) Norwich.
(3) Crests & Crestbreds.
(4) Border Fancies.
(5) Scotch Fancies and Belgians.
(6) Greens.
(7) Lancs. and Lizards.
(8) Any Other Variety Canary.
(9) Mules & Hybrids.
(10) British, Hardbilled.
(11) British, Softbilled.
(12) Foreign.

All the exhibitor has to do is to stick one of CAGE BIRDS Coupons on his entry form and write "C.B." opposite each bird he wishes to compete; except if a novice, when he must write "C.B. Novice."

Coupons, price 6d. each, may be purchased from the offices of CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C., or, if the time is short, enclose the necessary extra cash with your entry fees to the secretary of the show, and he will affix coupons opposite whichever birds you have marked on your entry form. Every coupon is numbered and a record of it kept at CAGE BIRDS offices.

NOTE CAREFULLY.—A coupon must be affixed to the entry form opposite every bird intended to compete in this Championship Competition. Any number of coupon birds may be entered by any exhibitor, either in one section or in several, as may be desired, so long as a coupon is used for each bird. For every coupon bird, of course, the usual entry fee must be paid to the show officials. Entries in CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition are accepted only on the understanding that the governing rules as published in CAGE BIRDS are to be absolutely final and legally binding.

The winner of any one of the foregoing diplomas will have the right to compete with not more than four birds, on payment to the Palace Show Authorities of the usual entry fee, in our final championship competition at the Crystal Palace Show of 1914.

FIRST PRIZE, £3;
SECOND PRIZE, £2;
THIRD PRIZE, £1.
FOURTH PRIZE, 10s.

The following cash prizes will also be offered for competition at the Crystal Palace Show:—£10 10s. for the best Coupon bird exhibited in the Champion classes in the above twelve sections; £10 10s. for the best Coupon bird shown by a novice other than the winner in the Champion Section. We shall also offer A TEN GUINEA CHALLENGE SHIELD, to be won three times in succession, for the best bird at the Crystal Palace Show entered in our Competition.

Some Important Points to Note.

1.—One coupon entitles one bird to compete at any one Diploma Show. Any number of coupon birds can be entered at the same show.

2.—No coupons sold after the last day of December, 1913, except to previous purchasers, who have the right of duplicating their order up to the end of the season.

3.—No bird with trimmed, painted or dyed plumage, will be eligible to compete, and all entries must be the bonafide property of the exhibitor.

4.—The birds entered may be of any age, and either rung or not rung.

5.—The Judge will be instructed to withhold a diploma should the merit of the competing birds in any particular section not justify its award.

6.—We reserve the right, in the event of there being less than 10 separate competitors altogether in our competition at any one Diploma Show to withhold the cash prizes thereat, the diplomas remaining on offer for as many birds as are eligible for them.

7.—No exhibitor may win more than one diploma in the season in any one section, and no exhibitor will be allowed to win more than two of the 10s. prizes offered at the Diploma Shows, each of which must be won with a different bird; but an exhibitor may (if able) win one diploma in each of the 12 sections.

8.—An exhibitor who has won a diploma need not necessarily enter the same bird for the final competition. By winning the diploma he has the right to nominate and enter not more than four birds in any one of the 12 sections for the final competition, and for each entry made for the final competition at the Crystal Palace a coupon will be necessary.

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE: For Full Particulars See Issue of Nov. 29th.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is either to sign the coupon herewith, and send the same, together with sevenpence, or to get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

HENRY J. FULLJAMES, Secretary CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE. 154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

Testimonial to Mr. Allen Silver.

Sir,—In addition to the list of subscribers published last week, I have the honour to announce the following contributions:—The Marquis of Tavistock, £2; Messrs George Crabb and "C. A. L.," 5s. each; the Rev. G. H. Raynor, Messrs. W. Swaysland and S. Beaty, 2s. 6d. each; Mr. J. Weir, 2s.; total, £10 9s.

Waxwings in Scotland.

Sir,—Mr. J. W. Bruce speaks of Waxwings being caught in Scotland just recently. I read the following in "The Scotsman" on Dec. 3:—"Last week I saw a pair of Waxwings not far from my village of New Abbey, in the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright. My brother was standing near me at the time, and we both saw the birds quite distinctly. We did not know what they were until we looked them up in Morris's "British Birds"; but from the description and the coloured plate, we had no doubt afterwards that they were Waxwings.

T. MCNICHOL.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. J. W. Bruce, re catching of Waxwings in Scotland, I may say a lovely specimen was caught here (Keith) last week, and was in lovely condition when I saw it to-day. There have been five seen feeding daily at Foehabers, on the Spey, near Gordon Castle, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon's estate.

ALEX. RHIND.

What Do Exhibitors Want?

More Limit Classes, Says the Writer.

Sir,—I have been induced to write a line or two in answer to the query I saw at the head of one of your show reports: "What do exhibitors want." My answer is, more limit classes. Working men fanciers will not throw their money away without a sporting chance, at least. There must be a great number of fanciers who would like to show and have good birds, but know they stand no chance in champion classes. They are barred from novice classes, because of one or two wins, so are at a standstill for perhaps years, a great many, I daresay, dropping out of the Fancy altogether. In my opinion this could be altered if societies gave classes of say £5 limit. I know at the big shows we usually get so-called limit classes, but they are simply selling classes, usually from 20s. to 35s. I have spoken to a good many fanciers who used to exhibit, while novices, but dropped out directly they were barred. They say it would take years of careful selection to hope to get anything like the birds we see in the champion classes. I don't think my idea would reduce the entry in the champion classes by one. They could still fight it out with their £20 birds, as they would not be likely to chance that sort in the £5 limit. If they did, well, it might mean a chance for some of us to reach their heights. Of course there may not be the vast difference I mean in some varieties, but I am thinking chiefly of the variety I am interested in, namely Norwich. I expect to be nicely "sat on" for my pains, but this is how it occurred to me, and I thought I would like to put it in your paper in the hopes that a few more competent to know, would give me their ideas.

THE LIMIT.

How Young Fanciers are Being Made at Ealing.

Sir,—I beg to acknowledge your favour in having reproduced the photo of my two sons on the front page of your issue for Nov. 29. The CAGE BIRDS costume and the Golliwog were both made at home by my wife and myself, in accordance with the rules of the competition, everything having to be made by the parents. I might say there are about 200 birds on the costume, all cut from the splendid plates given in CAGE BIRDS. The headgear is composed of a straw hat with an open wire cage made to fit same. The bird on the perch is a preserved (stuffed) one and answers the purpose admirably. This costume was the centre of attraction, and all spectators were deeply interested in the different species of birds and the beautiful colours of the plates. Both boys, although only eight and six years of age, are keen fanciers, and can be frequently seen taking their birds to school to sing to the little ones. They are allowed out of school a little earlier to get their birds home—to prevent them getting interfered with. "Mr. Golliwog" has to feed and keep clean the bird which he has presented to his class. This he has to bring home for the week-ends and holidays. They take nearly all CAGE BIRDS plates to school, and these are put on the walls in the various classes. I might say it is eleven years since I bought my first copy of your valuable paper, and I have not missed one week; it was the cause of me taking up the Fancy, from which I have gained much pleasure and many friends. I advise all fanciers to take CAGE BIRDS regularly, as it is a wonderful asset, and always contains interesting and instructive information, while it keeps you in touch with the Fancy all over the world. I have used the advertisement columns on many occasions for selling surplus stock, and also for purchasing and have always been perfectly satisfied with the results.

The Radius of Luton C.B.S.

Sir,—I notice in your last issue a letter re the radius of Luton C.B.S. I have been a member for the past three years, and also am twice the winner and present holder of the Members' Foreign Bird Cup. Much to my surprise I received a letter, dated November 25, from the secretary, asking me to return the cup, and also informing me that I was no longer a member, as at the annual general meeting (notice of which I was not given) the radius had been reduced from 20 miles to 10 miles. I wrote pointing out that this was most unfair, and not in order, as it debarred me (an existing member) from again competing for the cup, of which I was already part owner; and, further, I claimed the right of still competing until won three times by an exhibitor. Following this, my entries for the annual show were posted on December 1, but were subsequently returned, the secretary informing me he regretted it was not proper treatment, and that I was right. I again forwarded my entries as a member, but have had them again returned. I am now in the anomalous position of being part owner of a trophy which I can neither defend my title to nor win outright. I shall be glad if any of your readers can offer me opinions or suggestions on this unfortunate affair.

R. J. WATTS.

What "Took Our Eye" at Galashiels Show.

Sir,—A fancier and I had a run down to Galashiels Show, and it was worth the trouble. A more beautiful sight one could not wish to see. We were soon handling the Scotch Fancies, which were not so numerous as in former years; still, the cream of the Fancy were there. We were pleased to notice that the stiff first crosses were not so prominent, the winners being freer tailed, with fine rounds backs. One or two we noticed had been at the hairdresser's, getting the "fancy vest" put on (when will fanciers give up this practice?). We next examined the Belgians, and were disappointed—too many like poor Scotch Fancies. Why this is so we cannot understand, as the society was giving three specials to one class. The next we viewed were the "Wee Gems." Here again the numbers were down, although the society went to the trouble of providing two qualified judges to work together (same as with the Scotch Fancies). We give them credit for their venture and trust that similar lines will be followed by other societies, in order, if possible, to stem the tide of cliquism which is so prominent among Border Fanciers generally. The next in order were the Norwich Plainheads; then British, etc., where some beauties were staged. But time was pressing us closely, so we had to run.

TWA NOVICES.

Is the Koller an Imaginary Tour?

Sir,—Allow me to thank Mr. C. Roehl very much for his letter in CAGE BIRDS, Nov. 29. You went to a special koller meeting in Berlin, Mr. Roehl, four members who were convinced the birds sang the koller-like tours put up those songsters, the crowded hall and you were listening in dead silence for two hours, to be . . . fooled! You did not say anyone was disappointed. If there had been disappointment it was quickly rectified by Mr. Walter, Berlin, who described the koller tour at great length. My opinion is that the koller is only an imaginary tour. No bird can sing three tours combined, and if those good birds at the koller meeting could have spoken they would have said: "My dear people, you can hear we are beautiful songsters, but it is impossible for us to sing the koller, and when anyone of you can say three words at the same time (for instance, brandy, whiskey, claret) then we can sing the koller." Seven or eight years ago I heard birds sing a beautiful combined knorre and bell tour, but they must have given it up lately, and I think it would be much better to get a deeper bass knorre into our birds. There were not many birds at the Horticultural Hall that sang; really deep knorre, though we must admit there is a really grand lot of songsters in this country. I am hoping to hear other fancier's opinoins about the koller.

Making Nets for Bird Catching

Sir,—Could anyone, through the medium of CAGE BIRDS, give me [illegible] braiding (for bird catching) and how to braid with shield, and the knots to set a net square mesh. E.G.

A New Society for Crystal Palace, Penge, and District.

Sir,—We started a new society for the above district at a meeting held at the Alexandra Hotel, Penge, on Dec. 3. It was unanimously decided to form a cage bird society, to be known as the Crystal Palace District and Penge C.B.S. Meetings are to be held the second Wednesday in each month.

H. LEGG, sec.

Cramlington Endeavours to Avoid Clashing.

Sir,—It is with regret we have found it necessary to alter the date on which Cramlington annual show is held. In the days of the Cage Bird Union we were given the date in November as the most suitable, but as other societies close by are now holding shows on that date, it is proving detrimental to the number of exhibits. We are wishful to make our show a greater success year by year, and not finding any other society's show (all birds) on Dec. 5 we have selected this date for 1914. We trust other societies will note this and assist us (and themselves) by not entering into opposition. If a meeting could be arranged of representatives from the various societies in the district for the consideration of this matter, our society would be glad to send a representative, and I feel confident some good would be the ultimate result. At our next meeting we will select the judges, and it will be our aim to select competent men who will give satisfaction to all classes of exhibitors.

J. R. CHESTNEY, hon. sec.

Why Don't Shows Pay?

Sir,—Many a time has this question been asked through your valuable paper. At Matlock show rule No. 8 read: "All prize-money guaranteed in open classes, but the committee reserve the right to cancel same if not filled to their satisfaction." After they had received 10 entries from me, they sent me a postcard to see if I would accept half prize-money in all the classes Fancy, 9 to 21 in one class, and get 5s. for 1st prize; 1s. 6d. entry fee, and at least 6d. each bird carriage. I won 2 firsts, 3 seconds, then lost on the show. I wrote back to say I would certainly not accept half prize-money on 9 entries. So they instructed the judge to withhold prizes. You will see by report that he did. When the prize-money came, three weeks after, they had moved the awards up to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd in various classes, and paid half prize-money less than 10 entries. No schedule have I come across yet, and I have shown birds over 20 years, where they want 10 entries for full prize-money—13s. 6d. in entry fees alone, and they pay 8s. 9d out I am suing them for my prize-money in full, according to rule. Sheffield O.S. paid full prize-money on two entries. How is this for backbone and sportsmanship? I may say Matlock had three-quarters of a column of specials, all confined to members; schedules stated "specials in catalogue." R D. PARLETT.

What's Wrong with Members of the Southern Norwich P.C.?

Sir,—I was pleased to see that our secretary and certain of our members are waking up to the fact that something is wrong. Like friend Tomsett, I am inclined to believe the cause of all the trouble is the dealer. With regard to the breeders' cup, last April I sent out over hundred letters to the members, asking them to subscribe to one. The only support I got was a paltry sum of 36s. 6d. I also received promises amounting to 22s. 6d., but these were subject to certain conditions, which in many cases are contrary, so that half this amount could not be collected. This, Sir, is useless, and I am seriously thinking of returning the cash to those who were good enough to send it to me. I cannot understand anyone being so shortsighted as to object to a breeders' cup or cups. It has been suggested to me more than once that any society who accepts a breeders' cup from its members is "asking for trouble," and this is, I am informed, the reason why the majority of the officers of our society are not supporting it. One of the suggested rules for the cup was that members should mark their entries S.N.P.C. breeder. I wonder whether this is the cause of the slump? Is it that our members do not breed their winners, or that they do not care to say which they purchased? If so, this should be one of the best of rules, because it gives all members an equal chance. Friend Tomsett says the club exists for the few! Does it? Then the sooner it is disbanded the better, because it will ruin the Plainhead. Mr. Matthes says we have 70 breeders. There are over 100 in the members' rule book. It certainly would be interesting to know what the other 30 are. Then, again, some members are in favour of the cup, but say we must have closed rings; others say no! I do not see that it is fair or reasonable to suggest that every member should be compelled to do something that is distasteful to him, or that he who does not use these rings is a rogue No, Sir, let us be tolerant, and rely on the old saying "murder will out." Coercion is wrong; cohesion is what we want. I see that Mr. Crisp has noticed the "writing on the wall." Now, members, pull yourselves together, attend the general meeting and let us see a living society emerge from the smouldering ashes of the old one. If not, as I have already said, disband the society, and give the bird a chance. Do not let it be said your patronage is harmful to the society which caters so well for the bird you pretend to admire. FRANK COLE.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. Tomsett's letter, I must say that I did not quite expect that question being raised by my letter, asking for a good finish to our patronage shows. As to ownership of a stud of birds out to win, the man must be the breeder of his winners, as it is far too expensive to buy each year, unless he sells his inferior and useless stock to those buyers that go to him for birds. This is a point which I will deal with further on, as this affects the novice just beginning in the Fancy. Now our friend goes a little further, stating that only the breeder should have the cups, etc., except the £10 10s. cup. I might state that no plan, however elaborate, can be devised for the protection of the actual breeder. He is protected, to a certain degree, by rings in case of dispute, but no judge will officiate to guarantee the ownership of a bird before he awards his prize to that bird; then I ask, who is to guarantee the whole bench of birds, as to a breeder's points cup? Now we come to the two birds sold, because the novice cannot compete against the owner of a team of birds used for showing purposes. It is a mistake for that man to sell his two best birds, and here I say that his club ought to protect that fancier, but not a specialist club, so that he need not sell those birds until he becomes a champion in every sense of the word. Further, our friend seems to think that the only man that can win is the man of a big pocket—buy birds, win every year, possess all the trophies one by one. Never was he more mistaken in his life. Such breeders as Messrs. Gill, Houghton, Collings, Redwood, and many fanciers who have come to the front can [Possibly Mr. Matthes meant to write "cannot."—EDITOR] be called rich men, and if space would allow, I could show how these men have crept up step by step, aided by their own brains and stock of birds, to the top. The remedy is not the work of a specialist club, but of every society which has a fair proportion of novice fanciers. They should break away from the present definition of a novice. Instead of making a novice a champion because he has won three 1st prizes, they should give him more like three years to gain a little experience, so that his heart is not broken because he has gained with a purchased pair of birds, a place amongst champions before he really knows how to pair birds together to get winners. I would go still further, to give the novice a chance of remaining in the Fancy. Let his birds be called champions before making him a champion, so that if a bird has three 1st prizes to its name, it must be shown in champion section, but the owner still remains a novice for a given time to gain his experience. Then we should see the Fancy increase, and shows pay for all the classes given.

Should Fanciers Judge and Exhibit at the Same Show?

Sir,—The grand show at the Horticultural Hall had no greater admirer than myself, but I was really astonished to find that the officials had amongst the judges gentlemen who at the same time were allowed to exhibit birds. Surely this practice of judges showing birds in the same hall in which they are officiating as a judge is wrong in principle? Anyway, I know it caused any amount of comment amongst fanciers attending the show. I think, too, that the judges concerned should have realised that their action would place their fellow judges in more or less of a false position. I do not for one moment suggest that the fact of them judging where they were exhibiting made the slightest difference to the awards (neither did I hear anyone else hint at such a thing); but I quite agreed with the many other fanciers who said that the practice was most objectionable, and ought never to be countenanced, least of all at such a show as the Horticultural Hall

Show Staging.

Sir,—I intend bringing up the question of buying our own staging shortly, but would like some particulars before doing so. Could any fancier please oblige me with price per foot run; also if any particular maker specialises in this matter? Simple design would be preferred, if possible. Any details would be received with thanks.

The Late Nesting of Foreign Birds.

Sir,—I noticed a short time ago, among the Answers to Questions, some remarks re the late nesting of foreign birds. I have now a pair of Zebra Finches with young; and a pair of White Javas have reared one youngster, which was fledged about a fortnight ago. This young bird is not white at all, but the colour of a young grey. How do you account for this reversion to the original type? The parent birds are pure white, but one youngster reared earlier in the season showed a little grey.

H. A. POLAND.

A Late Summer Migrant.

Sir,—I thought the following instance of a very late summer migrant might interest. On Dec. 6, while my brother Isaac was out catching Linnets, he caught a Willow Wren, in the pink of condition. I may say that it is the latest date I have on record for such a delicate little bird to remain in England, and particularly so far North. Perhaps the open season we are having will account for it staying so long, but on Friday, the 5th, the day before it was caught, we had a very sharp frost, accompanied with a fall of snow. These did not seem to have affected it in the least. The next latest date I have of this little bird is of the one we caught on Oct. 21, 1906, along with some Chaffinches, one Bramblefinch, a few Starlings, and two Redwings. This was whilst crossing the Atlantic on board the "Empress of Ireland." We were thirty-six hours sail from the North of Ireland, when we struck a heavy gale, and the birds had to take to the boat for shelter.

The Winning Hybrid at Preston Show.

Sir,—I notice the letters from T. Johnson and H. Walsh, but I make no reply to Mr. Walsh at the present stage, as there is a lot to come yet respecting the above bird. With reference to Mr. Johnson, one part of his letter is too misleading for me to allow it to pass without correction. Mr. Johnson says "Big, black, beady eyes, twice as large as can be expected in a Canary-Bullie." I hope Mr. Johnson will allow me to correct him, as the bird's eyes are no larger than those of the Canary or Bullie. But Mr. Johnson is not the only one that is mistaken in the same way, as I was asked more than once at Preston show where he got those "big eyes" from. Having a little better chance than visitors and reporters, it seems I examined it a little closer than Mr. Johnson. I found that the eyes have a circle of black feathers round them, which makes them have the large appearance. One eye is larger than the other, and not quite as true in circle. I hope next time Mr. Johnson takes up his pen to give the description of a specimen he will give it a correct one, and not mislead the Fancy. Mr. Johnson may have got some of his information from the remarks I made whilst at the show respecting the above bird.

Do Early Entries Get the Worst Place on the Show Bench?

Sir,—Why will your correspondent persist in his staging theory? I know for a fact that the staging of birds has been explained to him personally by one who has had a lot of experience, and yet he is not satisfied, and will persist that birds in the middle get the most benefit from the judge. Let me explain for Mr. Lane's benefit that the judge starts on the class where he likes, and places the birds to suit himself, and not to suit show officials or exhibitors. His theory of the judge starting at one end is rich, and shows his utter lack of knowledge of show management. The theory of "draught" is on a par with the other. Does he think that birds are staged purposely to catch the draughts (if any), which I venture to say have been conspicuous by their absence at all the shows I have had the pleasure to visit? But allowing his point that there is a draught, how he thinks an open wire cage would be a protection, passes my understanding. His illustrations of "music" and "billiards," if thought out, would not have been penned. You must start at the beginning in billiards, and not in the middle, as a judge is at liberty to do, if so minded. No, Mr. L., your theory will not stand the test. The remedy for late entries does not lie there. I am with you as regards there being a cause for late entries, and my contention is that most exhibitors are working men, and so have to wait till pay-day. Another is that most fanciers have only one team, and if these have to be washed they delay their entries until the last possible moment for the simple reason that should a bird or birds have an accident or come badly through the wash, they then only send those that are fit, and so save entry fees. No doubt there are other reasons, but the above are the general ones that have come under my knowledge. In conclusion, let me state that this is my last on this staging theory.

W. G. ANDREWS.

Sir,—Mr. P. Lane says, "I advocate that the first entry should be placed in centre of the class, and the odd and even numbers on either side outwards to prevent exhibitors from keeping back their entries, and causing unnecessary hardships to secretaries." I wish to say I am fully in agreement with this proposition, and would like a rule to appear in schedules to that effect. I am certain, from my own observation, that this scheme would reduce late entries to a minimum. I do not say this because I adopt the practice of sending late; my birds are always in the first entries.

More Linnet-Twite Hybrids Caught Wild.

Sir,—I see that one of your readers, "Old Ford," has caught a Linnet-Twite Hybrid, and he wants to know if any other fancier has ever caught one. I may tell him that a fancier here once caught one, and as fine a specimen of the cross as any man could wish to see. I went over to see him one Sunday morning, about six years ago; he had been catching on the Saturday, and he showed me this bird, and asked me what it was. I told him it was a Hybrid, and bought it from him. It had no wing flights or tail, but started singing the pure Linnet song in two or three days, and when its flights grew I sent it on to Mr. Crawhall (Newcastle) and he showed it to Mr. Maddison, who had no doubt but it was a Hybrid. So Mr. Crawhall can let us know what becomes of that bird, for he bought it from me. We were more fortunate than "Old Ford," as ours was a cock.

M. DOOLAN.

Sir,—In answer to "Old Ford," I may say I caught a Linnet-Twite Hybrid in Stirling district four years ago. The parentage was easily seen. It had the size and red breast of the Linnet, with the yellow bill and carmine rump of the Twite It was the wildest hardbill I ever possessed.

Do Winning Borders vary in Type?

Sir,—In reply to W. E. P.'s letter, in a recent issue, I am pleased to read that he has the courage to put the fact on record that there are two types of Borders down South. But, inasmuch as the various Border Fancy Club only recognise one standard type, the other one (or 2nd type) suggested must be foreign to such, and the few judges who allow such birds to stand in the awards are dealing irregularly with prize-money. To the point! Why should a Norwich-Cross-Border fancier be permitted to show, or at least win? Let's have the standard type, and that only, then the majority of the Border fanciers would know what they were about. In conclusion, I trust the judges will again acknowledge the true standard of the "Wee Gem."

"ABERTAWL."

Sir,—The discussion now on re winning types of Borders has, I think, come at a very opportune time. The Southern B.F.C. is in its infancy, and I presume may next year be showing in their hand-book an illustration of the ideal Border Fancy Canary. Now, which will it be, a bird like the Border Fancy Club's ideal; a bird like the Border depicted in the "Nutshell" hand-book, or a bird after the Welsh type—all different? Mr. Moore, in his letter of last week, does not seem to touch the points raised by "Scottie," viz., "as to the different types of Borders winning." It is recognised by fanciers that a bird that wins under one judge may not win under another, because the second judge has a different type of bird as his standard. The best possible way out of the difficulty, to my way of thinking, is for all Border Fancy specialist clubs to agree upon one type of bird as the ideal standard, and also the number of points to be given for quality, colour, position, condition, etc. If, then, all judges were advised to judge to this standard, I think more satisfaction would be obtained.

H. STEVENS, S.B.F.C.

BRIGHTON.

Successful show held Dec. 9, in the Lecture Hall, North Road—a capital place for a bird show, roomy and comfortable, and with plenty of artificial light during the evening. Entries were scarcely up to last year, but 550 birds must be accounted a good number considering the clashing with other exhibitions, and the officials are to be congratulated upon the achievement. Quality in both Norwich and Yorkshires was of very high merit. The two Norwich classes were well filled, with a capital lot, the winner being close on the heels of the champions. Crest and Borders were good. The feature of the exhibition was undoubtedly the wonderful display of British; all the classes were well filled, we might almost say crowded. Sixty Goldfinches and Bullies in two classes made a very fine display, and among the whole lot there were very few inferior specimens. That keen fancier, Mr. Burr, of Chichester, had out a wonderful team. He won in Goldies, Bullies, and Linnets—a great achievement, considering the competition. Softbills and some charming foreigners made up a good show. The management was all that one could desire, Messrs. Goble and James being keen fanciers, and doing their utmost to make the show a huge success. Mr. Gibbs is the right man for the secretarial work. He had everything in good order, and well up to time. The committee did excellent work, as did Mr. G. Absolon acting as assist. sec. The show was opened by Major F. Johnson, who in a clever speech was quite eloquent upon bird shows, and the keeping of birds in captivity. Mr. H. Norman judged Hybrids, Brit., For., and members' classes, and Mr. J. Robson the remainder.

LUTON.

8th Annual show, held in the Corn Exchange, Dec. 10. The room is suitable in every way, being free from draught, and having good light. Luton has had many ups and downs in its efforts to run an up-to-date exhibition, with a really excellent, all round classification. That there is room for improvement in this direction in the hybrid section is certain, and with reasonable support from exhibitors it will be freely given. With the same classification as last year, when they received a record entry, and with the same judges, this year the entries were very much on the down grade. There is not the slightest doubt that this was caused through the unfortunate alteration of the membership radius, from 20 to 10 miles circuit, which cut off numbers of entries from the Watford and Bedford districts. The falling off of entries was further augmented by the clashing of dates with several important fixtures, and the unfortunate dispute with prominent old members, as to the right or otherwise of competing for challenge cups. Hybrids were a grand lot in numbers and qual., competition being very keen in the dark class, which contained a grand display of beautiful Bullfinch hybrids, including Mr. Higham's Cinnamon Canary-Bullie, the Horticultural Hall winner, Mr. Lamb put down a few of his noted gems. British were below the average in numbers, but quality was all there. Foreign, though poor in numbers for Luton, contained many high-class specimens. Mr. Muscott, Miss Bousfield, Messrs. Meadows and Howe staging some of the best on the show bench to-day. The show was well managed. Mr. Bloomfield makes an ideal secretary, courteous, obliging, and good tempered, and he was ably assisted by a strong committee, composed of genuine fanciers. Mr. J. Robson judged all Canaries, Mr. J. Frostick, Hybrids, British and foreigners.

WOOD GREEN F.S.

Fifth annual members' show held at the Assembly Rooms Nov. 29. A very good show of Canaries was here staged. Numbers were not large, but quality was good. Surely around this district there must be a lot of fanciers who could be persuaded to join this society. The secretary and members all seem enthusiastic in their hobby, and jolly good fellows. Specials were won by Messrs. Titchner, Pettit, Everett, and Huggins, who also won silver cup for best cage bird bred by exhibitor. Mr. F. Easterling judged.

Wonderful and Worthy Success of Bradford's Great Charity Show.

Marvellously Managed; Huge Crowds of Visitors; Nearly 1,600 Birds of the Highest Quality.

ONE of our great poets, in an inspired stanza, urged men to adorn their zeal with shining charity, the noblest impulse that man can feel. The Canary breeders of the great woollen manufacturing city of the North have given the world evidence that their zeal is adorned with charity, and that they can feel for, and help, those who cannot help themselves. Only two years since was the first show held in aid of the Bradford Cinderella Club; the second show was a great improvement on the first; whilst the third has attained a position which stamps it as the greatest show in the provinces.

This year's fixture was held in the Central Baths, at Bradford, on Dec. 5, 6, and 8. The entry, 1,597, was nearly 200 in excess of last year's figures, and nearly 500 above those of the first show, whilst the quality was of the highest order. Fortunate indeed have the executive been in enlisting the sympathy of the leaders of the city, and it has already come to be looked upon as one of the functions at which the Lord Mayor of Bradford must officiate. This year Alderman John Arnold holds the proud position of Bradford's Chief Magistrate, and in him, too, the Cage Bird Fancy owns a friend and a sympathiser.

There was a large gathering at the opening ceremony on the Friday, when Mr. John Emsley, J.P., presided, in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Percy Illingworth (Shipley's fancier M.P., and the Government's Chief Whip). Mr. Emsley made a most felicitous and happy speech. He touched upon the contrast between England and other countries in the matter of its native songsters. Englishmen loved song birds, and protected them. Speaking of the importance of the Canary breeding industry in Bradford, he said, Bradford long ago drew the woollen trade away from Norwich, and now they were drawing the bird trade away from the Eastern city. It was wonderful how important and far-reaching was the export trade in Canaries from the Bradford district.

"Polly" Has Her Little Say!

At this point Mrs. Haigh's first prize Blue-fronted Amazon Parrot began to chatter as though disputing Mr. Emsley's remarks, but he proceeded, "It's quite true, Polly. I am speaking the truth. There are thousands of breeders in the Bradford district, and thousands of birds leave it every year for all parts."

The Lord Mayor, in opening the show, spoke on the worth and desirability of hobbies, of their refining influences, of their usefulness in dispelling morbid fancies, and diverting a man's thoughts from the grievances, troubles, and trials of life. He knew of no hobby more interesting than that of Canary breeding, and he was pleased to know that Bradford was leading the way in that Fancy, and that it was Bradford's proud honour to hold a show second only in importance to the Crystal Palace. He referred to the work of the Cinderella Club in looking after the poor children of Bradford, and said the sympathies of all must be with any organisation which sought to assist such a noble and worthy charity. The bird shows had done great things in the past, and he hoped even greater would result from the present exhibition. He congratulated the executive on the success they had achieved, a success that was well deserved.

Mr. R. Halliday proposed a vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress for their kindness in giving the committee their support and assistance, and said he believed the Lady Mayoress was the first to act as judge at a Canary show, which Mrs. Arnold had done that morning, by judging one of the classes for singing Canaries. Mr. W. A. Cowgill, in seconding, drew attention to the fact that the executive, not only gave their time and labour, but so self-sacrificing were they that even the secretary had to pay for his show luncheon just like anyone else. They were out to help a deserving charity, and he wished people outside to know that they not only worked, but they gave, and they also kept the expenses down.

The First Lady Mayoress to Judge.

In replying to the vote, the Lord Mayor expressed the pleasure it had given him to be present, and concluded by asking the Lady Mayoress also to reply. Mrs. Arnold said she was both proud and pleased to be associated with the show—proud of the fact that she was the first Lady Mayoress to officiate in a judicial capacity at a show, and pleased to help in the work which was being done on behalf of such a deserving charity as the Cinderella Fund. She might not have selected the best bird, but she had chosen the one which appealed most to her fancy.

Mr. H. Hill proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, referring to Mr. Emsley's past help to the committee, and in a tear-compelling speech urged upon those present the claims of the Cinderella Club. The bird men, he said, were doing their best, and one well-known fancier had given him £20 for the fund. This, he hoped, would stimulate others, and also show the public that the bird men were in earnest in their desire to assist a deserving charity. He would like to thank all who had helped—the judges, the committee, and the stewards, all of whom had given their services free of charge. Mr. Chittenden seconded in a most forcible speech.

Lady Kathleen Pilkington, who opened the show on the second day, made special reference to the wonderful organisation of the show, and the magnificent manner in which the exhibits were staged and attended to.

The Man at The Wheel.

Success is never achieved in any great undertaking without good organisation, and the power behind all the good work accomplished in connection with this magnificent show is Mr. Horatio Hill, the highly-esteemed and popular secretary of the Yorkshire Union. A better worker the Cage Bird Fancy has never known. He has zeal and earnestness of the most inspiring character, a temperament that is as level, cool, and even as it is energetic and enthusiastic, whilst his tact, and business acumen are great. 1,600 entries accepted within a few days of the show, prize money paid on the second day, and all the other details worked without a hitch! What is Mr. Hill's secret? Method, nothing left to chance.

Good a man as is the secretary, he could not do much without a capable and willing executive, and this is found at Bradford. Many hands make light work, and the success achieved by the National is due to the manner in which the way work is divided up, and different men made responsible for the various sections. Mr. H. H. Towers is chairman, and we regret to say that owing to illness he was deprived of the pleasure of assisting in the final arrangements. Greatly to the joy and satisfaction of his colleagues, however, he was present at the opening ceremony. We hope soon to hear of his complete recovery.

The following well-known fanciers formed the different committees: Executive Committee.—Messrs. W. A. Cowgill, W. Crabtree, H. J. Chittenden, S. Dean, R. Halliday, F. Hammond, H. Hill, J. Kendall, J. W. Kaberry, F. W. Norris, H. Simonett, H. H. Towers, J. R. Taylor, and G. White. Show Stewards.—Messrs. W. B. Atkinson, F. Archer, C. Cowgill, J. Chippindale, J. W. Kaberry, W. Laycock, J. Lane, H. Long, W. Stables, J. A. Taylor, and J. Ward. Sales Committee.—Messrs. C. Cowgill, F. Hammond, J. B. Martin, W. Moreiment, H. Simonett. Staging Committee.—Messrs. W. Crabtree, H. J. Chittenden, C. Cowgill, H. C. Crossley, T. Fortnam, J. W. Kaberry, J. R. Taylor, J. W. Whitwham, and R. Halliday. Advertisement Committee.—Messrs. F. Hammond, T. Ogden, and H. Simonett. In addition Messrs. C. Cowgill, L. Dykes, J. Greaves, W. Crabtree, H. J. Chittenden, J. A. Taylor, G. White, E. P. Pickard, J. R. Taylor, J. Rhodes, W. Stables, F. Archer, W. Halliwell, G. Riley, H. Gornall, H. C. Crossley, J. A. Whitwham, E. Neeson, A. Huddleston, J. W. Kaberry, and E. H. Wetherill took charge of the door, each having his allotted time, and if either was unable to do his little bit at the appointed time it was up against him to find a substitute. Praise and honour are due to this grand company of fanciers, who cheerfully and ungrudgingly gave of their time. Yorkshire zeal, Yorkshire grit, and Yorkshire enthusiasm conquered.

Visitors Packed In Like Sardines!

We are delighted to chronicle the fact that the attendance was better than the two previous years. It was good on the Friday, and on the Saturday it was almost impossible to move, the visitors being at one time in the afternoon packed almost as close as sardines in a tin. Last year the committee were seriously handicapped by the late delivery of catalogues, even though the entries closed a week before the show. This year entries were received late on the Wednesday, yet the catalogue—a 100-page production—was compiled and copies in the hall ready for sale before the judges commenced their labours in the early morning of Friday, whilst catalogues with full awards were on sale two hours and a-half after the printers received the last slip. Credit for this smart performance is due to our esteemed contemporary, "Fur and Feather," who held the contract for the printing.

Yorkshires, naturally, opened the schedule, and surprising indeed, but true, they totalled the extraordinary figure of 894. This is an astounding result. Never before in the history of the Fancy have so many birds of one variety been brought together. The champion bird amongst this huge collection was declared to be Mr. W. Binns' clear buff. Messrs. Ogden's unflighted yellow, won CAGE BIRDS diploma, and also the champion prize in the coupon competition, and a worthy winner too; as was Mr. Hutchinson's yellow, which won the novice Yorkshire diploma, and the novice coupon prize.

Not only in their numbers were the Yorkshires wonderful, but also in their quality. No higher standard of merit has been seen at any show this season. As one walked down the avenues it seemed as though the Yorkshire fanciers had been keeping the best back for the National. The novice section was wonderful. The best bird was Mr. Huddlestone's winning yellow, which lost the champion cup owing to not being quite so neat as Mr. Binn's buff.

A South-Country Bird Holds Its Own.

In Mr. W. Mundell's classes all the special prize winners in the Yorkshires were found. Mr. Binns, of Blackpool, won with his buff the sp. for best in the first ten classes, sp. for best Yorks in the whole of the champion classes, also sp. and cup for best Yorks in the show—a wonderful performance, and one that any fancier should be proud of. In Green-marked Yorks Mr. Crisp (London) won 1st and sp. for best marked bird with an unflighted yell. which was very much admired by the fanciers present. In the Cinn. mkd. classes Mr. T. Bennett's yell. mkd. hen won the sp. for best Cinn. mkd. in the show, a bird full of quality and true to type.

What a glorious collection, to be sure, were the Norwich Plainheads—truly the "nuts" were there! This was one of the N.P.H. Club Cup shows, also the open Norwich P.C. Competition's patronage. For many a long day those who had the privilege of seeing the galaxy of talent staged will remember it vividly. Mr. J. Thomas captured sp. for best champion and the society's diploma for best Norwich with a magnificent tkd. yell. unflig. cock, a real "knock out." Mr. W. A. Wilson's cl. yell cock took CAGE BIRDS diploma. We did not envy Mr. Barnes of his task in separating such meritorious birds. He well might say that many standing cardless were good enough for first prizes.

Seeing that the patronage of the Green C.A. was in evidence, Nor. Greens might have come up better. The response of 42 in four classes might have been greatly improved upon, still quality was present. Crests and C.B.'s were few, but nice.

Some Sections That Disappointed.

A woeful disappointment were the Borders. Nine classes were provided, two—yellow hens and even marks—were cancelled; the remaining seven produced forty-two entries. And this, with one of the most popular judges of the day officiating—one who really loves and appreciates a Border! As regards the quality, Border-men should call a halt. They are getting far away from the Border Club standard. Many of the exhibits are becoming too long and too thick as well. Mr. J. S. Wilson's winning buff secured the championship, and also the Border Club. CAGE BIRDS diploma was taken by Messrs. A. and W. Hay's second prize in the same class. Half a dozen classes for cinnamons produced forty-one entries, the two novice classes being cancelled. The cream of the Fancy were no doubt staged in the four open classes, and the competition was exceedingly keen. The prizes were well split up. This is a good sign, and one which should make for a spurt in cinnamon circles. The championship fell to the Rev. B. Nume's magnificent yellow, whilst an equally grand buff of Mr. T. Proctor's secured CAGE BIRDS diploma. In Lancashires, both coppy classes were cancelled, and the Plainheads only secured half a score of entries. Lizards made a very fair show—thirty-five in the four classes. Mr. W. P. Barnes won the championship with a very smart broken-capped Silver, whilst CAGE BIRDS diploma fell to a very pretty clear cap Silver of Mr. Horner's. Belgians were all "scratched," and the White Canaries also failed to qualify.

Hybrids and British were up in numbers, and competition keen. In the Light Mule class Messrs. Martin and Archer captured all the money prizes with a grand team, headed by the famous clear Linnet, "Perfection," which also won the diploma for best in section. The two classes for Canary-Bullies, and other Hybrids brought forward 22 entries, including most of the known crosses, and what proved to be the sensation of the show, the much-discussed and much-disputed light Bullfinch-Hybrid. There were quite a few heated arguments concerning the parentage of this bird.

As reporter to CAGE BIRDS, I examined it very carefully, and failed to find sufficient evidence for the Albino Bullfinch theory. I compared it with a Bullfinch, a Canary-Bullfinch, and a Greenfinch-Bullfinch. Its beak is wedge-shaped, like the Can.-Bullfinch. The upper mandible of the beak of the Bullfinch is distinctly rounded and slightly hooked at point. The extra size of the eyes is more apparent than real, because they are encircled by a narrow line of dark feathers, which are only discernible on close examination. A Bullfinch has very small feet and very short claws; this bird has larger feet and very long claws such as I have never seen on a Bullfinch. A Bullfinch's flight and tail feathers are entirely black, while in this bird they are distinctly edged with yellow—in fact, more so than the accepted Canary-Bullie in the same class. Bullfinches are pure white above and below the root of tail; this bird is a rich buff, almost yellow. The head and chest are Canary buff in colour, the dark feathers on lower breast and flanks are not red like a Bullfinch, but like the Canary-Bullie or Greenie-Bullie in colour; and, again, this bird is a buff, so that care should be taken when comparing its dark plumage with a yellow Hybrid.

British birds were a grand lot both in quantity and quality, many of the cracks being present. Diploma for best in section was won by Captain Hurst's magnificent Goldfinch, which headed a strong class of 21, and not a duffer amongst them. The diploma for best CAGE BIRDS coupon Hybrid was won by Mr. G. Edwards' Greenie-Bullie; best Brit., L. M. Wade's White Hedge Sparrow.

Not great in numbers but superb in quality describes the foreign section. Lady Pilkington's very choice team was the cynosure of all eyes, as it well deserved to be. Mr. Finn's decision, which gave the championship to Mr. P. Mason's green glossy Starling over such handsome exhibits as Mr. Howe's lovely Melba Finch, and Lady Kathleen Pilkington's beautiful Loo Choo Robin, and Sugar Bird, was much canvassed.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Mr. J. C. Barnes's Classes.

CHAMP. NOR. CL. YELL. (17): 1, Thomas, marvellous qual. and col., true type, rare subs. and carr., an eye-opener, wins; 2, Wilson, wee bit better in head and neck, good bold front, hardly so cobby, and beaten a little in finish, yet beauty, and close up; 3, Vardy, richly fed, silky in texture, lovely head and neck, not the thickness through, but of the best of carr., well worth its place; 4, Turner, shapely, exquisite qual., rich and level col., clean cut away, not quite the subs.; vhc, Hayes; hc, Haigh; c, Dr. McConaghey. BUFF (16): 1, Cook, so often described as bordering on the ideal, further comment is needless, found heaps of admirers; 2, Beswick, superbly clothed, gaudy col., magnificent head, neck, and ebest, may be a wee bit longer in build, very close up; 3, Thomas, teeming with qual. and colour, sweet expression, full neck and bold chest, little longer in barrel flights and tail; 4, no name, delightful shape, rich level col., smooth as a bottle, not the subs.; vhc, Hayhurst; hc, c, Heap. TKD. YELL. (12): 1, Beswick, mkd. left eye, wonderful subs. and shape, richly fed and prettily clothed, best of carr., fascinating to a degree; 2, 3, Thomas, brace of "top sawyers," 2nd mkd. left wing, rare shape and size, magnificent qual., warm tone, clock-like action, close up; 3rd mkd. right wing, ablaze, superb feather, rattling head and neck, not the depth or width of chest quite, yet a gem, and in the pink; 4, Vint, cap mkd., unbeatable for shape, capital col. and qual., nice jaunty carr., hardly the subs.; vhc, Cottam; hc, Humphries; c, Vardy. BUFF (9): 1, Beale and Son, mkd. head, full of fire, shone like polished marble, slashing shape and size, clean cut away, an eye-opener; 2, Crawshaw, mkd. wing, eyes, and root of tail, sweetly moulded, soft silky texture of feather, well up in subs., grand carr., pressed strenuously; 3, Vardy, mkd. eyes, delightful shape and feather, capital size, well across perch, not of the hottest, but exceptional merit; 4, Hirst, cobby var., feathered to perfection, fine subs. and carr., pale and somewhat patchy, which told against it, still a beauty hc, Miss H. Scott; hc, c, Humphries. UNFLIG. YELL. (20), magnificent collection, easily two sets of winners: 1, hc, Thomas, head mkd., marvel, the best juvenile we have spotted this season, truly a stormer from beak to tail; 2, 3, Turner, charming studies, former cl., very massive cl., head of great width, neck excessively thick, prominent and expansive chest, best of wings and tail, not a feather misplaced, wee bit longer; 3, red hot col., for shape, qual., and col., all there, hardly so massive in build, yet one that points vividly to making a great exhibit; 4, Cook, mkd. wing and head, A1 shape and col., plenty of size, jaunty in carr., loses a little in texture of feather, nevertheless a beauty; vhc, Mason; c, Miss H. Scott. BUFF (18), rare class, again birds standing cardless that were easily capable of annexing the highest honours at majority of shows: 1, hc, c, Thomas, trio of toppers, the winner mkd. wings and head, again hard to describe to give full justice to so marvellous a specimen, shall we say "unique" all through and pass on; 2, Crawshaw, lightly variegated, wonderful col., superbly clothed, best of shape and carr., capital subs., ran very close; 3, Mason, cl., hot enough to fire his happy abode, fine qual. and size, lovely head, neck, and front, neat wing carr., closely folded tail, shade loose under; 4, Vardy, monster of a cl., grand in col. and shape, full of action, beaten in texture slightly, yet one of the best, well worth its place; vhc, Cook; No. 7, Hirst, the well-known cl., not up to-day, or no doubt would have gained a mention. Hard

Metcalfe, rare cobby shape, full head, neck, and chest, hot and level in col., grand wing and tail, put down in grand order; 2, Cuss, bit longer in shape, excellent col., feather, and cond.; 3, P. Walsh, good for size and col., just a little open at throat; 4, Jeffries, fine cobby shape, good col. and qual., fails only in size; vhc, Nicbolson and Son; hc, Fletcher; c, Parlett. GOLDF.: 1, Hurst, very big, rich coloured blaze, extra good both top and bottom, abundance of rich tanning, good wings, extra good shower; 2, Pitchford, very similar stamp on slightly smaller scale, and a shade less bright in finish; 3, Blanchon, very rich coloured, clean-cut blaze, but not so expansive as leaders, tanning and wings good, bit less size; 4, Nicholson and Son, similar to 3rd except scarcely so bright; vhc, Pets Supply Co.; hc, Marley; c, Compton. SISKIN, ETC. (13): 1, Fletcher, Twite, well up in size, rich level col., profusely pencilled all over; 2, Handley, Lesser Redpoll, rare good size and shape, grand cap, bib, nice breast col., well mkd. flanks; 3, Nicholson and Son, big, well mkd. Twite, not the col. of winner; 4, Edwards, Siskin, nice size, shape, col., and markings, faint bib; vhc, Marley; hc, Hellhwell; c, Parlett. CHAFFINCH (13): 1, Nicholson and Son, rare big size, cobby shape, well forward in col., shows to the best advantage; 2, P. Walsh, shimmer shape, good colours, and exceedingly good in feather and bloom; 3, Jeffries, fine big bird, good shape and col., only a little less polish; 4, Wilson, really grand Finch in all points except size; vhc, Marley; hc, Barnett; c, Metcalfe. LINNET (19): 1, Jeffries, grand size, cobby shape, very sound in col., well pencilled breast and flanks, put down in grand order; 2, Pitchford, similar in all points except little less subs.; 3, Beswick, good in size, shape, and col., markings rather faint, might be better on leg; 4, Fairhurst, good all round but less size; vhc, Marley; hc, Parlett; c, Metcalfe. BULLF. (13): 1, J. S. Wilson, very cobby, wide glossy cap, clear wing bars, deep coloured breast; 2, P. Walsh, same type, excellent cond., only beaten in breast col.; 3, Woods, grand bird for col. and feather, beaten in size and type; 4, Wilson, fine col. and shape, not so tidy in plumage; vhc, Jeffries; hc, Marley; c, Whalley. A.O. SEED-EATER (12): 1, Marley, Bawfinch, very rich in col., good clear-cut bib and wing bars, perfect feather and cond.; 2, Milne, Bawfinch, similar to winner, little to choose between the two; 3, Pitchford, Bramblet., good size, col., and spangling, bit untidy at thighs or might have split the Bawfinches; 4, Blincoe, Crossbill, good col., feather, and cond.; vhc, Nicholson and Son; hc, c, Hurst. BUNTING (7): 1, J. Walsh, Yellowhammer, grand head and cheek marks, very clear on crown, beautifully mkd. all over body, not over large, in tip-top condition; 2, Wilson, Meadow Bunting, a really fine bird, in best possible cond.; 3, P. Walsh, big, extra good Reed Bunting; any of those three good enough to win; 4, Marley, big, well-mkd. Corn Bunting; vhc, McPherson; hc, Blincoe; c, Inman. THRUSH, ETC. (4): 1, Hemmings, big, good shaped Song Thrush, beautifully spangled breast, perfect feather and cond.; 2, Whalley, Blackbird, grand size, sound col., and glossy plumage, beak and eye cere coming well up in col.; 3, Mackwell, Thrush, scarcely the size of winner, but grand spangling, feather, and cond.; 4, Isherwood, Thrush, just beaten in steadiness and cond. LARKS OR PIPITS (3): 1, Fletcher, Tree Pipit, grand size and markings, perfect feather and cond., very steady; 2, 3, P. Walsh, good Skylarks. BLACKCAP OR NIGHTINGALE (3): 1, Milne, good coloured, tight conditioned Gale, very steady; 2, Nicholson and Son, Blackcap, perfect feather, shining cond; 3, Fletcher, Gale, more size than the winner, but beaten in col. and cond. A.O. SMALL SOFTBILLS (6): 1, 2, Hattersley, Lesser Whitethroat and Bearded Tit, in grand order and well staged; 3, Fletcher, Whinchat, rather uncommon exhibit, in beautiful feather and cond.; 4, Beecoby, very fine Grey Wagtail, well forward in colours; vhc, Parlett, a good Redstart, but one wing imperfect; hc, Mackwell. ALBINO, ETC. (5): 1, Martin and Archer, cl. Yellowhammer, a handsome exhibit; 2, 3, C.B. diploma, Wade, 2nd catalogued as a White Robin, we made it a Hedge Sparrow, by its shape and notions, which are entirely different from the Robin; 3rd, a pied, almost clear, Linnet, both in grand order and well staged; 4, P. Walsh, the veteran Silver Starling, now looking the worse for wear; vhc, Mrs. Harrison, very pretty Goldfinch with white blaze. LARGE: 1, Fletcher, Chough, in perfect glossy plumage, rich legs and beak; 2nd, P. Walsh, Waxwing, extra good waxings on wings and tail, rich body col., perfect feather; 3, Blincoe, grand conditioned Magpie, very pure and clean cut in colours, well staged; 4, Bancroft, very big Missel Thrush, beautifully spangled breast, in rare good order; vhc, Wilson.

THE FOREIGN BIRDS.

Judge, Mr. F. Finn.

PARRAKEETS, ETC. (5): 1, 2, 3, Fletcher, 1, wonderfully gorgeous coloured Barraband, very rich and bright markings, shapely and clearly defined, in wonderful plumage, grand size, 2, Crimson Wing hen, a real gem, beautifully coloured, grandly mkd., well shown, 3, magnificent King, lovely rich body col., brilliant wings and tail, grand head, in rare form; 4, Beaty, charming Blackfaced Love birds, rare shape and size, capital col. and feather, well worth their place; vhc, Simpson. PARROTS, ETC. (1): 1, Fletcher, very rich coloured Eclectus, capital size, good head, splendid wings and tail. AVADAVATS, ETC. (11): 1, Beaty, smart and sprightly Combassou, rich metallic hued plumage, lovely feather; 2, c, Howe, very handsome Golden Breasted Waxbills, lovely col., beautifully mkd., in grand form, we liked to win; 3, 4, vhc, Mrs. Thynne, choice little team, St. Helenas, Orange Cheeks, and Zebra Finches, in grand form, remarkably good in col. and feather, and very nicely mkd; hc, Hattersley. FINCHES, ETC. (13): 1, Howe, most charming Melba Finch, beautiful col., most exquisitely mkd., not a feather out of place; 2, 4, c, Beaty, large, grandly mkd., rich coloured Golden-Backed Whydah, very handsome bird, finished off with a glorious tail, 4, bonnie little pair of Cuban Finches; 3, vhc, Simpson, deep, rich coloured Black-Headed Gouldian, beautifully mkd., very steady, and grandly shown; hc, Mrs. Thynne. TANAGERS, ETC. A.O.S. (7): 1, sp., best members bird; 3, 4, hc, c, Lady Kathleen Pilkington, 1, the famous Loo-Choo Robin, this or the winning Sugar Bird might have won spl. best in show, the bird was in magnificent condition, not a feather out of place, his colours all showing up clearly and distinctly, 3, charming pair of Black-chinned Yuhinnas, lovely col., splendid plumage, very smart, alert and sprightly, 4, very handsome Blue and Black Jay, wonderfully rich in col., and in rare plumage, followed by Black-throated Babbler, and Japanese Red-Breast, another wonderful team; 2, Fletcher, lovely coloured, beautifully feathered Brazilian Hangnest, in rare form; vhc, Simpson, handsome and lustrous, Long-tailed glossy Starling. LOCAL PARROT (4): 1, Mrs. Haigh, Blue-fronted Amazon, capital col. and markings, grand feather; 2, Snowden, another Blue-fronted Amazon, not quite so large in body, but much superior in head and neck marking, we thought an easy winner; 3, Bywater, again a good coloured, well feathered Blue-fronted Amazon; 4, Greaves, nice coloured Grey, good eye, not in such nice condition. A.O. FOR. (4): 1, sp., best foreign bird in show; 2, Mason, a green, glossy Starling, a nice bird certainly, but best foreign bird in the show? Why Philip himself laughed, and congratulated himself on his luck, 2, nicely marked Black-headed Gouldian Finch; 3, Plowright, well marked, nice coloured pair of Budgerigars.

NELSON AND COLNE AMALG.

The Canary and Cage Bird Societies of Nelson and Colne have become amalgamated, and the first annual show under the joint auspices was held in the Lesser Municipal Hall, Colne, Nov. 22. 108 birds were staged. Quality was better than at previous shows, and there was keen competition in some of the classes. D. Watts, of Colne, won the cup with his Norwich cock, and the prize for the second best bird, a yellow Yorkshire hen, was secured by H. Greenwood. Messrs. Sunderland and Thornton won Sandiford medal with a Norwich. The judge was Mr. Mundell, Bradford.

KIRRIEMUIR.

Annual show of the Thrums Canary and C.B.A., held Public Hall, Kirriemuir, Dec. 6. There were forward over 100 birds, and while the numbers did not reach last year's total, quality was excellent. The hall was nicely staged round four sides, and being well lighted and free from draughts, made an ideal place for a show. The committee and office bearers are a keen lot of fanciers, consisting of the following: Pres., David Lawson; vice-pres., Wm. Butler; sec., Joe Stevenson; treas., John Ewart; committee, W. Foreman, A. Paton, D. Nicoll, P. Paton, W. Stevenson, G. Anderson, R. Mills, W. Ogilvy, and A. Nicol, and they had everything in first rate order. CAGE BIRDS Coupon Specials were competed for at this show, and we heard much favourable comment regarding same. Champ. 10s. sp. was won by Geo. Mitchell, Brechin, with a nice buff cock, while the novice 10s. went to P. Paton, Kirriemuir, for a Border buff cock, a very promising bird. Diplomas were awarded as follows: A. Pirrie, Nor.; H. Benuel, Bord.; Wm. Butler, Brit. Mr. W. Bishop, Stirling, judged Nor. and Brit. Mr. W. Dods, Edinburgh, Borders. The awards were very well received by a critical audience.

CAMBRIDGE.

Twentieth open show, held in the Corn Exchange, Nov. 25 and 26. The birds were staged in a corner of the large hall, where they were free from draught. The committee guaranteed full prize money, but reserved the right to cancel any of the classes, the consequence being that more than half the classes were blue pencilled. No doubt the system of half prize money is objectionable, but is not cancelling the greater evil? An exhibitor who may make an entry, say, of four birds, is very much annoyed to find that three of his entries have been cancelled, and he has to pay carriage on the one left standing. But what is a committee to do, that is the question? Perhaps a lack of advertisement had in this case something to do with the small entry, as many who could have supported the show did not know of the fixture. We remember Cambridge in its palmy days, when it had one of the finest shows in the Midlands, with several hundred exhibits; to-day the number of exhibits is 41. Mr. J. T. Palmer judged and gave satisfaction.

LEWES.

Eighteenth annual show held in the Corn Exchange, Dec. 3 and 4, was a great success. The cage birds were comfortably staged in the balcony, quite clear of the other live stock, and were favoured with plenty of light and entire freedom from draughts. Mr. J. Martin, hon. sec., had made successful arrangements for the carrying out of the show, and had carefully studied every detail. He had the able assistance of a capable assist sec. in Mr. T. Jeffery, and the committee and stewards evinced an untiring interest in the arrangements. Alderman G. Holman is president of the society. There is a long list of influential vice-presidents, and a practical and businesslike hand of committeemen direct the affairs of the society. Entries were good, quality excellent, and competition keen; specials were numerous, and well worth winning. Norwich and Yorks. made splendid classes, Mules were good, and British were a splendid show. Mr. C. W. Silk won sp. for best bird. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

CONSETT & BLACKHILL

17th annual show held Dec. 6 in Skating Rink. It was a bitterly cold day, and many of the birds were feeling its effects, which would, no doubt, make it rather difficult for the judge to select the winners. Entries were good, showing a big increase on last year, when most of the classes were cancelled. Sp. for best in section and best in show was won by the Rev. B. Nume's yell Norwich. Mr. T. Dixon judged.

The Critique.

NEWPORT, I.W.

Twenty-seventh annual show, held Dec. 3 and 4, one of the best the society ever held, both in number and quality, Mr. Baker and Mr. Norman showing some wonderful Norwich. The British and Foreign of Messrs. Yelland and Cheverton were much admired. Mr. C. E. Silk, Emsworth, judged.

The Critique.

CL. YELL. NOR.: 1, sp. best, 2, Baker, simply walked home; 1st almost perfection, not a feather out of place, round as an apple; 2nd falls a bit in feather, but wonderful shape and col.; 3, vhc, Flemming, two very creditable exhibits, but outclassed. BUFF: 1, 3, Baker, 3rd falls a bit to first in qual. of feather; 2, Flemming, very close up to first, and almost turned the tables, feather like wax. MKD., ETC.: 1, Baker, tkd. buff, wonderful fine head and subs.; 2, Mooreman, varieg. buff, 1st Portsmouth, just beaten here; 3, Baker, again a lovely exhibit; res., Baker; hc, Hill. NON-FED: 1, Harris, nice cobby buff; 2, James Smart, ditto; 3, Caddy; res., Harris. YORKS., ETC.: 1, Hill, straight as a rush, not quite smooth on breast; 2, 3, Morris, close up; 3rd, another good Yorkie, but a bit down when judged. RADIUS CLASS: 1, sp., Hill, grand cl. yell; 2, Mooreman, beauty, full of Nor. properties; 3, res., Mooreman; vhc, Prentice; hc, McKay. PAIRS: 1, Mooreman, very nice pair of Nor., and cheap at catalogue price; 2, Caddy, another very nice pair; 3, Hill; res., Whittington; vhc, Morris, Mumford; hc, Prentice; c, Whittington. MULES, LIGHT: 1, Prentice, very nice Greenf. Can., beautifully mkd., a bird with a future; 2, Morris, nicely broken Goldf.; 3, Prentice, ditto. Budgerigars, and pair Pintailed Nonparcils, in fine feather.

HERTFORD F.S.

Annual show held in the Corn Exchange, Dec. 4. There was a nice display of cage birds, staged in a separate room; quality was very good. The hon. sec., Mr. F. Looker, made everything comfortable for the birds, and fulfilled the duties of his office with efficiency and courtesy. Cup for best bird was won by Mr. W. P. Smith, with a very smart Norwich hen. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

YORKS., ETC. (5): 1, 2, 3, vhc, Nicholls, nice upstanding bird, good col. and qual., just a shade frilly, 2 another lively bird, hardly so good in taper, 3 neat, scarcely so good behind leg; res, Dickens. HENS (4): All Nicholls, the winner a well-formed sweet-headed yell., 2 and 3 also typical hens. NOR. CK. (6): All W. P. Smith, leader a full bodied buff, nice size and feather, 2 tkd., not quite so stout or so good in head, but nice col., 3 good qual. HENS (8): 1, cup, 3, res., vhc, hc, c, Smith, the leader a bonny tkd. buff, short in wings and tail, nice head, sound chest, short legs, and well filled in neck, just a trifle pale in col., quickly snapped up at the ridiculously low catalogue price of 7s. 6d., 3 varieg., nice full body, but too free in feather; 2, Nicholls, buff, good shape, just a little bit weak in head. MULE OR HYB. (6): 1, 2, 3, Nicholls, leader yell. varieg. Can.-Goldie, fair size, 2 very similar, 3 buff ditto; res., Dawes. BRIT. (1): 1, Cook, large Jay, not in as nice feather as might be. FOR. (3): 1, Parker, Budgerigar, in nice plumage.

VALE OF LEVEN.

Third annual show held in the Public Halls, Alexandria, Nov. 15. This hall is large and commodious, but not just an ideal hall for a bird show, as much wall space is lost through the light being blocked by a large gallery. The gate was on the top side of previous years, and entries were well ahead of any previous show held in the district. The management is of the best. Hon. vice-pres., Mr. J. W. Bell; pres., Mr. A. W. Donaldson; vice-pres., Mr. W. B. Gillies; and sec., Mr. A. H. McLean, are all of the 18-carat gold stamp, and are supported by a hard-working staff of fanciers, who make themselves conspicuous by their thoughtful attention to the exhibits. Mr. Gilmour the hon. pres., in a neat speech at the presentation of prizes, buoyed the members up to enthusiasm, and offered them a new cup for competition among the members. Needless to say, the gift was accepted with acclamation. The judges, Mr. A. McFarlane (Crossmyloof), Norwich and Crests; Mr. H. Bennet (Kelso), Borders; Mr. W. Webster (Greenock), Scotch Fancy; Mr. R. B. Gill, Yorks.; Mr. M. Craig, Brit. and For., got their work over in good time, and to the general satisfaction of all.

The Critique.

YOUNG BIRDS, YELL. NOR. CK. (9): 1, 2, Todd, Bender very nice qual. and type, silky texture feather and stylish, just trifle unsteady; 2, well up, topping qual., beautiful type, not quite so massive build, still presses up; 3, Maltman, heavy var. in capital order, nice cobby make, not quite so hot in col., unsteady; 4, 6, McLean; 5, Davidson. BUFF (5): 1, McLean, lovely qual., best feather, sweet, neat, and typical, in perfection; 2, Todd, nice qual., in rare fettle, not quite so chubby, but nicely got up; 3, McLean, shade hotter in col., top qual. feather, just behind those in front at top end; 4, 5, Davidson. YELL HEN (4): 1, 3, McLean, 1st lovely lady in spanking order, not a ruffle, neat, shapely, cobby, wins nicely; 3, lovely qual., griz. top, steady, neat and typical, might have gone up a peg; 2, Todd, mass. body, nice carr., not quite so hot in col., and could do with more head and neck; 4, Davidson. BUFF (8): 1, Todd, A1 type, rare qual. feather, neat carr., shapely, finely staged; 2, Maltman, large, mkd. head and wing, not so cobby as leader, but neat and well filled in; 3, Lyles, well up in size and qual., fine head and full neck, close, good qual. feather, presses hard; 4, Barker; 5, no name; 6, McEwan. CREST (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, Abraham, griz. top, A1 cond., fine feather, good subs., neat, shapely crest, finely staged; 2nd, similarly mkd., laid down in tip-top order, just behind in body subs. and headpiece; 3rd, heavy var. in nice order, not so massive in build, otherwise close on leaders; 5, 6, McDougall. C.B. (3): 1, 2, Mrs. McLean, leading with fine broken green in lovely feather, fine skull, nice entrance, staged in top style; 2nd, similarly mkd., not so large, still nice one; 3, McDougall, gr., just a trifle behind in subs. CL. OR TKD YELL. BORD. CK. (7): 1, 2, Campbell, 1st little beauty, all there for type and qual., jaunty shape, and fine carr. and style; 2nd nice one for type and qual., shapely, not quite so close in feather or well braced, still good; 3, spl., Buchanan, fine type, good feather, well braced together, not so sweetly moulded at top end; 4, Gillies; 5, Donaldson; 6, McEwan. BUFF (14): 1, 4, Donaldson, leader all there for qual., A1 trim, neat and clean cut, and feathered like boxwood; 2, 3, Campbell, 2nd little beauty, tight waxy condition, on somewhat finer lines than leader, and presses hard; 3rd, neatly made, fine little fellow, just a trifle open in feather, nothing behind otherwise; 5, McEwaus; 6, Buchanan. YELL. HEN (7): 1, sp, Buchanan, superb cond., neat, typical, and rare good qual. feather, fine carr. and style, wins easily; 2, 3, Campbell, 2nd neat and tight feathered, fine carr., just inclined to draw too much; 3rd, similar, not quite so tight up, fails a bit in carr.; 4, McEwau; 5, Gillies. BUFF (13): 1, Buchanan, regular little treat, fine qual. and best carr., neatly got up, fine mover; 2, spl, Donaldson, 2nd sweet one for type and qual., fine, neat, well-filled top end, rare feather, just inclined to cross at times; 3, spl, 4, spl, Campbell, leader nice head mkd., grand feather, neatly braced wings and close tail; 5, Campbell. EVEN MARK. (3): 1, 2, Gillies, leader fine qual. cinn. mark, in rare trim, topper for colour, neatly carried wings, trifle nervous; 2nd green mkd., fine feather, neat head and fine front, well up on leader in every respect; 3, Campbell, we could not find. UNEV. (12): 1, spl, 4, spl, Campbell, leader wee gem, neat, typical, stylish, well braced, silky feathered, in faultless bloom, wins well; 2, Buchanan, very nice one, equal in every respect to leader, save showing too much thigh; 3, spl, Donaldson, fine saddle mark, good trim, close, good body feather, nice wings and tail; 5, 6, spl, Gillies. SCOTCH FANCY YELL. CK. (4): 1, 2, 3, McAdam, leader topper for size and style, nice subs., good depth through, fine reach and drive; 2nd fine free worker, not so thick through, but very stylish; 3rd good one for size and subs., nice qual., not just so free as those in front; 4, McDougall. BUFF (3): 1, 2, 3, McAdam, fine team in capital order, laid down in creditable style. YELL HEN (4): 1, 2, 3, McAdam, again fine lot, staged to the best advantage; 4, McDougall. BUFF: 1, 2, McAdam, two of the right sort; 3, McDougall. YORKS. YELL. CK. (4): 1, spl, 2, McColl, leader lovely blend of even col., nice style and action, good qual., wins; 2nd nice one for style and pos., fine qual., just trifle open at front, but otherwise good; 3, 4, Kinloch. 3rd capital length and stylish, nice shape and good carr., rather loose at front. BUFF (4): 1, Kinloch, nice one for type and qual., neat carr. and shapely, could do with a trifle more sub.; 2, McLean, topping type, A1 qual. feather, neat and clean fronted, nice top end, hard up on winner; 3, Manclark, plenty length, nice qual., fine leg and nice pos., just behind in carr.; 4, Donaldson. YELL. HEN (1): 1, McEwan, one of the right stamp, wins spl. and cup best Yorkie, beauty, and no mistake, typical, well drawn, and shapely, neat and tight in feather, smooth as glass, deserves the honour gained. BUFF (8): 1, 2, spl, McLean, 1st clean cut, typical, well drawn, neat carr. and fine style; 2nd hard up on leader at all points, only may be not just so close in feather; 3rd, spl, Kinloch, good all round, in nice cond., beaten in type here; 4, spl, Mitchell; 5, McColl; 6, Melville. MULE (7): 1, Todd, large mass. Greenie, in top condition, fine col., perfect feather, steady, wins well; 2, 5, McColl, leader fine Linnet cross, nicely mkd., fine feather, nice size, nicely laid down; 3, Donnelly, fine little specimen, in topping good cond., looks like Redpoll cross; 4, Bennie; 6, no name. WHITBURN.

8th annual show, held Dec. 6. Entries totalled over 300. There were many shows being held over Scotland same day, which, no doubt, curtailed the entries in Borders; Greens and Cinnamons made a great show in themselves, over 80 exhibits being staged of these alone, some grand specimens being amongst them, and Mr. W. Wilson, Hamilton, was very happy in his selections. Norwich had only 51 entries in 12 classes, but some grand quality was to be seen. British mustered 121 entries for 21 classes, a poor response to the classification put in to satisfy British bird exhibitors in the district. Messrs. Stuart and Dalling secured the handsome Ure cup for most points with 6 nom. birds, and had quite a field day. With 8 entries they secured 5 firsts and 3 seconds. B.F.C.C. medal for best Member's Border went to D. Whitelaw; novice medal, J. Wood; confined sp., Wm. Lambie; Nor. confined sp. also Crests, R. Lambie; Brit. confined, R. Calder. The management is well known to be of the best, and this year was no exception. Everything was up-to-date and well supervised by the worthy Sec., Mr. R. Lambie, whose untiring efforts were worthy of better support. Judges were: Nor. and Brit., J. Strachan, Bathgate; Borders, Mr. W. S. Wilson, Hamilton.

DARVEL C.B.C.

This club, although only formed a year ago, have just held a most successful members' show, the entries exceeding in numbers any of the open shows held by Ornithological Societies in the district. The show was held in the Lesser Town Hall, Nov. 15. Scots were represented by such well-known veterans as Messrs. Ralston and Findlay, who turned out good teams, Mr. Ralston winning special for best. Honours in the British classes were pretty well distributed, T. Anderson winning sp. for best with a nice Song Thrush in grand bloom. D. Hopkins won in foreign with a pair of White Javas, a popular exhibit. Not the least interesting exhibit of this show was the large collection of British birds' eggs, shown by the Pres., Mr. N. Hopkins, which seemed to attract and impress the visitors. The show was well patronised by the public during the afternoon, and we congratulate the committee, from the President down, on the success of their first venture. Mr. Jas. Johnston, Kilmarnock, judged, and his awards appeared to give general satisfaction.

COALTOWN OF WEMYSS.

Fourth annual show held Dec. 6 in Victoria Hall, a very nice place for a show, but just on the small side, free from draughts, and with a good light. Entries came up very well, especially in Borders and British, where competition was very keen. Members' cup for most points was won by the Pres., Mr. D. Henderson, also B.F.C.C. medal. Gold medal for best novice Border was won by Mr. J. Stirling, while Mr. Mackie (Markinch) captured cup for most points in British. Everything worked smoothly, and no wonder, for the whole of the officials are a hard-working lot, from the pres. down; the society are indeed lucky to possess such a lot. Pres., Mr. D. Henderson, vice-pres., Mr. R. Storrar; treas., Mr. G. Whitbrook; committee, Messrs. H. Clelland, S. Allan, J. Coventry, A. Storrar, A. Dryburgh, G. Hutton, W. Smart, H. Christie, J. Dryburgh, W. Weir, and W. Colville; sec., Mr. J. Weir got through his work well for a beginner in the position. He was most obliging and courteous. The judges were:—Nor., Mr. A. Dickson; Bords. and Yorks., J. Hamilton; Mules, Brit., and For., Mr. T. Bell; and their awards seemed to meet with approval.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER C.C.

Annual members' show held Nov. 29 at Old Boar's Head, Manchester. Sixty birds, in four classes, were judged by Messrs. Wareing and Massey, whose awards gave general satisfaction. A splendid muster of members, including those from Manchester, Wrexham, Oldham, Bury, Bolton, Sheffield, and Newcastle were present. Over 40 members stayed to the monthly meeting. Mr. Wareing presiding. A discussion, re the present judging standard, took place; Messrs. Lyons, Wareing, Mawhood, Tomlinson, Massey, Johnson, and several others took part in the debate, and some very interesting and useful information came from it. After nearly an hour's discussion it was passed that the present judging standard be not altered.

1913 BRED CHAMP.: 1, sp, Ives, 25 points; 2, sp, Oldroyd, 24 points; 3, sp, Wirth, 24 points; 4, Kilshaw, 20 points. ST. MARYCHURCH AND BABBACOMBE F.A.

Annual show held Nov. 26 in Town Hall. The cage bird section was stronger than usual, and we believe a record. Yorkshires took the lead, and some very smart birds were staged, most notably by Mr. J. H. Sanders, who carried off all four Yorkshire spls. A good many in this section lacked size and showed frills. Special for best in show fell to a Green Crested hen belonging to Mr. G. Williams. The management was all that could be desired, and everything went smoothly. This is not to be wondered at, as Mr. Bearne, the secretary, is ably assisted by Mrs. Bearne, while the chairman, Mr. Hamlyn, is the right man in the right place. A good working committee completes a fine set of officials. A pleasing opening ceremony was performed by Mr. Towill, the Mayor of Torquay, who was supported by many of the elite of the district. Mr. J. N. Jellery judged and gave satisfaction.

BLYTH C.B.S.

7th annual show, held in St. John's Mission Hall, Nov. 8. Entries were about 60 in excess of last year, there being a big increase in Nor. Four bandsome specials were on view for the best four birds, and were won by Messrs. Marshall, Douglas, Hudspeth, and Richardson, with a Green Crest, Plainhead, Border, and Yorkshire. The secretarial duties again fell upon Mr. W. Marshall, the right man in the right place. Messrs. Hay, Berwick, and Stanger, Pelton Fell, judged, evidently to the satisfaction of all.

MUSSELBURGH.

Held Dec. 6 in the Town Hall, which may scarcely be described as an ideal place, as, though judging tables could be arranged in a good position for light, yet certain sections were decidedly in the shade; and as some of the winners were benched so high as to necessitate the use of steps to reach them close inspection was not easy. We were informed that no other hall is available, and this is a matter for regret, as undoubtedly was found in limiting space here, notwithstanding the fact that 37 classes were omitted, and floating cages had to be resorted to. Entries were in advance of last year, especially in Borders. Norwich were well forward, and some of the cream were on view. Scotch only mustered 27 in 8 classes, and one can scarcely blame a management for a curtailment of this section unless the breeders support their efforts. British, Mules, and Foreign were rather disappointing, but we fear that Musselburgh is considered somewhat of the nature of a paper chase, by reason of the many champions emanating from local studios. Many of those fanciers who possess a single specimen are now staying at S.B.B.M.C. events, knowing the contest will be hot without holding out any extra inducements.

To say that the management was all that could be desired may sound weak, yet it means much, as nothing that could add to smooth working or the comfort of the exhibits was left undone. Mr. Hoyle is simply an ideal secretary, and when one mentions a Sykes-Moffat-Fleming Watts, etc., combination it means the last word in stewardship. Nothing occurred to mar the harmony, and the only regrettable happening was the absence of Mr. Jeffrey's birds, which were held up on the journey from Swansea, and only arrived when the show was closing. They were well attended to, and seemed little the worse, indeed we believe they would, even then, have entered a few positions of the red cards. The judges were: Scotch Fancy, Jas. Carson; Nor., J. Winter; Borders, J. Hislop; Brit., Mules, and Foreign, L. J. Arright; and their awards were well received. We would strongly advise the adoption of the slip method of printing catalogue, as the present system makes it impossible to know owner or price of exhibits till show is almost over.

The Evans Trophy was again won by J. Sykes with a fine Redstart, his champion Bramble being runner-up for Logan cup. The show was well patronised by the public, its situation being a decided asset in this direction, and most of the Lothian fanciers foregathered to indulge in that "gill gaff" which makes "guid freens."

The Logan Cup for best local members' bird was won by Mr. J. Smeaton; Sanditord medal, Mr. J. Taylor; Mr. D. Monat won the S.F.C. medal. Borders were forward in strong force, some real gems of the first water being staged. Mr. J. Patterson won the B.F.C.C. medal. Scotch Fancy classes were poorly filled, but excelled in quality.

(6): 1, 2, Sykes, unfed, grand bloom, nice body shape, well over perch, well placed, 2nd very similar, hardly so good in head, quite equal other points; 3, Finnie, nice one, hardly so cobby as leaders, better head, inclined to hang left wing, we prefer; 4, McLean, hot buff, nice head, very cobby body, fails a little in neck; 5, Messer, might have gone up; 3, Allan. F.M. (6): 1, Bell, rather snipy shape, grand wings, frayed tail, we thought lucky; 2, Whiteford, more cobby than leader, fails head and col., fairly steady for a F.M.; 3, Sykes, we preferred for shape and col., rather wild; 4, Palmer, 5, Aitken; 6, Brown. LINN., H.M. (7): 1, Laird and Matthew, nicely pencilled, hardly tone of col., little open in front, yet wins here; 2, McKinley, nice bloom and pencil work, rather open, fails front and head

ABERDEEN WOODSIDE.

Annual show held in the Burgh Hall; a nice hall, well lighted, and plenty of room for visitors. Entries numbered about 300, and some very good birds were to be seen. Rose bowl for best unflighted was won by Mr. William Allison. Points special was a draw between W. Rea and James Sandison and divided. The judges were:—Norwich, Mr. W. Hampton, Brechin; Foreign, etc., Mr. Alex. Steele, Aberdeen, and their awards were well received.

ST. JAMES-THE-LESS F.A.

Tenth annual show (a record both in quality and numbers) held in the big hall at St. James Buildings, Bethnal Green; other societies must envy them having such a splendid hall at their disposal. The cage bird section was well supported. The pres., Rev. J. E. Watts-Ditchfield, and others connected with the institution take great interest in members and exhibits. Mr. Marhoff won cup for best unflighted with a buff mkd. Norwich, not a feather bed, but a Norwich with type, colour and quality, and had a good runner-up in a breedy Yorks with quality. Mr. A. Plumb won special best exhibit by non-member. Visitors often remarked at the cleanliness of the birds, for the members can stage and wash a bird. In Messrs. Adams and Bransford the association have ideal secretaries. Mr. H. T. Jones (Walthamstow) judged.

BARROW AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

Sixteenth annual show at Dalton Road Schools. The quality has gone up very considerably, and among the birds were those that have been winning at various all-England open shows throughout the country. The Borders and Yorks. were a show in themselves. The entry was a record one, over 150 birds. Mr. J. Stewart (Whitehaven) judged. Mr. G. Large won spl. best bird with a neat yellow Border cock; Mr. S. Woodward spl. most points. Mr. Wagstaff and Mr. Shackley worked hard for the success of the show.

KEITH.

Held Dec. 3, in the Longmore Hall; entries were in advance of former years, and quality also was better. Yorks. were excellent. Borders, although not strong in numbers, were of high class. The Norwich Lanciers were well provided for, but few birds turned up. British were good; Mr. Thomas's Siskin, which won special for best British, was the largest bird of its kind we have seen, with nice black cap and large bib. Mules, were, as usual, well patronised. Mr. C. Raney, backed by a committee of willing helpers, Messrs. Donald, Cruickshank, Mackie, Jessieman, Kirkpatrick, Whitecross, Ogg, McLean, Wilkinson, Kennedy, Grant, Banks, Thomson, Milne, and Gardiner, had everything in first class order. Mr. T. Arnott, Kirkcaldy, judged, and his awards were well received. The rose bowl for best Can. was won by Mr. Junor, Tomatin, with a Yorks. of great length and suo.; sp., best Brit. Thomson; best Can. (local), Shearer; best Nor. (members), J. McLean; sp. (confined to Keith), J. Banks; best Brit., local, Thomson. A Carrion Crow was shown by a Nov., and was indeed a sight in itself, having plenty of admirers. The room off the hall would be better for a show, as sightseers were to a disadvantage owing to the birds being so high up, especiany the "woe gems." The show was well patronised, and the gate was good.

AMBLESIDE.

Held Nov. 27 in the Lecture Room, well lighted and very comfortable. Entries were not over strong. Norwich generally were not very conspicuous in quality, but Yorks. were in advance. Borders were well up in quality, some noted winners being among them. British were a nice lot for quality but some of them very wild, which spoiled their chance. The show was well managed by a body of willing workers, with whose help Mr. King, secretary, had everything in apple-pie order. Mr. A. Wellings, Prescott, judged, and we heard no complaints.

The Critique.

NOR. AMMANFORD F. AND F.S.

Fourth open show held New Drill Hall, Nov. 20. Our section did not come up to expectations, no doubt owing to this fixture clashing with Cardiff and Kenfig Hill. The committee worked very hard to make the show a success. The show manager, Mr. J. C. Shaw, had everything well in hand, and Messrs. T. J. Williams, sec., and W. H. Jones, assist. sec., were very courteous and obliging officials. Mr. J. Evans judged.

YORKS. (7): 1, 3, Harry, neat pair, good length, nice type and qual., well on leg; 2, vhc, Morris, close up, grand length, lovely type and qual.; res, vhc, hc, Owen. BORD. GALSTON.

40th annual show held Dec. 6 in Good Templars' Halls. The cage bird section was staged in the Lesser Hall, which is a most comfortable one for the birds, being well lighted and free from draughts. We were sorry to see seven classes cancelled, and some others only poorly supported. Norwich were both cancelled, this is a great pity, since Kilmarnock and Ayr, two hot-beds, are in such close proximity. The officials are a hard working and enthusiastic lot and deserve better support from exhibitors. Mr. Frew is the captain of the ship, being here there and everywhere; he is most courteous and obliging, and thoroughly understands his duties; he was ably backed up by pres. Hopkins and vice-pres. Brennan. Mr. John Smith, Horwood, judged Scots Fancies, and Mr. D. Holden, Muirkirk, the remainder.

The Critique.

SCOTS FANCY CK.: Cancelled. HEN (6): 1, Stewart, cl. yell., beauty for type, take ready position, plenty nerve, grand reach; 2, Robertson, little behind winner, fails droop only, in splendid order; 3, ———, cl. buff, grand thickness of shoulder, one of the old fashioned type, nice round shoulder, fine droop; vhc, Nisbet; hc, Boreland; c, Robertson. PIEBALD, CK. (6): 1, Stewart, gem, easily best in show, great size, fine long side for a yell., plenty shoulder, sweet head and neck, great drive; 2, Burgess, heavy pied, good stamp, shade small, inclined to carry head too high, takes pos. readily; 3, Robertson, lacks shoulder to winners, nice length of wing; vhc, Boreland; hc, Ralston; c, Reid. HEN (4): 1, Robertson, sweet yell., nice size and subs., decided droop, grand top end; 2, Ralston, grand type, shows great shoulder, fine thickness, nice length; 3, Nisbet, splendid head, very nervy, full of subs., grand depth of shoulder; vhc, Borland. FOUL OR GR. CK. (5): 1, Ralston, foul, fine size, takes pos. very quickly, nice length of drive, fine top; 2, Robertson, self gr., great thickness, very fine back and wings, just fails drive; 3, Nesbit, grand one, splendid size, grand droop, full of nerve, we fancied; vbc, Burgess; hc, Person. HEN (4): 1, McDowall, nice size, fine length of wing, grand head; 2, Robertson, nicely built, good size and qual.; 3, Person, fails size, grand type, takes good stand; vhc, Nesbit. BORD. CL. OR TKD. HEN (6): 1, 2, Mossie, grand pair, both capital qual. and weight, correct jaunty carr.; 3, Ferguson, junr., cl., not far behind, same type and size, loses only in cond.; vhc, Broadfoot; hc, Duncan; c, Krozen. UNEVEN: Cancelled. HEN (3): 1, Torrance, heavy variegs., splendid type and carr., very rich col.; 2, Gibson, wing, eyes, and cap mkd., smart exhibit, in grand order; 3, Ferguson, junr., grizzled on chest, correct size, inclined to crouch. GR. OR CINN.: Cancelled. GOLDF. (4): 1, Davidson, easy win here, largest face and best col. in class; 2, Kidd, similar size, not up in col. yet, will improve; 3, Adam, less expanse of blaze, nicely tanned; vhc, Fingland. LINNET, ETC. (10): 1, 2, Davidson, leader Linnet, grand size, best of colour, nice work on front, 2nd Mealy, not over large, very clear front, distinct bib, grand full head; 3, Smith, Linnet, grand type, fails col., nice size and cond.; vhc, Hopkins; hc, Turnbull; c, Blackwood. LESSER POLL (7): 1, Hopkins, excels in size, splendidly pencilled front, grand bib, wins; 2, Smith, paler in col., not a large one, somewhat lucky; 3, Davidson, grand col. and size, we liked for 2nd; vhc, Turnbull; hc, Frew; c, Shields. A.O. BRIT. (10): 1, Davidson, Bullf., hot col., grand broad front, splendid cap and bars; 2, Turnbull, not far behind, loses in cap and type; 3, Robertson; 4, Anderson; hc, Thomson; c, Hopkins.

CLEATOR MOOR.

Annual show held Dec. 6. Many birds of outstanding merit were shown and all were well and carefully looked after by efficient stewards. Cards were promptly affixed, and all nicely arranged. The officials were all experienced men, and sec. Mr. J. Skillicorn had all the arrangements well in hand. Mr. J. Wilcock judged, and gave every satisfaction.

The Critique.

WALTHAM ABBEY.

Sixteenth annual show, held Town Hall, Dec. 4 an ideal place for a show, the light being simply splendid. Norwich and Yorks. especially were of excellent quality, and some could have held their own in keenest competition. Mr. French won ch. cup with a beautiful Yell. Yorks. cock. The genial sec., Mr. Ward, worked hard to ensure success, and kept the show well in hand, everything being well arranged; he was ably assisted by a willing band of workers, among whom were Mr. J. W. Medley and Mr. A. Yardley, who saw to the welfare of the birds. Mr. J. Hodder judged, and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE. Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds"

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona fides of either buyers or sellers in all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

What a Reader thinks of "OUR CANARIES."

5, The Station,
Shincliffe,
Durham.

I am very well satisfied with "Our Canaries," and, as far as I have gone into this wonderful book, I have found some very useful hints. Although only a Novice, I tried my hand at washing a few birds and getting them ready for our Local Show. I washed nine birds in all, only spoiling one. I have had them examined by a friend, who is considered an expert at the game, and he gave me credit for washing them very well, this being my first attempt. I am delighted to think I did so well. The information, which is very concise, that enabled me to wash them so well, was in "OUR CANARIES."

EVEN MARKED YORKSHIRE

EXPERT CANARY - REARING.

Large sums of money can be made breeding Canaries for sale and exhibition, once you have mastered the science of Mating, Crossing, and Judging. An artistic 20-page Brochure has been specially prepared for CAGE BIRDS readers regarding these matters and other details of great interest to fanciers. It is a gift to you, and you are entitled to it free of charge.

In this booklet will be explained an easy method by which, for the small payment of 1s., you can be the immediate possessor of a magnificent volume, entitled "Our Canaries." It weighs 5lbs., and contains 133 illustrations and 32 coloured plates. The balance is payable at the rate of about 1d. a day for a few months. This slight cost is not, of course, an expenditure at all, because the facts you will be put in possession of when you have read this wonderful manual on Canaries will pay for its cost many times over.

Cut round this Free "Brochure" Ticket dotted lines. Fill in your name, address and occupation, put it inside a halfpenny stamped envelope and post it to-day.

USE DITCHFIELD'S

Famous bird medicines, as supplied to the London Zoological Society. They are genuine remedies, which can be given with perfect confidence to all classes of cage birds. We have hundreds of testimonials testifying to the value of our bird medicines. A. Saumons, Southend-on-Sea, writes: "You have got a genuine remedy, which no fancier should be without." B. Hutton, Holbeach, writes:—"Your Revivo is a marvellous remedy." R. Seekings, March, writes:—"Have saved three young birds with your Tonic Drops." W. Aldison, Brynwhelach, —"Your Tonic has worked wonders with my birds." W. H. Harris, Halberton: "I find your medicines very excellent." F. Clay, Settle: "Have used your medicines with great success." J. Sherwin, Regent's Park:—"I have found your Tonic Drops most valuable for my birds." Special Notice.—When ordering medicine, kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, going light, not singing, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and inflammation of the bowels. Sold in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For bronchitis, wheezing, hoarseness, and inflammation of the lungs, get Ditchfield's special Lung Tonic, also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This tonic is undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds. For cases of constitutional weakness and debility get Ditchfield's Revivo. There is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the bird. As a pick-me-up for birds before and after showing, Revivo is absolutely unequalled, in 7d. and 1/1 bottles. To advertise our medicines, we will send two 7d. bottles of either of the above medicines for 1/-, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9. I have supplied more contest winners than anyone in England. Heaps of unsolicited testimonials to prove this. Same address 25 years. Money returned in full if not approved of: Woods, Cross-st., Dunstable. (1083)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

EXHIBITORS PLEASE NOTE

I am supplying winners all over Great Britain. If you want a good bird don't hesitate, but send to the man that has them in stock. I have one of the largest and best collections of birds in England—not on paper, but kept in the largest, most up-to-date indoor and outdoor aviaries in the country. My birds are not cooped up in small back cages, nor are they kept in a little stuffy bird shop. I guarantee every bird I send out to be healthy, and as advertised. I have hundreds of birds pass through my hands weekly. If you are visiting Hull this Christmas pay a visit to the direct importer of the genuine Siberians. Ask for the Aviaries; anyone will direct you to Day's; two minutes' walk from station; trams pass the Aviaries. Gentlemen, I am competent to pick you a bird for exhibition, having been a breeder and exhibitor over 30 years. Now, gentlemen, I don't tell you what I sold last week, nor what I never possessed. Everything I advertise is in stock. I have just received another 200 Siberian yellow cock Siskins, all in the pink of health and feather. I have picked a few tip-toppers out, with grand caps and bibs, bound to win, 6/6 and 7/6 each, and a few real good cocks, to moult out winners, 3/6 and 4/6 each; hens, 1/- each. I am sorry I kept a few gentlemen waiting last week for Siskins as the demand was greater than I could supply, but will be despatched this week, and I am sure they will pay them for waiting. Although I have hundreds coming in they are not all exhibition specimens. Gentlemen sending P.O. must receive first attention. Siberian Bullfinches, the biggest ever seen, cocks or hens, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6, and a few specials, with large broad heads, extra rich colour, 7/6 and 10/6 each. Siberian cock Goldfinches, real giants, 4/6, 5/6 each; a few extra large, with deep square cut blaze, nicely tanned, and buttoned, 7/6 and 10/6 each. Siberian yellow cock Greenfinches, monsters, 2/6, 3/6 each. Also cock Linnets, to moult out winners, 2/6 and 3/6 each. I am the only importer of these birds in the city. Siberian cock Waxwings, in grand feather, quite tame, 15/- each, and one, a real champion, very large, teeming with colour, grand markings, tame, and in splendid condition, 25/-; impossible to get better. Also a few grand Siberian Mealy Redpolls, very large, grand colour, 2/6 each. British cock Goldfinches, in full colour and song, 2/6, 3/6, and a few specials, very large, with good broad head, deep square blazes, well tanned and buttoned, 4/6 each. One British cock Goldfinch, bred Mules this year, full song, 6/6. cock Goldfinch Mules, full song, yellows, 5/6, 7/6 each; buffs, 5/- each. Cock Linnet Mules, full Linnet song, 6/6, 7/6 each, and one, a real giant, can win anywhere, colour fed, 10/6. Also a grand yellow cock Siskin Mule, colour fed, ready for the bench, 7/6. Cage-moulted cock Chaffinch, large, grand colour, ready for the bench, 3/6. Also a monster cock Greenfinch Mule, colour fed, can win, 7/6. Also a grand cage-moulted Thrush, show bird, on full song, 6/6. One pair aviary-moulted Cockatiels, in show condition, £1. White Java Sparrows, 7/6. Rose Cockatoos, tame, 10/6. Budgerigars, 7/6 pair. Crested Cardinals, 6/6 each. Blue-fronted Amazon, 30/-. A Mexican Double-fronted Amazon, very fine, £3 10/-. Grey Parrot, best talker living, £12. Le Vaillant's Amazons, 30/- and 40/- each. Very large white Cockatoo, tame and talking, 30/-. Leipsig Rollers, on full song, with many lovely changes, free from any harsh notes, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, and a few extra good Schoolmasters, 10/6 each. Hartz cocks, on full song, 4/6, 5/6, and a few real good singers, 6/6 each. Norwich or Yorkshire cocks, for show or song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, and 10/6 each: hens, 1/6, 2/6, and 3/6 each. Roller hens, 1/6, or 14/- per dozen. Border Fancy Canaries, cocks 5/6; pairs 7/-. Crests and Crestbreds, 10/6 and 12/6 pair. Muling hens, 2/6 and 3/6. If you want birds or animals of any description write to me. All on approval, cash or deposit. Note.—All postal or money orders should be crossed "and Co." for safety: John Day, The Aviaries, Potter-st., Hull. (1124)

THE most up-to-date manual on this popular breed is "Norwich Canaries: How to Breed, Manage, and Exhibit," by C. A. House. It contains a beautiful coloured plate, and many black and white illustrations. In it will be found fullest hints and instructions on all the various points which go to make up a champion Norwich. It deals in a most practical manner with all the various stages of the life of a Norwich from the egg to the show bench, explains fully how to pair up the stock birds, how to feed the young, the art of colour feeding, and the way to wash and prepare birds for show. Do not be without it, post free 1/1½, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

Pure Norwich

I don't exhibit, so you can get all my choicest. Those who show every week want all the good ones for themselves. Have a few grand Norwich, young and year old, direct from our noted winning strain, also other noted strains, cocks or hens, Yellows or Buffs, from 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, 8/-, 10/-, 12/- each; a few likely show specimens from 15/- to 30/-; may on approval; supplied more winners than anyone in England; for proof, write Editor, who has seen the originals; scores of them; breeder 30 years: Sandiford, Canary Breeder and Judge, Preston, Lancs.

CHAMPION NORWICH

Grand opportunity. Winnings well known. See show reports of Preston, Manchester, Sheffield, Longton, Hanley, etc. I breed my own winners. Having had a good season I have a large number of birds for disposal at a very reasonable figure. State wants and price you are willing to pay; approval: Dr. McConaghey, Parkside-house, Macclesfield. (1097)

To Norwich Breeders.

The chance of a lifetime to begin at the top. Owing to very indifferent health and want of time I have decided to sell from 100 to 150 of my noted Palace Strain. My wins at all important Shows goes to prove the absolute Superiority of my Birds. The last Palace Show I won Diploma for best Norwich, also L. & P. O. Cup. I have one of the best Collections of Cups, Medals, Gold, Silver & Bronze, also other Trophies too numerous to mention won by any single Exhibitor.

All those wishing to get some of this rare Stock should write me the Second week in January. Prices will be very reasonable to clear.

BUTE.

Thirteenth annual show, held in the Drill Hall, Dec. 6. There was a large entry, and some really good birds were put down. Mr. Napier (pres.), Mr. D. Brown and Mr. W. Leckie (vice.), Mr. J. W. Dubbie (sec.), and Mr. John McRone (treas.), were indefatigable in their endeavours to make the show a success. Messrs. Brown and David's buff piebald Scotch Fancy cock, much admired, took medal for best in section. Mr. McFarlane, Paisley, judged, and his awards appeared to give satisfaction.

Pendreich, lovely Bullie, feathers missing from breast; 4, Miss Maggie McMurchie, lovely h.m. Bullie, might have changed places.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING.

Thirteenth annual show, held Nov. 29. Entries came up well, totalling 198, and quality throughout was up to a high standard, Norwich having slightly the best of it. The show was again held in the large room above the White Lion Hotel, a capital place for a show, and the exhibits were nicely arranged in tiers. Cup for best bird was secured by Mr. H. Wilson, closely pressed by Mr. J. Appleby. The hon. sec., Mr. R. H. Dixon, had everything in first-class order. He was grandly supported by a hard-working body of fanciers, headed by the genial chairman, Mr. Matt Dixon. Mr. J. Stanger (Pelton Fell) judged.

WALLASEY.

Annual members' show, held Fairhaven Institute, Liscard, Nov. 8. Some 130 birds were staged. With such well-known men as Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, pres.; G. Benson, chair; H. Alston, vice.; and committee, Messrs. W. Young, G. Barker, Stead, G. Morton, Cadden, Green, and Hall, with Mr. W. Hodgkins as hon. sec., the show was sure to go well. A large number of specials were competed for, including cup, medals, and cash. These made the entries come up well, and competition was very keen. A very grand Yorkshire bull hen took special for best bird in show, and Messrs. Benson and Young ought to be proud of such a handsome bird. Mr. Metcalfe's cup and the 15s., 10s., and 5s. points specials were keenly competed for by the champions. Matters were well carried out by Mr. Young and others, and Mr. Charles Houlton judged.

WALKLEY.

A very fine members' show, held in the spacious and well lighted St. Phillip's Mission Room, Nov. 15th. The entry was a record one, viz., 286. Four years ago the membership was seven. Recently the radius has been widened, and to-day 62 good fanciers are on the books. Capital headway has been accomplished, and still greater things are being looked forward to. The Chairman, Mr. T. Ridal, possesses the ability to say the right thing at the right time, and is a capital controller. He is ably supported by a couple of enthusiastic and true fanciers in Messrs. J. G. Cowley and J. Woolhouse (assist.-sec. of the Sheffield C.B.S.), who act as vice-chairmen. Mr. J. B. Kelsey is the holder of the shekels. The worthy sec., Mr. C. Tomlinson, is correctly cut out for this all-important office, being most courteous, energetic, and enthusiastic. He intends to make things "hum." The show manager and assist.-sec. is Mr. A. Lawton. He executed his duties with great taet, and is master of his job. Stewards who worked promptly and judiciously, affixing prize cards instantly after birds were judged, and having everything in order for opening time, were Messrs. J. Woolhouse and J. Carr. During the year, at various shows, and winding up at the annual shows silver cups have been competed for, causing keen competition right along the line. The fortunate ones are:—Yorks. Cup, Mr. W. T. Furniss; runner-up, Mr. C. Tomlinson; Nor., J. Matthews; Brit., Mr. L. Fallding. Point specials: 1, A. Lawton; 2, W. T. Furniss; 3, C. Tomlinson; 4, L. Fallding; 5, A. Lawton; 6, J. Matthews; 7, J. Woolhouse; 8, F. Jones; 9, D. Pickering; 10, J. Carr; 11, P. Wingfield; 12, F. French. Spl., best young hen, W. T. Furniss. Most pts. Novice Nor., J. Matthews. Ramsden's, W. T. Furniss. Sandiford's, C. Marshall. Best 4th Brit., E. Sisson. Mr. J. C. Barnes, the well-known local fancier, judged, and his awards were well received.

EDINBURGH C.B.S

Held Nov. 29 in Tyncastle Church Hall. This event has now attained a position equalled by few which confine membership to a radius, an entry of nearly 500, and over 100 special prizes made many wonder how it is done, but a study of those who run this show soon reveals the secret of its success, as they are names to conjure with in the Fancy, and vie with each other in devising ways and means of adding to the popularity of their society. Certainly no small measure of this success is due to the genial and able sec., Mr. J. C. Charlton, and his efforts are ably seconded by a committee whose desire for progress entirely obliterates their pecuniary interests. The society holds out special inducements for the novice, wisely recognising that recruiting is ever essential, and though the quality necessary to annex premier honours is of the highest, this only stimulated the beginners, and they found ample consolation in the securing of a few useful or handsome species, these being of a nature to appeal to the feminine mind. Incidentally, we have never seen an event in which the ladies entered so keenly as this, and their assistance in packing must have been appreciated by their respective present or prospective hubbies. Councillor Stevenson, in a few well-chosen words on the desirability of a hobby, pointing out that the keeping of cage birds was one of the most desirable, and one without which the life of the workman in particular would be dull indeed, presented the cups and prizes to the various winners. The cup for the best Brit. was won by the popular Pres., Mr. A. W. Watson, and for best young bird by Mr. Wallace, with a splendid Redstart and champion Greenfinch-Bullfinch hybrid respectively. The judges were: Nor., Mr. Winter, Edinburgh; Scotch Fancy and Borders, Mr. McAdam, Lasswade; remainder, J. Sykes, Musselburgh.

FARNWORTH C.B.S.

Annual members' show, held in the Church House School, Nov. 24. Close on 100 entries were staged, quality being excellent, especially in Yorks. and Nor. Sp. for best Yorks. cock was won by Mr. J. R. Mitchall with a bird of rare type and qual., also spl. best Yorks. hen with a bird of wonderful qual. The best in the Norwich section turned up in the buff cock of Mr. P. Lawton, also taking spl. for best bird in show, a bird of good size, clean head, good front, and quality of the best. Special for best Nor. hen fell to Mr. J. Davis, with a yellow hen that can hold her own in any competition. Spl. most entries, Mr. R. Spiby, also spl. best Roller. Mr. J. W. Clemmson, Preston, judged, and his awards appeared to give every satisfaction.

WALLSEND-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

Ninth annual show, held in the Co-operative Hall, Nov. 8, with an excellent entry of 360. Borders made a show in themselves. Many champions met here for the supreme honours. Mrs. Pluckney, wife of the popular president, kindly presented the prizes and cups to the successful competitors. Mr. J. Johnson won 10 guinea silver cup for most points. The Pluckney cup for best young bird bred by a member was won by Mr. Bevor with a grand clear buff Border. Great credit is due to Mr. G. Greenwell and his hard working committee for the way they had the birds staged and returned the exhibits after the show. Mr. W. P. Barnes, Grantham, judged for the fourth time, and his awards seemed to give complete satisfaction.

INVERURIE.

Annual open show, held in the Reading Room, Railway Hall, Nov. 22. There was a very fair entry, and quality was high. The room is splendidly adapted for a cage bird show, and the staging was perfect. The management of the show was in the capable hands of the following Pres., Mr. J. Shoolbraid; Treas., Mr. J. Walker; Committee, Messrs. E. Krohn, C. Krohn, R. Gordon, Wm. Macintosh, Wm. Reid, and A. Mutch; while at the head of these willing workers is Sec. Mr. J. Simpson, who had everything in tip-top order. Judging was completed, and all awards up in good time. Mr. John Dressel gained sp. for most points in Section 1., and Mr. E. Krohn won the local challenge cup with a grand natural col. buff cock, Mr. J. Dressel being the runner-up with a sweet buff var. hen of true Norwich type, and A1 qual. The open challenge cup was won by Mr. A. Ironside, with a young buff cock of good type and qual.; Mr. Wm. Rae's runner-up must have pressed the winner hard. Best fed bird, Mr. Wm. Allison; Hyde's special was gained by Mr. E. Krohn. Mr. W. D. Milne, Montrose, judged, and gave general satisfaction.

CORK.

19th annual show held Nov. 26 and 27 in City Hall. Truly a magnificent room, well lighted, very spacious, and well screened from all draughts. Entries were slightly in excess of last year, in spite of clashing with Dublin Show. Unfortunately the Cork fanciers could not alter the date, as they ran in connection with the P. and P. Association. Judicious advertisement early in the year, so that societies in the North may fix their dates accordingly would doubtless be of advantage. Yorks. take pride of place here, and it was quite an eye-opener to see such a collection. There was a rare fight for the cup, but Mr. W. Neville just came out on top; his clear yellow is a real topper, and should take some beating. Norwich were only fair. British were a rare lot. All the classes were well filled with creditable specimens. Mr. Carrol Dawson again swept the deck; he also won the cup with his noted Missel Thrush. Messrs. Cottrell, Neville, O'Keefe, Carrol-Dawson, O'Reilly, and Hawkins looked after our section, and they left no stone unturned to make the show a success. Mr. Tuckey, the hon. sec., ran the show on most modern lines. He seems to have a happy knack of making everybody work with ease. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe (Liver pool) judged, and gave entire satisfaction.

DARTMOUTH F.A.

Fourth annual show, in Subscription Rooms, Dec. 9. Classes were badly supported, only two standing—Norwich and Mules. Mr. Nancarrow, the poultry judge, judged. A cage birds judge would probably receive greater support.

NOR. OR YORKS: 1, 3, Lamble, buff Nor., winner a grand bird; 2, Grant, yell. Nor., good col. and qual. MULES: 1, 2, 3, sp., Lamble, winner a Goldie-Canary, which might have given way to either 2nd or 3rd, two grand Linnet-Canary Mules.

HOW THEY DO THINGS IN FRANCE.

Notes by the Secretary of Cage Birds League.

The Société Serinophile, of Paris, held an exhibition of birds on November 2 in the hall of the Jardin d'Acclimatation, and among the donors of special prizes was the Société Protectrice des Animaux, a society with the same functions as our own Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

It would appear that they do some things better in France, and the fact that such a society gave a prize at a bird show can only be taken to indicate that the Société Protectrice des Animaux knows what the keeping of birds in cages really means. It means a harmless, pleasurable, and instructive hobby, carried out not only without cruelty, but to the positive advantage of the birds, and if the Humanitarian Societies of England knew as much about it as their sister society of France they also would be encouraging the proper keeping of birds in cages rather than disseminating the wicked accusations they make against bird-keepers.

He Who Runs May Read.

If a bird or an animal of any kind is down in condition, the lack of robust health is first indicated by the appearance of the feathers or the hair, and, conversely, if a bird is in perfect plumage it is in perfect health.

The birds that may be seen at any show tell their own tale, and he who runs may read. In beauty of plumage they excel to an extent which must be seen to be believed their relatives who are "enjoying" their natural freedom, and it is inconceivable that anyone who has seen a properly kept bird should remain under the misapprehension that cruelty of the slightest degree is involved in bird-keeping.

Those whose business it is to keep up the delusion will of course not be convinced. They do not wish to be; it would not suit their business. In fact, they know already that the accusations they scatter broadcast are baseless, but the subscribers to the funds of the societies are in a different position. In their kindness of heart they are led away by the fulminations of their "pastors and masters," and if they would only take the trouble to see for themselves they would no longer be so misled.

An Object Lesson for Sentimentalists.

I wonder how many of our friends the Humanitarians took the latest of the opportunities of seeing for themselves the "cruelties" to which cage birds are subjected, and of gauging the value of their accusation that "the keeping of any bird in any sort of cage is an acted blasphemy."

At the Horticultural Hall, St. Vincent Square, Westminster, there was recently held a show of cage birds at which nearly every possible species was represented—Canaries, the descendants of birds which have been bred for generations in captivity (in a bewildering number of varieties, ranging from the giant Lancashire to the tiny Border Fancy); British birds of every description, some of which have been hand-reared, some caught as birds of the year, and some as adult birds; Hybrids bred between these wild birds, or between them and a Canary; and Foreigners from every clime, in brilliance of plumage which baffles description—"Living Jewels," as they are styled in the inscription to the picture on the front page of our Dec. 6 issue, expresses it exactly.

The View of Sir Wilfrid Lawson.

I am very pleased to receive from Mr. G. Oglethorpe, the chairman of Cockermouth F.S., the appended letter, together with the reply of Sir Wilfrid Lawson, M.P., to the petition sent him by Mr. Oglethorpe. It will be plainly seen by this that Members of Parliament are prepared to give expression to the views of their constituents, and I hope every member of our legislature will by now have received the petition which I put before our readers in CAGE BIRDS of Sept. 20 last.

I obtained the signatures of several fanciers in the Cockermouth district to the petition against the objectionable clause in the Plumage Act, and sent same to Sir Wilfrid Lawson, M.P. Following is his reply which you can use as desired.

Isel Hall, Cockermouth,
November 12, 1913.

Dear Mr. Oglethorpe,—Thanks for the notice of the forthcoming Cockermouth F.S. Show, which I hope will be successful. Thanks, also, for the petition re "The Importation of Plumage (Prohibition) Bill," to the particulars of which I give careful attention. I cannot think that Clause 4 in it, referred to, can be meant to interfere unreasonably with pet bird keeping. However, I will certainly hope to bear in mind the views of the petitioners as to that when the matter may be before Parliament, in the hope that nothing unreasonable to their interests may be enacted by the measure in question, or any other. Perhaps you would kindly let the other petitioners know this, in answer to their request, as necessary.

WILFRID LAWSON.

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE is an organisation of bird keepers and bird-lovers, banded together in mutual interest to promote good-fellowship and union, to inculcate the principles of humane cage bird keeping, and to protect the hobby against unjustifiable interference.

Leaflets setting forth the aims and objects of the LEAGUE will be forwarded, post free, to any reader upon application.

HENRY I. [illegible]LIAMS,
Secretary CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE.
154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of those Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the pets in their care. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is either to sign the coupon herewith, and send the same, together with an envelope, or to get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS! USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

SCOTTISH NATIONAL SHOW.

The Schedule and Its Attractions.

We desire to call the attention of fellow-fanciers to our prize list, 2,197 of which have been sent out, writes Mr. J. R. Meikle, hon. sec. Scottish National Show. There are still some on hand, and any exhibitor, on application, can have a copy sent per return. Those having one and not intending making use of it can render us valuable assistance by passing it on to any fancier in the district desirous of exhibiting. The handsome trophies, exceptionally long list of valuable specials, over 300, and large number of classes, make it one of the best schedules put out for the season. We thank the specialist clubs for their patronage, and all others for their splendid support by way of special prizes, etc. With reference to the Roller section, which has the patronage of the R.R.C.C. and S.R.C.C., the exhibits are staged in a separate hall, which is thoroughly adapted for the purpose. The judge, whose name has not previously been published, is Mr. T. W. Walton (Leeds). Through the generosity of Mrs. E. Warren Vernon, a cash prize of £1 1s. is given for the best singing Roller Canary; also a handsome cup, by Mr. Kreinner, for best bird in class 66.

Scotch Fancy exhibitors will note full classification is inserted, the Edinburgh Open O.A. having agreed to give us their support. The committee in charge of this section are well-known Scotch Fancy members, namely, Messrs. W. Allan, A. Paterson, R. Lile, P. McNiven; M. Petrie, and J. Sinclair. The foreign section will be ably looked after by Miss Peddie Waddell, and here again Mrs. E. Warren Vernon gives £1 1s. (cash) for the best insectivorous bird in classes 139 and 140.

Our general show hall has been greatly improved by internal alterations, and the addition of a large number of lights. Railway arrangements are of the best. Mr. R. Craig, our show manager, and the whole committee, who are experts in show work, will, as always, do everything they can for the welfare of the exhibits while in our charge during show. We will appreciate it very much should exhibitors send forward their entries early, as it certainly enables us to keep the work better in hand. Last year we had a record entry, and with the united support of our fellow-fanciers, we anticipate going one better this year. (See advertisement in this issue.)

The schedule provides 142 classes in all. Nor. have 22 classes, of which 4 are for Greens and 3 are selling. Crests and C.B., 10 (2 sell), Scotch Fancy 21 (4 sell.), Belgians 3, Borders 22 (4 Gr., 4 Cinn., 3 sell.), Cinnamons 2, Yorks 13 (4 Greens), Rollers 5, A.O.V. 1, Mules 9, British 22, foreign 10, stock 1, gift 1. There are five prizes in each class, 15s., 10s., 5s., 3s., 2s., with an entry fee of 2s. Entries close Dec. 24, to Mr. J. R. Meikle, 22, Brougham Street, Edinburgh. Mr. Trengove judges Nor. and Ner. Greens. Mr. J. Young, Limit, Nor., Crests, and C.B.; Scotch Fancies will be judged jointly by Messrs Carson and Young, part, and Messrs. Hamilton and Stewart, part. Mr. J. F. Dewar takes Belgians, Cinnamons, and A.O.V. Can. Messrs. Mossie and T. Arnot divide the Border classes, Mr. Arnot taking Green Cinn. and limit classes. Mr. W. Mundell judges Yorks. and Yorks. Greens. Mr. T. W. Walton, the Rollers, Mr. J. Maddison, Mules, and last 4 classes in Brit. Mr. C. Sykes takes Brit., except last 4, and Mr. L. J. Arrighi the foreign birds.

Club Reports.

DUNFERMLINE AND DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting held Co-operative Hall, Dec. 13, Mr. D. McLaren in chair. Mr. R. T. Campbell was re-elected secretary. Decided, after lengthy discussion, not to hold open show this year, but to go on same lines as last year. Committee meet Dec. 18 to arrange classification for annual breeding pair show, Jan. 31, preceding the monthly meeting. Agreed to hold annual Burns' Supper Jan. 26. Committee would like to see a good turn-out.—J. Anderson, assist. sec.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, Dec. 11. Mr. Ball presided over one of the best meetings we have had for some time. We enrolled as members Messrs. J. Jooding, R. Thomson, W. Harriss, McGilway, Williams, and Rowlands. This is a grand start. Dates for next open show, November 18 and 19, 1914. Judges elected at next monthly meeting. Members' matched pair show, held Feb. 18. Judges and classification, also members' cup competition, to be dealt with at next meeting. Winning numbers drawn at meeting are 778, 19, 517, 370, 769, 456, 502, 721. Mr. Maggs wrote that having left Cardiff he wished to resign the vice-chairmanship, but still intended to keep up his membership. Secretary stated all prize money, also all accounts in connection with open show had been paid. He was unable to give balance-sheet as he had not received all moneys in for tickets sold. At monthly meeting, Jan. 15, sec. will present balance-sheet. There will be no collection this year as show will about pay for itself. Will members please clear contributions for year?—E. Thomas, Sec.

KENT COUNTY C.B.A.

Points gained towards the various cups: Yorks, Austin 38, Lockett 34, G. Johnson 32, E. C. Rayner 10. Nor., Pilcher 32, Wickham 25, Taylor 17. Brit., Rayner 35, Wickham 31, Austin 15, H. Wood 11. Bord., H. Wood 28, Rev. H. Soames 17, Burton Bros. 14, Mrs. Aitken 12. Mules, Mrs Soames 14. Liz., Mrs. H. Wood 13. Bord. (old) Messrs. Burton Bros. 22, Rev. H. Soames 19, H. Wood 13. Secretary will be obliged if members will communicate with him if any mistake is found.—H. Wood, Hon. Sec.

ARBROATH C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held Dec. 10th, in Shepherd's Rooms, Millgate, Mr. D. Jamieson, vice-president, in the chair. Balance-sheet for year showed income £40 0s. 6d., expenditure £34 14s., having a balance of £5 6s., which was found to be satisfactory. Office bearers for 1914: Pres., W. Muir; vice-pres., D. Jamieson; sec. and treas., John Gray, 23, Guthrie Port; assistant sec., G. M. Addie; comm., H. Duncan, J. Heenan, D. Forsyth, W. T. Myles, J. Bonnyman, J. Wilson, W. Colville; auditors, W. T. Myles and J. Stewart.—J. Gray, sec. and treas., 23, Guthrie Port, Arbroath.

HAMILTON (Cadzow Oak) O.S.

Meeting, Court Room, Dec. 13. Balance sheet proved very satisfactory, with good substantial balance on right side. Election of office-bearers:—Pres., Jno. Braidwood; vice-pres., W. S. Wilson. Mr. Martin wishing to resign secretaryship, moved that Mr. W. Hamilton be sec. Date for show fixed for Nov. 14. Unanimously agreed to advertise in CAGE BIRDS, and have our date in "Show Date Columns." We were informed that one of our past secretaries, Mr. Cant, had orders to be transferred to Canterbury. Agreed to hold social on Dec. 27. For further information kindly communicate with me.—W. Hamilton, Sec.—(Kindly send your address. Ed.)

SHEFFIELD O.S.

Annual meeting at Headquarters, Rose and Crown Hotel, was the largest yet held. Election of officers: Chairman, Mr. T. Down, our last year's skipper, who has led us so successfully; vice-chair, Mr. J. Woodall; Dr. Craig, treas.; Mr. E. C. Job, the sec., and Mr. R. Colton assistant sec., the right men in the right place. Committee, G. Fletcher, P. Walsh, J. Memmott, J. Mace, G. Moor, J. Milne, T. Ridal, T. Towe, W. Baxby, A. H. Waters, J. H. Richardson, E. Simpson and W. Moore. Annual dinner, January 20th, tickets 2s. each, also members' show January 17th, fixed prize-money and specials galore.—J. A. S. Woodall, Press Corres.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Held Dec. 10 at Marlboro' Hotel, Small Heath, Mr. Willmott in chair, and a splendid attendance interested in final arrangements for members' show January 3. Mr. Ratcliffe (Stoke-on-Trent) nominated a member. Specials simply poured in. Dinner service is for competition at this show, and the cups will find their first owners for the season. It is hoped all members will send a few birds, as room will stage 200 easily. The various G.W.R. trains (Small Heath) will be met, so members will have no excuse. Members should put their shoulders to the wheel and make things "hum" on Jan. 3. Judging commences 10.30 sharp; entries close Dec. 28. Tickets and show bills ready; please send or call for supply.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

PELTON FELL AND DIS. C.B.S.

Annual meeting held Colliery Inn, Pelton Fell, Dec. 15th, when we had a good attendance. Balance-sheet showed income £18 8s. 6d., and outlay up to annual show £5 9s. 6d. Mr. Lindsay moved report as highly satisfactory, which was carried. Annual prize money was gone into; carried to pay out 6s. per class, as 3s., 2s., 1s. Our best thanks were voted to all our patrons, for kind and generous help towards show. The specials were then gone into; each member will receive one from secretary during the following week. Vote of thanks was then accorded our worthy host, Mr. Waugh, for his kind support, and for the large room he puts at our disposal. Mr. Waugh responded, saying he had the welfare of the society at heart. Votes of thanks were then accorded our secretary and chairman, Mr. Wm. Forster, and Mr. J. Stanger for their work during the year, which brought to a close, one of the best meetings ever held at Pelton Fell.—Wm. Forster, Sec.

BORDER CITY (Carlisle) O.S.

Final meeting for the year held headquarters, Dec. 3, a goodly number of members turning up. Sec. put before the meeting the accounts for the year, which show a balance to the good of £14 5s. 8d. It is proposed to hold a local show on New Year's Day confined to members and fanciers of the district; prize money, 6s., 3s., 1s. 6d. Classification: Border 5, Nor. 4, Yorks. 2, Mules 1, Brit. 4, For. 2, Sell. 2. Schedules have been sent out, but anyone omitted can get one on application to the secretary. A new member was proposed. A feature of the meetings now are informal discussions, which are much appreciated, as some fancier must learn something new to him, everyone seeming to have a different opinion on different matters. I hear markings are to be discussed next meeting, also the colour feeding of Borders, which seems still to be carried on to the disgust of the novice and against the principal rule of the B.F.C.C.—John C. Bell, Sec., 23, Botchergate.

LEITH O.S.

Annual general meeting held Liberal Club Hall, 13th December. The President, Mr. J. Lumsden, presided over a fair attendance. Financial statement for past year showed a balance of nearly £9 to be divided in prize money. This was considered very satisfactory. The members present considered that the late show, although down a bit in numbers was quite up to the average as regard quality, and that the Leith Society could well lay claim to holding pride of place in the East of Scotland Elections of office-bearers. Pres., Mr. J. Lumsden; vice-pres., Mr. Allan; sec. and treas., Mr. G. Brown (8, Elm Place, Leith); comm., Messrs. A. W. Watson, J. Maitland, P. West, and G. R. Smith; auditors, Messrs. J. Musser and J. Walters. A summoned meeting will be held next month to consider advisability of holding open show next year. The society meets every second Saturday of the month in Liberal Club Hall, Hope Street, at 7 p.m. All fanciers within a radius of 12 miles are invited to become members.—G. Brown, Sec.

BLAYDON-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

Meeting, Dec. 13, when there was a good turn-out of members. Secretary's statement in regard to last annual show was considered satisfactory. Decided to have next annual show Nov. 13 and 14, and several gentlemen are being written to for terms, etc., for judging. G. Harver, Sec.

LARKHALL C.B.A.

Table show of Borders, Y.M.C.A. Halls, Dec. 13. Mr. R. McEwan won sp. most points over Nor. and Bord. shows. Mr T. Allan (Hamilton) judged very satisfactorily. YELL.: 1, McLue; 2, Pollock; 3, McLue; 4, McLue; 5, Rundell; 6, Thomson. BUFF: 1, McGhie; 2, Pollock; 3, Graham; 4, Kennedy; 5, Clark; 6, Thomson. Dec. 27, judging competition, Mules and Borders, at 7, Y.M.C.A. Halls.—A. Thomson, Sec.

NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB.

List of special winners. Champion section: 1, J. Thomas, 81 points; 2, S. Cook, 78; 3, L. Granger, 45; 4, J. Haythurst, 39; 5, W. Wrigley, 38; 6, W. Vardy, 30; gold medal winner, Mr. J. E. Davies. Amateur: 1, T. Blease and Son, 53 points; 2, W. Vardy, 41; 3, J. Nickson, 43; 4, W. H. Collam, 39; 5, H. Hitchen, 34; gold medal winner Mr. J. Edmundson. Members not yet having paid their subs kindly send same on.—F. Cunliffe, Sec.

LONDON C.B.A.

Meeting, El Vino, Dec. 9, Mr. J. Dewhurst in chair. The evening was taken up with business arising out of the annual show. Letters were read from Messrs. Lund, Jefferies, Dewhurst, Beresford, Wilson, and the President of the B.R.C.C. Members respectfully requested to note rule 7, as next meeting will be prior to annual general meeting. Also to forward unsold tickets and ticket money of annual show to F. Knight, 64, Chaplin Road, Wembley.—J. Bray, jun., Hon. Sec.

MIDLAND COUNTIES YORKS. C.C

Our competitions for present season closed at Walsall show. Results as under. Should any member disagree, I trust he will write me at once. Also, I would remind members that the various prizes have now to be purchased, and unpaid subscriptions and donations would be greatly appreciated. Champions: Wells and Clempson, 98 points; P. Lune, 93; P. Victor Williams, 87; J. Clay, 25; J. Gibbons, 20; W. G. Andrews, 11; W. Raybould, 6; J. Burke, 5; J. Sheppard, 1. Novices: G. A. Smith, 71 points; G. Salt, 46; R. Ratcliffe, 38; T. Walker, 22; J. Hinton, 22; A. W. Austin, 18; J. W. Lawton, 14; A. Philpot, 4. Mr. Ratcliffe has kindly given a medal, value 5s., for fourth most points in novice section.—W. Wells, Hon. Sec.

READING C.B.S.

Monthly meeting Dec. 2, at Palmer Hall. Five new members elected: Messrs. W. White (Oxford), C. Cooper (Newbury), Miss Philcox (Woking), Mrs. Steele, and Mr. Blackall (Reading). Hon. Sec. gave rough balance sheet of recent show, which was a record in every way. Financially it showed a loss, which was balanced by the splendid interest it has caused in our district, and which ought to result in our membership rising to the hundred before long. Mr. G. H. Acton, after congratulating the members on the splendid fancier spirit shown during this show, offered to give a good special prize to the member reading the best paper during the year, as he thought some of them could write good papers but were too bashful to read them. His offer was received with great pleasure. Several congratulatory letters from exhibitors were read. Annual meeting comes next.—W. H. Pyke, Hon. Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Annual meeting Dec. 4 at Wentworth Cafe, Mr. F. Jones, president, in chair. Decided that all shows during season 1914 have fixed prize-money, and that new committee deal with classification. Officials elected: President, Mr. F. Jones; vice-pres., Messrs. F. Hemming and W. Bingham; treas., Mr. W. Oxley; auditors, Messrs. C. W. Hobson, and H. Hobson; sec., Mr. A. Hobson; assist. sec., Mr. J. Woolhouse; committee, Messrs. P. Walsh, W. H. Champion, G. Drabble, A. Bailey, J. Curley, W. T. Furniss, E. Sissons, L. Falding, G. Butler, W. Kelley, C. Tomlinson, W. H. Webster, and T. Fow. Vote of thanks to past officials, also to pres. and the two secs. was passed. The assist. sec. replied on behalf of his colleagues, and thanked the members for their kind support. Next meeting Jan. 9, when a match and pair show will be held. Messrs. T. T. Gears and G. N. Beven were elected members.—J. Woolhouse, sec.

ROCHDALE & DIS. (Amalgamated)

Meeting held Dec. 13 at Temperance Club, Rochdale, when delegates attended from R.G.I., R.O.C., Smallbridge, Littleborough, Todmorden, Bury, Heywood, and North Manchester. Mr. Blincoe, of the R.O.C., was appointed chairman; Mr. Wm. Adams, of the R.G.I.C.B.S., sec. It was decided that we have a show this season, date Jan. 24. Voting by ballot. The name of the R.O.C. was first, so they take the show this time. At Mr. Blincoe's wish I undertook the duties of the show. Judge appointed, Mr. E. Brunskill, of Southport. The novice question came in for discussion, and it was decided that a novice was one who had not won a first prize at any show, either members' or open. Classes: Lancs. 6 and 1 novice, Liz. 4 and 1 novice, Crest or C.B. 2 and 1 novice, Yorks. 7 and 3 novice, Nor. 7 and 3 novice, A.O.V. 1, Mule or Hybrid 1, British 6, Selling (up to £1), 1. We hold meeting Dec. 27, in the same rooms; being so central, it would be the best and cheapest, as all expenses are pooled, each society to pay alike. I should like to see Oldham, Middleton, and one or two others attend. They will be in time, and prize money will be on the sliding scale, so the more entries and societies, the better the money.—W. Adams, Sec. (19, Bedford Street, Rochdale).

BRITISH ROLLER C.C.

Meeting Dec. 9, the president in the chair, and a good muster of members. Election of three new members, Messrs. Atkinson, Kramer, and Webb. The meeting then settled down to listen to the song of the birds present, kindly brought by Messrs. Fisher, Hocking, and Randall. Some brought distinctly Koller-like tours, and it was thought by those present that we were getting a step nearer towards having the Koller tour in the song of the birds. A discussion took place as regards birds having Koller-like tours, whether they should have points given them for same. The general opinion was that they should, and same to be put down on the judging sheet as Koller-like tours. The different tours sung by the birds were well discussed. Comments were made on certain tours, which are not being sung so well as they were a few years back. The knorre, or bass roll, is not so deep or so long; also the glucke, with its deep hard sound, that we used to hear, has somewhat faded. There seems also a difference of opinion regarding the schockel, the definition of which, from what we have read and heard in the past, was that it had a decided beat in it; at the present time it seems to be getting confused with the hollow hell. All remarked that the evening had been instructive and pleasant.—J. W. Norris, hon. sec.

As managers of the L.C.B.A. show we beg to offer sincere thanks for the splendid report you gave of the show in your valuable paper, Cage Birds, write Messrs. Bray and Knight. All prize-money has been paid, and diplomas and awards of merit will follow.

Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show, Feb. 6th to 10th, 1914. Breeders should reserve their surplus stock for this show. Record sales and prices. Demand usually more than the supply. This show is open to all. Watch this paper for further details.—Advt.

We are looking forward to a good show at Boscombe, writes Mr. M. Cook, the hon. sec., having secured an ideal hall. We have five classes for Borders, three champion and two novice, the latter fully guaranteed by Mr. J. A. Edwards, also class for field-moulted Goldfinches guaranteed by Mr. E. Hutchins; in all 62 classes and model prize cards will be given.

At the North Wales C.B.S. open show, Dec. 26, we have 12 additional specials, which will appear in catalogues, writes Mr. R. E. Griffiths, the hon. sec. Up to time of writing I have only received 9 entries, and I will accept not later than first post, Dec. 21st. I beg for record support by members and others. We have engaged one of the leading judges, who never has been before at any show in North Wales.

I may say that Tredegar was one of the finest shows that has been held in Wales, and we are deeply indebted to the fanciers who so excellently supported us, and I trust that the manner in which the show was conducted will be an incentive to exhibitors to support us in the future, writes Mr. W. B. Watkins, the hon. sec. All prize-money was paid out within two days. I have received several letters from fanciers thanking us for our promptness, which we much appreciate.

Will members of the Hastings and St. Leonards United C.B.S. kindly note that the annual meeting is fixed for Jan. 14, and keep that date free, writes Miss Kirk-Bullock, the hon. sec.

We have received two very promising pen sketches of birds from Master Archie Clixby, of Manchester, accompanied by an interesting letter concerning the birds they have at home.

Mr. J. Barber, of Chesterton, Staffs, sends us several letters received from customers expressing their great satisfaction with the wire fronts he advertises, made on an improved principle.

The Amalgamated Show of the Birkenhead, Wallasey, Bootle, Liverpool Bird Breeders, and Garston Societies will be held Dec. 27 at the Baptist Schoolroom, Earp St., writes Mr. A. T. Mullock, the secretary.

In future all communications respecting the Rochdale Good Intent C.B.S. and Rochdale and District Amalgamated Societies, should be addressed to 19, Bedford Street, Rochdale, writes Mr. Wm. Adams.

The Nottingham and District Permanent O.S. annual members' Xmas show is due at the Grapes Inn, Platt Street, on Dec. 26, writes Mr. J. Bunn, the Sec. We shall be pleased to see any fanciers, and make all welcome.

OBITUARY.

I am deeply sorry to announce the death of Mrs. Booth wife of one of our esteemed members residing in New Hey Road, Bowling. Always genial and straightforward, her death is regretted by all who came in contact with her. We are sure her many friends will join us in offering their sympathy to the widower and family in their time of trouble. —J. E. Hudson, sec. Laisterdyke, Bowling, and Tong Combination.

Owing to a severe accident to myself, I was unable to judge Felinfoel (Llanelly) show, as stated in schedule, writes Mr. John Hocking (Swansea).

Abertillery's Rough Experience.

Owing to the inclement weather which the Abertillery Society experienced, their 5th annual show was a great loss, writes Mr. E. Churchill, the hon. sec.; and I regret that I shall not be able to forward prize money so soon as in recent years, but with the scheme that our committee are getting into action we trust to be able to pay the prize money in the near future.

A Treat for Poultry-Keepers.

Those who are interested in poultry, either from the utility or the exhibition standpoint, have a treat provided for them this week-end by our sister journal, The Poultry World, whose Xmas Number is on sale Friday, price 2d., at all newsagents and bookstalls. It is a splendid issue, containing a wealth of entertaining and instructive articles and special features, while it is lavishly illustrated, and, moreover a handsome calendar in colours, and an exceptionally fine coloured plate accompany it. We confidently say to all of our readers who keep poultry that they cannot invest twopence to better purpose than in the purchase of The Poultry World Xmas Number. Get it right away, before it is "sold out."

An Enjoyable Concert.

One of the most successful and enjoyable Bohemian concerts we have ever attended took place at the headquarters of the City and Suburban A.C.B. on Dec. 11. The fine hall of the St. Marylebone Church Institute can rarely have been more cosy, or more artistically decorated. The stage was one mass of lovely flowers and plants, while the audience in sociable groups listened to the fine programme comfortably seated around small tables, with excellent refreshments all ready to their call, and charming waitresses (the Misses Hussey, Menell, Thynne and Wallington) to serve them, and gently but firmly decline to give change. Mr. Wynn (the hon. sec.) looked after the refreshment stall as to the manner born, Mrs. Maher and Mr. Warren ably assisting him. Mr. F. Knight and Mr. T. L. Sayer were tactful stewards. In the organising of the concert Miss Grace Shepherd and Mr. W. A. Shepherd (the chairman) worked tremendously hard, and a notable success deservedly crowned their efforts, over 250 being present. The funds of the society should receive a nice fillip as a result of their kindness. The talented artists were: The Misses C. Blank, Iris Bartley, R. Cunningham, L. and R. Harvey, V. Hewlett-Smith, G. A. Lathbury, Maggie Maher, B. Z. Menell, A. Oakshott, G. Shepherd, G. Thorp, Master Seitz, Messrs. N. Galloway, B. Clifton, C. Hughes, and Lewis and Vincent. The Misses Cunningham and Nagelkop ably accompanied. Mr. W. Wallington, the excellent stage manager, well earned a special word of praise.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Important to Advertisers, Secretaries of Societies, and all our Correspondents.

Owing to the Christmas Holidays this year falling on Thursday and Friday (December 25th and 26th), advertisers, correspondents, and our readers generally, should note that any communications for insertion in our issue dated December 27, should reach us NOT LATER THAN MONDAY (Dec. 22nd), as our December 27th issue must go to press on the Tuesday morning, December 23rd. Any communications arriving after Monday MAY HAVE TO BE HELD OVER.

A PEEP INTO THE FUTURE (?)

Our artist has dreamed of a blissful time when troubles due to non-feeding hens will be unknown—because hens to feed the youngsters will not then be needed!

To Colonial and Foreign Cage Bird Societies.

We would point out that "Cage Birds Annual" has a very extensive circulation abroad, so that particulars of all Colonial and Foreign societies should appear in the "Directory of Cage Bird Clubs and Associations" included therein. We shall be glad if secretaries of clubs in the Colonies, America, etc., will send on to us full details of their societies (place and time of meeting, subscription, etc.). A full list of the members, their names and addresses, would also be appreciated; or a show catalogue giving these latter details would answer our purpose. We should also be glad to have the addresses of bird-keepers abroad who are not members of any society, and particulars of the varieties of Canaries or other birds they are interested in.

A Fancier in China.

On page 538 we publish a photograph of Mr. J. L. Newton, which was taken in China. This photo was sent us by Mr. T. J. Hose, the secretary of Clapham C.B.S., and in an accompanying letter he says:—

"I am enclosing a letter I have received during the past week from an old fancier friend of mine, who went out to China about 18 months ago, and for this I am indebted to the fact of my photo being published in Cage Birds along with the report of our show, as although before he went away he promised to write to me, particularly with regard to the birds he met out there, he had never done so, nor sent his address. I shall now be able to write him and try and keep him up to the mark. This incident is only one more which goes to prove the world-wide circulation of Cage Birds, and how it keeps alive the fancier 'fever' of an old birdy man." Mr. Newton, in his letter, remarks: "Although I am a long way off, I am still a subscriber to our popular paper, Cage Birds."

Corrections in Show Reports.

At Brighton Mr. A. Cooke won 2nd in A.O.V. Novice, not Ward as reported. At Musselburgh Messrs. Heron and McNairn won 2nd in dark Mules, not Brown.

Winning Hybrids Change Hands.

I have sold my winning Canary-Bullfie to Messrs. Hughes Bros., of Carnarvon, writes Mr. G. Edwards (Leominster). Also my Greenfinch-Bullfinch (diploma winner at Bradford Show) to Mr. M. A. Wilson, Pannal, and I wish their owners every success.

On with the Old Love.

I am entering the cage bird Fancy again after an absence of eight years abroad, writes Mr. J. Nicholson (Maryport). I am going into my old hobby, which has been my life study, the breeding of Mules and Hybrids, also Plainhead Norwich Canaries. I have been appointed to judge at Workington show, Jan. 1st.

An Error of the Railway Co.

At Frome show my birds were not competing, writes Mr. J. Thomas (Ambler Thorn). They were entered and sent to the show in due course, but instead of being delivered at Frome, landed back here on the day of show. Evidently, owing to a mistake on the part of the railway officials, they were turned back at some point of the journey.

Our Painting Competition.

A Prize for Artistic Bird-Keepers.

(See frontispiece this week.)

Following our usual custom at Christmastide, our Frontispiece this week is designed to be coloured. We offer a cash prize of one guinea for the best attempt at colouring the same which reaches us from one of our readers on or before Friday, January 9th.

The medium (to be employed (oil, water-colour, or crayon) is left to the discretion of the competitor. The finished attempt should be packed flat, or rolled in a tube, and have the sender's name and address written on the back.

The whole of the front page must be coloured, not merely the frontispiece (centre picture) alone.

In this competition entries are received only on the understanding that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as final.

My Long-Tailed Grassfinches;

This article is No. 42 of the new series entitled "Through a Birdroom Window," being personal birdy experiences Related by that eminent aviculturist the Rev. C. D. FARRAR.

WHEN you want a new bird, as an old friend used to say to me, you must use every possible means of finding it. Pull every bell, and knock at every door; you never know where Luck lives! One day I saw an advertisement to the effect that at a certain address a pair of Long-tailed Grassfinches were for sale. This was many years ago, when this species was exceedingly rare, and I sent off a wire saying I would take them; but the next day I got a post card with the laconic sentence: "Sold." I felt as disgusted as a gourmet who, sitting down to some favourite dish, is robbed of appetite by finding the corpse of a cockroach in it. The importation of these Australian finches is so strange and erratic that one never knows when they may turn up. At times they come over in crowds, so as to be almost a drug in the market, at other times years will go by and not one appear. When, therefore, I missed my chance I was almost inclined to say what Tacitus did of a good Political Constitution, that it was a thing to be hoped for rather than a possibility!

The Weekly Race for Bargains!

Still, I kept my eyes well skinned and a telegraph form always handy in case luck should come my way. It is always an exciting time, when CAGE BIRDS comes on a Friday, to race through the advertisement columns for bargains, and to wonder whether you will be able to get them. Many a time you fail. In spite of all your expedition; another has stepped down before you; sometimes, again, you are lucky, and secure the prize. One Friday morning I opened my CAGE BIRDS and learnt that a certain dealer was expecting a consignment of 50 pairs of Masked Grassfinches, and I determined that I would do my best to get at least one pair, so to this end I ordered two. If I had said one I should probably have got none; having said two I got two.

When they reached me, I found they were in lovely condition, and I was captivated at once by their quiet sober beauty. For those who have not been fortunate enough to see Poephila Acuticauda in the flesh I will append a brief description. They are much smaller than a Parson Finch, and not so stoutly built, and of much the same shade of brown. The head has a black mask over the nose and extending under the chin; there is a triangular black patch at the end of the breast; the rump is white, and the tail, as the name implies, ends in a sharp point; the beak is yellow, the colour varying in depth in different individuals. The upper and under tail coverts white; legs and feet coral red.

And very Nice, too!

I was so pleased with my new arrivals that, like Oliver Twist, I was determined to ask for more! I wrote off again, but the consignment had all been snapped up. Being in Hull one day about this time I, of course, had a look round for bird shops. I came across one in a back street near the docks, in which I caught sight of about half a dozen P. Acuticauda, decidedly the worse for wear. I went in and bought them, though I was guiltily reminded of the saying of a little girl I once read about. "Aunt Huldy," she said, suddenly, "it's just like Troy Gilbert said, you go and hunt up homes for all the pretty children, an' the nice children, an' you just keep the old ugly ones, like me, that nobody'll have."

About the time of which I am writing, several friends wrote me little notes telling me of how they had been fortunate enough to get hold of some Long-tails, and hinting in most offensive terms that they intended to breed them shortly. These letters annoyed me greatly. Do you remember in the story of Monsieur Reynard how the recreant excuse for gobbling up the poor harmless lamb was that he looked so fat and contented and pleased with himself? That is the way the self-satisfied people always make me feel, and I determined that if I could I would be beforehand with my correspondents.

"February fill-dyke" was the time when the Long-tails reached me, so that there was ample time for them to recuperate after their long voyage from Australia. I put them all in a big indoor cage, in a cold room, and carefully studied their form in order to determine the sexes. So far as I can tell, there is little or no difference between the cocks and the hens, except that perhaps the cock is slightly bigger and the tail a little more elongated. Some birds have yellow beaks and some more reddy, but I am sure this is not an indication of sex but simply a peculiarity of individual birds, just as some of us have straight noses and some turnups.

It is well to remember that most of the Australian finches like sleeping quarters; they have a strong objection to passing the night on a cold and draughty perch, so I always provide them with small cardboard boxes, snugly lined with hay, to which they always retire at nightfall. It rather curls up the points of their tails, but that can't be helped. By the way my birds kept together in couples I quite hoped that I had at least three pairs, and my hopes rose accordingly.

A Temptation that led to a Fall.

One day a friend came to see me, and he begged so hard that I would sell him some Long-tails that I had not the heart to refuse. The price that he offered was so tempting that I determined to only keep one pair and let him have the rest.

In catching the birds I must have in some way caught up birds that were not mated, though they were cocks and hens all right, for the way in which they disagreed was painful to witness. It reminded me of what an old man remarked of a married neighbour, who is a harassed, worried-looking person. Someone had spoken of marriage as being made in Heaven, and Job remarked that the idea "allus bested" him when he saw such a couple as Mr. and Mrs. X. But after a few moments' thought his face brightened with a sudden idea. "Mayhap," he said, "t' Almighty wur lookin' t'other way."

In preparing for my summer campaign I realised fully that Luck is the prize-giver to hard work and plenty of it. I also realized that I was getting older each year, and had less and less opportunities of doing things. Time is a commodity one gets to value more when one has used up yards of it than when it stood in bales fresh and unopened at the start of life. One sweet morning in April I turned out the Long-tails into one of my small sheltered garden aviaries, and left them to their own devices. There were all sorts of inducements to nest, artificial and natural. For those who preferred nature there were lovely growing shrubs, boxes, privet, elder and the like; for those of more artificial habits there were boxes, cocoa-nut husks and old straw hats. These latter are great favourites with all Australian finches. You cut a tiny round hole in the crown, and nail the hat up against the wall by the brim, and before long it has found a pair of tenants.

A Sign that Business is Meant.

For a while the Long-tails merely enjoyed life, and then one day I saw the cock dancing up and down on a twig with a bit of hay in his beak, a sure sign that he was ready to go to nest. For some time the hen would have nothing to do with his advances. She seemed as wilful as a stalk of ling. After about a fortnight she seemed to grow more kind, and more than once I caught them sitting side by side in a nest box. My hopes began to rise, and Hope is about as helpful a companion as Certainty.

In a few days there could be no doubt that the birds were nesting, as I could see them carrying hay into the box, especially in the early morning; but although I tried to see if eggs were laid I could not, for the inside of that nest was as black as a wolf's mouth. I did not like to look more than once for fear of hurting the birds' feelings, for I am possessed of a heart as tender as spring meadow grass.

In about a week the hen disappeared into the box and began to sit steadily, but I was by no means certain that success would crown her efforts. We all fear what waits us at the bending of the road, and before long I had good cause to do so. As I went out one morning early to feed, the strange excited action of the cock attracted my attention, and I felt instinctively that something had happened. Either the eggs had hatched, or there had been a catastrophe. My fears flew to the latter contingency. Events justified my fear, for looking carefully about I discovered, after a few minutes' search, the poor little hen hanging head downwards and quite dead. A bit of fibre had got twined fast round her leg, and escape had been impossible. On looking at the nest there were five little white eggs on the point of hatching. As I looked I was reminded of that oracular saying o the immortal Mr. Poyser. "It's your dead chicks take the longest to hatch." I believe I have those eggs somewhere now, but they are still hatching.

Only a Pleasant Dream.

In vain I advertised for another hen! some fellows have a gift of finding things. They have a gift for collecting pewter snuff boxes, everywhere they discover a pewter snuff box. I couldn't find one if I tried for a year. It is the same with birds. When you want one you can never get it; when you have plenty they come over in thousands. Alack, my ladder had broken down, and I found myself like Almaschar—I woke from my pleasing dream to find my hopes shattered.

But one morning when I opened my avicultural magazine I read how one of our members, Mr. R. A. Todd, had been successful in getting a nest of Long-tails, and I saw all my splendid dreams dissolve like Ariel's pageant. Whatever I might do in the future I could never be the first to breed Poephila acuticauda, but I am never disconraged for long—so on I go to my next fall!

A Chill; or a Broken Heart?

After a time my widowed cock contracted a chill. I think his health had been failing ever since he lost his wife. Day by day I watched him growing weaker and weaker, and knew that I could do nothing. I could not even prepare him for the end, which I felt was so near, as the old woman did her dying husband. A friend of mine was taking a Mission for a Vicar near Bolton, in Lancashire. As they were walking together down the street they met an old woman, and the Vicar asked after her husband, who was lying sick, saying: "I am afraid he is very ill." "Yes, sir," she answered, "but I do my best for him. I read the Burial Service to him every day to get him used to it."

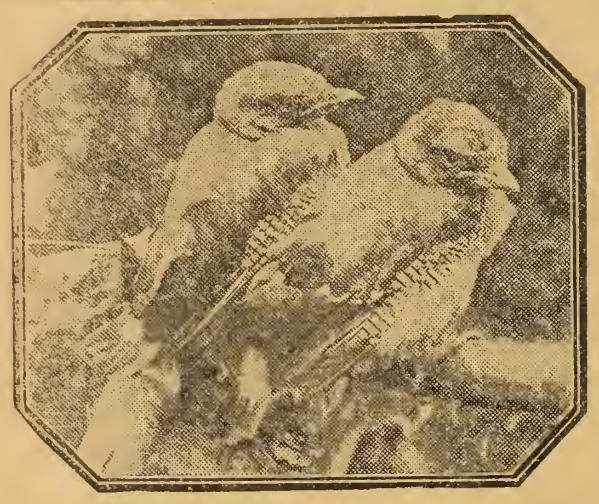
Just one word more before I close (as old Doctor Hover used to say when he was coming into the straight but still a good way off the Benediction), never neglect green food. The simplest way is to sow canary seed in small boxes, and when it is up put it into the aviary and allow the birds to eat their fill.

Long-tails are very frugal feeders. All that they need is canary seed and millet, good sharp grit, and pounded cuttle-fish bone. And now I think I will end, for if I go on much longer you will be saying what the late Montague Williams used to say of policemen: that the longer a policeman was in the force the less you could believe him.

The Art of Staging British Birds:

By C. PRIOR (Ropley).

This leading exhibitor and judge contrasts the past with the present, and offers much good advice on the proper exhibiting of birds.



THE art of staging British birds has made such giant strides towards perfection during the past decade, and the importance of expert staging in these day of "topping" birds and hot competition has been so amply demonstrated, that it is really surprising to find that even now there are laggards who have failed to grasp the fact that indifferent staging involves the missing of the tremendous hoist towards the top notch which proper staging gives.

It is even more surprising to note that remissness in this vital matter is far more rampant in the sections devoted to novices and amateurs than in the classes for open competition. One might almost be inclined to look for, and disposed to condone, some slight falling away on the part of the old hands, whose feats have been making bird history for a generation. In their case victory is no novelty. The delirious joy of their first big win is bedimmed with the passage of time. Success now, when it comes, is almost a matter of course; defeat does not spell despair. Their enthusiasm is deeply rooted indeed; but the keen edge of it has become blunted.

Where the Novice Lags Behind.

It should not be thus with the novice. He yet has his spurs to win. The path has been smoothed for him. The spade work has been done. He is provided with devices which place him on an equal footing with his competitors—other novices. He has been taught to select, to tame, to moult, and to exhibit his specimens. Yet, with exceptions, his methods of staging are reminiscent rather of a score or so years ago than of the present day. Upon the old hands still devolves the task of maintaining the high standard they have themselves reached in the one purely mechanical side of bird exhibiting, viz., staging. The keenness of the novice is open to challenge. Let him bestir himself and look into the matter.

In the old days the pioneers of expert staging were compelled to design, and frequently also to construct their own cages, and the task of staging anything like a team was one of some magnitude. The stock article (labelled show cage) of the average cagemaker was a badly proportioned box with a closely wired front, traversed by two or three always badly placed and often clumsily bound cross wires. There was a drinking hole in the middle of the front, no division for seed, no provision whatever for cleaning out, and recolouring or enamelling could only be carried out through the 4½in. door. A concoction of most unaesthetic blue was daubed inside which could be removed with a duster like chalk from a blackboard. The outside was covered neatly enough with dull spirit black. Sometimes one, sometimes two odd pieces of stick, usually placed two-thirds of the way up, formed the perch accommodation, and —there was your show cage.

A Serious Obstacle in the Old Days.

Nor could you at that time induce the cagemaker to fall in with your views as to improvements. He might or might not undertake to make one or two to your special design at a very much enhanced figure. If he did so condescend, ten to one he would fail to get them ready in time for your show (and shows were fewer then than now) and a hundred to one he would leave out something you wanted put in, or put in something you wanted left out. Moveable fronts were to him an abomination. Seed divisions were needless—what was the floor for? And why have the wires set wider? The bird might get out! Enamelling was out of the question; he could not by any means be entrusted with so delicate a task as that. In fact it paid better to buy his stock article, take it home, and remake it to your own liking.

That is what many enterprising exhibitors of that time did. The first step towards reconstruction would be to adjust the dimensions. In the old stock show cage these were: Length and height, about 12 inches; width, 5½ to 6 inches. An inch off the length and a couple off the height brought about a vast improvement in proportion. The sloping false top was then inserted, and an entirely new and moveable front fitted in, the only available wire being that sold in coils, requiring patient and strenuous toil in the straightening (punched bar and straight lengths of wire came later). The inside was enamelled pale blue, the outside black; improved perches were inserted in more suitable positions, and the transformation was complete.

AN ENGLISH FANCIER OUT IN CHINA.

This photograph, kindly sent us by Mr. T. J. Hose, of Clapham, was taken in a Chinese studio and depicts Mr. J. L. Newton (on the right) now at Shanhaikwan, N. China, and a friend of his, a Greek, an hotel proprietor in the town. Mr. Newton is a regular reader of "CAGE BIRDS." See note on page 536.

Before long these modest improvements began to attract attention. Remarks would be heard at the shows. "So-and-So's is a good bird; how would he look in one of So-and-So's cages?" Whereupon every So-and-So would endeavour to go one better than every other So-and-So, and then commenced the first movement in the direction of present day perfection, which perfection is now to be analysed for the instruction of the lagging novice.

The First Essential of a Show-Cage.

The first essential in a show cage is proportionateness, and the advantages of a properly proportioned show cage are threefold. Firstly, it is pleasing in its appropriateness, and attractive to the eye. Secondly, it permits the exact adjustment of the inside fixtures; i.e., the perches and the seed compartment. Thirdly, it combines the maximum of accommodation with the minimum of space — a very important consideration indeed.

A cage measuring eleven inches long, five inches wide, and ten inches high, is quite a small affair. Small enough, in fact, to do justice to a Siskin or Redpoll; just right for a Goldfinch or Twite, and at the same time not too small to allow a big Linnet ample room to travel to and fro and to turn about without the slightest discomfort or embarrassment. Half-an-inch added to the width will give you, without any sacrifice of proportionateness an ideal size for Bullfinch, Chaffinch, Bramblefinch, Greenfinch, and the smaller Buntings. Thus the cage designed with an eye to proportion covers the whole range of seedeaters from Siskin to Greenfinch, with just a small variation in width only.

Apart from the question of staging, there is a big advantage in this standardizing of length and height when the time comes for packing these cages into case or hamper. A light case made to fit exactly, say, six of the wider size placed back to back, will also do for six of the smaller, or any proportion of each size; the only thing needed being a few wads of paper tucked in the end to hold the lot tight.

I have said that the first essential in a show cage is proportionateness. A first essential also is correct perching. This is no paradox, the fact being that, in the evolution of the perfect show cage, the cage itself has been built round the perches. The badly proportioned cage, too high for its length, lends itself almost inevitably to the fatal error of placing the perches too much upstairs. This error is impossible, other than by wilful blundering, in fitting perches to a properly proportioned cage.

There will be two perches, and only two, and they will be fixed at a height of three inches from the bottom—outside measurement. There will be a space of three and a half inches, again outside measurement, between the left side of the cage and the left perch, and then a jump of another three and a half inches to the right perch.

Is Greenfood Harmful?

By T. JOHNSON (Southport)

I RECENTLY got into hot water over an article I wrote in which I advocated the use of green food all the year round, or during as much of the year as a fancier can get it clean and wholesome. When I advised that, I knew that I was advancing something heterodox, something out of the rut of the general run of fanciers' ideas. A retrospective view of opinions expressed in the past brings to my mind the fact that it has always been usual with the older fanciers to withhold green food after the young have left their parents. I reason these things out for myself; and I could not see how green food could be of benefit to youngsters in the nest while it was detrimental afterwards.

A Very Thorough Experiment.

I experimented with sprays of shepherd's purse, seeding grass, watercress, sunflower heads, and green maize from the garden, and I was completely satisfied that instead of having harmful effects it was just the reverse. This last breeding season I have gone the whole hog, as it were, and have given lettuce, whole roots of dandelion, groundsel, all kinds of seedy green meat, sunflower heads, green maize, and green spray millet, besides green oats, barley, wheat, etc. My birds have a predilection for sunflower heads, green maize, and lettuce; and I have given them plenty, and haven't lost a youngster from any cause since leaving their parents.

New ideas launched on the Fancy have many obstacles to negotiate, many bogeys to live down; before they get to the 18th hole, they are stymied by an inherent conservatism and prejudice. "What has been good enough for my forefathers is good enough for me" seems to be the usual feeling.

Recently, I had a young fancier come to me with a tale of woe. He had a couple of his best youngsters ill and wanted to know what to do. I asked him for particulars, and I knew they were suffering from indigestion, dyspepsia, or whatever the doctors call it. I know that it is caused by the organs not performing their duties as they should, and failing to assimilate the food. I asked him if he gave any green food, and he had the answer pat, as if he anticipated the question: "Oh no! It can't be that, because I haven't given them any." And he looked at me as if to say "Do you think I am such a fool?" I asked him why. He answered that Mr. So-and-So (mentioning a big breeder) always advised the withholding of green food after —

The Birds looked well on it, too.

I broke in with an expletive that the Rev. Farrar would hardly have hurled "through his birdroom window." "Here," I replied, "come into my room." It so happened that his call synchronised with my midday visit to the birdroom. "See," I said, "that is my answer to Mr. What's-his-name." And I proceeded to strip the leaves off a lettuce the size of a cabbage, and put them into the flights containing the youngsters, reserving the tenderest parts for those hens feeding young; and those young which had only recently been weaned. "That is what I do with my birds every day; do you see any ailing?" He had to acknowledge that they were "in the pink," and that he was surprised.

"Nay," I answered, "the surprising thing is how young Canaries manage to keep in health when deprived of one of the chief factors which keep the blood purified and the organs in working condition. Go home and give those two youngsters of yours two drops each of rape oil in the beak, and salts in water for two days. Let them have tender green food and milk sop, and if they are not right in a week I will eat my hat." Is it necessary to add that I was not called upon to perform this gastronomical feat?

Phonograph Records of the Songs of Birds:

By W. E Teschemaker, B.A. (Teignmouth).

How a Brave Attempt to Secure One went Down to Failure!

OUR excellent Editor has intimated to me that he will risk the circulation of CAGE BIRDS by allowing me to contribute to our 'Xmas number, and, with even greater nerve, has permitted me to choose a subject. I always think that the real difficulty for those of us who are asked to write on avicultural matters is the choice of a subject. Seeing, however, that anyone can always acquire more information about birds in a day than he could possibly transfer to paper in a week—simply by using his eyes—it certainly ought not to be hard to find something to say on any subject; and yet we have the extraordinary and, to me, inexplicable, fact that week after week, year after year, we come across the same old remarks about the same old birds which have done duty so many times. How is this? I will on this occasion try to avoid this common failing by choosing a subject which has not as yet become hackneyed, and which has been suggested to me by some recent queries in the Correspondence Column.

A True Nightingale Record Discovered.

A couple of years since I called the attention of our readers to the fact that a gramophone record of the song of the Nightingale (as alleged) had been produced in Germany; and in due course I succeeded in obtaining it. It proved to be a record of the song of the Sprosser; the notes were remarkably loud and clear, but there was very little variety in the changes. I passed it on to Mr. Weston, who has, I believe, lent it for use at various entertainments. There is, however, as I subsequently found by chance, another and quite distinct record extant, which really produces the notes of the Nightingale, but, as played on a friend's machine, the notes were not very distinct.

I also sent up to our Editor a cutting from a well-known daily paper which gravely informed us that an operator had been successful in obtaining some gramophone records of the Nightingale's song in a wood near London in the month of March! This was quite funny for three reasons; in the first place the operator must have been a very lucky man to have come across a Nightingale in song in that month; secondly, he must have been a very smart man to have secured a record under these conditions; and thirdly, as I shall shortly explain, he must have been a remarkably strong man to have carried the necessary apparatus to that wood.

A Visit to the Gramophone Company.

After hearing these German records I began to take an interest in the subject and thought I should like to try to secure some records of the song of my own birds, so I paid a visit to the local agent of the Gramophone Company, Mr. Poole, to whom I must tender my best thanks for kind advice and assistance. Mr. Poole did not profess to know anything personally of the method of taking gramophone records, but he had himself taken some successful phonograph records, and he explained the modus operandi to me. He also gave me a letter of introduction to the Gramophone Company, and recommended me to go to their head office and see for myself how the thing was done. When, therefore, I was next in London I made my way to the imposing offices of the company, and sent up my card to the manager of the Record Department, whom I found not only most courteous but quite ready to offer me some good advice.

A young Cuckoo sitting on the side of its home, a Hedge Sparrow's nest. Note the remarkable discrepancy in size. (Photo by J. H. Symonds.)

He expressed sympathy with my wish to obtain some bird-song records, and fully assented to my suggestion that there was no valid reason why we should have to obtain such records from Germany, but, when I enquired whether it would be possible to hire a recording apparatus, he smiled, and gravely informed me that the machine weighed more than three tons, and that there was only one in the country. He was good enough, however, to say that if I cared to bring a singing Nightingale to London, I might have the services of an operator and try my luck. He concluded with a most sensible remark, which I was destined to find even less than the truth, namely, that the fact that there were so very few successful records of bird-song showed that the experiment was likely to prove a very difficult one. As I bowed myself out, I reflected that I knew even less about the subject than I thought I knew. But there is always hope for the avieulturist who has convinced himself that he knows nothing; he may learn.

How Phonograph Records are Made.

As there seemed no immediate probability of securing a gramophone record of the song of my Nightingale, I thought the next best thing was to try what could be done with the phonograph, so I paid another visit to Mr. Poole and obtained some further hints. Many persons think that there is about as much difference between a gramophone and a phonograph as there is between a alligator and a crocodile, but, as a matter of fact, they are very different machines. Any phonograph can be turned into a recording machine in a very few moments by simply removing the diaphragm and needle from the horn and substituting a cutting tool and special diaphragm, and the cost of this fitting is only twelve shillings and sixpence; the wax cylinders cost only a few pence each.

The wax cylinder is slipped on to a revolving drum and, by means of an endless thread on a revolving shaft, the cutting tool is moved from one end of the cylinder to the other, in just the same way as a lathe works; it should be noted that the cutter is hinged and cuts only by its own weight, but the groove which it cuts is deeper or shallower in proportion to the vibrations of the diaphragm (to which the cutter is rigidly attached). The cutter can be lifted from the cylinder, or "blank" at any moment and held up as long as necessary—a great advantage in recording the song of a bird, which, as we know, generally consists of snatches of song with long intervals between.

When a record has been made, I learn from Mr. Poole that it is transferred to a machine with a very large horn and played to a number of recording machines, and in this way many duplicates are simultaneously made from the original record. Mr. Poole also told me that he had tried horns of all sizes for recording, including one almost large enough to stand inside, and had found that the best results were obtained with a small horn.

THE MEXICAN HAWFINCH.

The head of the male (lower figure) is black, and the breast has a patch of vivid crimson. He is a handsome bird. The female is garbed in varying shades of brown, streaked with black.

MY CUCKOOS

and other Bird Pets.

By Mrs. E. M. SARJEANT (Worcester).

I THOUGHT readers might like to know something more about my Cuckoos. I noticed that Mr. Fulljames told a correspondent that his Cuckoo might never be able to feed itself in captivity. If a small penny pie-dish is put into the cage containing a portion of bread soaked in cold milk (with which, during the winter, half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion with hypophosphates is mixed) and, say, a quarter of a hard-boiled egg, a little shredded cabbage or savoy, raw, and about a cubic inch of beef, also raw, cut up into small, longish pieces, the Cuckoo will perch on the side of the dish and help itself. I have never had one refuse to feed itself when the beak hardened. This is a longer process with some than others. I have one 1912, and one 1913 bird alive at the present time. I lost the other 1912 bird a short time ago.

Eyes like those of a Sleep-Walker.

That brings me to another subject, the migration "fever." I have noticed that the same sort of restlessness comes on all the migratory birds that I have, the Cuckoo, the Tit-Lark, and the Red-winged Thrush. The "fever" of flapping the wings so fast that the motion is quite uncountable attacks them in the night, and their eyes are like the eyes of a sleep-walker, wide open, but neither recognition nor expression in them. This makes me think that instinct has a lot to do with it, and perhaps magnetic forces. There are some people who can turn to the north, like the needle of a compass; wherever they may be, at any time, day or night. This is a natural gift sometimes, and sometimes acquired. The old Cuckoos migrate long before the young ones, so the old ones cannot show the latter the way.

I had been breeding mealworms, and had a small but successful box, and when, just before last Xmas, I found the beetles dying I moved the ones that were left alive into a fresh box as the old box smelt and was wet at the bottom. I was at first going to throw the meal out of it away; but on second thoughts I remembered an answer to a question which said one may have beetles and mealworms alive at the same time. So I kept the meal and it is well I did, for the little box is now again full of worms of all sizes.

I have another new pet, called "Tiny," a little Wagtail I reared from a nest brought me out of a field. The boys called them "nettle creepers," and were quite astonished when long-legged "Tiny" turned out to be a Grey Wagtail. It is one of the tamest and most sensible birds I have had—comes to call, and will stand on a sauce bottle close to me if I put a little bit of egg or meat on it and call. If he is asleep perched on the top of the curtains when I go to draw them, I only say, "It's all right Tiny; don't be frightened." He looks as knowing as anything, and only just moves round to the other side till I have drawn them and then goes back.

A Seven-Year Old Skylark lays Eggs.

My Skylark, which is seven years old, built twice this year, and laid three eggs each time. I changed one lot for some eggs that were brought me, but they proved as clear as her own. The second time, however, two little Skylarks were brought me, which I put in her nest. They were just about old enough to begin to eat. She was as proud of them as could be, and they are all friendly together in one corner of the bird-room by day and sleep in a row in another corner by night.

When I came here three winters ago a little Hedge Sparrow was let out of a cage by mistake. I had had it a twelve-month. To this very day it comes down and feeds with our chickens and answers me when I call. Also a little hen Chaffinch I have in the bird-room knows and answers it; they were "mates" together. It is a marvel the cats don't get this Hedge Sparrow; it is so tame. In the season it had a little mate and used to bring her to feed, but now it comes alone again.

YARNS OF THE BIRD-STUFFER:

Related by NICOL SIMPSON, F.Z.S.

THE double-barrelled word "bird stuffing" is not a becoming word in many ways. The modern word is taxidermy, which is far better. To speak of a man as a "bird-stuffer" may mean two things—either he pushes something into birds, or stuffs himself with birds. As it so happens, an expert taxidermist does not actually stuff birds' skins. He fashions a replica of the carcase he cuts out, and herein much of a taxidermist's art lies. Neither does the man stuff himself with "beasts, birds and reptiles." If the average taxidermist cooked and dined upon the miscellaneous fauna he passed through his hands, I guess his days would not be long upon the land of his birth. Usually there is too much corrosive sublimate and arsenical soap about such an establishment to make even a Grouse or Pheasant palatable.

A Novel Method of Rearing the Family.

Yet the writer can put on record a fact that might seem incredible to the man in the street. In the case referred to, the taxidermist had had three wives and three families, and on being teased as a much-married man he invariably retorted that "the kids were all brought up on the insides of the skins." By this he meant that the wife for the time being cooked the carcasses of birds and mammals he had sent him for preservation. And it was well known locally that this man never buried the body of a game-bird or animal of any description.

The writer was dining one evening in a Dundee club when this very fact was related. Everyone wondered, of course, and each had something to say on the subject. It was left, however, to a ruddy-faced gentleman to close the discussion. He had been asked by a friend over the table if he cared for stuffed birds. His reply was, "Yes, as a rule, but I prefer them always with some good gravy along with the stuffing."

A Man who made "Bastard" Birds.

In another Forfarshire town the writer was acquainted with a taxidermist who seldom gave an animal under his hands its proper title. The more common beasts, birds and reptiles, of course, he knew, but the others he simply guessed at. It was during one of those curious and unexplained irruptions of Sand Grouse to this country that this artist received one of these birds to "set up." As these birds were rare the writer called at this man's shop to see a real Sand Grouse in the flesh. While handling the carcase the Taxidermist remarked:

"It's a rather scarce bird in our quarter. Some folk call it Saint Palladius, but others again seem to think it a breed between a sandy Pigeon and a Swallow."

Pointing to a rather nicely preserved Kestrel Hawk on one of the shelves, I asked if it was for sale. He answered: "It belongs to the minister, and he is getting it stuffed because it is a celestial Hawk."

A rather peculiar feature of this man's trade consisted in making "bastard-birds," as one of the writers to a scientific journal named these. These bastard-birds were nothing more nor less than the bodies of one species adorned with the heads of other species. For instance, a common Sparrow would appear in his window with its head replaced by that of a Tom-tit; a Song Thrush would appear with the head of a Blackbird; a Hawk would exhibit a Coot's head; and so on. This man declared he sold dozens of these specimens to one of an orthodox character. People, he said, wanted "something to ornament their houses," and it was this demand that caused him to cater for this rather curious ornamentation.

Most people who take an interest in taxidermy have heard of the old lady who carried her aged and infirm parrot to the taxidermist when it died from sheer old age. The "stuffer" did his best with the material at his disposal, but in less than six months the feathers began to drop from the cured skin. The matron became concerned about this and visited the shopman.

"Yes, miss; the bird was all right when I had it, but Parrots must moult their feathers once a year, and I guess yours has just started."

Somerset Men Excel in Nature Knowledge.

During a visit to Somerset the writer was rather impressed with the evident knowledge of wild life the natives of that county possessed as compared with mid-Scotland. Not very far from Yeovil the writer came across a taxidermist of no mean order. In his shop window he had two Owls set on cross-sticks, so I interviewed him anent the same. I found the Owls were heirlooms from his predecessor in trade, but all the same this man knew more of the flora and fauna of Southern England than can be said of such a man in a similar position north of the Tweed. He had studied ornithology, he told me, since boyhood—he was a man I would surmise of 60 odd years—and knew the works of Wilson, Audubon, Yarrell, Macgillivray, Seebohm, Morris, and others in so far as related to the birds of Europe and America.

While I talked with him he told me it was quite common in his district to split the tongue of a Starling to make the bird speak. In Scotland this unnecessary and disgustingly barbarous practice must be performed by a "sixpence," i.e., a silver coin of the realm for the time being.

Why Hybrids are Usually Unfertile:

Instructive views advanced by that eminent scientist, Sir Ray Lankester, K.C.B., F.R.S.

The question—still a disputed one with many bird fanciers—as to whether Hybrids have been proved to be fertile, is always of interest, and our readers will, we think, find both instruction and food for thought in the appended extracts bearing on this subject, which are taken from "Science From an Easy Chair," as the scholarly and authoritative weekly contributions by Sir Ray Lankester, K.C.B., F.R.S., to the "Daily Telegraph," are entitled.

We may be permitted to say, perhaps, by way of preface, that in our opinion the occasional fertility of Finch Hybrids has been established beyond reasonable doubt. We accept at least two recent instances as authentic, viz., young from a cock Linnet-Canary Mule (or Hybrid) mated to a hen Canary, and from a cock Goldfinch mated to a hen Goldfinch-Canary Mule. As will be seen, one passage in Sir Ray Lankester's article might be held to lend colour to the view that fertility is more likely to occur if of the pair experimented with the Hybrid be the female.

Ova (plural), ovum, egg, and egg-cell, indicate the germ-cell produced by the female. Spermatozoa (plural), spermatozoon (sperms, or sperm, for shortness), indicate the germ-cell produced by the male. The germ-cell is a reproductive cell which develops (after fertilisation) into a new individual. Pollen-dust is the powder which, in a flowering plant, bears the male-cells. "Chemical incompatability" may be broadly explained as indicating two differently constituted bodies which refuse to blend—for instance, oil and water. "Egg-covering" indicates the thin "skin" surrounding the ovum.—EDITOR "C.B."

The Belief in the Extraordinary.

THE subject of the fertility or otherwise of Hybrids is, this distinguished scientist remarks in his opening sentence, one of the most interesting to mankind, and is surrounded by extraordinary prejudice, sentiment and ignorance—traditional fancies of the most unwarrantable kind are current, and hold their ground with tenacity, even at the present day.

Some 250 years ago, and earlier, in fact, ... any queer-looking animal brought from remote lands, and any misshapen monstrosity born of cattle, sheep, dogs, or men, was "explained," and confidently regarded as a "hybrid," the result of a "cross" or irregular coupling of two distinct species of animals to which the "monster" presented some fanciful resemblance. The belief in the existence of such extraordinary hybrids is still common among so-called "well-educated" people. I have with difficulty avoided causing annoyance and offence to a friend, a celebrated painter, by refusing to admit that a deformed cat, of which he gave me an account, was a hybrid between a cat and a rabbit, and a very eminent person whom I was conducting round the galleries of the Natural History Museum, never forgave me for declining to endorse his statement, as we stood in front of the specimen of the Okapi of the Congo Forest, that it is a hybrid between the giraffe and the zebra.

Fertile Hybrids are Very Rare.

It is a well-established fact that the various "kinds" of animals and of plants do not breed promiscuously with one another. The individuals of a "species" only breed with other individuals of that "species." They do not even breed with the individuals of an allied species. So nearly universal is this rule that it was for a long time held by naturalists to be an absolute definition of a "species" that it is a group of individuals capable of producing fertile young by breeding with one another and incapable of producing fertile young by mating with individuals of another such group, which were, therefore, held to constitute a distinct species.

It is the fact—ascertained by careful observation of natural occurrences and by experiment—that, in spite of the almost absolute law of general truth to the effect that the members of a species (whether of plant or animal) only produce fertile offspring by mating with members of that same species, yet there are rare instances known in which individuals of two distinct but allied species have mated and produced fertile offspring. The cases in which such unions have resulted in the production of offspring, but in which the offspring so produced prove to be infertile—that is incapable of producing offspring in their turn—are much more numerous.

An important distinction has also to be made between cases of either fertile or infertile hybrid-production which occur spontaneously in nature, and those in which man, by separating the parent animals or plants from their natural conditions of life, or by bringing about impregnation (as in "pollinating" one flower with the pollen-dust of another) succeeds in obtaining a "cross" or "hybrid," whether fertile or infertile, not known to occur in "wild" (that is, not humanly controlled) nature.

Fishes and Plants Supply Instances.

The rarest case would be that of the production of fertile hybrids in uncontrolled natural conditions. Such possibly occur in the case of some fishes in which the fertilisation of the eggs takes place in water, the fertilising microscopic sperms passing from the males like dust into the water, and thus reaching the eggs laid by the females. Occasionally hybrids are thus produced between some common fresh-water fishes—species of the same genus—and between species of flat fish, such as the turbot and the brill, though it is difficult to be sure that the rare hybrids so produced are fertile even if they attain to maturity. The same is true as to certain small flowering plants having distinct regions of natural distribution and occurrence. At the confines of the regions proper to two such species insects passing from one to the other do sometimes effect a reciprocal fertilisation of the two species, and a natural hybrid is the result. Here, again, it is difficult to follow the subsequent history of the hybrids, but it is believed that in some instances they are fertile, and that the hybrid race is only gradually merged by subsequent crossing into one or other of the parent species.

Not a single instance is on record of the production of a natural hybrid, whether fertile or infertile, between two species of the larger animals (such as between horse and ass or zebra and ass, or between lion and tiger or any of the species of cats, or between species of bears) or birds (such as Pheasants of various species, including the jungle cock, the wild original of our domestic fowl, or between various species of Ducks, various species of Geese, or between various species of the Grouse-birds).

The Influence Wielded by Man.

Nevertheless, in conditions brought about by man that is to say, confinement in cages or paddocks, or at any rate removal from their native climate and home—all the groups of species just cited commonly and frequently produce hybrids inter se, that is, one or more species of the horse group thus inter-breed with one another, so will certain species of cats, certain species of bears, many species of Pheasants, also of Ducks, of Geese, and of Grouse. In nearly every case the hybrids so produced are infertile; they will not mate with a similar hybrid, and even when mated with one of the parent species rarely produce offspring, though they sometimes do so.

The best cases of the production of fertile hybrids are between species of flowering plants brought to this country from widely separated regions. The surprising and instructive result has been obtained that a cross between two allied species (that is, of one and the same "genus") which will fail altogether, or "come to nothing," as infertile hybrids when the two species crossed are from the same or contiguous regions—will yield readily vigorous fertile hybrid offspring when the two species (always, of course, of one and the same genus) have their native homes in widely separate parts of the world—as, for instance, the Indian Himalaya range and the South American Andean range.

How the White Canary was Established in New Zealand.

Related by Mrs. MAUD M. MARTIN, of Wairarapa, in "Knowledge," of November, 1913.

In our Birthday Issue for 1912 (date January 13th) we published two photographs of White Canaries bred by Mrs. Martin, and from time to time letters from this lady have appeared in our columns concerning her birds. In the November issue of "Knowledge," that very excellent and instructive monthly journal devoted to scientific topics, Mrs. Martin gives in detail her breeding experiences, from which the appended notes are extracted. For the full set of tables readers interested should refer to the issue of "Knowledge" in question. In a preface to Mrs. Martin's contribution, Professor Dendy, F.R.S., remarks it affords "an excellent illustration of the wonderful power which the scientific study of heredity has placed at the disposal of those who wish to produce new and permanent varieties of plants or animals. White Canaries have, it is true, occasionally been obtained as sports by previous breeders, but I believe I am right in saying that no one has hitherto succeeded in establishing a pure white breed. That this has now been accomplished by an amateur, working alone in New Zealand, and without any special scientific training, shows how much may be expected in the future from the application of Mendelian principles."

DURING the season of 1908-9, a pure white hen Canary (having a grey tick on the left cheek) was hatched in Martinborough, Wellington, New Zealand, being a sport from ordinary buff parents — its mother being a buff hen with a black cap, and its father a buff cock with a green crest and green wing mark. In the same nest as the white sport were three other birds, all buffs, more or less marked with green. All the birds in this aviary were very much in-bred, and many of them were very pale in colour, being a creamy white in the nest feathers, but moulting brighter. One very pale cock bird (with a grey tick on the left cheek) was mate to most of the hens both young and old. The parent birds escaped after rearing their brood.

The white sport hen was bred by Miss Lee, of Martinborough, and I purchased it from her, as I intended, if possible, to produce from it a race of white Canaries breeding true to colour. To attain this end I determined to experiment on Mendel's lines, and bought as a mate for the white sport a buff cock, quite unrelated to her. From the mating of this pair in 1909-10, I reared three buff cocks and three buff hens. No "whites" appeared, which is, of course, what I expected. The white sport hen died before the next season, so I was unable to use her again, and was left with her young ones (the three buff cocks and three buff hens) to carry on the experiment. Some of them were clear and some variegated.

This splendid Tree Creeper was hand-reared by Mr. V. Wynn, the popular hon. sec. of the City and Suburban A.C.B., and won 1st prize and special for best British bird at the annual show of his society.

These three buff cocks and three buff hens I mated together in 1910-11, and obtained from them forty-eight buff chicks and eighteen white ones, proving their hybrid character (see Table 72). Nine of the "whites" were reared, six cocks and three hens, also I kept five buff hens to breed with the following year. The buff cocks I did not use for breeding, as I had not white hens enough to spare to test them with to see if they carried white blood. Also there would certainly be some dominants among them, and I did not want to increase my breeding operations or to multiply the buff birds—for which reason I did not use the buff hybrid cocks of the first generation again, but used only the white cocks as mates for all the hens the following year.

The three buff hens of 1909-10 (first hybrid generation) I mated in 1911-12 to their sons the white cocks of 1910-11 (second generation), and from them I obtained fourteen buff chicks and twenty-six white chicks.

The three white hens (1910-11, second generation) I mated to white cocks (1910-11, second generation) in 1911-12, and from them I obtained twenty-five white chicks, no buff ones appearing in the nests at all, apparently proving their recessive character (see Table 76). The six buff hens (1910-11, second generation) I mated to white cocks (1910-11, second generation) in 1911-12. Two of them gave me only buff birds, no white ones appearing in the nest at all, which looked as though they were dominants (see Table 77), the other four hens having sixteen buff chicks and twenty-seven white ones, evidently being hybrids, or impure dominants (see Table 78). The eggs were carefully numbered, and the young had number rings on their legs, so that there should be no mistaking the birds belonging to each pair.

I. 4 broods.	3 4 2 3	0 0 0 0	Apparently these two hens were dominants, as they gave no white chicks in any nest.
II. 3 broods.	3 3 4	0 0 0
	22	0	3rd Generation, 1912-12.

The white chicks are easily distinguished directly they are hatched, as their skin is a pale bright pink, quite unlike the ordinary yellow appearance of a common hatching. Very often (but not always) the hybrid chicks have a pinkish-yellowish body when first hatched, but this soon turns yellow, and is never the bright light pink of the white chick. Also the hybrid chicks are generally (but not always) very pale in the nest feathers, quite a creamy white, but becoming brighter yellow later, although many remain very pale, but not all of them.

It was on account of these two peculiarities of the hybrid birds that I mated two buff hens to the white cocks, as I suspected that they would have young white ones, which they both did have. Hen No. 1 (1907-8) I hatched in my own aviary, and she was almost white in the nest feathers and always continued very pale, and when mated to a Goldfinch gave me pied mules. Hen No. 2 (1909-10) had peculiarly pinkish-yellowish chicks, so I suspected her too of carrying white blood, and in 1910-11 mated her to a first hybrid generation buff cock, from which mating I got only one pale hen. The following year (1911-12) I mated both mother and daughter to a white cock (1910-11, second generation), and got white chicks from both of them.

I have other pale hens (older) related to the white sport (but not descended from her), as Miss Lee and I have for many years exchanged birds from our aviaries. These hens I intend this year to mate with white cocks, to prove if they are hybrids or not, as I fancy some of them carry white blood too.

The Anthem of the "Queen of Song."

The Nightingale is always welcome, but rarely are its efforts rewarded with such luscious prose as that of a Machen correspondent in a Monmouthshire paper. Here is an excerpt:—"The Queen of Song has honoured our village by a visit, and can be heard nightly pouring forth her lays in strains, which echo over mountain and dale before midnight until after dawn. To hear it at its best, as the writer has, one must be in the village at the break of day, when Aurora comes with her electric flashlights illumining the heavens as she announces the approach of the Monarch of Day, who comes in his chariot of gold to run his daily course and arouses the Warblers of the grove to pour forth their carols of praise and thanksgiving for the returning day. Then the anthem swells into a flood of song; the Nightingale, redoubling her energy, can be heard like a silver trumpet above the other birds, until our mountain, wood, and dale echo and re-echo with the majestic strains and delightful music." It does seem a pity the Nightingale can't read this!

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in Ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must concede with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who desire letters of complaint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. only queries so sent will be answered. Post-cards are not admissible.

The following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

DRIED EGG YOLKS (Market Cross).—I have really no practical experience of the dried yolk of which you send sample, though I have had it in view for testing some time. I see no reason why it should not be a very useful adjunct to the fancier's larder. It certainly is not cooked in any way, but is, none the less suitable for fanciers' use on that account. The worst point about this yolk is its excessive fineness. A more granulated type is more suitable for birds. If I were using this brand I should prepare the food freshly each time required, by taking sufficient crushed biscuit, or whatever other medium you use; moisten, if necessary, with a few drops of water to bring it to a rather dry crumbly consistency, that is to say, there should be no indication whatever of stickiness or surplus moisture; then add the egg yolk and again well mix all together, when it will be ready to give to the birds. As regards the quantity to use, for very young birds I should use a teaspoonful of yolk to four of moistened biscuit, and by the end of the first week increase the biscuit to six teaspoonfuls, and again, later on, increase to eight teaspoonfuls of biscuit to one of yolk.

TWITTERS ITS BEAK (Beginner).—It is undoubtedly a little cold, to which the bird may be a little more susceptible than the others in the same cage; hence she took a cold and the rest escaped. But I fancy there may also be a little overfeeding; therefore treat as follows for two or three weeks. During the first week give only plain canary seed with no extras of any kind, and add to the drinking water, every second day, six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence. After this add a pinch of summer rape to the diet every second day, and on two other days give half-a-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry mixed in it, and in the water give 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil well shaken together two days in every three for a week. If the bird is not well by that time, stop giving the above mixture in the water, and give instead the mixture advised to "Roller" in this issue for a week or two longer.

A QUINTETTE (Tuck).—(1) The bird seems to be suffering from an overfed condition. Cage him alone in a fair-sized cage for a few weeks, and limit the quantity as well as the quality of his food. Keep the cage floor fairly clear of waste seed and husk, and allow only a small teaspoonful of dry seed per day. You will need to be careful not to overlook his daily dole. Give a staple of plain canary only, but on two days each week reduce the canary by one-half, and make up the usual quantity by mixing with it a half-teaspoonful of millet, and on two other days give a small pinch of a mixture of equal parts rape, niger, and teazle, in addition to the usual supply. Give a good-sized spray of watercress each day as long as you can get it in a condition fit to use, and when this is not available give a little sweet apple once or twice a week, but not oftener. In the drinking water add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, every second day for a fortnight. Continue the above feeding for three or four weeks if necessary. (2) You do not say anything about the size of the aviary, or its position. But sawdust may always be used in cages or aviaries, except open-air ones, out of the breeding season. It is cleanly and economical. You must, however, supply gritty sand for digestive purposes in a small shallow vessel. (3) The only reason I can suggest why Canaries do not slug so much in aviaries as cages is that they find more distracting influences, and more to occupy their attention in aviaries. (4) Will look up this matter and reply next week. You could doubtless get a catalogue of the show by applying to the secretary of same. (5) It depends upon the parentage of the bird, and also what you wish to breed, what would be the best mate for a variegated Yorkshire cock. Failing any definite knowledge of the parentage, it would be best to mate it with a clear of the opposite colour. Thus, if your bird is a variegated bull mate it with a clear yellow, and vice-versa.

COLOURED RINGS (H. W.).—Will look up the addresses and send them along.

VARIETY OF GREEN (T.A.T.).—I have not a copy of "Our Canaries" by me at the moment to refer to but will look it up and reply next week. By the way, you make a big mistake in the price of this work, which is 25s., not 35s., as you name, so I shall have to refer to the volume to see if the types you refer to are really there.

REMOVING CLOSED RINGS (W.T.).—No. It is not usual to cut off closed rings from hens' legs in the breeding season. If there is a possible chance of the rings assisting a clumsy hen to break the eggs there is nothing for it but to take the risk. If you removed the rings at any time, or for any purpose, you can never replace them, and the bird will be in precisely the same position as if it were never rung at all; therefore, if you want to remove them to avoid the chance of risk in the breeding season why go to the trouble of putting on closed rings at all?

"TIPPLING" YORKSHIRES (Puzzled).—The excessive drinking is the effect rather than the cause of the looseness of the bowels. Keep the cage floors and perches as clean as possible. It would be an advantage to strew the floors well with clean dry sawdust for the time being, and renew it every second or third day until the looseness is stopped. Also keep the food and water vessels scrupulously clean. In addition to the staple diet of Canary seed give half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape every second day and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake dusted with carbonate of bismuth, and also a pinch of a mixture of equal parts good sound hemp, niger, teazle, and broken groats. In the drinking-water add a small pinch of Epsom Salts for one day only, and after this give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day. Continue this treatment until the looseness has stopped. If it is not markedly better by the end of the first week add to the water in the second week four drops of tincture of opium every second day in addition to the gentian, etc.

CREST AND CRESTBRED (R. D.).—The orthodox way, and the one which every beginner should adhere to until some experience has been gained, is to mate a crested bird to a crest-bred, and from this mating both crested and crest-bred birds will be produced. It is not correct to say that the mating of two crested birds will produce plainheads. This is far from being true, but it is quite correct that such a mating if made haphazard is very likely to produce a deterioration of crest qualities. Two crested birds are not infrequently mated together by experienced breeders for some particular purpose, such as increasing the proportion of crested birds in the progeny when this has fallen to a low ebb, and also to improve crest qualities, but it is never done without a definite object in view, and when it is done it is essential to good results to know the pedigree of some extent of the parent stock. It is impossible to go into all the details in these replies, but if you got parts 12 and 13 of "Our Canaries" you would find the matter discussed in all its phases.

NOT QUITE THE THING (A. E. A.).—It is just possible your room is colder than the one the hen has hitherto been accustomed to; otherwise she is a little overfed. Give six drops of syrup of buckthorn and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and in the next week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and dilute sulphuric acid every second day. Then if she seems a little more lively you may turn her into the flight with the others where she will get more exercise and probably be all right. If she is not place her in a little warmer temperature for a few weeks. Also listen to her breathing after she has settled down to roost at night, and if you find any wheezing or difficulty in breathing write again, and I will advise you further. Have you quite got rid of the sore feet trouble recently advised about? You will find the result of examination of feet under another heading.

BAD FEET (A. B. C.).—In further reference to reply on November 29, Professor Cave, F.R.C.V.S., of the South-Eastern Agricultural College has examined the bird's feet and very kindly replies: "I have examined the bird's feet, and am of opinion the trouble was entirely due to an ill-fitting perch. A sore would form at the abraded part, and constant wear of the surface would prevent healing. Then profuse granulations ('proud flesh') would form, and would bleed at the lightest touch." The treatment advised in last reply should have quite removed the trouble before this time. By the bye, it would be interesting to know whether builder's laths undergo any, and what, treatment to preserve them from decay. I have recollections of other cases of foot trouble arising where perches had been made out of laths.

NOT SINGING (Anxious, Rotherham).—As the bird has now stopped moulting on the treatment advised he will no doubt also resume singing in the course of a week or two. Continue the same general treatment as previously advised, but stop the drugs and extras and give the following for two or three weeks instead. Make a paste by well mixing on a hot plate a teaspoonful of honey, ditto cod liver oil emulsion, as much powdered grain of paradise as will cover a shilling, and the same quantity of chlorate of potash, and add sufficient finely powdered biscuit whilst mixing to make the whole into a paste about the consistency of soft cheese. When cold it will cut into cubes. Keep a small cube stuck in the wires for the bird to peck at as it likes, and renew it as often as necessary for two or three weeks. In the drinking-water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and afterwards 20 drops of whiskey, and ten each of lemon juice and glycerine, every second day for a fortnight.

WHEEZINESS NO BETTER (Roller).—In a room over a kitchen, wherein I presume a fire is kept burning, and with a temperature of between 50 and 60 degrees, as you say this room has, there is certainly not the slight at need for using any artificial heat to further increase the temperature, which is already high enough for practically any class of stock. Is the room damp? If so, this may be the cause of the birds' condition, and they would never be likely to thrive there unless the dampness were removed. Really, I am afraid the birds have inherited the tendency to the disease from similarly affected stock, this being the most distressing effect of breeding with birds affected in this way. In addition to the staple seed diet, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry mixed in it twice a week, and on two other days give a morsel of banana instead of any kind of green food. Give a small pinch of mixed seed once or twice a week, and limit the diet to this simple fare. A mealworm a day for each of the affected birds for a time would do no harm if you have any available, and you might keep a little of the paste advised to "Anxious, Rotherham," in this issue, in the wires for a month or so. Get a chemist to mix you the following, and add 20 drops to the drinking water every second day for a month. Then report progress. Mixture: Two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one drachm each of chlorodyne and ipecac. wine, and eight grains of iodide of potassium. I cannot advise you to breed with any of these affected birds.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

WHERE REDPOLLS BREED (No Name).—The Lesser Redpolls breed mostly in the North of England and Scotland, but may be located further south; in fact, I have found a nest myself on the hills in Kent, and another in the valley of the river Medway, so I am afraid you have the worst of the argument.

SIBERIAN GOLDFINCH (Thrush).—In making your selection of a Siberian Goldfinch, you need not trouble much about the wings, the buttons will be considerably plainer after a house moult. If you think of exhibiting, select a bird with a good big blaze. If he has this point really good, there will not be much the matter with his wings. When judging them, a judge does not require a bird to be absolutely even in buttons. If he beats everything else in the class in size and richness of blaze and tanning (that is, the colour on the breast), that would be quite sufficient to take him to the top. You do not enquire about treatment, so I presume you know how to manage a Goldie.

WHAT BIRD (W. McA.).—I am afraid I shall have to give your puzzle up. I know of no British bird with white and brown patches, about the size of a Blackbird, unless it should happen to be a pied hen Blackbird. Cannot you compare it with a Blackbird? Note the manner, the shape of the head, and beak, length of wings, etc. Has it any song or call notes? Perhaps there is some fancier in your district that would have a look at it for you.

BREEDING GOLDFINCHES (Hyram).—Goldfinches have been known to breed in captivity and rear their young. I once turned a pair into a spare room, with a few Canaries; they reared three young ones. You should get your birds as soon as possible, and keep them together all the winter. A small aviary would be the most convenient place for them, but failing this, you could try them in a good flight cage, say, one, three, or four feet long. Fix up some furze or heather at one end, and put an old Finch nest in it, and give them plenty of other building materials, moss, short grass, some hair, and a few feathers and wool; this will encourage them. You will be more likely to be successful with a pair than a cock and two hens.

LINNET NOT MOULTING (Jas. Wharton).—You failed to send your address with your letter; perhaps you will send it to us on a post-card. I gather from your note that your bird is in good health and song, and therefore I do not think I should trouble about his moulting, as it is not an unusual occurrence for a cage bird to skip a moult. If you would rather him go through it, you had better place his cage in a warm corner of the room, and cover it over with a cloth; do this gradually, so that he can learn to find his food and water. Get some meadow saffron from the chemist, and put a few shreds of it in boiling water, and when cold, give it to him to drink. Feed him well, and if he will eat a little egg food, just sprinkle it with sulphur, not much, or he will not eat it. When he is well in the moult, you will have to be very careful that he does not catch cold, or you will probably lose him. If he belonged to me, I certainly would not force him to moult; the fact of his being in good health and song is a sure proof that there is nothing wrong with him; if you look after him he will probably moult early next summer.

BULLFINCH NOT GROWING FEATHERS (G. F. L.).—It seems rather extraordinary for your Bullie to pass two moulting periods without growing any feathers on his head and back. You make no mention of your treatment. Is he having seeds alone, or do you keep him well supplied with wild food? The Bullfinch is a bird of robust nature, one that requires rather careful treatment, or he will soon become unsightly. In addition to his seed, I would advise plenty of fresh green food, seeding chickweed, groundsel (both of which are still to be had), privet berries, a piece of apple and apple pips, or any other fruit he will eat. If you are giving him hemp seed, discontinue it, and give sunflower seed, and safflower instead. Get some Kerol ointment from the chemist, warm it, and rub a little on the bare patches. Do it gently, and rub the way of the feathers. Do it for about four days, and then wait the result. Do not on any account extract the wing feathers. You really should have taken him in hand and given him special treatment at the time of the moult; you would then have had Nature to assist you.

SEXING SKYLARKS (T.R.V.).—I am afraid I shall not be able to assist you much in your efforts to sex your Lark. It is a difficult job for anyone to undertake unless they are very well acquainted with the species. Both cocks and hens are practically alike in plumage. If at any time you have several, you cannot do better than select the biggest and boldest birds, those that strut about the cage. The cocks, as a rule, have longer wings than the hens, and are hardly so thickly spotted, but as I gather from your letter that you have only the one bird, the song should be your best guide, unless you happen to know a kindly denier or birdy friend who would give you his opinion. If your bird is a hand-reared specimen, and has been well tended, he should be in song sufficiently by now for you to determine the sex.

BREEDING FROM COCK BULLFINCH (Wonder).—It is almost useless trying to breed from the cock Bullfinch with any other hen but one of his own species. In all Hybrid breeding where the Bullfinch is one of the parents, the hen Bullfinch is the one made use of. There is no harm in your trying him with, say, a Linnet or Greenfinch, but I cannot hold out much hope of success.

KEEPING A BRAMBLEFINCH (J. Knight).—A stock cage for a Brambletinch should be twenty inches long, twelve high, and seven or eight from back to front, but if you cannot spare the room for one as large as this, you could keep him in one somewhat smaller, providing you let him have a fly in a larger one occasionally, say, once a week, to stretch his wings. Make a mixture of three parts canary and one of summer rape; give him this as staple food with a few sunflower seeds, two or three times a week. These should be cracked and opened until he gets the flavour of them, when he will no doubt manage it himself. You could sometimes let him have a pinch of maw, teazel, and a few grains of hemp. Offer him seedling chickweed, shepherds' purse, and flowering groundsel when in season. He will also eat mealworms, and may possibly pick up a few ants' eggs; these will be beneficial if he will take them. The stock cage should be of the box pattern—that is, open in the front only, with seed trough at one end and water vessel placed outside.

GOLDFINCHES AND CANARIES (W. J. R.).—I gather from your letter that you wish to breed with Goldfinch and Canary to rear some Hybrids. For this purpose you will require a cock Goldfinch, and Norwich hen Canary. You can either let them fly together all the winter, or place them in separate cages, so that they can see each other and become acquainted. You will not, of course, put them up for breeding until next March, and not then if the Finch is not ready, which you may know by his being in full song, and his beak quite clear (that is without any black stripe on it). The food for the Goldfinch would be 3 parts each of teazle and canary, 2 each of hemp and linseed, one of sunflower seed, and ½ part summer rape; this would be his stock mixture. In addition you should mix the following and give a teaspoonful every other day: niger and maw 3 parts, thistle, dandelion, and gold of pleasure seeds, 1 part each. He should also have a spray of seeding chickweed, shepherd's purse, or groundsel, but be careful to collect it when the air is quite free from frost. If you require any further information later on, as regard breeding, perhaps you will kindly write again. The hen canary can be fed upon Canary seed, with a spoonful of the Finch mixture twice a week.

BIRDS FOR YOUNG BIRD-LOVER (E. E. S.).—I will try to answer your many questions in rotation: (1) Half-a-dozen of the smaller Finches would be quite sufficient to keep in your larger cages; whatever you do, do not overcrowd, that is, if you want to keep your birds in health and good feather. Four birds would be enough for the two feet cage. (2) Respecting Softbills, I think as you have never kept any, it would be as well to begin with a Thrush, Blackbird, or Starling, as the smaller ones require very careful attention and delicate handling. Tits are very quarrelsome birds, and not at all suitable to be kept in with others, especially in a confined area; one or two may sometimes behave themselves in a large aviary, but they are always a source of anxiety to the owner. Waxwings are not very difficult subjects to get steady, but they require a lot of attention and to be kept scrupulously clean, as they are rather messy birds and do not show their beauty to advantage unless in the best of condition. (3) Yes, a Crossbill would soon find his way out of an ordinary cage he requires something exceptionally strong. (4) The ordinary opening in the front of a cage is not large enough for the Hawfinch to get his head through; it would require to be about [illegible]

BLACKBIRDS AND SNOW BUNTINGS (No Name).—There is no standard size cage for a Blackbird, but a nice size would be eighteen inches long, twelve high, and nine from back to front, with two rather stout perches, and food drawer inside a pale blue, almost white, is a good colour for the inside; this shows up the bird admirably. If you are not going to exhibit both your birds, send the largest and best coloured one. Blackbirds are hardly fit to show until after their second moult. The wings of young birds are tinged with brown the first year; afterwards they are as dark as the body feathers. Your feeding is not bad, but as you want the birds in high condition, you should improve it by the addition of a spoonful of ants' eggs, and dried flies, or else purchase some good insectile food, as used for the more delicate birds, and let them have it two or three times a week. It would make a nice change, and bring them into fine condition. It should be mixed with a little scraped raw carrot, or, failing this, some mashed potato; but give the carrot if possible, it assists in putting a gloss on the plumage. (2) In one way you are feeding your Snow Bunting correctly, as they will live and thrive on Canary seed. As a change, you can try him with a few groats or coarse oatmeal, and a spoonful of wild seed mixture. He will probably find something in it to his liking. Have you tried him with a few soaked ants' eggs? Let them be good, and soak them in milk, not water, and then turn them into a cloth to drain. Most Buntings will eat a mealworm or two occasionally, or other insects, such as small beetles and flies. Offer a spray of seeding chickweed, he may nibble at it.

GOLDFINCH LOSING COLOUR ON HEAD (E.C.).—As your Goldfinch was moulting in October, it is quite time he finished. You appear to be feeding and treating him correctly, but in spite of his cheerfulness I am afraid he is below par, and requires building up with a suitable tonic. Therefore, I would advise you to get a small bottle of the compound Syrup of Glycerophosphates. Mix one part to two parts of good port wine, and give him fifteen drops in his drinking water (which should be distilled or boiled) every other day for a fortnight or three weeks. This treatment should put him right.

CHAFFINCH-CANARY (John Paris).—Up to the present time the Chaffinch-Canary has not been produced. We have heard occasionally of eggs being fertile, and reputed Hybrids have been exhibited, but have proved upon examination by specialists to be something different to the genuine article. One cannot say positively that the cross will never be produced, because the unforeseen has already happened in the hybrid world. There would be no harm in your trying, especially as you have the birds together, and they appear to be friendly. The Hybrids would be extremely valuable if you manage to rear any. You can hardly expect your Chaffinch to be in song now, but if he keeps in health he should begin to call by the turn of the year, and will no doubt sing as the days lengthen. The great difficulty with these peculiar crosses is not the fact of the birds pairing, but the getting of fertile eggs. Eggs when laid should be put under foster mothers. Your treatment appears to be right. I would, however, advise you to mix a few good ants' eggs with the egg and bird that you give them occasionally.

LINNET AND CANARY (No Name).—The usual materials for Hybrids' production are a British bird and a Norwich Canary hen, although I have seen many that have been produced from the Yorkshire, so I see no reason why you should not try to breed from your Brown Linnet and Yorkshire hen. If it is not convenient, it is not absolutely necessary to let them fly together through the winter months, but if you can do so I think it is as well, as the birds become familiar and lose all fear of each other, but if you let them run together occasionally this will do equally as well. Whichever method you adopt, you will put them together finally in the spring, when both are quite fit for breeding. If the birds are together, let their stock seed mixture be three parts canary and one of summer rape, then twice a week give them a little mixed seed composed of two parts teazle, half-part linseed, maw, hemp, and gold of pleasure, and a sprig of seeding chickweed, or a piece of sweet apple. If you keep them separately, the Canary will not require quite so much rape seed.

CORNISH CHOUGH (H. Gale).—The following measurements are good for a show cage for a Chough—30 inches long, 18 high, and 12 from front to back. Do not make the top flat, but have it to slope a little from front to back sufficiently to prevent heavy packages being placed upon it when travelling. You would require two good strong perches placed about nine inches from the floor. These look best if they are turned with a kind of bub to them, and are what we call short end perches; that is, they do not come quite up to the front bars. Build your cage either slightly bow at the top or have as little woodwork as possible at the top of the front bars. The object of this is to allow as much light as possible to fall on the inmate. A pale blue, almost white, is a good colour for the interior; the outside should be black; the front bars could be of either colour, whichever you prefer.

HYBRID AND BRAMBLEFINCH (Three at Once).—If you mean is it usual to breed Canary Hybrids in a room where Canaries are flying loose, I may say that it is not, although it has been done, but where all the birds are kept in cages Canary Hybrids can be produced as well as pure Canaries. The presence of the cock Canary is frequently an inducement to the hen to call, when, if the Finch is in breeding condition, he immediately takes advantage of it. What you will have to do is to get the Finch and Canary thoroughly used to each before the spring. Let them sometimes run together. The presence of the Finch may prevent her making an attachment or contracting a liking for any particular cock bird; this would naturally make things easier. (2) The Bramblefinch-Canary Hybrid has not yet been produced; the difficulty is in getting fertile eggs. (3) Make a mixture of two parts canary and one of summer rape. This will be the stock food. Then give separately about twice a week a spoonful of mixed seed, teazle, hemp, and linseed in equal parts; half part each of maw, niger, and gold of pleasure; or you can buy a good brand of Finch mixture containing all these. He could have half a dozen sunflower seeds daily, and occasionally a little sprouting rape, a mealworm now and then, and a few ants' eggs would be acceptable; also seeding chickweed, shepherd's purse, groundsel, etc.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T PAGE F.Z.S

WHAT BIRD? (Novice, Norfolk).—So far as I can gather from your description, you have a Russ' Weaver (Quelea russi), which really appears to be merely a colour form of the Red-billed Weaver (Quelea quelea). If you are acquainted with the above, and know your bird is not a Russ', then if you care to send it on to me (Editor will supply address) I will name it for you and return, but I think it must be a Russ' Weaver.

GREY PARROT WITH GROWTH (R. H. Shaw).—You give me no idea of length of time you have had the bird, or how it has been treated. As matters stand I can only state that if the bird is tame enough to be handled, I should foment the swelling with hot water (not hot enough for discomfort) and keep the bird in a warm room. I should also keep the bowels moving quite freely by giving a laxative two or three times a week, according to need. One teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water is as good as any. On intermediate days put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. However, if the swelling increases much in size, and does not come to a head, I should certainly advise letting a local vet. see it, as it may be necessary to have it removed. I presume you are dieting the bird correctly, but seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts, and a little plain biscuit or dry crust of stale household bread will form an ample dietary. Of course, grit, cuttlebone, and water must also be regularly supplied.

AN AILING GREY (W. Bouchier).—It is a case in which only someone on the spot (your local vet.) could answer definitely, and you give me really no details, save just on the one point. If the bird can be handled I should well cleanse around the vent, and foment with hot water (as hot as can be used without causing discomfort) containing a little glyco-thymoline, twice daily; dab dry with a soft cloth after each occasion, and keep the bird in a warm room. I should also keep the bowels moving quite freely by putting, once or twice weekly, one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water; also put several times weekly half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. Get from the chemist, ready mixed, a small box of honey and borax, and put a little in the bird's mouth daily. Report progress in two or three weeks.

BIRDS' DIET (Buchanan).—Two mixtures will be the best, one consisting of equal parts of white millet and Indian millet; the other three parts canary, one part each best rape, paddy rice, oats, sunflower, and hemp seeds. Well mix and keep a supply of each in the aviary. Also hang up regularly one or two millet sprays; also supply green-food and fruit, and a few live insects (meal-worms, etc.) for the Cardinals. A tablespoonful of wild seed mixture once a week is appreciated, and makes a wholesome change. During the winter lettuce is a safe green food, but when full grown the centre (fleshy) rib or stalk of each leaf should be cut away.

RE PARRAKEETS (J. R. Barrett).—(1) I think your birds are young Banded Parrakeets, and are not yet ready for nesting or mating; I doubt if they will be for another twelve months. (2) Yes, when fully adult, and in best condition and plumage. (3) Sexes will be doubtful till they are a few months older. Both are young birds, with one a little older than the other, and at present I take it to be a case of the older driving the younger, and the latter turning on it again at times. As a rule, the hen has a more rounded head than the cock, but this may not be apparent at present. When adult, it is mostly easy, to an observing eye, to sex them by the shape of the head.

COVERED-IN FLIGHT (Enquirer. — This term is used in several ways, but the general meaning of it is a flight open at front only; of course a flight with open wire netting all round, if roofed in, is, strictly speaking, a "covered-in flight." You do not give your county, but with the matting on the east and if you cover up the north, I think all the birds you name will be quite safe if the west and south are left open wirework. I note your P.S.; the fence and hedge should be sufficient protection on the north, unless your county is a very northern one. Pekin Robins would be quite all right out of doors all the year round, providing they are put out in the spring and then left out. You do not give dimensions, but you seem to have some good cover and shelter, and birds should do well.

GREEN PARROT (Jade).—There are many Green Parrots, and you do not say what kind yours is, neither do you tell me how you have been feeding and treating it; therefore I cannot give you any idea as to the cause of the trouble. Get from your chemist a box of honey and borax, and put a little in its mouth twice daily. Also cleanse its beak daily with hot water containing a little glyco-thymoline. While there must be no appearance of chronic diarrhœa, the bowels must be kept moving quite freely by an occasional dose of Dinneford's magnesia—one teaspoonful in the drinking water, as often as required. Twice or thrice weekly put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. I am in a little difficulty as to diet, not knowing the species of the bird; but seed mixture, fruit, nuts, and biscuits or stale crusts, should fully meet its requirements. Of course you must also supply water, grit, and cuttlebone, and pieces of wood for it to play with and chew up.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

C. Harrison.—The Grey-winged Onzel was sound in every respect, all its organs healthy, but an absence of food in the intestines. It is my opinion that the bird simply pined, resulting in its death.

H. R. L.—Bronco-pneumonia is the cause of your losses. From the plan you have sent me, I cannot see that the birds are subjected to draught, and the ventilation should be adequate. It is quite possible that the heated and gaseous air at the level you describe is causing the trouble. You have omitted to give me details as to height of room, space between top row of cages and ceiling, and whether those in upper row of cages are most affected.

Chas. T. Collins.—The two Canaries I find to have died of acute enteritis or inflammation of the bowels, resulting from the eating of some irritant or poisonous material taken in with the food. In both cases, the post-mortem lesions were exactly the same. The darker coloured bird (sex I forgot to note) was a healthy bird, and had no contagious or infectious disease. Although the other was in better condition, yet both deaths arose from the same cause. I should keep to plain Canary seed, and not change the diet again.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

R. Ogden.—Send a penny stamp and a stamped addressed envelope to Messrs. Wyman, Ltd., printers, Fetter Lane, London, E.C., and ask them to send you a copy of the Wild Bird Act relating to Cheshire.

T. Simpson.—It is quite impossible to solve the puzzle unless class 38 be intended to include Hybrids. You had better enquire the meaning of the secretary.

Tom S.—The Goldfinch is protected all the year in Lincolnshire, and so it was very ill-advised on your part to use a Goldie as a call-bird. You can only attend the court and plead that you had not caught any of this species.

W. H. Gibbs.—We have no complaints against the advertiser you name. If you conform to rule 8 we will write him on your behalf.

Blunt.—(1 and 2) If the dark underline does not show on the surface the bird is undoubtedly four-pointed (even-marked) and must compete among even marks. We take it, of course, that the markings are good (i.e., do not "run over" into the surrounding plumage. (3) It might be possible, but it is very improbable.

F. Faulkner.—Probably our artist has this; we will enquire.

DERBY C.B.S.

55th annual members' show held Nov. 22 in the large public room of the Normanton Hotel, an admirable one for the occasion. Close on 200 birds were staged. Chief interest at this show always centres in the society's silver challenge cup for the best young Norwich, bred during the current year, and generally arouses keen competition. This year's winner was a clear buff bred by Mr. J. Watts, quite worthy of winning this much-prized trophy. This is the second time this member has been successful. Silver medal for best colour-fed was captured by Mr. J. H. Drakeley, with a cl. yell. Nor., which would hold its own in any show. Yorkshires were very good, and seem to be increasing greatly in this district. Crest and crest-bred, whilst not so numerous as in former years, were well worth seeing. Mules, Hybrids, and British, although small in number, made a very fair show, and some good specimens were staged in excellent condition. Mr. W. H. Eley, Derby, judged in a very efficient manner, whilst members who officiated as stewards, etc., were Messrs. T. Thompson, J. Shearman, J. H. Drakeley, W. Roberts, B. Ramm, A. Morrell, W. Twells, W. Wood, and F. Cockeram. Messrs. Wharam and Bamsey had charge of the secretarial duties, whilst donors to the special prize fund were Messrs. Ind, Coope and Co., J. G. Fox, Binns and Co., J. Newton, A. Ashley, Ratcliffe and Co., etc.

Is the Koller an Imaginary Tour?

Sir,—In reference to the concluding remarks of your correspondent, "Novice," in hoping to hear other fanciers' opinions about the Koller, if he would like I should be pleased to introduce him to a bird, that in the opinion of those fanciers who have heard it, sings this tour. Among them are some prominent fanciers of to-day. Unfortunately the bird cannot be moved, owing to the effects of advancing age, but an appointment would be willingly made by me.

Why Don't Shows Pay?

Sir, I was very glad to read Mr. Parlett's letter re Matlock show. There seem to have been some very odd business methods employed there. When writing the secretary afterwards re another matter, I mentioned it surprised me my Canary-Bullie was cardless in a class of nine entries. He replied it was vhc, and a fortnight later sent, without any comment, 1s. 3d., 3rd prize for that class (half prize-money), on which I thought matters were getting interesting. What particularly strikes me, though, is that they wrote to Mr. Parlett to see if he would accept half prize-money. Why not write all the prize-winners? The minor lights of the Fancy, the novices, etc., don't count, I suppose. Well, Matlock's secretary may find out next year. Another instance of "how to make a show pay" was Wirksworth, in the same district. I entered two birds in the Hybrid class, and there was only one other entry. I was awarded 2nd and reserve (although only credited vhc and reserve in your report); the other exhibitor was he. In face of his intentions re awards, the secretary knew perfectly well I had no chance of even covering expenses. His obvious duty was to cancel the class. It is this sort of thing that disgusts exhibitors. If Mr. P. sues Matlock, I shall be very glad to give him any help, if required. To revert to the heading once more, I think the shows are too crowded together. Why the insane idea of having them all in October and November? I have a nice lot only just ready for showing, and no shows within reasonable distance. Twice this season there have been no less than five shows on one day at which I should have been glad to exhibit and (mark you) visit, if on separate days. Spread out, scretarics, give us a few dates in December, and possibly January, and I am sure entries will increase all round, also the visitors. The latter, to my mind, are a very important item of a show, with their admission, catalogues and possible purchases. T. H. HAYTER.

The Improvidence of the Thrush Family.

Sir,—I wonder if it has ever occurred to any readers of CAGE BIRDS that the Thrushes are an improvident lot. I have thought so many a time, when I have watched them in the late summer and autumn—that period when the keys of the ash tree hang heavily as if overburdened with their encased seeds; and elms and sycamores are dropping their yellow leaves as if shedding tears at the rapid approach of winter; and the hips and haws are just turning crimson on the hedgerows. Day after day I have watched them, and have noticed the gluttonous feasts they make of the autumn berries, such as those of the Pyrus family, and those of the order of the Rosacæ, the haythorns, etc. From the few lessons we ever had at school on Natural History, I always remember one, that these berries are supposed to be sent by a wise Providence to provide food for our birds in frosty weather, when they can't get from the ground the worms and other items which they usually live upon; but these birds, the Missel Thrush, Song Thrush, and Blackbird, have them all eaten up by the end of October, at latest. The Missel Thrush, especially, is a regular glutton. This species goes about in groups of a dozen or so, making a great commotion, from one plantation to another, and eating all the berries they can find during September and October, until there are no more left. If they were to do as nature really intended them, or as we far-seeing humans think nature intended them, they would live on the abundant insect life to be found during this time. Anyone not accustomed to being amongst plantations, were they to spend a day amongst the trees and root amongst the dead leaves and twigs, would be surprised to see the abundance of insect life they would disturb. If maxims can be applied to the Thrush family, a good one would be: "Let us look after to-day, to-morrow will look after itself," for they refuse to touch—or appear to refuse—these luscious insects until they have demolished all the berries. During the winter, when frost and snow is on the ground, it is a mystery how these birds live, because they can't dig through the hard ground after worms. If they would only save the berries for themselves until such times as they can't possibly find insects, then they would be doing themselves and us a great service. That is why I say they are improvident.

T. J. SOUTHPORT.

The Vicissitudes of the Novices' Exhibits.

Sir,—As some readers of CAGE BIRDS will be aware by this time, I take a great and absorbing interest in the welfare of the novice. I know the uphill work a novice has to go through before he becomes a champion, and not until recent times has he had a decent classification put on for him. But these few notes are concerned less about the novice than about the novice's birds. It is no uncommon occurrence at any show to find a bird in the novice classes standing cardless, where at a previous show the same bird has been standing behind the much sought after 1st prize ticket under a different judge. The same birds may be competing again the week following under another judge, who may select a different bird altogether for first, until the novice really begins to wonder where he really is. The arguments amongst novices are fast and heated, and it goes without saying that all the judges are blamed in turn. But it is all very simple. A judge once said to the writer that it was more difficult to judge "middling" birds than good 'uns. And it is quite true, too. All, or nearly all novices' birds are more or less faulty in some point, and some judges make more of one point than another. For instance: A judge may have a penchant for one given point, say a good head, and he selects his winners out of birds possessing good heads; at another show, under a different judge, the same birds may be jumbled about again, because he may have a fad for another point. Every judge has his own particular fad, and that is the reason why the novice's bird has so many ups and downs. But put a real knockout before one of these judges, and he will find it every time. Why? Because it has all the good qualities combined, and doesn't excel in one point only, as do a great many of our novice exhibits. Of course, the same factor is at work in the champion classes, but in a lesser degree. A few cases have come under my notice this season, where certain birds have been changed about by the judges. Some judges will not have a fat bird, and real good birds have been put down for being too fat. But at another show another judge puts them well up simply because he doesn't object to that fault.

SUB ROSA.

WHY NOT HOME-BRED BRITISH BIRDS?

Sir,—"The Evening Standard and St. James's Gazette" of Aug. 30, has an article by Mr. Marcus Woodward, which has so interested me as a bird-keeper and bird-lover, that I have sent it in the hope that you can find room for it in the columns of our journal CAGE BIRDS. When we think of the marvels which have been produced from the insignificant looking bird, the wild Canary, ranging from the giant Lancashire to the neat little Border Fancy, and consider also the perfection of music which has been reached in the song of the Roller Canary, the wonder is that British bird fanciers have not long ago taken in hand the material which lies at their door.

LONDON BIRD LOVER.

In a small village in East Sussex lives and works a very intelligent cobbler, whose interest and passion in life is the study of wild birds, especially of our many different Finches: Goldfinches being his first favourites among all birds. His little workshop, set on a hill looking out across fields and woods to the South Downs, is ever musical with bird-song. Cages hang in the sun outside the shop, and within are many kinds of hybrid Finches and pure-bred Canaries and wild birds, some of whom have worked for the cobbler for years as decoy-birds, luring others within his power.

A fine marked Yorkshire, which won 1st prize and the "Mayoress Cup" at Clapham Show for Mr. A. J. Clarke (East Dulwich).

Living in concord in one cage within the workshop we have seen at once six sorts of Finches—Goldfinch, Greenfinch, Chaffinch, Linnet, Redpoll, and Siskin; and there are birds in other cages which only a fancier could name, hybrid Finches and Finch-Canaries, the most beautiful being the Goldfinch-Canaries, and the sweetest singers the Linnet-Canaries. Our cobbler achieved a notable triumph by being the first fancier to produce Siskin-Goldfinches, selling the nest, with four young ones, for £11. Though it is not for profit that he tends and rears his birds, and, indeed, can spare but little time from boot-mending, in one year he sold Goldfinch-Canaries—a favourite cross—to the tune of about £40 in clear profit, his fifteen hens rearing one hundred and fifty young birds. What a large number of birds may possibly be descended from one strong and long-lived wild bird is illustrated by the case of a fine Goldfinch our friend once caught, whose offspring would have to be counted by hundreds. From this Goldfinch he bred for ten years in succession, until the bird died an accidental death, while seemingly in its prime. In its last year it was mated to five hens, by whom it became the father of thirty-six young birds.

The cobbler had marked out this bird before it was caught as a remarkably fine singer; for it chanced to land on a hedge one day, and sing loudly, at the very place beneath which our friend, out bird-catching, was watching his net—this in the days before Goldfinches were protected all the year round. Of the anxious time of waiting, while the grand bird sang on above his head for ten minutes on end as he crouched still, hoping against hope it would fly to where his net lay spread—of how at last it fell to his lure, and how he rushed then to pull the net-strings, failing twice on his way in his eager haste—and of the joy with which he made the singer captive—the cobbler tells as a thrilling story.

He has a story to tell of every bird in his cages. And as he talks about, and to, his birds, it becomes clear that he possesses some wonderful power to charm and tame the shy, wild things he takes captive. His decoy, or flirt-birds, he says, soon learn the work he expects them to do, and seem to know it is their duty to lure their wild brothers and sisters to the net or trap. One Goldfinch worked regularly as a flirt-bird for six years, and lived to enjoy six more years of life when sold. He has a hen Bullfinch to-day who has been perfectly tame and happy ever since she was taken prisoner; and a Linnet that sang directly it was caged, and has never shown the least sign of fear in its captivity—though once, when working in the field, it was terribly frightened by the attack of a Hawk. Parties of Linnets and Goldfinches often will settle on the cages hanging outside the shop.

Our cobbler is about to begin some experimental work on new lines—he intends in future to devote all his spare time to an attempt to improve many choice kinds of British birds by careful selection and breeding—to rear larger and greener Greenfinches than any ever seen in a state of nature, and larger and more brilliant Yellow-hammers; while he dreams of painting the Goldfinch's gay coat of many colours in even purer tones of black and white and brown, crimson and gold, until he has called the perfect Goldfinch into being.

THE HYBRID SENSATION OF THE YEAR.

Sir,—Any correspondence re the above Hybrid, now named "White Rose," will be settled by the Yorkshire and Lancashire British Bird and Mule Club. I thank CAGE BIRDS for the valuable space given.

R. D. PARLETT.

Sir,—Before I came to a conclusion about this bird, I examined it very carefully, and I still maintain I could not find any Canary in this so-called Hybrid. As regards the £5 to £50 challenge, I do not take it seriously. I have no desire to make this hobby into a gambling concern. I consider a fancier who cannot stand criticism concerning any bird he owns is a poor fancier. As regards carrying his bird round the room, I do not credit the statement. Visitors, he says, can look at the bird "while their eyes drop out," but a well-known exhibitor and judge was simply examining it in its class, and the owner came up to take it from him. He was answered by common sense, that is, "Don't handle other people's birds." Then Mr. Parlett retired. He had been hit with an answer which was perfectly justified. I should have considered it a pleasure to have had a few words with this fancier concerning this bird, an interesting chat, but, when I saw him in a furious temper, while beads of moisture ran down his forehead, I considered I was wise in not approaching him. As regards the Redpoll-Bullfinch, which was second, not being perfect, it does not trouble me, as I am prepared to leave the bird's future for the judges to decide, the same as Mr. Maddison has done at the Bradford National show. I highly prize this, as the bird has been bred by the exhibitor, and not bought by a large cheque. He shows his parentage clear, from Bullfinch and Redpoll; that is what the so-called Canary-Bullie does not do. In reply to Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, I was a visitor on Saturday, and the words were written on label, "Canary-Bullfinch." Mr. B. Gabbitass gives a very interesting account of how this bird is supposed to have been bred, but he has not tried to show us where the parentage of the Canary is shown in this bird. I am not prepared to withdraw any remarks I have made, Mr. Mallatrat, concerning the Canary-Bullfinch at Preston show, as it is only an expression of honest criticism.

H. WALSH.

Sir,—I read that the judge at Sale show "wrong-classed" that splendid light Canary-Bullfinch Hybrid of Mr. Parlett's. If this is going to be the treatment met by rare Hybrids, it is time exhibitors kept them at home and denied other fanciers the pleasure of seeing them. I saw this bird at Nottingham, and thoroughly examined it. I found it had the Norwich type, had light legs, and was the colour of the Canary (also had other characteristics). What more does any one want? Do they want it to show all Canary and no Bullfinch? In my humble opinion it is the rarest and finest Hybrid we have on the show bench at the present time, and until I see a clear or better marked bird of this cross, I shall hold this opinion.

LOVER OF RARE HYBRIDS.

Sir,—I have re-read my letter, and fail to find anything which by any imaginative stretch may be termed "insulting." I have simply given my own opinion on the points of the bird, and have nothing to withdraw. One or two points in Mr. Parlett's letter call for retort. First he alleges that Mr. Metcalfe was in the "cliquo" at Preston. So far as I know, he wasn't there on Saturday. Mr. Parlett may select as many Mule breeders as he likes, but he will always find a difference of opinion on the bird. It may be a Hybrid, but it certainly hasn't in its composition the characteristics of a Canary and a Bullfinch equally. If it is a Hybrid, it has taken the Bullfinch's structure entirely, and the partial plumage of a Canary, a thing never before known in the history of Hybrid breeding, I should imagine. He himself acknowledges there is a doubt when he says Mr. Wellings, after a long study, gave it the benefit. Since writing the above, I have seen the bird at the Bradford National, and I noticed the judge awarded it third prize. Now, everyone will admit that Mr. Maddison knows a Hybrid, perhaps, as well as anyone, but what I want to know of this. Why didn't he give it 1st prize or, at least, 2nd? Assuming the parentage it claims, it is worth a dozen of the second as a Canary-Bullie, for we must admit, as I said last week, if it is a Hybrid, it is a glorious one, and possibly the best of its kind ever bred. The second bird could go inside it without—I should think—making it feel uncomfortable—it is such a monster! What I can't understand is, acknowledging its parentage, how he allowed the other Canary-Bullies to beat it. Did he, too, have a doubt of its parentage?

T. JOHNSON.

Sir,—I see Mr. B. Gabbitass, sec. Mansfield C.B.S., refers to me as knowing all about this Hybrid. I saw the parents before the bird was bred, also the Hybrid when quite a baby, and being hand-reared by Mrs. Mallatratt. I was so struck by the bird that I offered a good price for it. Being such a favourite, however, I could not buy it. I told Mr. A. Shellam, of Cardiff, about the bird, also Mr. Dewar, Mr. Colton, and several Hybrid fanciers. I have no hesitation in saying it is a genuine Canary-Bullfinch Hybrid. I judged a half-brother to this Hybrid on Saturday last, a Greenfinch-Bullfinch, much larger in head, and stronger and longer in beak. This came out of the same Bullfinch hen, but by a Greenfinch cock. If some fanciers had had the bird, there would have been no questions asked. Mr. Weston "wrong-classed" him in 1912, at Nottingham, but it was for being a variegated bird in a class for darks. Mr Houlton placed him second in a light class at Nottingham this year.

The Foreign Bird E.L's Testimonial to Mr. Silver.

Sir,—Kindly allow me to announce the following additions to the above testimonial: Miss Lydia Claro 10s., Mr. W. A. Lott 5s., Mr. G. Thurling 2s. 6d., Mr. O. J. Stone 2s. 6d; making total £11 9s. I propose making the presentation a public one, during the Palace show week, full particulars of which will be given later.

JOHN FROSTICK.

An Object-Lesson for "Humanitarians."

Sir,—I should have liked the so called humanitarian who objects to birds in captivity, to have been with me the other morning. When, after the strong wind of the night before, I went to see how the birds in my aviary were looking, I found the door had been blown open, thus letting the birds out on to the lawn; then it had blown to again. But instead of rejoicing over their freedom, the birds here all collected outside the door, waiting for me to let them in again. Wise little birds. I wish CAGE BIRDS always continued success. I should be pleased if you have room in your valuable paper for the above little fact.

MURIEL MAXWELL JACKSON.

The Camera as a Witness.

Sir,—I owe Mr. Craven an apology for my belated reply to his enquiry. Only a photograph of the bird itself, held in my hand, would I obtain. Regarding colours and markings, the obstacles connected therewith would be a problem I should leave to the craftsman only. Orthochromatic plates, nowadays, are of so advanced an excellence, such difficulties count for very little with experts. An improvement to the enlargement suggested by me, would be a lantern slide. If the Editor be agreeable, I will be pleased to give five shillings towards a competition demonstrating the possibilities of rendering colours and marks in their exact tones by means of the camera.

A. E. MORRIS.

[We don't quite grasp the object of the suggested competition, or exactly what it is competitors would be called upon to do. If it requires "expert craftsmen" in the photographic art, we are afraid such a competition could not hope to appeal to many amongst our readers.—EDITOR.]

What's Wrong with Members of the Southern Norwich P.C.?

Sir,—Mr. Matthes asks why there is such little enterprise among the members of the S.N.P.C. Who ought to know better than himself? I have met a few members, and learned that one great fault lies in the same judge officiating at most of the club shows. This, I think, accounts for the falling-off to a great extent, as when a team is down on the first show, what exhibitor would continue to follow the same judge? Only those who could afford it, and, as Mr. Matthes is no doubt aware, he has several working-men members belonging to the S.N.P.C. Why not try and arrange for a different judge for each show, as is done at Yorkshire Union fixtures? There are good judges available, viz., Payne, Rennie, Gardner, Robson, Heath, Pope, House, Houghton, Vardy, and a host of others. Mr. Matthes shows bad taste in having a slap at the leaders for the cups and prizes. Aren't they offered to be won? There seems to be a rift in the lute, Mr. Matthes, so see that this is removed, otherwise your membership will decrease.

CONTEMPLATING MEMBERSHIP.

Is it the Money that Talks?

Sir,—Our secretary complains of the lack of support. Most members are working men who have taken up the Fancy as a hobby. Some have had the good fortune to breed a good bird or two, which has "finished them off" in the novice classes, and now they find their team of birds not quite good enough to compete against the present-day champions, and not being blessed with too much of this world's goods, they cannot afford to pay entry money and the heavy railway charges, knowing there is not much chance of getting any return. Well, you cannot blame them for not sending to the club shows. Friend Tomsett says if a small man breeds two good birds, he must sell them, because he cannot compete with the owner of a team. That, I contend, is where the small man makes a great mistake. He breeds a good bird or two, and very soon down pounces some one with a big pocket, and offers a tempting price for the bird or birds, and generally the small fancier lets them go, thinking he can easily breed some as good or better next year. But by selling his best he will never advance in the exhibiting world. Let him keep those two or three good birds, and most likely in two or three years he will be able to hold his own with the best of them. I think the specials of our club ought to be won by birds which are bred by the exhibitor; but we must have buyers, and I don't blame anyone buying a bird, if he cares to launch out. A fancier who breeds his own winners, however, gets a thousand times more pleasure out of his winnings than the one who, year after year, has to dip pretty deeply into his pocket to keep his wins up, and his name before the public. I believe most of the fanciers who have come out on top at our club shows this year have bred their own winners; in fact, know they have, and I congratulate them. One or two have been running here and there claiming and buying birds, an annual affair with them. I may be wrong, but to me it seems a business. Those are the fanciers that will kill any club, if one is not careful. I like to encourage the novice as much as possible, but some, if they stop much longer under that heading, will soon grow grey. I believe if all members had to breed their winners to compete for the club specials, it would greatly help novices and the small breeder. My advice to such is, if you breed a good bird or two, do not sell. Keep your best, and soon you will come out on top.

A TRIER.

More "Little Troubles" Than One.

Sir,—We are all sorry to hear of Mr. Matthes' accident, and hope by this time he has completely recovered. I am sorry to read that Mr. Matthes is of opinion the breeder has no effective protection, because this statement implies that dishonesty cannot be stamped out. The reason I did not include the ten-guinea trophy was because that trophy has already been competed for under certain conditions, whereas all other ones are put up fresh each year under any conditions the S.N.P.C. is pleased to enact. Of course, I do not pretend to know the financial positions of the gentlemen he names in your last issue, but I do know that they take a back seat against birds that have been purchased and shown against them. Let members show what they like, and win what prize-money they can, but let the trophies be the reward of the careful years of study and the members' brains and what they have accomplished step by step. Then the nomination farce: A man nominates his birds, at present purchased or otherwise, for certain trophies, and is guided (a) by his own judgment, (b) relative position on the bench. With what result? The unnominated bird sometimes takes first place against the nominated one, its stable companion. Why? Because, owing to the wobbling, the exhibitor cannot fix on which way the cat will jump and takes pot luck. All these little (!) troubles keep many birds at home. I am aware of birds winning to-day that have not been bred by the exhibitors. What do we hear? "Hobnails" is not doing much, gone down this year; and look at "Goldbags," isn't he going it, 1st at —— and 1st at ——. Those who read the reports, do they know that "Hobnails" is stronger than ever, and that birds HE bred are the ones that are winning? Mr. Matthes is not responsible for these troubles, and is anxious for large entries at all shows; but, as Mr. Crisp says, the writing is on the wall. Let us not ignore it.

H. W. TOMSETT.

Too Much of the Same Judge.

Sir,—I don't think there is so much wrong with the members as with the principle on which our patronage is given to shows, without knowing who is the appointed judge. I think myself that one, or at most two, shows for one judge is plenty. Then we should soon see where the mystery lies as to shortage of entries. This show season we gave our patronage for cups, etc., at six shows, and one judge officiated at five out of the six! I am sure if we had had more changes, we should have seen more show secretaries with smiling faces (and exhibitors, too).

A MEMBER.

What Do Exhibitors Want?

Sir,—I quite agree that there should be a limit class of, say £5, and then it would give the ex-novice a chance, and not break his heart. What chance has he against such birds as were in the champion Norwich at the L.C.B.A. show? Only wasting his money, and so it goes on, and the enthusiastic novice dies out. Let the present novice status stand; do away with amateurs (a farce) and let him have a chance in a £5 limit class. If his bird gets claimed by the tip-top exhibitor, then the purchaser has paid for it. If the big team exhibitor (the "deck-sweeper") puts a bird in the limit class, you can bet it will not be a £20 bird, which brings his bird to a competition level with the ex-novice. It has been a grievance too long, and it is quite time the "back-bone of the Fancy's" appeal was taken notice of, ere too late.

C. S. MARTIN.

Do Some Novices Exceed the Limit?

Sir,—They want fair play, especially in the novice section. I was very successful during the members' and young stock shows. With only about three pairs of birds I bred eight good ones, and was more than pleased with myself. I sent to one open show early in the season, and never had a card. This did not dishearten me, until I heard about a fancier paying "£20 for those three, and £5 for that hen." On trying at further shows in the Midlands I found this same exhibitor (not a breeder), although winning about six firsts, still showed as a novice. Why? A member of the leading specialist club in the Midlands, he was out for the cup, and the shows accepting this specialist club's support were obliged to make him a novice, although the first important rule in schedule was: "A novice is one who has won one first in open champion class, or three firsts in open novice." I find other exhibitors, novices, won 1st at West Bromwich. I understood from the secretary that made them champions, having taken twelve years to win their third in open competition. I was staggered to find the same people in the novices at Birmingham (another 1st) and now two 1sts at Walsall. I ask, is this fair to the genuine novice? Does it encourage him to show? We see in reports: The novice classes full again. I am afraid, especially in the Midlands, they will soon be empty.

FRED LEONARD.

A Blackbird that Dined on Fish!

Sir,—During the summer I caught some minnows in a burn. I brought them home and put them into a tub of water in the garden, below the hose tap. I noticed very soon afterwards that they were gradually disappearing in some mysterious way. One day I discovered a Blackbird sitting on the edge of the tub, watching them, and whenever one swam near the surface the bird made a dive, caught it, and flew away with it. This is how my minnows disappeared one by one, for I saw the Blackbird several times afterwards doing the same towards those left.

JAMES MUNRO.

What is a Natural-coloured Bird?

Sir,—A year or so ago, an eminent Border Fancy breeder exhibited some of his Borders at a show, and was disqualified—or should I say his birds were?—for alleged colour feeding. A short correspondence followed: at least, the exhibitor wrote denying the soft impeachment, while, if I remember aright, the judge observed that silence which is golden. In his denials, the exhibitor admitted giving his Borders nasturtium flowers but held that such things, being only flowers, were natural colouring elements. Now suppose we examine the case thoroughly. What is colour food? That is what is the cool pepper we supply to our birds as a colour producing factor? It is the fruit of the same order as the tomato belongs to; the nasturtium is of the natural order, Geraniacæ. Both these colouring agents are from common plants, only from one the fruit is used, while from the other we use the flower. Now doesn't it seem strange that if we use the colouring element from one plant, our birds are colour fed, while if we use the colouring agent of the other plant we are allowed to call them natural fed? Suppose we were to gather a large quantity of nasturtium flowers, and by some process crush them in such a way that all the moisture was evaporated, and nothing but the colouring matter remained, concentrated and in powder form, and we fed our birds with that, would our birds be natural coloured? I will put it another way. Suppose we have two flights of Canaries side by side. In one flight we drop some plants of the nasturtium, and they eat the flowers. Those birds, according to the Border exhibitor, are non-colour-fed. In the other flight we drop some plant of the Capsicum, which bears our colour food, and the birds eat the pods. If we take the popular opinion, the birds which eat the Capsicum pods will be colour fed. But where is the difference? Both sets of birds are eating parts of two separate kinds of plants, known to be colour producers; then, to any logical mind, surely both sets of birds must be colour fed. We will take the judge's view. Say he has a class of clear yellows before him. Certain birds in this class have colour of a deeper tone than the others. It may be only just perceptible (these natural colour enthusiasts know how far to go) but the judge knows that they have had something the others haven't. How is he to know that they have only had nasturtium flowers? And even if he does know, he also knows that the nasturtium flower is a colour producer, just the same as the capsicum, only in a lesser degree. Does he not do quite right by disqualifying all birds which had their natural colour deepened?

"Cage Birds" Picture Puzzle.

Can You Solve It? HALF-GUINEA CASH FOR THE SUCCESSFUL COMPETITOR.

The "Jig-saw" picture above hides in its jumbled-up pieces two British birds. A cash prize of half a guinea is waiting for the reader who cuts out the pieces and pastes them on a sheet of paper or cardboard so as to produce the original picture of this couple before it was cut and jumbled up. The key to the correct arrangement of the pieces (as given by our artist) is locked in the Editor's desk. In the event of no reader correctly solving this puzzle, the prize will go to the effort which comes nearest the said key-picture; should two or more readers be correct, the prize will go to the one who sends in the most neatly arranged attempt.

In solving this puzzle, every jumbled piece appearing on the drawing must be utilised—any picture sent in which is made up of less than the said number, or to which extra pieces have been added, will be disqualified.

All solutions should be sent packed flat, with the full name and address of the competitor clearly written at the foot, and be posted to reach CAGE BIRDS Offices (154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.) not later than first post Friday, Jan. 2nd, when the competition closes. The Editor's decision will be final.

Pentrebach and Pontypridd Shows.

The Other Side of the Matter.

Sir,—In the letter from Mr. A. E. Brown, sec. of the Pentrebach Society, the tone is so prejudicial and the allegations seem to be so grave, that I cannot allow it to go by unchallenged, and especially as to the part referring to my action as secretary of the South Wales and Mon Federation. Anyone not acquainted with the facts of Pontypridd changing its date and also those who were not present at the annual meeting of the Federation would take it for granted that I had most grossly abused my position as secretary of this body, and, if true, I would deserve to be instantly expelled from that body. Mr. Brown in his first sentence states: "I regret having to take this step," etc. Now, Mr. Brown, I generally call a spade a spade, and I do not believe that you regret writing the epistle, which you have, as far as I know, sent to six papers. I do not know how many more. Your letter is as full of prejudice and bad blood as it is possible to be, simply because we at Pontypridd altered our date this year, and it happened to be the day before your show. The facts of the case are as follow: In the beginning of this year I wrote Mr. E. Ll. Simon, Pembroke, a vice president of the Federation, on some matters connected with that body. Mr. Simon is also a prominent member of the Pembroke Society; and in my letter I asked him if he could influence his society in becoming affiliated to the Federation. At that time I did not know the address and name of secretary. In his reply he pointed out that Pembroke and Pontypridd held their shows on the same day, and unless some arrangement could be made to alter that he did not believe it would be any advantage to Pembroke to become affiliated. He stated that they had tried several dates, but the first Wednesday in December seemed to be the one which suited them. At a meeting of my society I brought this matter forward, and it was decided that if I thought by altering our date it was likely that Pembroke would join the Federation, they were agreeable to do so, and consequently we altered the date to a week previous, November 26. Result, adding another society to the Federation. The date, however, was altered subject to the consideration of the Federation, and its annual meeting was held May 12, at Swansea, and all dates of affiliated societies considered. Before this meeting we advertised our date in your paper, and a little time after I received a letter from Mr. Brown objecting to this alteration, and considered it was a matter for the Federation. At the annual meeting I, as secretary, brought Mr. Brown's letter of objection before the representatives and I stated the reason of Pontypridd altering the date. I may say that though this meeting was a very important one, as dates were to be fixed, etc., and it seemed to seriously affect the Pentrebach Society, that society was not represented. The matter was discussed, and it was unanimously decided that Pontypridd should have the date of November 26, and it was also stated, not only by some of the representatives, but by the president himself, that they considered it would really be an advantage to Pentrebach. I may also mention that two or three societies had also selected the same date as Pentrebach, but these were overruled. These are the facts of the case. It must be remembered that the Federation is composed of about 30 societies, and it is impossible to have one show a week in our area from September to January. I do not know how Mr. Brown would alter this. At our last annual meeting we only in one case failed to avoid the clashing of two societies, and actually prevented about a dozen societies from clashing. Yet Mr. Brown states "If things are allowed to go on like this the sooner the Federation falls the better!" Mr. Brown says that owing to Pontypridd holding their show a day before Pentrebach the latter resulted in a failure. I am sorry to hear that their show was a failure, and I cannot account for Pontypridd being the cause of it. On the day Pentrebach held their show there were ten other shows. Result, Pentrebach failure. On the day Pontypridd held their show there were twenty shows, including Bristol, and Lord Tredegar's. Result, success for Pontypridd. How do you account for this Mr. Brown? At our annual meeting of the Federation Mr. W. G. Camden recommended, after we had been awarded the date of November 26, that I should insert in my schedule that exhibits entered for both shows would be sent in time for Pentrebach. This I did, also advertised the fact in several paragraphs sent to the Press. Did you do anything of this kind Mr. Brown? I do not think so. It is true there were a few mistakes made with regard to exhibits sent to your show, but not anything like you appear to make out. It is practically impossible for you to paint us blacker than you have attempted to do with regard to these exhibits; you say in nearly every case Pentrebach labels were not attached. On all the exhibits going out of our hall the night of the show to your show the carrier to the T.V.R. Station wrote on each label as I called out, "carriage paid," or "carriage forward"; he will bear me out in that. Again, the booking clerk will also say that all exhibits sent to Pentrebach had the labels properly addressed and fixed. If you dispute this fact, I can refer you to Mr. Hurford, T.V.R. Stationmaster, Pontypridd, and he will no doubt substantiate my statements. There must have been some wholesale wickedness occur for you to receive same in such a state; it is beyond my comprehension how they went to you at all. You state, again, that you received a postcard from me re bird missing; you received this postcard on the 28th, you say. With regard to this postcard, Mr. Brown, you have paid me a great compliment. At night of our show one of the stewards thought a cage bird was missing. After I arrived home from the hall about 1 a.m., I wrote that postcard, and posted same on the morning of the 27th. Fortunately, this was "another mistake" on the part of the steward; there was no bird missing. I am sure those who have read Mr. Brown's letter will have read between the lines that there must be something beyond the few mistakes made before a secretary would write in such a strain of another and his society, but I am sure, sir, that with all our faults and with Mr. Brown's intention we will outlive these unfair remarks of Mr. Brown.

THE DISQUALIFIED YORKSHIRE AT HALIFAX SHOW.

A Reply from the President of the Council.

Sir,—As President of the Y.U. Council may I ask you kindly to allow me space in your valuable paper to put before your readers the case of the disqualified Yorkshire at Halifax Show from our standpoint? I should not have troubled you, sir, had it not been for the fact that Mr. House in his last letter appearing in Cage Birds, December 6, goes rather too far in his abuse of the Council and tries to throw ridicule upon the delegates. Now, sir, with your permission, I propose to commence with the case as it has presented itself to me from the evening of the first day of Halifax Show. Mr. Ross, one of the show officials, informed me that Mr. House had disqualified a green marked yell. hen belonging to Messrs. Ogden Bros. for alleged trimming. He showed me the bird but I failed to find anything wrong with it; he then told me to examine its eyes. I did so and still could discern nothing amiss except that the bird was very full of pen feather about the face and head. There were several of us about, but no one could find evidences of plucking. Mr. Ross informed me that there was a distinct bare place just above the eye markings on the right eye; he had seen it in Mr. House's hand in the morning. Mr. Robertshaw, Mr. Macpherson, and Mr. Clegg also saw the bare place at the same time. On the Saturday, as you are aware, there was a special meeting of the Council called for the purpose of dealing with the disqualification, a report of which appeared in Cage Birds the following week. Your readers and yourself would find on perusing the report that Mr. House was asked to show to myself and Mr. Hill the bare place upon the bird's head. He caught the bird, examined it, replaced it in its cage, and then made the bold statement that it was not the bird he had disqualified the day previous. After looking at the bird for a few seconds he said this bird was not marked in the same way as the one he disqualified, this having no markings in front of the eyes, whilst the other one had. Now, sir, do you not think that it was rather late on in the day to say that the bird had been changed, and that the eye markings were different? Why did he not make those statements before handling the bird? Surely he could see the marking of the bird whilst it was in the show cage; also, why did he not tell Mr. Hill earlier in the afternoon that the bird they were both looking at together was not the bird he had disqualified instead of pointing out to Mr. Hill the position of the bare place where he said the feathers had been plucked. No, sir, Mr. House had been too long in finding out that the bird had been changed for us to be convinced that he was not making a mistake. Mr. Towers said he thought it was absurd to think of the bird being changed during the show, and I think he echoed the thoughts of most of the delegates present. After the meeting Mr. House was very dissatisfied with its findings; said the Council had exonerated everybody but the judge, and him they had made into a liar. He somehow made Mr. Ross, Mr. Macpherson, and Mr. Robertshaw think the Council had made them into liars. As a matter of fact their evidence was never questioned; they were believed implicitly as to their having seen a bare place on the bird's head on the Friday. On the Saturday Mr. House failed to find the bare place, consequently they failed to see it. But it was there, Mr. Editor, all the time; the rather poor light in the room being responsible for Mr. House's failure, in my opinion. Now, sir, seeing that there was some little discontent with the findings of the Council I was invited to take charge of the bird for a few weeks to see how it turned out. I did so, and the first thing I noticed upon unpacking the bird on the Sunday morning was the white tipped feather mentioned by Mr. Macpherson at the meeting. I asked him to come and have a look at the bird, which he did on the Tuesday following at noon. I asked him if he thought it was the same bird which Mr. House had disqualified and he said it looked like it; there was the white tipped feather, could I show him the bare place? I caught the bird in my hand and turned the feather up just above the eye marking on the right eye and there was a distinct bare place about a quarter of an inch long and an eighth of an inch wide. Mr. Macpherson then said he was of the opinion that it was the same bird that Mr. House had disqualified. I also turned the feather up on the left side of the bird's head and there again was a distinct bare place. I then examined one or two of my own birds and found the bare places in every case of a bird with pen feather about the head. I had Mr. Clegg to see the bird and he was of the same opinion; several others of our members came to look at the bird with a view to reporting at a special meeting of the Halifax O.S. to be held Nov. 15, to discuss the case. We had the bird at the meeting and we also had Mr. House; someone had informed him of the meeting so he had come along to assist us. The various members of the committee gave their reports as to having seen the bird examined, and expressed the opinion that the bare places were natural. Mr. Macpherson also stated to the meeting the opinion he had expressed to me as to its being the same bird. We also had a very long speech from Mr. House, in the course of which he told the meeting that when he had judged the class to which this bird belonged he rather suspected that owing to its nice eye markings and what he knew of the even marks of the olden times that it had been trimmed; he therefore caught it in his hand, turned up the feathers, found the bare place. He felt that mad and angry, he said, to think that anybody in Yorkshire should try to get the better of him, so he disqualified it. He also denied that it was natural for a bird to have bare places on its head, as he asserted that the feathers grow all over. Now, I think all breeders of Canaries will have seen how the feathers grow on a bird's head, as it is very noticeable whilst they are getting their first set of feathers. The bare places show on the youngsters in the nest until the feather grows long enough to hide them. Mr. House was asked to catch and examine the bird, but would not do so. Asked if it was the same bird we had before the Council he said that without handling it he thought it was. I wonder why, after hearing all the evidence, he refused to handle the bird. On November 22 there was a meeting of the Y.U. Council, a report of which appeared in your issue of Nov. 29, also an editorial note in which you state that in no rule can you find anything to give us authority to alter a judge's decision, and you quote Rule 6 which says: "The decision of the judge shall be final, unless it can be proved—" etc. That rule refers to the prizes or cards awarded by the judge, which cannot be altered unless an objection is laid and proved to the satisfaction of the committee. It does not refer to a disqualification by the judge (a point, this, which I should have thought would be quite clear to anyone) therefore it has no bearing on the case. Rule 8, quoted by you, states: "Any exhibitor who shall be disqualified at any show held under the rules of the Union for fraudulent practices shall forfeit—etc. Such disqualification must be reported to the Union Sec., to be dealt with by the Council." Now, sir, I think you will agree with me that any fair-minded person will not consider that an exhibitor shall be deemed to be disqualified on the bare statement by the judge that in his opinion a bird has been tampered with, and he has disqualified it. I think you will see the vast difference between the disqualification of an exhibit and an exhibitor, the judge disqualifies the exhibit and some higher authority deals with the exhibitor. Surely Mr. House will agree that before punishing an exhibitor he must be proved guilty of fraudulent practice, and not the victim of an error of judgment. Rule 9, quoted by you, gives the power to a show committee to deal with a case of this kind, and also to punish an exhibitor in accordance with these rules. It also gives power to an exhibitor to appeal to the Council of the Union against the committee's decision. The Halifax Show Committee, however, did not deal with this case; they never attempted to do so. The judge's disqualification was sent to the Union Sec., and the Halifax Sec., engaged the room for the Council meeting. Under these circumstances I think there is no question as to Rule 8 being violated by the Council. The above rules occur in our Show Rules and Regulations. Will you kindly allow me to quote Rule 26 of the General Rules: "Should any circumstances arise at any show requiring the immediate deliberations of the Council the Show Sec. shall call a meeting of members of the Council who may be present at the show, but not less than five societies in the Union shall be represented to form a quorum." Did not this case require immediate deliberation? And now to Mr. House's abusive letter: He says after quoting resolution passed by the Council at Bradford that were it not so serious a matter it would be almost laughable. The Council have now decided that in addition to him being incompetent and a liar, he is also blind. Let me say here I have never heard a single delegate, either inside or outside the Council, charge Mr. House with being a liar or being blind; but I think he must have an abnormal bump of self-estimation, as he seems to think it impossible for himself to make a mistake. As to his statement that the delegates never saw the bird that he disqualified, when does he suggest the change took place? Did it take place previous to the show being opened to the public? It must have if Mr. House is correct that none of us have seen the bird. That statement is a direct insult and charge against the Halifax Show Committee in my opinion. I will now conclude by referring to the last paragraph of his letter. He appears to be desirous that we should hear some more evidence. I should not press too much for it if I were in his place; he pressed for evidence from a member of the Union before and when he got it through your column, sir, it rather staggered him. I refer to the letter of Mr. R. Sutcliffe.

H. W. Walsh.

[We can only repeat with all respect that in our opinion the Yorkshire Union exceeded its powers in dealing with this case in the way they did. Their show rule, Number 6, says most distinctly "The decision of the judge shall be final" except in certain contingencies, none of which arises in this case. Rule 9 distinctly says the "Committee" must first deal with the case, not the Council. And we can only regard it is a regrettable precedent that the Council should attempt to justify a clear breach of their own show rules by any reference to their general rules. Into the question as to whether Mr. House was right or wrong we do not care to enter. But rules are rules, and it will be an ill day for the Fancy when ruling powers disregard their own regulations for any purpose, however laudable. Finally, may we point out that the General Rule, No. 26, referred to by Mr. Walsh gives the Council no power whatever to upset Show Rule 6, or any other show rule for that matter? It merely gives the show sec. power to call the Council together to deliberate. Their powers of decision after deliberation are specified in Show Rule No. 8.—Editor "C.B."]

The Keighley Society's View of the Matter.

Sir,—The Keighley and Dis. Cage Bird Society, after discussing the Halifax disqualification case, passed a vote of confidence in Mr. C. A. House, and came to the following decision, which they communicate to you: That it is our opinion that the rules of the Yorkshire Union have been broken; also that the action of the Council in the case was illegal; and we call upon them to correct that action, in order that justice may be done. The meeting also hopes that other societies will voice their opinion on the matter, which in our opinion is a serious one. Our decision was come to by reading the evidence of the four officials of the Halifax Society, and we are of opinion that had a novice been placed in the same position, he would have fared worse.

OUR THIRD LIST OF WINNERS OF HALF-SOVEREIGNS.

Have You Had Yours? Cash at the Palace? Are You Wanting Some of the £100 It Costs You Only 6d. to Try for it!

WE have pleasure in publishing below the third list of fanciers who have been successful in annexing 10s. cash specials in our Coupon Championship Competition This is up-to-date, so far as we have received signed lists of awards from the various secretaries. Now that the pressure of show reports on our space is relaxing somewhat, we shall hope to find a vacant page in one of our next two issues to publish a complete list of the winners of our diplomas. We trust that secretaries who have not as yet sent us complete lists of the judge's awards at their shows will do so at once.

Last week we published a list of the splendid specials we are offering at the Crystal Palace show for competition amongst winners of Diplomas. We should like to see all our exhibiting readers join in this competition. There are still excellent opportunities of securing the necessary Diploma—in itself an artistic and valuable prize. Here are the forthcoming Diploma shows—good classification and good chances at all:—

Dec. 31 and Jan. 1, Scottish National.
Jan. 3 and 9, Bangor (Ireland).
Jan. 10, Doncaster.
Jan. 13, Llanelly.
Jan. 20 and 21, Boscombe (Bournemouth).

Schedules can be obtained from the respective secretaries (note the show adverts. this week on page 535).

What Others Think of Our Diplomas.

I received the Diploma won at Kelty Show, and feel very proud at being the possessor. It is an honour worth having in more ways than one, and I thank you for your valuable gift.—John Thomson (Kirkcaldy).

Received Diploma all right, and I think it is very beautiful.—Wm. Scott (Coatbridge).

Many thanks for Diploma of Honour won at Ramsgate. It is beautifully finished.—W. Dell (Bromley).

Received Diploma, with which I am very well pleased.—C. E. Lloyd (Earlston).

Received Diploma; very artistic work, and well worth competing for. — H. Simmonds (London, S.W.).

Many thanks for novice Diploma I won at Nottingham Show, being my first time out at a big show. I am quite delighted with it, for I think it is grand.—W. G. Smith (Finedon).

How Exhibitors May Enter,

All who intend entering Coupon birds at these shows must do so under these conditions:—CAGE BIRDS offers the following Championship Competition prizes:—

10s. cash for best champion coupon bird.
10s. cash for best novice coupon bird.

Diplomas of honour for the best champion and the best novice coupon birds in each of the following sections; or in as many of these sections as are included in the classification:—

(1) Yorkshire Canaries.
(2) Norwich.
(3) Crests & Creetbreds.
(4) Border Fancies.
(5) Scotch Fancies and Belgians.
(6) Greens.
(7) Lancs. and Lizards.
(8) Any Other Variety Canary.
(9) Mules & Hybrids.
(10) British, Hardbilled.
(11) British, Softbilled.
(12) Foreign.

All the exhibitor has to do is to stick one of CAGE BIRDS Coupons on his entry form and write "C.B." opposite each bird he wishes to compete; except if a novice, when he must write "C.B. Novice."

Coupons, price 6d. each, may be purchased from the offices of CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C., or, if the time is short, enclose the necessary extra cash with your entry fees to the secretary of the show, and he will affix coupons opposite whichever birds you have marked on your entry form. Every coupon is numbered and a record of it kept at CAGE BIRDS offices.

NOTE CAREFULLY.—A coupon must be affixed to the entry form opposite every bird intended to compete in this Championship Competition. Any number of coupon birds may be entered by any exhibitor, either in one section or in several, as may be desired, so long as a coupon is used for each bird. For every coupon bird, of course, the usual entry fee must be paid to the show officials. Entries in CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition are accepted only on the understanding that the governing rules as published in CAGE BIRDS are to be absolutely final and legally binding.

For full particulars, see last week's issue.

TWITTERINGS—Continued.

Prize-money Paid.

We hear that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Anyone overlooked should apply to the various secretaries: Birmingham, Luton, London C.B.A., Tong, Brighton, Tredegar, Hastings and St. Leonards, Preston, Auchterarder.

At Malton Show.

If fanciers wish to send their exhibits on Dec. 24, or Xmas Day, to Malton show, held Dec. 26, I will guarantee to look after them writes Mr. Jas. Wilson, the Sec. Malton has a good railway connection, and fanciers need not be afraid of sending their most valuable birds. I am a well-known fancier and exhibitor, and will attend to all birds which come before the morning of show.

Off to South Africa.

I have just despatched birds to South Africa, writes Mr. W. N. Turner (Manchester). My customer informs me he receives CAGE BIRDS every week, and it is through my many wins reported in your paper he decided to purchase from me, which proves what a huge success as an advertising medium for the Fancy your paper must be. I hope the birds will take such a big journey safely, and wish your paper continued success.

Clapham's Next Venture.

To Colonial Fanciers.

The manager of the Crystal Palace Show, Mr. J. W. Ramsden (11, Josephine Avenue, Brixton) informs us that he will be pleased to send a copy of the catalogue of the forthcoming show free to any fancier in the Colonies who applies to him for one, providing, of course, that he has sufficient catalogues left over at the conclusion of the show to allow of this being done. All catalogues will be sent off strictly in the rotation in which the applications are received by him.

LANCASTER C.B.S.

Fifteenth annual show held Nov. 21 and 22 in Market Hall Coffee Tavern, with over 300 exhibits. Norwich and Yorks. were good, many birds having won in open competition. Hybrids and Mules numbered 14 in their class, and were a very nice lot. Messrs. P. Alexander's and Fisher's birds being exceptionally good. Two Linnet Bullies, one Gold Bullie and a Greenfinch-Redpoll all young birds. Cafferty and Son won the challenge rose bowl outright, T. Swainson Norwich cup, Cafferty and Son Yorks. cup, T. P. Alexander Brit. cup, W. E. Wilson Bord. medal, J. Taylor nov. medal. Mr. A. Hirst, Accrington, judged and gave entire satisfaction.

EAST STANLEY.

With an entry double that of last year, and a nice show of quality, the fixture promoted by the Stanley Empire Workmen's Club, and held Nov. 22nd, may well be described as a success. Canary cup for most points with three nominated birds fell to Mr. Robinson, the popular sec., with 19 points, but he was closely pressed by Mr. Bates, 18. British bird cup for two nominated birds went to Mr. Gowland, 14 points, Mr. Boyle coming second with 13 Special for worst bird in the show fell to Mr. Edmunds. The birds were nicely staged, and their needs were well attended to by a most excellent lot of stewards. Mr. Robinson made a most courteous and energetic sec., and he received a helping hand from that good fancier and well known West Stanley official, Mr. Elliott. Mr. C. A. House judged.

LEIGH.

Ninth annual show, held at the headquarters, Railway Hotel, Nov. 22 and 23, with an entry of 110. The open Linnet class was poorly patronised, only nine entries turning up for 17s. 6d. prize money. Norwich, Yorks., and Crests were very good and well staged. Mr. Collier's buff Norwich hen, taking special for best bird in show, and Mr. Hart's Crest, second best. Competition was very keen on account of the cup, and a copper kettle given by Mr. H. Taylor for most points. Mr. J. Lomas won the cup with most points gained by nominated birds at both shows, 37 points; Mr. Taylor runner-up with 36. This is the third time Mr. Taylor has been runner-up for cup, losing it twice with 1 point, and once with 2 points. Mr. Taylor scored most points through show, 46, but, owing to his not competing for the kettle and standing down to 2nd special, the kettle fell to Mr. T. Dawson with 36 points. Sp. for best, vhc, hc, and c went to J. Lomas, Gaskell Bros., and C. Wylie, respectively. Specials for most points in Nor., Yorks., Crest, and British and Mules, Dawson, W. Hulme, Lomas, and Taylor respectively. Mr. Dawson's medal and spoons for 1st and 2nd, most points in selling classes, and gift class at both shows were won by H. Taylor (8 points), 1, and T. Wilkinson (6 points), 2. Specials were kindly given by Mr. Taylor, Mr. Dawson, Mr. Keeley, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Collier, Mr. Hulme, Mr. Galvin, Mr. Halsalls, Mrs. Wyatt, and Mr. Smith, all of which were appreciated and well fought for. Mr. A. Wellings, Prescott, judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

GLASGOW (Queen's Park).

Fifth Annual Show held Victoria Rooms, Dec. 6. Keen frost prevailed, but the hall, which is well lighted on both sides, was of equable and comfortable temperature. Mr. R. Martin (Kirkintilloch) judged Crests and Nor., and Mr. J. W. Bruce (Coldstream) the remainder. All went through without a hitch, under the able and masterly hand of Mr. R. Heggie, supported by an able staff, who, like their head, followed out the work in a quiet but efficient manner, and left nothing to be desired. Quality was of a high standard, especially in Norwich and Yorks, while the Borders, Mules, and British contained some outstanding specimens. Mr. Heggie took spl. for best bird with his clear Greenie Mule, now well known; while Mr. G. McGavin, with a charming Chaffinch hen, won spl. for best Mule, Brit. or For. (cup-winning Mule debarred). Best Nor., Mr. Naismith; best Nord. or Yorks, R. Heggie. Gold medal for best unflig. Nor., and spl. for best unflig. opposite sex, R. B. Cairns. Entries came up about the same as last year, while the gate receipts were up, as also were the sales, a few of the winners changing hands at catalogue price.

The Critique.

NOR., CL. OR TKD. YELL. CK. "CAGE BIRDS" WATCH COUPON Dec. 20th, 1913.

Manager, "CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

AUCHTERARDER.

Annual show was held in the Aytoun Hall, Auchterarder, Dec. 13, about 130 birds were staged, slightly more than last year; quality in some classes was excellent. The cage bird section is run by a few enthusiastic members, notably Mr. D. Roy, and Mr. H. Gardiner; while the sec., Mr. James Dow, had all arrangements in apple pie order. The cup for most points and the splendid silver tea service presented by Sir Theodore Brinckman for most points won by six nominated birds was gained by Mr. Roy. There was a good attendance of visitors during the afternoon, among whom were our old friends Hughie Moreland, of Falkirk, and John Brown, Edinburgh, both seeming to be as keen on the birds as ever. Mr. A. Eadie, Falkirk, judged, and his awards seemed to give general satisfaction.

GATESHEAD'S WONDERFULL SHOW WONDERFULLY MANAGED.

One of the finest displays in the North: Nearly 1,300 Exhibits of Superb Quality.

The classic event of the season in the North is Gateshead show, and the fourteenth anniversary was Dec. 12 and 13. It will be remembered that last year the show suffered to a considerable extent owing to the great railway strike, but this year a different tale has to be told. Exhibitors appear to have made up their minds to recompense the society as far as possible by sending them a good entry, and their best birds, consequently we are able to record this show as one of the very finest exhibition of cage birds ever seen in the North of England. It was truly a brilliant spectacle, great in numbers, and greater still in quality—1,075 open exhibits, with 197 in the members' classes, making a grand total of 1,272, the majority of them exhibits of the first water, practically the pick of the Fancy—a sight that delighted the eye, and gave pleasure to the hosts of visitors who gazed upon them in wonder and admiration. Well named the "Palace of the North," the Gateshead Society has always been famous for the quality of its annual shows, but we doubt if this one has ever been excelled, and if the management could only have heard the nice things said about them, they could be well excused for feeling proud of their great achievement. The Burt Terrace Drill Hall was again the venue, and a finer place it would be difficult to find—spacious and lofty, with plenty of light, free from draught, and provided with everything necessary for the well being of both exhibits and visitors. The staging was a treat, and quite in keeping with Gateshead's reputation. Each section by itself, the classes in regular order, up and down the aisles, and the exhibits placed at a nice height, to be easily seen by visitors, just how it should be.

"Two Heads are Better than One."

The responsibility for arranging the show to the best possible advantage rested with Messrs. F. F. Hawkins and R. Tindale, who jointly undertook the duties of show mangers. These two gentlemen are without a doubt past masters in the art of managing a show, and as each of them has occupied the position of show manager singly at previous shows, it will be at once understood, two heads being better than one, that their work was absolutely perfect, and that everything they took in hand was done with methodical precision. Fanciers like to see good management at a show, and the manner in which Messrs. Hawkins and Tindale went about their duties, cheerfully attending to everything and everybody, without the slightest grumble, must have been a pleasure to all, and their courteous and obliging manner, together with their skilful management, will no doubt be remembered by fanciers when the next show comes round. We now come to the secretary, Mr. W. Curry, and here we pause, for we feel that we can but inadequately express our appreciation of the splendid manner in which he carries out his duties. Show manager for one big society, and secretary for another, his great experience enables him to take charge of the secretarial duties in a manner equalled by few, and surpassed by none. Not the slightest detail is overlooked by him, the whole of his work being carried out with clocklike accuracy. The society is very strongly supported in the matter of patrons and officials, Ald. Gillies, J.P., being at the head as president, while Miss Mary Baxter Ellis, Mrs. Blair, Mrs. Gilbert, and Mrs. T. Taylor are very generous patrons. The list of vice-presidents is a very lengthy one, while a grand working body of officials is composed of Mr. A. Holden, chair; Mr. C. C. Petterson, vice-chair; J. W. Reed and R. Topping, auditors; and the following committee: Messrs. W. Longstaff, A. T. Hodson, J. Moor, D. E. Kent, J. W. Reed, F. F. Hawkins, J. Mackenzie, H. Wellsbury, R. Hope, J. Davidson, J. Maddison, J. W. Lawson, A. W. Lord, J. Scott, J. W. Laidlow, J. Liddle, R. Topping, J. Bertram, W. Mather, J. Peirson, J. G. Greason, and R. Tindale. A word of praise must be given to Mr. J. G. Greason, whom we found at the secretarial bench rendering every possible help to his chief—help that was much appreciated.

The Sensational Hybrid Once Again.

In a show remarkable for the quality of the exhibits, the outstanding bird was undoubtedly Mr. R. D. Parlett's light Canary-Bullfinch, the bird that is at present the subject of so much comment. I read CAGE BIRDS' reporter's comments on the bird at Bradford show, and took this opportunity of examining the bird at Gateshead, and I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that your reporter was quite correct in every detail, for I am fully convinced that the bird is just what it is claimed to be, viz., a Canary-Bullfinch Hybrid, the Canary cross being easily discernible. This opinion was fully shared by the large number of fanciers who also examined the bird, and if any further vindication of Mr. Alf Welling's action in placing the bird first at Preston is needed, surely it is forthcoming in the fact that the bird has been also recognised and accepted as a Canary-Bullie by such experts as Mr. J. Maddison, who placed it third at Bradford, and Mr. John Robson, who awarded it first at Gateshead.

Norwich were a splendid collection, totalling 208 in 13 classes—an average of 16 per class. Large type predominated throughout, and a finer collection of typical birds has not been seen in the North of England for some years. Short, thick-set birds, teeming with quality and col., were the rule, and many really grand birds had to stand cardless, so keen was the competition. Mr. Joe Thomas staged a grand team, capturing four firsts, three seconds, and a third, his winning unlighted buff being a real stormer, and without a doubt one of the best youngsters out this year. Yorks. also were a grand lot—165 in 11 classes. A stickler for quality is Mr. Bailey. One could take the whole Yorkshire section through and not find a bird in the money that lacked quality, consequently the winners were all birds of true type, and feathered to perfection with close, tight fitting feather, of the finest texture, looseness of feather and frills apparently being an eyesore to Mr. Bailey, no matter how good the bird may be otherwise. Crests were not numerous—27 in 4 classes, but quality was very nice. Lizards had 15 in 2 classes, and here again the quality was superb, the winners being all birds full of work and colour.

The Scotch Fancies Come in for Attention.

Scotch Fancies, although not large in number, made up in quality, being very equal all through. Mr. Thos. Chapman had forward a large team, and came in for the lion's share of the prizes; he is making a great name for himself and the bird he loves in the North of England, and we question very much if at any former occasion the Scotch Fancy has claimed so much attention as at Newcastle and Gateshead, at both of which shows Mr. Chapman has carried off the coveted honours for the best member's bird with a Scotch Fancy, and he richly deserved the honour.

A Magnificent lot of Borders.

The Border Fancy section was splendidly filled, and the exhibits were of first class standard. It was truly a meeting of champions, as at this time of the season nothing but the very best come forward to do battle for their respective owners. In every class very little divided the winners; condition, symmetry, roundness of head and back, with perfect wing carriage, being prominent in the winners. Some grand birds now are showing the result of too much hard working, and would be much better for a rest. We think Borders might well be allowed a little more room in staging, and kept from draughts as much as possible; being in open cages, they feel it badly. They were packed too closely across the staging, and one could hardly handle the cages with safety or get the view of the birds that such a grand display merited. The B.F.C.C. medal was awarded to one of the finest clear yellow hens seen out this season, and this award seemed to please everyone. She is a bird of splendid type, neat and round all over, with splendid symmetry, col., qual., and a style all her own. Mr. Gilchrist has every reason to be proud of the achievement. Mr. R. Young won the novice B.F.C.C. medal with a yellow even-mkd. cock. Green Borders were a show in themselves, and such a team of high class birds has scarcely ever met. The best in section was undoubtedly a yellow Green hen, shown by Mr. Johnstone. The Tynesiders have fairly brought this variety to perfection, and had a good share of the prizes, although a few birds from Scotland gave them something to look at and admire. The old school of breeders were there in full force on the Saturday, criticising or admiring, some of them seeing faults which others could not agree upon. A great diversity of opinion seems to take place as to the true colour and pencilling desired. The judge ultimately made the suggestion that as a body they should meet at the Scottish National show, agree as to accepting what they thought the best bird there as their model, draw up a standard of points, and have them printed. This would let the young breeder as well as the old one know. Mr. J. Patterson, handled the section very carefully, and left little room for grumbling. The Scotch Fancies were judged by Messrs. Maddison and Robson together.

Four Clear Mules in Competition.

The Hybrid classes, though not too well filled, contained the very cream of the Fancy; in the class for clear and ticked Mules there were no fewer than four genuine clear Mules, and one which appeared to be a Hybrid from a Border Fancy and a Common Canary. The sensational variegated Bullfinch Hybrid was on view, and commanded more attention than any other bird in the show; here it found favour with yet another judge, who placed it at top of class, but in spite of that there were many fanciers who refused to accept it as a Hybrid, declaring that, apart from its colour it is a better Bullfinch than any bird in the Bullfinch class. It certainly is of great size and substance, and if it had been all dark, instead of splashed, it would have made the Canary-Bullies, and even the Greenie-Bullies, look quite insignificant. We heard one old fancier put a very pertinent query, viz., might it not be a rare-feathered Greenie-Bullie. We have seen a variegated Goldfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid: but whatever it may be, we feel confident that it is not a pure Bullfinch. British bird classes were well filled, the class for field moulted Linnets having 30 entries. Other societies should take the hint. Foreigners were an excellent lot, and a great attraction.

CAGE BIRDS Coupon Competition was in vogue here, and brought forth a nice entry, the diploma winners in the champion sections being: Nor., T. Irons; Crests, E. Richardson; Yorks., J. Thomas; Hybrids, R. D. Parlett; Lizards, W. Reid; Borders, T. Parker; Scotch, R. Willison; Brit., J. Scott; and For., W. J. Thompson.

Fine weather favoured the show both days, and the attendance was very satisfactory, visitors from far and near coming to enjoy the glorious spectacle. Sales were quite up to the average, a good number of birds changing hands, although no startling prices were given, the biggest being six guineas (catalogue price) for the winning old Crest. The judges were Messrs. A. Holden, J. Robson, J. Bailey, J. Patterson, and J. Maddison, and we heard very little grumbling at their selections.

THE CANARY SECTION:

Mr. A. Holden's Classes.

INVERNESS.

First annual show of the Highland P.P. and C.B.A., held Dec. 10, in the Drill Hall, Margaret Street. The hall is an ideal one for a show, being free from draughts, and well lighted. The show was a decided success for a first event. Secs. Messrs. T. Sutherland and Fraser deserve great praise for the way the show was conducted. They were ably backed up by a committee of true fanciers, Messrs. H. M. Graham (pres.), Livingstone, Gillies, McBean, John McBean, R. Duncan, A. McArthur, J. Ritchie, A. Ross, R. Fraser, J. Sutherland, A. and C. Grierson, J. Finlay, G. Allan, F. Stanford, F. Cameron, J. Mackie, T. Forbes, W. Munro, L. and W. MacKay, with Mr. J. Gedall as show attendant. Mr. F. Stanford judged, and his awards were well received. Cup for best Nor. was won by Mr. J. Mackie; sp. best Mule or Hyb., J. Duncan; medal for best Ct. or C.B., and sp. best bird, E. Todd; medal best bird, W. Simpson; medal for best Goldfinch, A. Junor, also sp. for best Brit.; medal best Nov., W. McKay; medal best Yorks., Junor; most points, J. Markie, also memb. medal. The show was well patronised, the drawings were very encouraging, and exhibits, although not strong in numbers, were of a first-class order of merit.

BURY C.B.S.

9th annual show held Nov. 29, in Textile Hall, Bury, an ideal room for the occasion. Entries came up very satisfactorily, every member staging. In Yorks., Messrs. Brooks, Crossley, and Howarth staged some fine specimens. Norwich were a grand lot, Mr. O. Wilson's Burnley and Manchester winner was again shown in the pink. A. Armistead, the old veteran, was also in his usual form. Col.-Sergt. E. Smith, a novice member, popped in a surprise packet in this section. Crest and Crestbreds were a great improvement. A. Armistead winning in the Crest class for the third year in succession. There was a slight falling off in the Britishers. Vice-pres. J. Brough, Esq., captured 1st in Mules. Mr. J. Hopkins, Bolton, played the cards, and left little room for grumbling. The show was a success financially, and exhibitors were quite on good terms with themselves. H. Jameson, Sec.

[From the prize list sent we gather that the principal winners were: Yorks.: Brooks, Howarth, Crossley, Moores, Armistead, Smith. NOR.: Wilson, Armistead, Gorton. CRESTS: Armistead, Gorton, Jameson, Booth. NOV.: Moores, Smith. BRIT.: Gorton, Brough, Homer, Booth, Jameson. MULES: Brown, Gorton.—Ed.]

TONG.

Show held Dec. 13 in the Dudley Hill School, which is an ideal place for a show of Canaries. Entries numbered only 265; there is plenty of room for a much larger show, with good space left for the visitors. The place is extra well lighted. Quality was quite up to the standard of the Union shows, but many of the birds seemed to want a wash. Entries in the champion classes were very poor, only one class paying its own prize money. Novice classes did not come up well, no fewer than three being half prize money. The selling class was better, 19 entries in two classes. Sp. for best cock in novice classes was won by Mr. W. Hirst with a yell. cinn. mkd. Sp. best Nov. hen, Messrs Fisher and Dyson. Members' points specials: 1, Gledhill; 2, Hodgson, jun.; 3, Holdforth. The management was excellent. Mr. Walker, the sec., got through his duties in a way which was a credit to him. He was very ably assisted by the stewards and show committee, which consisted of the following: Messrs. Hodgson and Son, Baker, Nichol, Denton, Gledhill, J. G. Hodgson, Firth, Atkinson, Worsnop, and Parkett. Mr. H. W. Battye judged, and gave every satisfaction.

NEWARK C.B.S.

Fourth annual show, held Nov. 29, in the Friendly Societies' Rooms. The arrangements for the show were in the capable hands of the hon. sec., Mr. W. Lidgett, one of the best; he has everything at his finger ends, and likes to see everything in applepie order. The show room was beautifully decorated with pot flowers, etc. Mr. Lidgett was also assisted by a staff of really good fanciers not afraid of work, a good-hearted lot, worthy to be called a committee. Chairman, Mr. Wells; treas., Mr. Lamb; and vice-chair., Mr. W. Toynbee, helped to make the show a pronounced success. Entries were not quite up to the average, owing to the generally unfavourable breeding season, but what was lacking in quantity was more than made up in quality. Mr. W. Fitchett's buff Norwich cock won society's challenge cup for best bird, this exhibitor having won it last year it now becomes his own property. In Yorks. Mr. W. Staniland won with a buff cock, a fine, slim, upstanding bird, runner-up for the cup. In Norwich non-fed Mr. J. H. Lamb won with a fine bold bird, while in hens Mr. W. Lidgett stood at the top with a capped-mkd. hen. This bird has won 1st in the same class three years in succession. British were not so strong in number as in past, but the winner, a Bramble finch, owned by Mr. W. Lidgett, easily stood first; the mule or hybrid class had some nice birds. Mr. Fitchett won 6 first prizes in all, and his exhibits were much admired. Mr. W. Brotherton, Rotherham, judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

WADEBRIDGE.

Members' second annual show held Nov. 19, in the Drill Hall, which is free from draught, and well lighted. The show was a success, and the birds were well staged. Yorkshires were a good lot. Mr. Boundy won cup for best bird in show with a cl. yell., Mr. Raby's Crest being runner-up. Norwich were also a good lot. Medal for most points was won by Mr. Audrew. The hard-working committee consisted of the following fanciers:—Messrs. Wills, Boundy, Docking, Lobb, Spear, and Hooper. Mr. Mitchell being the hon. sec. must be congratulated on the way in which he had the show under hand. Mr. S. Tickell, Bodmin, judged, and his awards seemed to please all.

LARNE.

Labour and political troubles are upsetting things greatly in Ireland just now, and the Fancy is suffering in common with other organisations. Entries at the show of the Larne and Dis. Cage Bird Association, held in the M'Cosh Town Hall, Dec. 3rd and 4th, were most appreciably affected by the troubles that exist in the Dublin district. Last year Larne had over sixty entries from Dublin, this year only half a dozen. Notwithstanding this drawback, the entry was only twenty down on last year. Scots Fancies, which at one time were the principal feature of North of Ireland shows only numbered four. Crests were few, but the few supplied the winner of the special for best bird in the show, a remarkably fine yellow Crest, shown by Mr. A. Creighton. This well-known Belfast fancier had quite a field day, as he won four specials, four firsts, and one second with half a dozen exhibits. Norwich were of most excellent quality. Mr. Thompson, who was the most successful exhibitor, staged a grand team, birds of grand type, and most excellent feather properties. The Dublin team of Mr. O'Reilly's captured the bulk of the spoil in the Yorkshires, and a very nice lot they were too. The special winning buff is a beauty, so far as shape, feather, and body is concerned; he just wants a bit more leg. Mules were a small, but capital lot. Mr. Lavery won the section special with a very nice Can.-Bullie. Matched pairs for hybrid breeding were most interesting. In the British section Mr. Mulcahy's Goldie was universally admired, as were Mr. Creighton's Linnet, Mr. Carleton's Siskin, and Mr. Lavery's Greenfinch, all birds of high class, and beautifully shown. The exhibits were nicely staged, and their needs were attended to by the following committee, who did their work well: Messrs. Geo. Barton (pres.), W. Owen (treas.), D. M'Elkinney, T. Crooks (trustees), J. Harte, P. Steele, G. Gettinly, E. Ramsey, Wm. Crawford, C. M'Conkey, D. W. Crawford, R. Gilchrist, W. Kane, jun., Jos. M'Conkey, Wm. J. M'Find, R. Baillie, and S. Fullerton (auditor). Mr. Thomas Mayne made a most excellent secretary, and attended to the duties of his office with urbanity and promptitude which called for much commendation. The show was splendidly managed. All that was needed for complete success was a few more entries. Mr. C. A. House judged.

FROME.

Once more the Frome fanciers scored a success in the show held Dec. 11 in the Market Hall. It is the first time they have used this grand building, a wonderfully spacious hall, with a grand top light, and warmed with hot water, so that the exhibits are comfortable, and free from draughts; our section was beautifully staged at one end. Entries hardly came up to last year's splendid record, but all classes were well filled, and quality was far in advance of any previous effort. A unique thing about the show was that every variety of Canary (excepting the white) was on view. The Novice class was a stormer for quality, and contained a couple of fine Dutch Frills, several Cinnamons, Lizards, Belgians, and Scotch Fancies. Mr. Fifield won with a grand recently imported Frill. Norwich were excellent, most of the best breeders in the district staging their winners. In Yorks. the judging had to be delayed in consequence of the non-arrival of several exhibits, Messrs. Hawes Bros. birds not putting in an appearance until close on 2 o'clock, and although Mr. Norman left them as long as possible to recover, they were seriously handicapped, and hardly did themselves justice, although all of them managed to get in the money. Hybrids were extra good, a really very fine collection, and although the Bullfinch class was a poor one for the West of England, a class of 21 very fine Goldies pleased the British bird lovers. They were a fine lot, with the first half-dozen difficult to separate. The chief feature of the members' section was the fine class of Lancashires. Winner of the cup for best mtlig. was Mr. Blewett, and the novice medal Mr. Payne. Mr. Ivo Young once more had the management of the show, consequently all the arrangements were perfect. In his work he was ably assisted by Messrs. Fricker, Kelley, Pinnell, Pope, Elliott, Yeo, Astell, King, and Edwards. The President of the society, L. R. Tanner, Esq., was greatly interested in the exhibition, and spent some time examining the fine collection. The hall was packed during the evening with interested visitors. Mr. H. Norman judged.

CANTERBURY.

Held Dec. 10, in Lower Corn Exchange, a grand hall, with a splendid top light. The birds were staged at the upper end, in the warmest and coolest part of the building. The entry was in excess of last year, and quality far in advance of anything seen before at the Cathedral city. Norwich and Yorks. were a splendid lot, birds of very high merit being staged. There were also a couple of good classes of Borders, and some very nice hybrids and British birds. Mr. J. W. Sargeant once more had the management, and, consequently, everything was in the best of order. Our section is represented on the committee by Mr. H. W. Casemore, H. E. Taylor, and the Rev. C. Sales; the latter gentleman's eyes twinkled merrily when his buff Yorkshire won the special for best member's exhibit. It was a nine gallon cask of ale and a silver medal. Mr. H. Norman judged.

FELINFOEL.

Sixth annual show held Dec. 13, at Public Hall—an admirably adapted place for a show, being very roomy, free from draughts, and well lighted. Unfortunately, although good classification was offered, entries did not come up to expectations, no less than 20 out of 25 classes standing at half prize money, and we are afraid this was partly due to rule 2, as it is rather too much to expect exhibitors to enter on the understanding that there must be nine entries in a class to obtain full prize money. Everything was carried out in a businesslike manner, the staging being neatly arranged, the wants of the birds well attended to, and judging started promptly. This was due to the valuable help given by a hard-working committee, including Messrs. T. J. Rees, chair, Edward Derrick, vice, Sam Jones, M. L. Morris, Sam Evans, J. Jenkins, G. Price, D. Aubrey, D. Morris, Jno. Thomas, Abel Thomas, W. J. Harry, D. Clement, D. Jenkins, Ivor Evans, W. J. Mason, and Richard Jenkins, who were well superintended by Mr. Dan Clement, the excellent show manager. Sec. Mr. Jno. Richards, and his assistant, Mr. T. J. Davies, carried out their duties in a very obliging manner. Unfortunately, owing to a rather serious accident, Mr. Jno. Hocking was unable to judge the Canary section, Mr. Tom Morris officiating in his place. Mr. D. Ray judged British.

ABERDEEN.

58th annual show held Dec. 13 and 14 in the Ball Room Music Hall, which is fairly well lighted and free from draught. Almost 400 entries faced the judges, and this day being ideal, good light was obtained during judging. Aberdeen O.S. has the finest staging we have seen; it can be put up in half an hour, and taken down as quickly, and the exhibits are at a nice height so that they can be comfortably seen. The management was of the best, and every one from the president downward worked with a will. A word of praise is due to the stewards who kept the judges going for all they were worth. The patronage of the Cinnamon Club had been secured, and some rare exhibits were on view. The Rev. B. Nunne had up a grand team, worth going a long way to see, as also had Mr. Proctor and Mrs. Tweddle. Norwich were a fairly good lot. The members' challenge cup for best young Norwich going to Mr. W. Allison, with a grand buff cock, Mr. J. Sandiford was runner up. Challenge cup for most points in British was gained by Mr. R. J. Robertson, who was closely followed by Mr. John Sykes, who won the guinea challenge prize for best British with his well-known Hawfinch. Sandiford's medal for yellows went to Mr. J. Sandison, buffs Mr. W. Allison, Ramsden's medal Mr. S. Wilson, with a nicely fed Cinnamon; Wilson medal Mr. W. Rae. British ranie up fairly well, and both Mr. Sykes' and Mr. Robertson's teams were greatly admired. Mr. Greig is also to be complimented on his fine show of Belgians. Secretary Mr. John Bryson gets through a lot of work, apparently without trouble either to himself or committee. He was well backed up by a lot of hard-working fanciers, and everything went like clock work and without a hitch. The judges, Messrs. Dewar and McLay, got through their work in good time, and gave universal satisfaction.

ROMFORD F.S.

Annual show held Nov. 27 at the Corn Exchange, the headquarters. The show was a great success. Mr. Chas. Ives and the able committee are to be congratulated on the results of their efforts. The cage bird section was not quite up to the standard of last year, exhibits only numbering about 40. Norwich and British being in the majority. Mr. F. V. Hasler won the cup for best bird (bred by exhibitor in current year) with a lovely Norwich cock, being in beautiful feather and well shown. Mr. Forse, Leyton, judged.

TREDEGAR.

Second annual show held in Town Hall, Dec 11. The hall is very roomy and is lighted chiefly from one side. The exhibits were staged in tiers around the room, it would be more advantageous if staging were placed in the centre of hall, in order to obviate the necessity of placing some of the exhibits so high up that they could not be examined properly, and also to prevent some of the cages being staged with their backs to the light. The management was all that could be desired, the wants of the exhibitors being well looked after by a capable band of workers, headed by Mr. Evan Powell, the genial show manager, and the Committee: Messrs. D. Davies, W. Woodall, G. Bennett, W. R. Lewis, J. Harding, R. F. Griffiths, G. Thomas, J. Llewellyn, W. Thomas, W. Turner, E. Hughes, W. Millard, T. Harris, and E. J. Bevan. The secretarial duties were very ably carried out by Mr. W. A. Watkins. Norwich were a fine collection, some really good teams being put down. Yorks. also made a fine show and averaged 10 per class. The novice sections in both Nor. and Yorks. were well supported, indeed, many of the exhibits could have held their own in open competition. British were disappointing in number, with the exception of Goldfinch class, and one wonders what has become of all the British exhibitors in Wales. The following were diploma winners: Ch Nor., D. H Tedstone; Nov. Nor., A. J. Rogers; Ch. Yorks, J. Dugmore; Nov., W. R. Lewis. Mr. R. Halliday judged.

WALSALL.

1st annual open show held Dec. 12, 13, in the Assembly Room of the Y.M.C.A., and the Temperance Hall. Entries were scarcely up to expectation, especially in the Norwich section, and not too brisk in Yorks., seeing that the show was under the patronage of the M.C.Y.C.C., but 240 birds must be accounted good considering it was a first open show, and how some fanciers value their specimens. Quality in both Norwich and Yorks. was of high merit, and some real good teams were staged. Novice Norwich and Yorks. came up well, averaging about 12 per class. British were low in numbers; considering it was a late show, it should have been better patronised, as there were plenty of classes. The management was splendid, and all the committee worked very hard. Mr. T. Price worked like a Trojan, ever ready to do anything that anyone asked him, so as to give satisfaction. Mr. J. A. Tonks, of Wednesbury, came along again and rendered splendid assistance in unparking and staging. Mr. R. K. Hyde, Wolverhampton, worked well as a steward the night before the show, and assisted the judge the day of show. The best of praise is due also to the intended Mrs. Price, in whom the hon. sec. will have a good partner indeed. He would have been in many a tight corner, had it not been for the excellent way she assisted him in his work. The society is possessed of another good organiser in Mr. J. H. Barrett, chairman, who made ends meet without any flurry or fluster. CAGE BIRDS cash special and championship diploma was won by A. J. Smith's champion yonng crested hen which really deserves the honour. Novice cash spl. and diploma won by J. Fossey. Messrs. Crundell and Rowley won diploma for best Norwich; G. Lawton, best Yorkshire; B. Wood, novice Yorks.; J. Gough, best Mule or Hybrid; J. A. Tonks, best Brit.; P. V. Williams, best softbill. Mr. T. G. Thompson had the management of the Rollers under his thumb and finger. Mr. Maclacquemin judged Rollers, and Mr. J. H. Roe the remainder.

The Critique.

NOR. CL. OR TKD. YELL. LOOK OUT FOR "CAGE BIRDS" BIRTHDAY NUMBER.

THREE METHODS
WHICH IS THE BEST?

Advertising by Circulars.

Supposing you wish to get right at 10,000 fanciers. Bearing in mind that the better the 'get up' of your circular the likelier it is to pull, 10,000 circulars will cost you 10 guineas. This is a low estimate. Then there is the postage, another 20 guineas, roughly. But what about the addresses? You have to get them; that is difficult; and even if you had them, remember, the waste paper basket is the premature grave of many a circular.

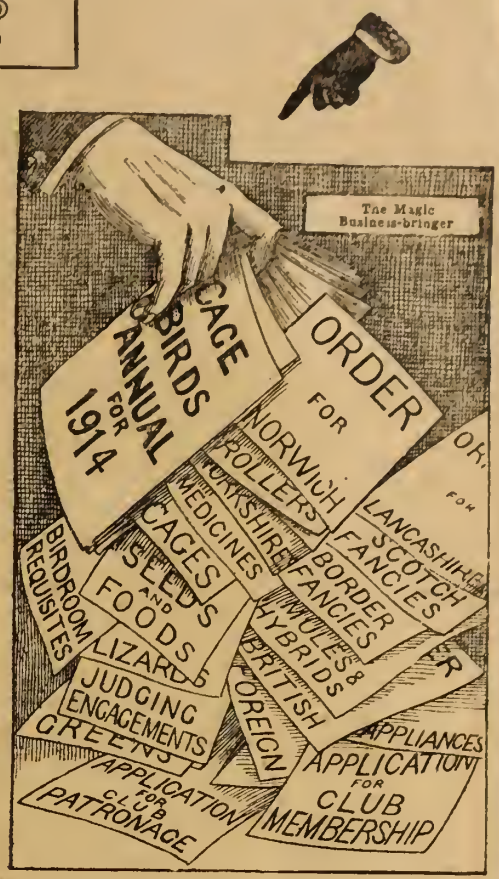
Arguments against—too strong.

Relying on Prestige.

Success on the show bench brings a certain amount of fame to exhibitors, but the scope afforded here is limited to comparatively a few. The best results, in new business, cannot possibly be obtained, even by successful exhibitors, unless the prestige is backed up by judicious advertising.

What about Breeders, Food and Medicine Retailers, Appliance Makers! A reputation for fair dealing is valuable to them. But they are more handicapped than exhibitors, for few shows cater fully for them, and cannot bring them anything like the amount of business they could wish for.

Not sufficient—Turn to the third method.



Advertising in "Cage Birds Annual."

A TRUE ESTIMATE OF THE MEDIUM.

"The Annual has evidently a very wide circulation, as I had enquiries from Belgium, New Zealand and Canada." — An Advertiser in the "Annual."

Circulation, 10,000. A space of about 25 square inches works out at about 5d. or 7d. per week (according to position); an inch space less than 1½d. per week. The contents, including the only full up-to-date detailed list of Cage Bird Societies published; an expert review of the past Show Season, Standards and Scales of points; Breeder's Calendar; the latest Emergency Hints, and a host of helpful articles, will make "Cage Birds Annual" a reference which all who take a real live interest in bird-keeping will find necessary to have at their elbow. It's influence lasts throughout the year.

THINK WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.
A method worth adopting.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers in all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

USE DITCHFIELD'S

Famous bird medicines, as supplied to the London Zoological Society. They are genuine remedies, which can be given with perfect confidence to all classes of cage birds. We have hundreds of testimonials testifying to the value of our bird medicines. A. Sammons, Southend-on-Sea, writes: "You have got a genuine remedy, which no fancier should be without." B. Hutton, Holbeach, writes: "Your Revivo is a marvellous remedy." R. Seekings, March, writes:—"Have saved three young birds with your Tonic Drops." W. Addison, Brynwhelach.—"Your Tonic has worked wonders with my birds." W. H. Harris, Halberton:—"I find your medicines very excellent." F. Clay, Settle:—"Have used your medicines with great success." J. Sherwin, Regent's Park:—"I have found your Tonic Drops most valuable for my birds." Special Notice.—When ordering medicine, kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, going light, not singing, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and inflammation of the bowels. Sold in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For bronchitis, wheezing, hoarseness, and inflammation of the lungs, get Ditchfield's special Lung Tonic, also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This tonic is undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds. For cases of constitutional weakness and debility get Ditchfield's Revivo. There is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the bird. As a pick-me-up for birds before and after showing, Revivo is absolutely unequalled, in 7d. and 1/1 Bottles. To advertise our medicines, we will send two 7d. bottles of either of the above medicines for 1/, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9. All medicines are sent post-paid per return, any bottles broken in transit replaced, also two seed recipes: How to feed Linnets and Rollers for song, given free to all purchasers of our medicines. Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. (1061)

What a Reader thinks of "OUR CANARIES."

5, The Station,
Shincliffe,
Durham.

I am very well satisfied with "Our Canaries," and, as far as I have gone into this wonderful book, I have found some very useful hints. Although only a Novice, I tried my hand at washing a few birds and getting them ready for our Local Show. I washed nine birds in all, only spoiling one. I have had them examined by a friend, who is considered an expert at the game, and he gave me credit for washing them very well, this being my first attempt. I am delighted to think I did so well. The information, which is very concise, that enabled me to wash them so well, was in "OUR CANARIES."

EXPERT CANARY - REARING.

Large sums of money can be made breeding Canaries for sale and exhibition, once you have mastered the science of Mating, Crossing, and Judging. An artistic 20-page Brochure has been specially prepared for CAGE BIRDS readers regarding these matters and other details of great interest to fanciers. It is a gift to you, and you are entitled to it free of charge.

In this booklet will be explained an easy method by which, for the small payment of 1s., you can be the immediate possessor of a magnificent volume, entitled "Our Canaries." It weighs 5lbs., and contains 133 illustrations and 32 coloured plates. The balance is payable at the rate of about 1d. a day for a few months. This slight cost is not, of course, an expenditure at all, because the facts you will be put in possession of when you have read this wonderful manual on Canaries will pay for its cost many times over.

Cut round this Free "Brochure" Ticket dotted lines. Fill in your name, address and occupation, put it inside a halfpenny stamped envelope and post it to-day.

SOUTH-WEST LONDON C.B.S.

Seventeenth annual show, held Dec. 6, at the New Guildhall, Wandsworth Road. Entries were well up on former shows, and many of the exhibits were fit for any England competition. The details of the show were carried out under the supervision of Mr. H. A. Freeman, the Sec., assisted by a good committee of workers, and every attention was paid to the welfare of the exhibits, the comfort of visitors, who were far more numerous than could have been expected considering the weather. The show was in every respect quite a success. Mr. J. Robson judged. Several new comers gave their names for proposal as members for 1914.

EXETER C.B.S.

Seventh annual show held in the Market Hall, Nov. 15. The show this year stands out as a distinct success in every respect. Especially conspicuous were the British birds, there being no less than 91 exhibits in this section, which constitutes a record; in fact, it is entitled to rank as one of the finest exhibitions of British birds that has been seen in the West for some time. A bird that attracted a great deal of attention was a Greenfinch-Chaffinch Hybrid, not for competition. It is interesting to know that there are only three of its kind in the country. It is owned by Mrs. C. Middleton, of Exeter, and is in lovely condition. Norwich were a good level lot, especially the Non-flights, which were excellent. Yorks. were a little below previous years in numbers, but quality was up to the usual standard. In Crests, there were few entries, but nevertheless a grand lot. Pres. is the Mayor, Mr. Kendall King. The committee is composed of all good fanciers, who took a great interest in the welfare of the birds. Mr. R. H. Folley, the hon. sec., is very energetic, and had everything well in hand. His untiring efforts contributed very largely to the success of the show. The Canary section was judged by Mr. J. Dunmett, Tiverton, and the remainder by Mr. F. Collins, Camborne, and the awards were well received.

Our Thanks and a Greeting.

Will the many readers who have so kindly sent us good wishes for Christmas and the New Year accept our thanks for their remembrance of us. We greatly value these expressions of goodwill, and reciprocate them to the full.

That the coming year may be crammed with good things for each and every reader of "Cage Birds" is our heartfelt wish.

Twitterings.

At Frome show, 1st in Border hens should be Jenkins, not Madagan, as reported.

Hartlepools C.B.S. have fixed on Nov. 7, 1914, for their next open show. Other societies please note.—Woodhead and Pyman (hon. secs.).

The Calendar is simply magnificent, and a credit to the artist, also the Xmas Number is grand and speaks for itself.—J. O. Williams (Bangor).

We hear that prize-money has been paid out in respect to Canterbury show. Anyone that may have been overlooked should apply to the sec.

I am simply charmed with the magnificent drawing, in last week's splendid issue, of my little Treecreeper, which your artist has sketched with such admirable accuracy in all details.—V. Wynn (London, W.).

Bradford West C.B.A. holds a members' show on Dec. 27, at headquarters, "Shoulder of Mutton," Girlington, writes Mr. A. Cooper. Judge, W. Mundell, Esq. I hope all members will enter their birds and make the show the best of the season.

The Watford and Dist. C.B.S. has decided to hold an open show next year on Oct. 7 and 8, and has been successful in engaging the Kingham Memorial Hall for the purpose, writes Mr. W. Rackley, the hon. sec. Will other societies kindly note?

Will members of Rotherham C.B.S., writes Mr. B. Bailey, the sec., please note that the next meeting will be held at the St. George's Hall on Dec. 27, in the room we had before, as we cannot have the College Inn? Very important business.

The December price-list of that well-known dealer in birds, etc., Mr. John D. Handyn (221, St. George's St., London, E.) is rendered notable by a probably unique photograph of Nellie, a clever chimpanzee, trained by Mr. and Mrs. Hamlyn, using a typewriting machine!

At Blackwood (Mon.) show, on Jan. 6th, we are giving a big list of specials, as well as good prize-money. Will exhibitors kindly give us their entries early, because of holiday time, to give us a chance to get our work well in hand. Review of schedule appeared last week. Entries close Dec. 31, latest. We have a class for children under 14 years, entrance fee 6d.; prizes 6s., 4s., 2s., and 2s. 6d. special on class. I hope exhibitors will send us a big entry, writes Mr. W. H. Coleman, sec.

Help Both Your Hobby and "Cage Birds" by Distributing Our Calendars for 1914.

To Secretaries of Societies and others willing to distribute copies of CAGE BIRDS' coloured Calendar for 1914, or place same where they will be seen by the general public, we shall be pleased to forward a supply if they will kindly make application to our Publisher: CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.; a postcard will do.

What Others Say of "Cage Birds" as a Marvellous Advertising Medium.

"I thank you for inserting advertisement in CAGE BIRDS I have received so many replies that I cannot answer them all, and I thank those who wrote. What a circulation 'C.B.' has got! I received replies from all parts. I could have exchanged three times as much as I advertised." F. BRIGHTON (Newmarket).

"I have had so many applications to the advert. I put in your paper that I cannot answer those who have not sent stamps, so would you be so kind as to let them know through your paper that I am suited?" W. TAMS (Littleport, Ely.)

"You may be interested to hear that in response to my Border advt. I received replies from Brighton, Cardiff, Ipswich, Stockport, Whitehaven, Warrington, and also from several London fanciers."—A. G. SNOOK (Streatham).

Tredegar show, Dec. 11, name omitted in novices clear yell. Norwich class, 2nd prize was Mr. H. Coker (Newport).

An error has appeared in the rules of Waunarlwydd schedule, that no one is admitted whilst judging, but everyone is admitted on paying sixpence extra, writes Mr. J. Walters, the sec. Entries very slow; fanciers hurry up.

I have received both cash special and Diploma, and can assure you that I feel proud of same. This is my first year of showing, and I have now won in 6 shows (members and open) 13 specials, 13 1sts, 6 2nd, 7 3rd, 5 4th, 2 vhc's, and 3 hc's, starting the season as a novice, and rising into the champion section.—A. F. Thorpe (Levenshulme).

Entries for the Scottish National.

Entries for this event will be accepted up to 1st post Monday, Dec. 29.—(See advt.)

"Bobbie's" Seaside Trip.

In a train arriving at Walton-on-the-Naze from Colchester the other day, a Robin was found to have been the only passenger in the compartment next to the engine.

White Robin in Kent.

A white Robin, with conspicuous red breast, has been seen in the garden of Mill farmhouse, Tenterden, and others have been observed in various parts of the Weald of Kent.

New Club for Porth.

Several fanciers are desirous of forming a cage-bird club for Porth and Dist. (i.e. Ynyshir, Dinas, and Hafod). We should be much obliged if you would invite those interested to communicate with R. Hallman (1, Woodfield Terrace, Porth).

Another 100-year-old Cockatoo.

A Cockatoo, one of several that occupy Heaton Park (Newcastle) aviary in summer and are housed in the premises at the rear in winter, is said to be over 100 years old. He was removed from St. John's Cemetery because he mimicked the clergymen reading the services!

SEND US AT ONCE

The particulars below. We want them for CAGE BIRDS 1914 ANNUAL, which is now being prepared for press.

SECRETARIES OF SOCIETIES.

We will insert free: Full particulars (name of society, latest list of officials, place, time, and nights of meetings) in the Alphabetical List of Cage Bird Clubs. Remember, no society should be missing, for this feature of CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL is the only Directory of its kind in existence. Secretaries who have moved, please let us know your new address.

JUDGES OF CAGE BIRDS.

We will insert free your name and address and the varieties in which you specialise in the List of Judges. The only condition is that judges must have officiated at one of the recognised shows. Remember this list is the only complete list published, and is universally consulted by show officials. Judges who have moved, should send on their new addresses.

TO OUR TRADING FRIENDS.

We will insert free: Names, addresses, and specialities in the Bird Trade Directory No matter what you sell, so long as it has to do with the Fancy, particulars are inserted free. This directory is of exceptional value, and fanciers the world over find it indispensable. For one shilling, names can be thrown up in heavy black type.

Breeders, Exhibitors, Judges, and Advertisers generally, who want something that will bring orders throughout next year for a "mere song" should

ADVERTISE IN THE "ANNUAL."

See particulars elsewhere in this issue.

BEGIN THE NEW YEAR WELL.

Enter Your Birds for "Cage Birds" Diplomas and Cash Specials: It Costs only 6d. at any of the undermentioned shows: Remember the Specials—Over £100—at the Palace.

EXHIBITORS have still more chances than one (as will be seen from the appended list of coupon shows) of making a grand start in the New Year by securing one of our artistic and valuable Diplomas of Honour, and one of our 10s. cash special prizes. Entries for the great Scottish National are extended until Monday next, first post. The method of competing (see below) is simplicity itself. Here are the forthcoming Diploma shows—good classification and good chances for all:—

Dec. 31 and Jan. 1, Scottish National.
Jan. 8 and 9, Bangor (Ireland).
Jan. 10, Doncaster.
Jan. 13, Llanelly.
Jan. 20 and 21, Boscombe (Bournemouth).

Schedules can be obtained from the respective secretaries (note the show adverts. this week on page 563).

One or two questions have arisen concerning the list of 10s. special winners published last week, and these are receiving attention.

What Others Think of Our Diplomas.

Many thanks for Diploma won at Leyton; it is very good indeed.—Stubbs Bros. (Cheltenham).

We beg to thank you for Diploma. We are very pleased with it.—Smith Bros. (Hebden Bridge).

Many thanks for Diploma won at Sittingbourne. I am sure the Diploma is very neat, and I shall prize it greatly.—J. Hodder (London, E.C.).

Thank you so much for Diploma of Honour won at Frome show in the Yorkshire champion section. Being the first coupon I bought I feel very proud. It is beautifully finished and well worth competing for. I am more than pleased with it. I have sold the bird that won it for a good sum.—C. H. Hill (Wiveliscombe).

I received the fine Diploma safe. I think this scheme a grand idea for fanciers, especially the great competition at the coming Palace show.—W. Portman (Cardigan).

Many thanks for Diploma received, which I think very nice.—J. Wyatt (Canning Town).

Diploma is very neat and artistic, and does you great credit. I have had it framed, and it will have the best place in my bird room, which I have just erected.—A. E. Thorpe (Levenshulme).

Many thanks for Diploma won at Leicester show. It is beautifully finished.—W. Neal (Leicester).

Many thanks for the diploma won at Ramsgate show. I am proud to have won it, and it is a great encouragement to all exhibitors, particularly novices.—W. A. Woodcock (Chatham).

How Exhibitors May Enter.

All who intend entering Coupon birds at these shows must do so under these conditions:—CAGE BIRDS offers the following Championship Competition prizes:—

10s. cash for best champion coupon bird.
10s. cash for best novice coupon bird.

Diplomas of honour for the best champion and the best novice coupon birds in each of the following sections; or in as many of these sections as are included in the classification:—

(1) Yorkshire Canaries.
(2) Norwich.
(3) Crests & Crestbreds.
(4) Border Fancies.
(5) Scotch Fancies and Belgians.
(6) Greens.
(7) Lancs. and Lizards.
(8) Any Other Variety Canary.
(9) Mules & Hybrids.
(10) British, Hardbilled.
(11) British, Softbilled.
(12) Foreign.

All the exhibitor has to do is to stick one of CAGE BIRDS Coupons on his entry form and write "C.B." opposite each bird he wishes to compete; except if a novice, when he must write "C.B. Novice."

Coupons, price 6d. each, may be purchased from the offices of CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C., or, if the time is short, enclose the necessary extra cash with your entry fees to the secretary of the show, and he will affix coupons opposite whichever birds you have marked on your entry form. Every coupon is numbered and a record of it kept at CAGE BIRDS offices.

NOTE CAREFULLY.—A coupon must be affixed to the entry form opposite every bird intended to compete in this Championship Competition. Any number of coupon birds may be entered by any exhibitor, either in one section or in several, as may be desired, so long as a coupon is used for each bird. For every coupon bird, of course, the usual entry fee must be paid to the show officials. Entries in CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition are accepted only on the understanding that the governing rules as published in CAGE BIRDS are to be absolutely final and legally binding.

The winner of any one of the foregoing diplomas will have the right to compete with not more than four birds, on payment to the Palace Show Authorities of the usual entry fee, in our final championship competition at the Crystal Palace Show of 1914.

FIRST PRIZE, £3;
SECOND PRIZE, £2;
THIRD PRIZE, £1.
FOURTH PRIZE, 10s.

The following cash prizes will also be offered for competition at the Crystal Palace Show:—£10 10s. for the best Coupon bird exhibited in the Champion classes in the above twelve sections; £10 10s. for the best Coupon bird shown by a novice other than the winner in the Champion Section. We shall also offer A TEN GUINEA CHALLENGE SHIELD, to be won three times in succession, for the best bird at the Crystal Palace Show entered in our Competition.

Important Points from the Rules.

1.—One coupon entitles one bird to compete at any one Diploma Show. Any number of coupon birds can be entered at the same show.

4.—The birds entered may be of any age, and either ring or not ring.

7.—No exhibitor may win more than one diploma in the season in any one section, and no exhibitor will be allowed to win more than two of the 10s. prizes offered at the Diploma Shows, each of which must be won with a different bird; but an exhibitor may (if able) win one diploma in each of the 12 sections.

9.—No exhibitor in the final will be allowed to win more than two prizes with his four entries.

10.—In all cases of dispute arising out of this competition the Editor's decision will be absolutely final and legally binding in every respect, and only upon this understanding will entries be accepted.

DON'T OVERLOOK OUR

XMAS COMPETITIONS

During Your Holiday Hours.

Particulars of these very interesting competitions appeared in last week's great 'Xmas Double Number. Useful cash prizes for the successful competitors.

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE: For Full Particulars See Last Issue.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is either to sign the coupon herewith, and send the same, together with sevenpence, or to get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

Phonograph Records of the Songs of Birds:

How a Brave Attempt to Secure One went Down to Failure!

By W. E. Teschemaker, B.A (Teignmouth).

How Gramophone Records are Made.

It will be inferred from the above remarks that any amateur can make a phonograph record and if necessary duplicate the record; but the case is very different with the gramophone. In the first place there are certain mechanical difficulties to be overcome in securing a perfectly even movement of the table, etc., which necessitates not only a very heavy and costly apparatus but the very finest mechanical work which human hands can turn out. Secondly, when an original record has been secured, a mould has to be made from the wax disc, and then a "matrix" of metal; the familiar vulcanite records are produced from this matrix by a process of stamping.

Of course, these various processes require skilled professional work, and are hopelessly beyond the reach of the amateur. This is unfortunate, because the tone of the gramophone is much more brilliant and powerful than that of the phonograph, and its records are much more easily stored and preserved.

Having obtained all the information that Mr. Poole could impart, I hired his machine for a very few shillings a week and made preparations for my first experiment. Just at that time I had a first-class Sprosser in full song in my sitting-room, and the bird was so steady that it would sing freely even when I sat within a few feet of its cage, or when visitors were talking in the room. The cage, which was of the Crystal Palace, three-compartment type, stood in the window. I borrowed the clothes-horse and some sheets from the kitchen, and rigged up a screen which would prevent the bird from seeing anyone in the room, and placed the machine behind the screen in such a way that the mouth of the horn projected through the sheets and was almost touching the side of the cage. Several visitors expressed the opinion that the apparatus did not improve the appearance of my sitting-room; and it was necessary to explain to them that its object was more or less scientific, and was not intended for airing the household sheets. I would here remark that an aviculturist should either be a bachelor or should marry an aviculturist; otherwise there is sure to be trouble.

Up in the Morning Early.

At six-thirty on the following morning I stole softly into the room, clad in dressing-gown and slippers, and settled myself comfortably in an arm-chair from which I could operate the machine. As I had passed through the hall I had heard the glorious notes of the Sprosser ringing through the house, so I hoped that I should not have very long to wait for my record. But the minutes passed and the Sprosser sang not; moreover, though it was a fine June morning, I began to feel uncomfortably chilly, and sincerely wished that I had put on something warmer. The Sprosser shuffled uneasily about in his cage and maintained an obstinate silence, the cause of which, as I presently guessed, was that he had ascertained that there was someone in the room and was all curiosity to know who the intruder was.

So I emerged from my concealment, fetched the mealworm box, and had a talk to him about the weather and other small matters, and, in next to no time, he was singing lustily once more. I pulled the lever; the cylinder began to revolve with a faint whirring sound, to which the Sprosser raised no objection, and then, with a tiny shower of powdered wax, the cutter got to work. The moment the scraping noise of the cutter was heard the singer came to a full stop, but after several false starts he finally gave a grand selection of his best tours, which covered the "blank" from end to end, the only possible defect in the whole performance being provided by the unmannerly interruption from my cuckoo clock, which had selected this inopportune occasion to announce the hour of seven.

Triumph—and Despair.

You may imagine the pleasurable anticipation with which I proceeded to test the record. If only the machine had done its duty I felt sure that the record would be a triumph. I pulled the lever, there was a faint scraping noise—but no sing. The moments passed; the needle pursued the even tenor of its way; but where were the glorious notes to which I had just listened? At last the phonograph spoke — it said: "Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" seven times! This was too much for my sense of humour; I sat down and had a good long laugh.

I was beginning to find out something about the idiosyncrasies of the phonograph, one of which is that it likes some sounds and will record them well, but that, if you wish it to record bird-song, you must have your singing bird not only exactly opposite the horn but almost in the latter. I was also beginning to see that taking records of bird songs was likely to prove as exciting and tantalizing a hobby as bird-photography.

Every bird-photographer knows the suppressed excitement with which, after waiting an hour or more in an excruciatingly uncomfortable position in a stuffy tent, he sees some shy warbler approach its nest. At last it perches on the edge of the latter; the long-looked for moment has arrived; he releases the shutter. Triumph! He hurries home, dives into his dark-room and plunges the plate into the developer. Most promising; detail commences coming out grandly. There is the bird, as large as life and twice as natural. Something queer about its head? Can't see clearly until the plate has been fixed; into the hypo with it; three minutes' suspense; hold it up to the light. Horror of horrors! The blessed bird has no head at all! Despair!!

I may mention incidentally (because it may amuse you) that this is the second time that my cuckoo clock has thrust itself into the lime light. The former occasion was on a certain Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. I happened to be looking out of the window, just as it was announcing the hour, and noticed that the local correspondent of a well-known west-country paper, who was passing by, paused and gazed intently at my house. Now, there is nothing whatever about my humble dwelling which would arrest the attention of any passer-by, so the incident remained a mystery until a few days later when the "Western Morning News" made the following interesting announcement: "We are informed that the cuckoo was distinctly heard in Shaldon last Sunday." It is still more interesting to note that this was not the merry month of May, nor yet the fickle month of April, nor even the gusty month of March—No, it was February!

A splendid specimen of that curious variety of the Canary, the Dutch Frill, owned by Mr. A. F. Fifield (Oxford) and 1st and special at Frome Show.

What Singing Into the Phonograph Feels Like.

With a view to surmounting the difficulty I removed all the perches from the Sprosser's cage, and fixed up a little stumpy one, just two inches long, on the side of the cage nearest to and exactly opposite the centre of the horn, then tried again. Result, that provoking bird took to singing on the floor of the cage. This made me ask myself what was the reason of the bird's objection to singing into the horn, and this led me to try the experiment myself. (You may, or may not, have noticed that an experimentalist is always very ready to try an experiment on other people, or on guinea pigs, mice, and rabbits, but it hardly ever occurs to him to try an experiment on himself.) So I placed the machine on a small table beside the piano, thumped the first few bars of the accompaniment as loudly as possible, shoved my head into the horn, and commenced to sing.

Instantly a weird and horrible feeling came over me, and my nerves simply went to pieces. I felt my voice getting flat, and I was certain that I should play a wrong chord or forget the words of the song. My voice became weaker and weaker, but I bucked up a little when, after what seemed an eternity, I reached the high note at the end, and I let it go at such high pressure that the horn fairly rattled! When the dreadful ordeal was over I mopped my brow and asked myself what it reminded me of, and there came back to me across the years the vivid recollection of a most unpleasant occasion when I thought I would vary the time-honoured method of tooth-extraction (the "grin and bear it" method) by trying an anæsthetic. It all come back to me in a flash—the dark and clammy gas-bag, the ancient fish-like smell of the gas and the injured air of the dentist when he remarked that I had as nearly as possible kicked a hole in his stained-glass window.

At last I understood why the Sprosser had objected to the experiment, and why singers of renown are paid such high fees for the apparently simple task of singing into a horn. Nor was I repaid for my trouble by the record, for the piano accompaniment was almost inaudible and the voice-notes not loud enough, with the exception of the above-mentioned high note, which the machine had faithfully reproduced and had made excruciating by adding to it the tinny rattle of the horn!

The Sprosser Applies the Closure.

But I was not going to allow the Sprosser to get the better of me. I hunted up a very small cage with a wooden back and sides; outside the latter, and with an inch space between, I fitted another back and sides, thus turning the cage into a sound box, and into this I turned the Sprosser. The cage was so small that it did not matter whether he elected to stand on the perch, on the floor, or on his head; he could not get out of focus, so to speak, of the horn. With this apparatus I obtained one moderately distinct, but decidedly faint, record before I ran up against my last and greatest difficulty of all—the Sprosser got so disgusted that he went off song altogether for the rest of the summer!

The attentive reader (if any) will find in the above narrative a frank confession that I have not succeeded, but I earnestly hope that he may succeed where I have failed, and that my attempts may at least suggest to him better methods. Perhaps I may have another try myself, some day!

All my birds (and also Miss Lee's) are buff, being bred from buff cocks and buff hens, except the progeny from a jonque cinnamon hen, from which bird I have one jonque green hen, to be mated this year (with the other young of the cinnamon hen) with a white cock. This cinnamon I bought, and it is quite unrelated to my other stock. The clear buff hen in the cinnamon's first nest was extremely pale (quite white in patches) in its nest feathers, and has remained extremely pale, as have also the two young clear buff cocks in her second nest; they are quite as pale as any of my buff birds bred from clear buff hens and white cocks, and much paler than many of them. This is remarkable, as the basis of cinnamon colouring is green.

All my white birds have black eyes, not pink as one might imagine they would have, and they are very strong and hardy, being bred and reared out of doors and living in an open outdoor aviary all the year round. In their case their white plumage does not seem to make them delicate.

Altogether I think the experiment has been most successful, as I have established my race of white Canaries breeding true to colour, and apparently the colours yellow and white obey the Mendelian laws, producing dominants (or hybrids) and recessives.

Evidently the white blood must have been in Miss Lee's strain several years before the White Sport was hatched. No more whites have appeared in her aviary, but she has not tried for them systematically.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

SHOW REPORT (Tuck).—You will find a report of Harrogate show in our issue of October 25 last. The secretary, Mr. G. H. Barnwell, 20, College-road, Harrogate, might be able to supply you with a catalogue of the show, but failing this, you could only hope to get one now second-hand from some visitor or exhibitor at the show.

RED LUMPS ON CREST-BRED (J.A.G.).—The substances are undoubtedly blood feathers. Catch the bird, and if there is a kind of "neck" between the substance and the bird's skin tie a silk or thread ligature tightly around the base, keeping it as near the bird's skin as you can. Then return bird to cage with these ligatures still on, and you will find in the course of a few days, or a week or two at most, the substances have dropped off and disappeared. There is nothing wrong with your dietary, but it may help to prevent a possible recurrence if you give the bird a morsel of bread and milk, slightly dusted with flour of sulphur, twice a week for a month, and on two other days add 20 drops of chemical food to its drinking water. In case the substances are so shaped that you cannot get ligatures to hold on, touch them with a drop of strong extract of wych hazel every second day.

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London E.C.

PRICE OF ROLLERS (Bosco, Watford).—(1) Your hybrid query should have been on a separate sheet of paper. It has been sent on to our Mr. Norman; please refer to his column for reply. (2) Sorry I cannot tell you off-hand the correct price to pay for a pair of Rollers. The price of any particular pair must, of course, depend very largely upon the quality of the birds in question, and, to a less extent, upon the vendor, or the supply in the market. To speak in a general way you could get a pair of moderate singers for about 10/6, or so, and beyond this you can go as high as 50/-, or even £5 if you like. If you are only just beginning I should say about 20/- would be sufficient to give for a pair of birds for a start, and for this amount you should get a pair the cock of which is a decent songster, and also birds of a good singing strain. A mixture of equal parts summer rape and good sound canary seed is the best staple diet for this class of Roller. In addition to this give a morsel of egg food or bread and milk, or any similar wholesome substitute once or twice a week, or one other day a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle, with just a sprinkling of linseed, maw, and gold of pleasure seed. Every day in summer, and two or three times a week in winter, give a little of any seasonable green salading. But be careful in the winter season not to give anything that is frosted, or has rime about it. In wintry weather it is best to withhold green food for the time being, and give a morsel of any sweet fruit instead. For full details of management of Rollers you could not do better than send to our Manager for the Nutshell booklet No. 10, 2½d., post free.

THE BEST GREEN (T.A.T.).—I have referred to the plates in "Our Canaries," but I cannot even now tell to which you refer, as there are several plates of Greens, and you give no indication whatever as to which you had in mind. As far as colour is concerned, the ideal must surely be accounted the best, and this, according to standard requirements, should be a rich deep grass green, sound and level in ground colour throughout, particularly on the lower parts, around thighs, and under tail coverts, and the pencilling as dark and clearly defined in outline as possible. It occurs to me that your reference to light grass green and dark green may possibly mean the yellow and buff types. If this is so you will find this matter fully explained in Chapter XX. of "Our Canaries." As regards the popularity of the different types of Greens I should say it is a mere "toss" between the Yorkshire and the Border nowadays, but the Yorkshire, or, as it was formerly termed, Liverpool, Green is the original type bred as a distinct breed.

WE THREE (Andreasburg).—(1) This bird seems to have moulted very late, and as he has only so recently got through it, and is, moreover, not in his first youth, there is no importance to be attached to him not yet resuming song. I expect he will "open out" all right in a short time. You may treat him the same as advised to "I. A. F. J." in this issue for two or three weeks, which will, I think, set matters right. (2) See that this bird and all the others are quite free from exposure to cold draught, or heated fumes from burning lights in the evenings. Give the eucalyptus mixture as advised for No. 1 for a fortnight, and on the alternating days in first week add to water six drops of tincture of gentian, and four of tincture of opium, and give a morsel of bread and milk dusted over with carbonate of bismuth. (3) If late-bred, there is nothing very unusual in the cocks, assuming the sex is certain, not being in song. Cage them separately, and treat for a fortnight as advised for No. 1, which should be all that is needed.

THE TIME TO LOVE (I.A.F.J.).—The best time to put birds together for breeding is a long way off yet. The last week in March, or the first week in April is the best all round. Even then it is useless putting birds together until they are in good breeding condition, as your birds evidently are not. They should be in excellent health, and full of life and activity, and the cock in full song. If in good sound condition the cock should be in song now. Try the following treatment for a few weeks. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed. In addition to this give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day. On the alternate days give a small teaspoonful of egg food, or a similar quantity of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar once a week, and on one other day a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts of hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats. Two or three times a week give a scrap of watercress or a morsel of sweet apple or banana when the former is not fit to use. Also make a little of the paste advised to "Anxious, Rotherham," last week, and keep a little stuck in the wires of the cock's cage for three or four weeks. In the drinking water add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and after this give instead 20 drops of whisky, and ten each of glycerine and lemon juice two days in every three for a fortnight. This should suffice to bring the cock into full song if there is nothing wrong with his health.

A CONSERVATORY (E. B.).—Unless you have made an error in giving the measurements of your conservatory, you are certainly expecting a great deal too much of it. The size you give, 26in. by 55in., gives a floor space of a little less than ten square feet, and in small spaces one square foot of floor space should be allowed each bird the size of a Norwich Canary. Therefore, you will see that with the birds flying loose, ten or twelve is the limit for you to keep. Then, to engage in breeding, you need to reduce this total by at least two-thirds. Result, one cock and three hens is all you should introduce to stand any chance of successful breeding. With these put up eight or ten nesting sites. Keeping other kinds of birds in it as well as the Canaries is, you will see, out of the question. You had better limit yourself to the above number if you wish to breed anything, but if you desire a greater number and variety, then make up a dozen cocks of different species which will agree together, and give up the idea of breeding. If there is much glass in the structure, you will need good top ventilation to keep it reasonably cool in summer. If the birds have been there continuously since last June, they will doubtless go on thriving all right there, so I see no reason to remove them. When using sawdust on the floor, you must keep a shallow box or pan filled with gritty sand accessible for the birds, and renew it from time to time as may be necessary. A few twiggy branches fixed up on the sides here and there are better than crowding in a lot of straight, staring, hackneyed perches.

MOULTING AND PANTING (R. Ruddock).—The bird is practically certain to be exposed to draughts or extremes of heat and cold, and these causes must be removed before you can hope to cure the bird. See that it is kept in a fairly comfortable, but not necessarily overheated place, quite free from cold draughts, extreme fluctuations, and heated impure air such as hanging near or over a burning light in the evenings or near the ceiling. Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part of summer rape. In addition, give separately half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for three or four weeks, as may seem necessary. On the alternate days twice each week give a small teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats, and on each of the remaining alternate days give a morsel of banana or watercress. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and after this give twenty drops of the following mixture every second day for three weeks. Mixture:—Two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one drachm each of ipecac. wine and chlorodyne, and eight grains of iodide of potassium. Ask any chemist to mix you this.

Owing to the necessity of going to press two days earlier this week, many answers to questions cannot be published until our next issue.—EDITOR.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

GOLDFINCH FOR BREEDING (Boses, Watford).—You can either use a large English Goldfinch or a foreign bird. If your intention is only to breed Goldfinch-Canary Hybrids for song or for the pleasure of doing so, then I would advise you to get an English bird. Get him now as soon as you can, so as to have him docile before the breeding season commences. Respecting the Canary, it is usual to use a Norwich hen, although good Mules have been bred by a Yorkshire, but I understand from your letter that you particularly wish to produce light birds. Unless you can get a hen from a strain that has already bred light Hybrids, you can do nothing with any certainty, and even birds from the most highly prized strains will not always throw light Mules. Unless you know someone who will let you have one of these hens, I would advise you to get a good clear yellow, bred from clear parents if possible, and mate her up with the Finches. She may throw you birds with a few light feathers straight away. You will find plenty of Goldfinches advertised in our advertisement columns. You should be able to get a nice bird for about five to ten shillings.

AVIARY MATTERS (No Name).—If you feel that you can give up the whole of your aviary to the one pair, you had better remove all the birds but the cock Goldie and one of the hen Bullies. Just watch them for a time and see if either of the hens is particularly "chummy" with the Goldie; if so, leave that one in with him. Why not procure another Goldie, or Linnet, for the other hen, and try them in a large cage? Hybrid breeding is such a "gamble" that you may be more successful with the one you remove than the other. You have the hens, and it would seem wasteful not to make use of both of them. (2) Your Goldie is probably suffering from indigestion. You had better give him an aperient to start with.

Get some Glauber Salts and put as much as will cover a shilling in his drinking water. Give it to him over night, and let him have it all the next day; then miss two days and give him another dose. You give me no particulars about food, so I presume you are feeding as advised other readers. For a time put him on a diet of soaked teazle with just a pinch of rape added, and lessen his supply of dry seeds so that he eats a fair quantity of the soaked seeds every day. Offer him a piece of home-made sponge cake; and you should be able to supply him with a spray of seeding chickweed and groundsel. You had better follow up this treatment with a course of Chemical Food, a small teaspoonful fresh daily in his drinker; the water should be first boiled, or part of the food will sink to the bottom and be wasted. Use a glass or china drinker.

BIRDS FOR AN AVIARY (H. C. V.).—You could keep thirty birds in your aviary and flight, or even a few more, if you only wanted them for song and amusement. In the summer months you could turn a pair or two of Canaries out with them, or a cock bird and three or four hens; but you would not be successful in rearing many birds with all the Finches flying around. As regards Hybrids, you could not hope to get any between the British birds and the hen Canaries, with a cock Canary in with them. I would advise you to turn in the following Finches, all cock birds:—Goldfinch, Linnet, Siskin, Greenfinch, Redpoll, and Twite. You could allow two Goldfinches in, but only one of the others, and with these could be one hen Bullfinch and six or eight hen Canaries. If you put in more than one Bullfinch hen, it is very probable you will have trouble, as they seldom agree during the breeding season. With this collection you stand a good chance of getting some young ones. If you would like to have another hen British bird, let it be a Siskin. Have plenty of nesting places, fix up wooden boxes, nest pans, old German travelling cages, half a cocoanut, small flower pots, or anything that a bird can build in, and place them so that the wind and rain do not drive in upon them. If you are interested in aviary breeding, you will find many useful tips in our books on "Aviaries," published by "Cage Birds."

SISKINS AND ROBINS (Amateur).—At liberty birds now feed upon seeds that have been soaked by the rain and moisture from the earth. You must treat your freshly caught birds in much the same manner. Put them in a quiet corner of the bird room, and disturb them as little as possible. Soak some rape and teazle by keeping it in cold water for twenty-four hours, rubbing it as dry as possible in a cloth before giving it to the birds. In addition to this, let them have a good supply of dry canary, rape, teazle, niger, maw, dandelion, thistle, gold of pleasure, and cracked hemp. Notice which of these they eat, and keep them supplied with it for a time. After you have had them a week or so, gradually knock off the soaked seeds, and only give it occasionally. When you have had them a fortnight, try to substitute cracked sunflower seed for the hemp, but do it gradually. When they have been caged a week, it is a good plan to give them an aperient. Put as much Glauber salts as you can heap on a sixpence in an ordinary drinker; give it to them overnight, and let them have it to drink all the following day. Repeat the dose in a week. After that you should have no trouble with them, excepting to be careful they do not get over-fat. Let them bathe freely, and keep in large cages. (2) Your food is fairly good for your Robins, but you are giving them no insects, and of course they should have some, for even in the winter they are able to procure some to vary their other food. When first caught, in a dish put some medium-sized mealworms and one or two large ones cut in two. When he has eaten these, replace them, sprinkling some good insectile food over them; if you put some finely mixed hard-boiled egg with this, so much the better. As he takes to the artificial food, gradually diminish the supply of mealworms. The Robin is not a difficult bird to "meat off," but he is naturally a big eater.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

BLUE-FRONTED AMAZON (Geo. Hills).—You do not give me any idea as to cause, and it is evidently quite out of condition. I should give it an aperient—say a teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water, repeating this as may be necessary to keep the bowels moving quite freely. At the same time the voidings must not be continually watery loose. When not giving the aperient, put half-a-teaspoonful of Syrup of Phosphates in the drinking water. Keep seed mixture in the cage, but also offer some boiled maize daily. It must be prepared fresh daily. Also supply nuts, fruit, stale crusts, or pieces of biscuit. Keep cuttlebone and grit continually in the cage. Examine its mouth. If this is at all furred or slimy, put a little honey borax therein daily till it becomes quite clean. If you can handle the bird I should bathe its eyes with a rose-water and zinc eye solution daily, but do not let any of the solution get in its mouth. Keep the bird warm and out of draught, but yet in some well-ventilated and light position. Report progress about a fortnight hence or earlier if necessary, giving details as to previous treatment, and how long you've had it.

Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

J. R. Barrett.—Yes, we think there will be in the near future.

Rape Seed.—Both samples are summer rape, but one of them (No. 2) is, as you say, far from being as clean as it should be. English rape is very large and black, while charlock is small, shiny in appearance, and tastes hot.

DYSART AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Since our show we have had three special meetings owing to the cup dispute. Mr. J. Hutchison and Mr. Wm. Gibson have equal number of points. Mr. Hutchison will not give up cup to the Society. We have endeavoured to the utmost to get it settled, but he will not deliver it up. He has since the first meeting claimed another exhibitor's prize, namely, 4th and spl. in Class 17, Border Fancy Section, which, of course, would make him above Mr. Gibson. Mr. Robt. Aitchison (Biggar) was 4th and spl. in that class; the catalogue and judge's slips bear that out beyond a doubt. At the last two special meetings it was decided to sue him for it. There was not one at these meetings dissented against suing him. Proof will be laid on Jan. 21, 1914. The members are determined to see it to a finish, lose or win. The action of the Society is bearing fruit already, as a few new members are ready to help us. —J. Logan and Wm. Russell, Hon. Secs.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S

Social evening held Dec. 18, when about 50 members and their wives spent a very pleasant time with songs and recitations, also the distribution of cups, diplomas and prize money. The ladies provided a splendid assortment of light refreshments. The late secretary, Mr. Meades, made a short speech, in which he said that the Society had held several member shows, for which a small entrance fee had been charged, but as no prize money had been given the whole of the proceeds had gone to the purchasing of the cups. He congratulated the members on the way they had come forward and made these shows a success, also the annual show, which was a great success both in quality of exhibits and finance. Mr. Smith won cup for best novice Norwich bred by member; Mr. Lafbury, cup most points Brit. and Mules; Mr. Barnett, cup most points novice classes; Mr. Shires, cup most points champ.; Mr. Botell, gold-centre medal best fed bird on Easterling's food; Mr. Shires, gold-centre medal most points. Diplomas were then handed to Messrs. L. Taylor, J. Shires, W. Moore, S. Barnett, J. Juby, A. Howard, and P. Lafbury. A good programme was given by Mrs. Crutcher, Mrs. Botell, Messrs. Crutcher, Thorne, Shires, and Campbell, Pianists, Miss Summers (who has kindly given her services on several occasions, for which we are greatly indebted to her), Mrs. Fry, and Mr. Hartland. Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the ladies and all those who had kindly assisted in the arrangements. —F. Botell, Assist. Sec.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

HOLYWELL.

First annual show held Town Hall, Nov. 26. The cage birds classification was meagre compared with the other sections, but quality was well represented; no doubt the classification will be extended in the future. Mr. R. E. Hooley made a very capable sec. Mr. J. O. Williams won sp for best Canary, Messrs. Evans and Roberts best Brit., and Mr. H. A. Davies best Mule. Mr. R. Bowker, Nantwich, judged.

ST. HELENS.

Eighth annual show held Nov. 29 in the Messrs. Pilkington Bros.' Glass Works Dining Hall, with a record entry. This is a society belonging to the works above for their employees, who number many thousands, and among these are some very good class cage bird fanciers and exhibitors. The heads of the firm contribute handsomely to the special prize list every year, and give real, sound encouragement to their employees in the pursuit of their hobbies, hence the keenness which seems to permeate all the fanciers. The Norwich section was a very fine one, and would do credit to most open shows so good was the standard of merit all through. Norwich Greens were very good, too. Borders were nice, though few. A very fine Crest (R. Hesketh) won special for best bird in show—a real good one all over. British came up especially strong, and high merit was the order, a capital Thrush (Abbott) winning spl. Yorks. spl., R. Little with a wing ticked yellow—a very fine bird, tight and round as a pencil to-day. A novice (E. McCully) won special for best Norwich, and special best novice Canary with a very handsome ticked buff cock—a real good one, and a rare good start for a novice. Crowds of people thronged the show all the time it was open, and most of the leading gentlemen of the firm viewed the show and were delighted with the fine display. Mr. Shufflebotham (the hon. sec.) and his capable staff of workers spared no efforts in making the show arrangements a complete success. Mr. Chas. Houlton judged.

LIVERPOOL B.B.A.

This old Liverpool Society again came out on top with its members' show, which is second to none in the district, and a first here is looked upon as a win in the open, so keen is the competition. Specialist judges are engaged, and no expense is spared in specials to draw entries. The show was well attended, but the number of visitors could be increased if the show were advertised. There are hundreds of fanciers in the district, who would flock round if they knew such a show was being held. Naturally, there was a great show of Greens; it being an open week in Green circles, all the cracks were on view. There was some hard-hitting, but all seemed to have had a fair share of the spoils. The novice classes were a sight, especially those under the wing of the G.C.A. Competition, is still very keen, about eight fanciers have got a finger in the cup. We noticed Mr. F. Handley, hon. sec. of G.C.A., giving good advice to the novice fanciers in the Green classes. Another silver cup for novices? More anon. Fred's receipt book is always open. Mr. John Abbott, the worthy chairman, was early on the scene, attending to the wants of visitors. Messrs. Eccleston and Lloyd are a brace of hard-working secretaries. Cards were up early, most points specials reckoned, sheeted, and paying out prize money was in full swing at 4 p.m. Mr. T. R. Jones, hon. treas., gave very useful help in cashing up. He informs us there will be a big balance in hand this year. Champion point specials: 1, J. W. Metcalfe (3rd year in succession); 2, A. Corbett; 3, W. Jones; 4, J. Lloyd; 5, F. Handley; 6, J. McDermott. Novice: 1, G. Skilling; 2, Tom Evans; 3, W. Bell; 4, F. Rothwell; 5, Tom Handley; 6, O. Fricker. Most points in clear Yorks., F. Rothwell. The judges, Messrs. Cowgill and Wellings, got through their work in good time, and gave great satisfaction.

Should Hen Mules and Hybrids Have a Class to Themselves?

SIR,—Is not the time arrived now, when many Mules and Hybrids are being bred by nearly everyone, that classes at our large shows should be regularly provided for hens? What chance do most of them stand against cocks? This would be one more way of encouraging the Hybrid hobby, and give young beginners a chance to obtain a prize or two. There are many hen Mules and Hybrids bred which are good birds and well worth encouraging. I should like to see what others think of this suggestion. Secretaries might note the matter and bring it before their committees.

HYBRID.

What's Wrong with Members of the Southern Norwich P.C.?

SIR,—In order that members may have the opportunity of discussing the matter at the annual general meeting, I have given Mr. Matthes notice of the following proposed alteration in rules:—1, That no judge be allowed to officiate at more than one Club show in a season; 2, that the committee be empowered to make the best terms possible with societies that cannot see their way clear to give the Club's classification—either in giving a part guarantee, or in accepting a modified classification.

J. W. RAMSDEN.

SIR,—Why is there so much grumbling and dissatisfaction over cups? Because it is too one-sided. Either have two cups (breeders) one for champion and one for novice, or none at all; and to solve the difficulty, competing birds should be rung, although I do not believe in ringing birds at all, as it is too dangerous. My suggestion is, do away with cups and give a good special for best bred bird in each section. Why not have a rule that members nominate their competing bird two months before a club show, committeemen to be appointed to visit the said fanciers' birds?

C. G. MARTIN.

The Radius of Luton C.B.S.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Watts re above. My opinion, from a common-sense point of view, is that the club should allow the old members to remain, and should apply the new radius rule only to new members.

C. G. MARTIN.

SIR,—I think all your readers who are members of societies must feel that Mr. R. J. Watts has been treated very unfairly by the society of which he was, and still has the right to call himself, a member, for he cannot be legally excluded from membership in the high-handed manner the officials seem to imagine. In the first place, the resolution altering the radius is bad, Mr. Watts, as a member, not having been given a notice convening the meeting. In the second place the Society could not reduce its radius to operate against a member who had once or twice won the cup in question, and the win this year is undoubtedly bad, and could not be upheld against Mr. Watts, as he was not allowed to compete. The Society could possibly pass a resolution at the annual general meeting giving a proper written notice convening the meeting to all members to reduce the radius to new members, but not to existing members. My advice to Mr. Watts is to retain the cup in his actual possession until the Society have obtained, if they can, an order from the Court ordering him to return the cup, and Mr. W. should contest any proceedings the Society may be advised to take. I think the Society might do much worse than declare the win this year "off," and rescind the resolution at the next annual general meeting; then, if they think it in the interest of the Society, reduce the radius as against new members. I am not in any way interested in the matter, but as Mr. Watts invited "opinions and suggestions," I felt tempted to offer the above for his and the Society's consideration. S. A. SANDY.

SIR,—As an old member of the Luton Society, I have read with interest the letters of Messrs. Buckingham and Watts. I feel satisfied the Luton committee are wrong, having practically expelled old members who are cup winners, and if carried to the law courts, they would lose the day. Further, is it not a case of jumping out of the frying pan into the fire? The secretary informed me that if the 20 mile limit was retained they would lose several members, but he did not inform me how many they had lost through the changing. Anyhow, they must confess that the recent show, so far as the local classes were concerned, was an absolute failure, and no one regrets this more than myself.

J. C. WILMOT.

SIR,—Now our show is over, perhaps a few facts about ourselves will satisfy that we had no other alternative than to close our radius. When, three or four years ago, we opened our membership to 20 miles, we had something like 21 or 22 members from Watford and Bedford. During my term as secretary we have 5 members from Bedford and 2 from Watford. This alone will justify us closing to 10 miles. At our annual meeting the matter was ruled out of order, as it required 7 days' notice, which I had handed to me before the close of the meeting. At the adjourned meeting the following week two voted against the proposition, meaning if our radius continued to be 20 miles we should have been left with four resident members. Could we run a society on a resident membership of four? The next thing brought forward was that Mr. Watts and Mr. Keech be allowed to compete for the cups they were concerned in; this was lost. To-day we are without a Foreign Bird cup, and Mr. Watts says in his letter that it has placed him in an awkward position. I should like to help Mr. W. out, therefore I am going to suggest to him that he returns the cup to us, as we shall come up smiling again next year. It would not look so bad in our schedule, "Foreign Bird Cup, presented by Mr. R. J. Watts, of Watford." If he does not choose to do this, well, he must keep it, and we shall get another. I think every fancier will see we had no alternative but to close our radius, as we could not lose three or four-and-twenty members for seven.

E. BLOOMFIELD,
Hon. Sec. Luton C.B.S.

How to Make Shows Attractive.

What Exhibitors Want.

SIR,—I now have the pleasure of announcing that arrangements have been completed for my autumn show to be held at the Crystal Palace on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 27, 28, 29, 1914. As outlined in my letter that appeared in your issue of Nov. 1st, the special features of the show will be:—Full prize money guaranteed (no half prize money rule), 10s., 6s., 4s., 2s., for entry fee of 1s. 6d.; open sections for champions, amateurs and novices; also £5 limit classes; specialist judges for each section, with a guarantee to exhibitors that each judge will have plenty of time to give fair consideration to each bird, and finish judging before the light fails. To prevent this show interfering with any week end fixture, the show will close at 4 or 5 o'clock on the Thursday, and all birds be returned to their owners by early trains on the Thursday evening. Or, if desired, birds can be re-labelled and dispatched direct to any other show. From an analysis of the letters received it seems that the most favoured definition of an amateur is "An exhibitor shall be considered an amateur provided he has not won more than three first prizes in open competition at an open show." The novice definition remains as usually accepted. As before stated, I am running this show chiefly from the desire to cater fairly for novices and amateurs, and so keep as many fanciers in the Fancy as possible. Correspondence invited. All suggestions will receive careful consideration.

Pentrebach and Pontypridd Shows.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. McLucas, none of my letters was written in bad blood. I only ask for fair play, which I maintain Pentrebach did not get. Why were you allowed to overrule the decision arrived at, at the Federation meeting held at Pontypridd, that all affiliated societies should send their dates in at the annual general meeting to be held at Swansea? But prior to this meeting you changed your date and guaranteed your adverts. Now if this is a right thing for you, as secretary, to do, then I must say I do not see what good can be obtained by attending any meetings of the Federation. You ask why I did not assist in the matter of transferring exhibits from your show to ours, by publishing same in our schedules in the Fancy Press. Now, Mr. McLucas, you know that I act as Sec. for another club, and you know what they had to do for one of its members last year, owing to a blunder at your 1912 show. I am glad you admit there were errors on your society's part in sending the exhibits to our show, and I can assure you that I am not painting things blacker than they really were. In almost every case our labels were not attached, and the Pontypridd stationmaster is bound to say that all hampers, etc., were properly addressed; why, because you simply wrote across your own labels "to the Show Sec., Pentrebach." If the station carrier marked the labels "carriage paid" or "carriage forward," why does a certain exhibitor complain? I may say that I do not intend to continue this correspondence, and that this is my last upon the matter.

A. E. BROWN, Hon. Sec., Pentrebach.

SIR—I was very much surprised to see Mr. A. E. Brown, the Pentrebach secretary, make such a personal attack on the Pontypridd secretary. I may say I visited Pontypridd show and was an exhibitor there, and everything was done for the comfort of our section. Further than this, I also noticed a great many cages which had the Pentrebach labels affixed underneath those of Pontypridd. I may also add that my birds arrived home in good order the following morning, as did some belonging to a friend of mine. That the clashing of shows in Wales should, if possible, be avoided, I most certainly agree, but to say that the lack of entries at Pentrebach was due to Pontypridd show, is hardly fair, seeing that last year the former show did not command a great many entries, half prize money being paid in quite a number of classes. Where were the schedules of your show, Mr. B? I can give you the names of half a dozen, at least, well-known exhibitors, who never received one. You can hardly expect known fanciers to apply for schedules to you. I also notice Mr. B. says certain baskets were sent to his show in error, which he refused, and the railway company took them back unopened. Personally, I think the Pentrebach Society would have earned the gratitude of all true fanciers had they at least have opened them and given the occupants food and water (especially if they were cage-birds). I am afraid, Mr. B., you will not do yourself or the Pentrebach Society much good by exposing the errors of another society. We all know, some of us to our cost, that mistakes do occur in the best regulated shows.

"CAGE BIRDS"
WATCH COUPON
Dec. 27th, 1913.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

THE HYBRID SENSATION OF THE YEAR.

SIR,—Respecting the Hybrid at Preston, when a rare and good Hybrid is shown for the first time, if there is any doubt about it, surely the bird should have the benefit. Wouldn't it be as well to give the breeder's name on entry form, so it could appear in catalogue, so as to get at the bottom of any bird at once, instead of letting it go on from show to show before the matter is settled? The owner might go one better and acquaint the N.B.B. and Mule Club of its advent, and send it up for inspection before it is shown, and so get their ruling. This would save a lot of unpleasantness, etc.

HYBRID.

How Even the Experts Differ.

SIR,—I see the sensational Hybrid has won again, this time at Gateshead. With the letter from Mr. Vardy, who claims to have seen it in the nest, its recognition as a Hybrid is now beyond dispute. In the face of such overwhelming evidence one is bound to admit its parentage; but I don't retract anything I wrote in my first letter as to its characteristics. In support of my contention, and those others who maintained that it had too many traits of the Bullie, I would like to quote the opinions of two experts who reported for CAGE BIRDS at Gateshead. Both were given in the introductory remarks, and they emphasise the differences of opinion that are manifest amongst fanciers who have seen the bird. The two opinions are as follows: "The outstanding bird was undoubtedly Mr. Parlett's Canary-Bullfinch. I am fully convinced that the bird is just what it is claimed to be, a Canary-Bullie Hybrid, the Canary cross being easily discernible. This opinion was fully shared by the large number of fanciers who examined the bird at Preston. The bird has been recognised and accepted as a Canary Bullie by such experts as Mr. Maddison and Mr. Robson."

Now I will quote the other opinion from the same report:—"The sensational Canary Bullfinch was on view, and commanded more attention than any bird in the show. Here it found favour with yet another judge, who placed it on top of class, but in spite of that there were many fanciers who refused to accept it as a Hybrid, declaring that, apart from its colour, it is a better Bullfinch than any bird in the Bullfinch class. It certainly is of great size and substance, and if it had been all dark instead of splashed, it would have made the Canary-Mules, and even the Greenie-Bullies, look quite insignificant." When two experts reporting a show give us such conflicting opinions, is there any wonder at the "man in the street" having a doubt? It is easy enough for a fancier with inside knowledge of its breeding to say that it shows many charactristics of a Canary; but I ask anyone to get the best Canary-Bullie in the Kingdom (other than the one in dispute) and compare them, and if they can say honestly that they can find any resemblance, I, and those many fanciers who were quoted by the second reporter at Gateshead, must admit that we don't know a Hybrid.

T. JOHNSON.

Is it a Good Bird Spoiled?

Sir,—Some of the writers declare the bird to be a genuine Canary-Bullfinch Hybrid, and the greatest wonder that has ever been on the show bench; on the other side there are those who declare that, except for the light feathers, it is all Bullfinch. In your issue of Nov. 29 Mr. T. Johnson gives a very emphatic opinion that it is simply an albino Bullfinch, then in the Dec. 20th issue he is asking why it was not placed first, instead of third, at the Bradford National. In my opinion it is fortunate that all of our judges are not such extremists as Mr. Johnson appears to be. Having examined this bird on more than one occasion, I am of the opinion that it would have been a better bird without the light feathers. As a dark, it would have taken some beating, whether a Canary-Bullie or a Greenie-Bullie. But is it a good light Hybrid? I find it has been exhibited under three specialist judges. Mr. G. E. Weston "wrong-classed" it for being entered in dark Mule class. Then at Nottingham, November 14, it was entered in the light Mule class (four entries) and was awarded second prize. The judge, Mr. Houlton, gave a very emphatic opinion of its merits as a light Mule by placing a four-pointed buff Goldfinch Mule in front of it. Rarity did not count here, as there are scores of four-pointed Goldfinch Mules, and I don't think even Mr. Johnson will question Mr. Houlton's knowledge of a Hybrid. Then it was exhibited at the Bradford National. Mr. Maddison judged on this occasion. It was in a class for all varieties of Bullfinch Hybrids, and was placed third, a Redpoll-Bullie first, and a dark yellow Canary-Bullie second. Evidently this judge, like many others, considers that a good dark yellow is better than a heavily variegated buff. Having been defeated in their condemnation of the bird, one or two are now trying to condemn the judge for daring to have an opinion contrary to their own. Mr. Vardy, in giving the history of this bird, incidentally states that the party who bred it also bred a very big Greenfinch-Bullfinch from the same hen Bullie. To my mind this is a very significant statement, and makes one wonder whether this bird also would have been a Canary-Bullfinch if it had been sufficiently variegated, to hide a few traces of its Greenfinch parentage. I know for a fact that a much lighter genuine Canary-Bullfinch than this sensation has been bred, but unfortunately it never reached the show bench, but lived sufficiently long (eight weeks) to prove its parentage beyond a doubt. I feel confident that if breeders would use cock Canaries bred from a light Muling strain, we would soon see Canary-Bullies worthy of the name of light Mules, and not merely heavily variegated, like hundreds of other Mules of the various crosses, which are considered of little value, no matter how monstrous in size, as they are only good dark Mules spoilt. In conclusion, a word of advice to whom it may concern. If you are lucky enough to breed a fairly light Bullfinch Hybrid from a cock Canary, don't throw away that cock Canary and put a Greenfinch in its place.

INTERESTED.

NEWTONGRANGE.

Held in Lothian Hall, Dec. 20. The large classification allocated to British failed to meet with the response deserved, though entries were in advance of many other of this season's shows. We hope to see British exhibitors recognise the value of such extension next year, as it is only by supporting such shows that a full classification can be maintained. Mr. J. Callander, in opening the show, expressed his appreciation of the hobby and wished the manage ment that success which their efforts merited. Mr. Gardiner, the Hon. President, afterwards presented him with a very nice Norwich Canary, whose powers of song were beyond question. The show was managed in a manner most creditable to the officials, who are all experienced fanciers, and the event went off without the slightest hitch. The proximity to station is a valuable asset, and the hall has fine capacity and freedom from the slightest draught. We hope to see the former tested next year.

Norwich classes were not very well filled, but contained some real beauties. Mr. Wm. Aitchison, of Edinburgh, having forward a good team and scoring fairly well. Mr. Mcx. Fleming, Musselburgh, judged, and seemed to give complete satisfaction. Borders were the backbone of the show, every class being well filled with many well-known winners. The yellow or buff variegated cock class was one of the best seen this season. The B.F.C.C. medal was won by Mr. James Hamilton, Eskbank, with a charming buff cock, put down in grand order. The Green classes contained some real gems, Messrs. Thomson winning in both classes with birds of the first water. Mr. Jas. Smillie, Riccarton, handled this section, and his awards seemed to satisfy everybody. In the British section Mr. J. Sykes had a field day, his well-known team being forward. The special for best bird in hall went to his champion Bramble, in addition to CAGE BIRDS diploma. A protest was lodged against the second prize Yellow Bunting, which some thought very like the Glasgow disqualified specimen in new hands, and after a careful examination the committee sustained the protest and disqualified the bird. Mr. J. Allan, Leith, made his debut as judge of British, Mules and Foreign, and his awards left no room for cavilling.

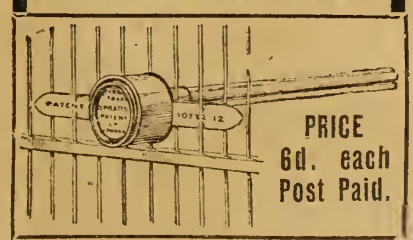
Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.



AYR.

Fifty-second annual show, held in Greenfi. Pavilion, Dec. 20. Our section was staged across the far end of the hall, so the birds were well clear of any draught. The hall is very lofty and spacious but just a shade cold; light was none too good during judging, but brightened up considerably about mid-day. The executive put out a splendid schedule, and do everything possible for the comfort and convenience of exhibitors, and it is strange that a bigger entry is not obtained. Mr. Mackie is a most popular sec., and a hard worker, and he has the whole routine of show management at his finger ends. The officials, Pres. A. Andrew, vice-pres. P. Mackie, and committee, Messrs. Kerr, Jackson, Fyper, Conkie, Milne, Thompson, Loudon, Paterson and Reid, all worked hard to make the show a success. Entries were on a par with last year, and though numbers were not large, the usual Land o' Burns quality was all there. The judges, Mr. C. Campbell, Glasgow (Canaries), and Mr. C. C. Irvine, Ayr (Mules, Brit. and For.) had the cards up in good time, and seemed to give general satisfaction.

39th annual exhibition held Nov. 15, in the Dunlop Street Hall. In every respect the show was one of the most successful held by the Society. Entries were fifty in advance of last year, the number being 350, while in the afternoon there was a large attendance of spectators. The judges, whose awards gave every satisfaction, were—Scotch Fancy and Norwich and Crests, Mr. Allan Chambers, Kirkintilloch; Border Fancy, Mr. Robert Lambie, Whitburn; Mules, British and Foreign, Mr. Peter M'Quiston, Ayr. The pres., Mr. William Muir, and the energetic sec., Mr. R. M'Caw, 6, Wards Place, along with the committee and stewards, are to be congratulated on the satisfactory manner in which the arrangements were carried through. The Club desire to take this opportunity to thank all donors of prizes, medals, and special prizes. Cup and medal winners were:—Scotch Fancy cup, J. Allan, Crest., J. Noble; Nor., R. Picken; Bord., J. Smillie; Mule, J. Dunsmuir; Brit. and For., W. Crosbie; James Johnston cup, J. Noble; Baillie Munro's medal for most points, R. Picken; Sandiford medal, R. Picken.

FAULDHOUSE.

First show held in the Drill Hall, Dec. 13. Cage birds numbered about 150, and there is little doubt that with a little more advertisement of the fixture, the entry might have been largely increased. Many fanciers in the district were not aware such a event was taking place. The exhibits were nicely staged in a spacious hall. The management consisted of gentlemen fanciers, the cage birds section being ably looked after by Messrs. R. Lambie and Calder, Whitburn, together with the worthy sec., Mr. Boyd. Judges were: Nor. and Bord., Mr. W. Laidlow Hamilton; Brit. and Mules, Mr. C. Small, Motherwell, and their awards seemed to be well received, as we heard very little grumbling.

The Critique.

NOR. CK. (1): 1, no name, nicely fed, good full coat, fine shape, good wings and tail; 2, Harper, large bull, good head and neck, and body, good col., fine round.; 3, ——, good head, a little soft when we saw it; 1, Campbell. HEN (3): 1 Campbell, large variegated, good shape, fine wing carr., nice mark. on feather; 2, Scobbie, scarcely the subs. of inner, but nice type, rich colour, a little soft; 3, Calder. NON FED (5): 1, Haston, large buff, neck mkd., some thought lucky, not the best of carr. either; 2, Campbell, variegated, cut choice, grand exhibit, in tip-top cond., and well staged; 3, Harper, grand head and neck, good body, fine qual. of feather; 4, Calder, shade smaller; 5, Reid; 6, 7, Cosgrove. BORD. CL. OR TKD. YELL. CK. (5): 1, H. Bennett, wing mkd., typical, nice head and neck, lovely body and shape, neat wing carriage; 2, G. Bennet, longer in body, but lovely qual., fine wings and tail, in grand order; 3, Easton, nice shape, fine head, in nice condition; 4, Lambie; 5, Aitchison. BUFF (8): 1, G. Bennett, stylish, nice col., full of qual., grand wings and tail, wins; 2, Patterson, grand shape and style, nicely balanced, very tight in feather, close up on winner; 3, A. Johnston, head mkd., stands well on legs, very shapely, neat wings, a rough in feather; 4, H. Bennett, grizzled head marks., grand silky feather, a beauty; 5, Gentleman; 6, no name; 7, R. Lambie. CL. OR TKD. YELL. HEN (7): 1, G. Bennett, lovely col., full of qual., very neat head, grand thighs, in tip-top cond.; 2, R. Lambie, fails in head to winner, and not quite so smooth in feather; 3, no name, bit rough in neck, still a nice typical exhibit, neat wings and tail; 4, Patterson; 5, Gentleman; 6, Aitchison; 7, Haston. BUFF (5): 1, H. Bennett, magnificent body and style, grandly balanced wings and tail, nice even col., perfect cond.; 2, R. Lambie, shapely, neat head and wing carr., fails in polish to winner; 3, G. Bennett, nice qual., grand shape, very stylish, and nice deep chest, dirty on head; 4, Hamilton, neat, smart, stylish bird, we liked much; 5, Timmins. CINN. (4): 1, R. Lambie, grand qual., lovely col., nice head and shoulders, very close in feather; 2, H. Bennett, sweet exhibit, nice level col., rare head, wings, and tail, in the pink; 3, W. Lambie, another good one, firm, silky feather, stands well on perch, close up here on winners; 4, Whitelaw. GREEN (5): 1, sp., 1, R. Lambie, 1 typical, nicely finished in feather, in grand order; 2, 5, W. Lambie, 2 very neat head, sweet moulded body, lovely col. of feather, neat wing carr., a good one; 3, Whitelaw, nice shape and style, shown in good order. A.O.V. (2): 1, R. Lambie, cinn. mkd., put down in grand fettle, easy win; 2, Johnston, wing mkd., neat exhibit, not the polish of winner. HEN (4): 1, Hamilton, yell. wing and eye mkd., sweet head and neck, nicely tapered body, nice qual.; 2, H. Bennett, buff, wing and eye mkd., sweet moilel, not so well rounded; 3, R. Lambie, head mkd., hardly so good in body taper; 4, Spittal. GOLDF. OR BULLF. (6): 1, Calder, nice Goldie, little pinched in head, nice blaze, and well tanned; 2, Campbell, Bullie, shapely exhibit, nicely full front, grand cap and bib, in grand cond.; 3, Gentleman, Goldie, nice blaze, hardly so rich in col. as winners; 4, Cosgrove; 3, 4, wrong classed as foreign. LINNET OR GREENF. (2): 1, sp., Thomson, Linnet, a grand one, nicely laced, great size, sweet head, lovely cond.; 2, Crane, Linnet. REDPOLL OR TWITE (7): 1, Johnston, Mealy 'Poll, a real good one, grand shape, nicely laced, bold head and nicely staged; 2, 3, Calder, 2 Twite, nice size and shape, nicely pencilled, bit dry in feather, 3 Mealy, nice size and shape, grand cond., beaten here to-day; 4, Timmins; 5, Crane; 6, Dewar; 7, Simpson. RUNCORN B.B.A.

Second annual members' show, held Bethesda Lecture Hall, Nov. 22, a very suitable room for a show. By dint of great perseverance Mr. E. Rone, the hon. sec., brought together a very fine lot of entries, going on for 150 in all. Quality in Yorks was really good, and competition keen. In novice Yorks were some tip-top birds. In Norwich the classes were well filled, and keen competition resulted. Nov. Nor. were smart, though Messrs. Gun, sen. and jun., put down their noted Crests and C.B. Nor., and the son managed to beat the father. He must have taken his lessons well. Greens were good, and special for best was won by a fine big buff, of fine col. and type (Tomlinson), a good all round Nor. Green. The officers are Mr. J. Guy, chairm.; vice, J. Sutton; treas., Mr. Boote; sec., Mr. E. Rone; committee, Messrs. Jos. Guy, Hayes, Jones, Norton, Whyte, Walker, Poole, Faulkner, Bate, Bostock, Tomlinson, Ingleficld, Fearnett, Ratcliffe, Booth, Rogerson. Mr. Chas. Boulton judged. The sec. had all in perfect order, and cages with prize cards on as fast as judged, and the members will do well to give him every support.

HEBDEN BRIDGE C.B.S.

Annual show, held Neptune Hall, Nov. 22, when upwards of 150 birds faced Mr. James Bailey, of Bradford. The society is in a very flourishing condition, having two splendid silver cups, one for Yorkshire and one for Norwich. Maiden and Spencer won the Yorks. cup with a beautiful buff cock, and Mr. W. Coad the Norwich with a grand buff cock.

MANNINGHAM.

Annual show held Dec. 20 in the Drummond Road Council School; 233 was the total number of entries—a somewhat poor entry for a Union show. The quality of the exhibits was quite up to the standard, many noted winners being amongst them. The school is an ideal place for a show, plenty of light and space, with freedom from draughts. Only one class paid its own prize money, and that was a selling class. Six classes were cancelled, and three had half prize money. Members' specials winners were:—1, J. Lunn; 2, J. Powell; 3, F. Grange; 4, E. Neeson; 5th, A. Haddlestone. H. Grange won cup for best Cinn. mkd. in nov. members'. The management was excellent. The secretary, Mr. H. Grange, got through his work in a most businesslike manner, and he was ably assisted by his assistant, F. Grange. The show stewards were J. Powell and F. Derwent; gatemen, J. Dyer and T. Robinson, and they, along with other members of the committee, got through their duties in the best possible manner. The packing and sending off was done in quick time. Mr. P. Mason, the judge, seemed to give every satisfaction.

ARDWICK AND MANCHESTER DIST. C.B.A.

Fifth annual show held Nov. 22, at St. Thomas School, Ardwick, a grand room. There was a slight increase in entries, total 240, and some grand birds were on view, especially in Norwich—always the strongest feature in this society. Amateur classes would have done credit to an open show, competition being very keen, sixty-seven birds in seven classes. Yorkshires did not come up to expectation, and we intend in the near future to strengthen this variety. Borders are on the increase, and there was a good display of British. The society offered thirty-eight special prizes, including money specials, gold and silver medals, etc. The president's silver challenge cup was won by J. A. Vint, second year in succession, also gold and silver medal and most points in show; A. E. Thorpe, 2nd most points (silver medal); S. T. Oldham, 3rd, and silver medal; Rev. J. W. Wragg, Sandiford's medal; J. A. Viut, best Nor. and best unflighted Nor. in show; A. Taylor, best Yorks.; A. E. Hope, best Brit.; A. E. Williamson, best novice Yorks.; A. E. Thorpe, best novice Nor.; W. H. Bennett, best novice Bord. There was a good attendance, and everything points to a financial success. T. Harrison (Altrincham) judged.

Three Methods of Increasing your Business

WHICH IS THE BEST?

Advertising by Circulars.

Supposing you wish to get right at 10,000 fanciers. Bearing in mind that the better the 'get-up' of your circular the likelier it is to pull, 10,000 circulars will cost you 10 guineas. This is a low estimate. Then there is the postage, another 20 guineas, roughly. But what about the addresses? You have to get them; that is difficult; and even if you had them, remember, the waste paper basket is the premature grave of many a circular.

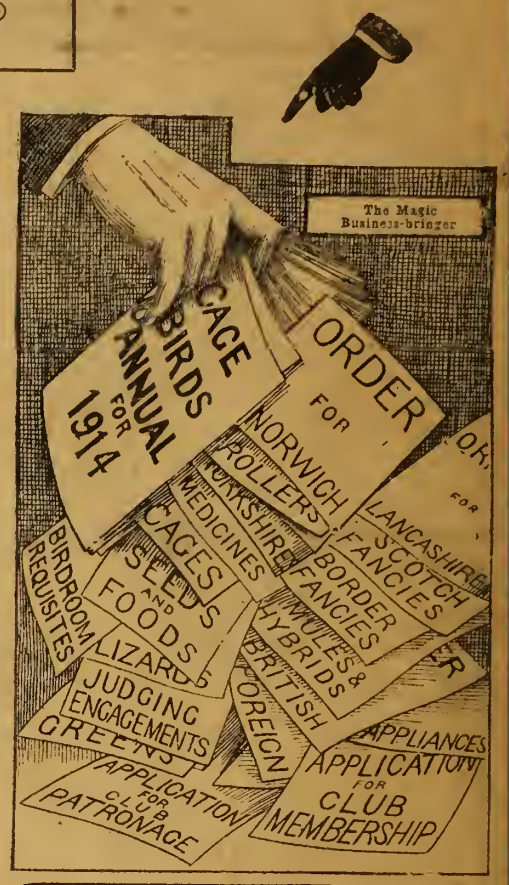
Arguments against—too strong.

Relying on Prestige.

Success on the show bench brings a certain amount of fame to exhibitors, but the scope afforded here is limited to comparatively a few. The best results, in new business, cannot possibly be obtained, even by successful exhibitors, unless the prestige is backed up by judicious advertising.

What about Breeders, Food and Medicine Retailers, Appliance Makers! A reputation for fair dealing is valuable to them. But they are more handicapped than exhibitors, for few shows cater fully for them, and cannot bring them anything like the amount of business they could wish for.

Not sufficient—Turn to the third method.



Advertising in "Cage Birds Annual."

A TRUE ESTIMATE OF THE MEDIUM.

"The Annual has evidently a very wide circulation, as I had enquiries from Belgium, New Zealand and Canada."—An Advertiser in the "Annual."

Circulation, 10,000. A space of about 25 square inches works out at about 5d. or 7d. per week (according to position); an inch space less than 1½d. per week. The contents, including the only full up-to-date detailed list of Cage Bird Societies published; an expert review of the past Show Season, Standards and Scales of points; Breeder's Calendar; the latest Emergency Hints, and a host of helpful articles, will make "Cage Birds Annual" a reference which all who take a real live interest in bird-keeping will find necessary to have at their elbow. It's influence lasts throughout the year.

THINK WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.
A method worth adopting.

The Breeding of Budgerigars and Cockatiels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. In this practical handbook an eminent authority and highly successful breeder gives very full details upon How to Keep, Feed, Breed, Tame, and Teach to Talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS

By WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., etc.—A most useful manual for all keepers of Foreign Birds. In it will be found indispensible information of an entirely practical nature—by a life-long specialist—on the keeping and feeding of the more common and popular varieties of foreigners. It contains illustrations in colour, and black and white, of some of the well-known species.

Price 1s., post free 1s. 1½d.

THE BRITISH BIRD MANUAL

By H. NORMAN.

The most thorough and practical work on British Birds ever produced. Published in two parts and complete bound in cloth. Part I. Hardbills. Deals in the fullest manner with Linnets, Goldfinches, Bullfinches, and all other varieties of Finches. Part II. Softbills. With Blackbirds, Thrushes, Jackdaws, Larks, and most of the more commonly kept species of insectivorous birds.

Contains fullest directions for Hand-rearing, Keeping, and Exhibiting the most popular of our British Birds. Each bird is dealt with separately, its nesting habits, etc., are fully explained, and these, together with a description of its general characteristics, will enable the novice to easily identify the various species. Each part contains a coloured plate and numerous black and white illustrations by the author.

Price complete, bound in cloth, 2s., post free, 2s. 3d., in parts 1s., post free 1s. 1d.

The Secrets of Hybrid Breeding

REVEALED AND EXPLAINED.

By MANY NOTABLE MULE AND HYBRID BREEDERS.

Among the contributors are many well-known breeders. This manual contains 212 pages, 7in. by 5, brimful of the most practical information on the highly interesting subject of Hybrid Breeding. Being written by practical and successful breeders, it is quite invaluable to everyone who would also be successful in their hobby.

Price 1s., post free 1s. 2d.

Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants

FOR CAGE BIRDS. Contains valuable information and the various seeds suitable for all varieties of cage birds, their food values, uses, etc.

It tells you the good and bad points of canary, hemp, rape, teazle, and all other seeds used by birds keepers. Description and illustrations of the various wild plants, such as Shepherds Purse, Chickweed, Privet Berries, etc. Absolutely indispensable.

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transactiou has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8. GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES. In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

NO QUACKERY HERE.

and no "Cure-alls." If you have a bird with a cold, asthma, or any lung affection, give "Asthmarine" a trial. It will surprise you. For birds run down or in soft moult, try my Golden Tonic Drops, for inflammation of body try my almost infallible "Inflamation Remedy." All at 9d. and 2/6 per bottle, post free. When every other so-called remedies have failed, with all confidence I invite you to give these genuine and uncqualled real Remedies a trial.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

Not Singing

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into song and for getting them into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic drops have been used for over six years by most leading fanciers, and are used at the London Zoo. Fanciers, we guarantee you perfect satisfaction, or return you full money. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and inflammation of the bowels. Sold to 7d., 1/1 and 2 bottles. Mr. Hatton, Atherton, writes: "Your medicine for soft moult is excellent stuff, it has cured me four birds in soft moult, they are now in full song." Mr. Fletcher, Chadmoor: "Have used your Tonic Drops for 18 months, and they have never failed to do as advertised." Mr. W. Harris, Dorchester: "The effects of your Tonic Drop are marvellous." Major B. Horsbrough, "Your medicine is magnificent stuff." Mr. W. Reid, Greenock, "Your medicine has been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." For Bronchitis, Wheezing, Hoarseness, and inflammation of the Lungs, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. Mr. G. H. Wilkes, Oldham, Hon. Sec. Cage Bird League, writes: "Your Lung Tonic is splendid stuff, it has entirely cured my best Roller cock." Mr. J. Owen, Pontlottyn, "Your Lung Tonic has proved a success." For cases of constitutional weakness and debility, get Ditchfield's famous "Revivo," there is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the bird. As a pick me up for birds before and after showing, "Revivo" is absolutely unequalled. In 7d. and 1/1 bottles. Special Notice.—When ordering medicine kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. To advertise our medicines we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6. All medicines are sent post paid, per return. All bottles broken in transit replaced. Also two valuable seed recipes, how to feed Linnets and Rollers for song, given free to all purchasers of our medicines: Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. (1154)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous Birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

WANTED A TRIAL

We have a large stock of pure Seifert Rollers, every bird guaranteed in full song, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 and 15/-; all birds sold on 7 days' trial at our risk, carriage paid and insured. We guarantee every customer perfect satisfaction: Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. (1154)

I INVITE YOU

to come, see, and hear my birds any day (except Sundays), and you will be convinced who has the best collection, and who gives the best value in singing Canaries. If you cannot come to select the bird you require, allow me to send you one on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee to give you satisfaction. I have thousands of genuine unsolicited testimonials open for your inspection. My genuine St. Andreasburg Rollers are imported direct (by myself) from the most reliable and experienced breeders in Germany. No middleman's profits, hence the high quality at reasonable prices. St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, with full change of song by day and artificial light, genuine, up-to-date songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each; a few extra good contest songsters, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-; hens, same strain, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6 each (not common German rubbish). For cheap reliable songsters my Hartz cocks are unequalled, and acknowledged by all to be the real working man's friend. Birds in full, loud, free song by day and gaslight, real loud, sweet songsters, Hartz cocks, 4/9, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each, according to quality of song. Matched pairs for breeding songsters, 7/6, 8/-, 8/6. Neat travelling cages, 3d. each; special quotations to clubs and dealers. Travelling cages from 2/- dozen, 20/6 per gross. All birds on 7 days' approval at my sole risk; cash or deposit: E. L. Storey, The Roller Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

PURE SEIFERT ROLLERS.

I am now in a special position to satisfy the requirements of all Roller fanciers. I have hundreds of birds to select from, and am prepared to send on 10 days' approval to any address in the United Kingdom at the following prices:—Cocks, in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 16/-, 20/- each. Genuine Schoolmasters, specially trained for contest singing, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 35/-, 40/- each upwards. Hens, guaranteed same pure strain, 3/-, 4/-, 6/-, 7/6 each. I send every bird at my risk for your approval, and guarantee absolute satisfaction or cash returned in full. Travelling cages, 3d. extra.—JOE THOMAS, Breeder, Exhibitor, and Exporter, Ambler Thorn, Halifax, Yorks. Over 35 years same address.

I KNOW IT'S RUDE

to point, but I must point out to you the very special qualities of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, as imported solely by myself. For 22 years the breeders have devoted the whole of their skill to improving the song of this strain, and the result is round about perfection. They have none of the monotony of the ordinary Roller about them, their song being made up of a splendid variety of ever changing harmonious music, and this song they will retain during their whole lives, not merely for one year only. They are particularly strong and hardy, and thoroughly acclimatised before sent out. At present I have an exceptionally large stock (over 900) of these Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh, objectionable notes whatever, price 7/- and 8/- each. Special bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and bubbling water tours, 10/6 and 12/6 each. I also have a limited quantity of very special contest Rollers; these birds are of purest blood Germany can boast of, and are gems of very first water, fit for immediate contesting, 15/-, 17/6 and 21/- each. Leipzig Roller hens, 2/3 each, 4/- couple. No contest Roller hens yet. For those who like a loud, noisy singer, I have a splendid lot of free singing vigorous Hartz cocks in full loud song, day and gaslight. These are particularly good-looking birds, and will stand any amount of cold; just the thing for public bar or coffee house, etc.; price 5/- each; Hartz hens, 3/6 couple. Special travelling cages, 3d. extra. All safely and warmly packed with water and seed for 48-hour journey and sent on full week's trial at my sole risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. See following few letters and notice full address and date to each: "83, Cobham-rd., South Park, Ilford, Dec. 8. Sir,—Referring to birds from you a week ago, the cock bird has now begun to sing very nicely. I also beg to acknowledge receipt of hen you sent to replace one that died (owing to delay on railway.—W.G.). This is first transaction I have had with you, and in addition to giving me every satisfaction it has proved that I have been dealing with a straightforward business man. I shall not hesitate to send to you again. Yours, J. Chepeck." "Stonyhurst College, nr. Blackburn, Dec. 4. Sir.—A word to let you know how highly satisfied I am with Roller you sent me. His song is so soothing to the mind and quite different from that of other birds, whose song consists of a short, monotonous squeak, and thanking you for honest dealing. Yours, S. de Freitas." "1, Princess-sq., Longport, Nov. 28. Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Joynson." "11, Gethen-rd., Penygraig, Nov. 30. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in pink of condition. I thought I had some good singers, but he knocks them into a cocked hat, and has secured you another order. Yours, T. Watkins." "Thorpe Terrace, New-rd., Luddenden, Nov. 25. Sir,—Roller to hand on Wednesday. He commenced singing as soon as unpacked, and for beauty of song I have yet to find his equal. I am perfectly satisfied, and wish to tender my sincere thanks for your straightforward dealing. Yours, Wm. Murgatroyd." Please note, all Roller cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and as I am sole importer of this strain no other man can sell as much as one feather unless he first purchases it from me. I publish but a very few of the testimonials I receive, but the Editor has frequently examined bundles of them which have never been published. (1111)

Read following from Ashleigh, Rainhill, Dec. 26, 1913. At our show recently I took two firsts with cock and first and second with the hens. I am well satisfied with them, and thank you for supplying me with such good birds.—T. Robey, to L. Dykes. Another, from Castle Hill, Guernsey, 23 Dec., 1913. Just a line to tell you I won 1st, 2nd, vhc, also special for best Canary, and spl. for best hird in show at our show. These are all bred from the pair you sent me, So am well pleased with your stock.—J. Collenette, to L. Dykes. I have hundreds of testimonials similar to above, though these are the first I have published this season. If you want the very best blood in the Fancy I can supply you, as my strain of Yorkshires is unequalled for producing winners, or on the show bench. Having won twice as many 1sts during the past four years as any other exhibitor, also winning the Y.C.C. Challenge Cup for this season. See leading show reports. I still have over 200 for sale, all in the pink of condition, and cold-rooms bred and kept. Clears, ticked, or marked pairs, matched to breed winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/- per pair; cocks, yellows or buffs, at 6/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- 25/-, 30/- each; grand breeding hens, any colour, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Travelling cages, 3d. extra. All on seven days' approval at my risk. Cash, or deposit with Editor. And, remember, I have not had a single deposit to return for the past three years. (Editor holds proof.) This is proof of what I send out. I also have several big winners for sale. Inspection invited any time. Price list, post free. State wants to the old reliable breeder, and avoid disappointment: L. Dykes, 16, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford

FOREIGN birds for beginners, 1/1½, by W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign birds. Replete with useful hints: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

NOTICE to keepers and breeders of Budgerigars; much valuable information is given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 18," 2½d., post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. (2d. from agents, a list of whom is published frequently).

THERE is no more lovely seed-eater than the popular Gouldian Finch, which, however, is very difficult to establish. This trouble can be overcome, and the variety kept successfully. But you must follow the hints given in "Nutshell No. 14," from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet st., London, E.C., post free for 2½d. From agents (see list frequently published).

TALKING Green Amazon Parrot, magnificent plumage, 4 years old, exceedingly tame, perches on finger, talks and kisses you, speaks distinctly as any grey bird, fully 200 words, long sentences, whistles "Pop Goes," "Oh, Dear," sings "Polly Perkins," "Mary," recites "Polly Green," genuine clever, extra well trained bird; heard talking, or approval before payment, £3 15/-, including cage: E. Asheroft, Houghton-st., Liverpool. (1152)

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

WAXBILLS! (Golden-breasted, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and St. Helena). Than this interesting quartette, which can be purchased at from 2/6 to 7/6 a pair, there are few more charming foreigners. They can be successfully kept, too, with little difficulty if you will follow the hints given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 20," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Call at any of our agents and get it for 2d. (list frequently published).

Meeting and table show held Dec. 17, Mr. Crawhall presided over a good attendance. The members congratulated Mr. Wigglesworth on winning the challenge cup, and Mr. Thurston on his meritorious win of Ramsden's cup. An interesting discussion arose on how best to create more interest in our table shows. After several suggestions were put forward, it was decided that in future only highest bird of each member in the class should count for points, the idea being to give the member with only a small team an equal chance with those who are fortunate enough to possess a larger number of exhibition birds. The secretary's cup, which was originally intended for this year's competition, but was withdrawn owing to entries falling short of the stipulated number, was handed over to the club for next year's competition. Decided to ask the other Northern specialist clubs to join us in holding a smoking concert, Messrs. Cattell and Mirley to act as delegates in connection with same. Table show awards: CHAMP. YELL. CK.: 1, 2, Crawhall; 2, 3, Cattell. BUFF: 1, 2, 3, vhc, Crawhall; 4, Cattell. HEN: 1, 2, 4, Crawhall; 3, Cattell. NOV. SECTION. CK.: 1, Hedley; 2, hc, Smith; 3, c, Mirley; 4, Scott; vhc, Witherhv. HEN: 1, Hedley; 2, Mirley; 3, Smith; 4, Witherby.—R. Tindale, hon. sec.

SOUTHERN BORDER F.C.

Meeting held at Guildhall, Wandsworth Road, Dec. 17, Mr. H. Norman chair. Sec. reported that he had placed order for spoons with Mr. A. J. Pratt, and had forwarded two plates of Borders which were very kindly given by CAGE BIRDS as a model for the spoons. Statement of financial affairs of the club was given, which is very satisfactory, but there are several unpaid members, and it will greatly help if these members will send same before the audit in New Year week. Annual general meeting at Palace on the Sat; it is hoped all provincial members will attend. Ballot papers will be sent out as early as possible; members having any suggestion as to alteration of rules, etc., must send same in writing to sec. seven days before annual meeting. Diplomas, cups, money, and other specials will be presented at the Palace. Members and others who have kindly promised donations to cup fund or anyone wishing to subscribe kindly let me have same at once, as the committee are now deciding upon its purchase. Mr. Snook, Mrs. Last, and Mr. Mugford were elected members. A list of points gained during season will be given as soon as counted.—F. Moore, hon, sec.

RAWTENSTALL F.S.

Next show and meeting will be held in the Mission Room, Hall-st., Rawtenstall, Jan. 6, at 7.30. Two classes, A.V. cock, ditto hen. Mr. William Bacon, judge. Annual general meeting will take place Jan. 13, at 8. All fanciers cordially invited.—H. Kershaw, Sec.

WHITBURN C.B.S

Meeting held Baillie Institute, Dec. 29. The Sec. reported a balance in hand of £7 9s. 1d., which was considered very satisfactory seeing there are only eight members of committee and that two years ago the society had only £1 8s. 4d. to its credit. Committee for next year:—Pres., Mr. L. Laing; sec. and treas., R. Lambie, The Aviaries, Whitburn, Linlithgowshire. Committee—Messrs. R. Calder, A. Johnstone, A. McLaren, A. Forrest, R. Allan, and R. Whiteford.—Robert Lambie, Sec.

YORKS C.C. OF SCOTLAND.

Nomination meeting held in Neilson's Hotel, Dec. 23. Mr. Bowman presided over a poor attendance. Following were nominated for election as officers:—Pres., Messrs. Heggie, Gibb, and Anderson; vice-pres., Messrs. Park, Anderson, Penman, Sinclair, and McKnight; sec., Messrs. Priest, Penman, Heggie, and Sinclair.—R. B. Gibb, Hon. Sec.

HIGHGATE & HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Meeting held at Spencer Hall, Dec. 14. Judging competition for members, 13 competing for the silver medal given by the society, which was won by Mr. G. Street, with 19 points. Messrs. T. Bush, and W. Large runners up 14. Final judge Mr. G. E. Weston, whose remarks on the merits of the birds on view were much appreciated. Three new members joined, Messrs. J. Allen, S. Cooper, and R. J. Pretty. A vote of thanks to Mr. Weston for officiating was passed unanimously.—J. Hyde, hon. sec.

CITY OF BRADFORD.

Meeting held Flying Dutchman Hotel, Leeds Road, Bradford, Dec. 20. A moderate number of members attending, Mr. Geo. Hunter, chair. Balance sheet for open show for 1913 was read. Officers nominated for 1914, stewards elected for Boxing Day members' show, etc. This being the last meeting of the year the society earnestly appeals to its members in general who are not straight on the books as regards subscriptions to please come forward at the next meeting and clear their arrears, in order to save the officials the unpleasantness of having to write them personally.—P. N. Jenkinson, assist. sec.

WOLVERHAMPTON C.B.S

Meeting held Dec. 18 at headquarters, the Duke of York, when Mr. F. J. Weaver presided over a good attendance. The chief item on the agenda was the balance sheet of the open show which has unfortunately turned out the loss which (after the show) was expected, as we lost considerably on the classes, and two exhibitors sent in their entries wrongly and caused further loss, as we had to pay full prize money on the classes. The society is very much obliged to those two sportsmanlike fanciers, Mr. G. A. Smith, Birmingham, and Mr. T. Walker, Wolstanton, who allowed the society part of their prize money. Annual members' show fixed for Jan. 30: 7 Nor., 5 Yorks., 1 Nat. Col., 1 A.O.V., 1 Mule, and 6 Brit. Mr. G. Baker, Birmingham, judge. As this is the final cup show I hope all members will send along good teams as every member of the club has a chance of winning it.—J. Gibbons, hon. sec.

CLYDEBANK C.B.C.

Annual meeting held Dec. 18, Mr. McGown presiding. Treasurer submitted the balance sheet which was considered very satisfactory, as it shows a balance of £8. Office-bearers elected for ensuing year: Pres., G. McGown; vice-pres., J. Morton; sec., W. Kane; treas., Mr. Chambers; com.: Messrs. McArdle, Laing, Tawse, Robb, McBride, Easton, and Hutchison; auditors, Messrs. Miller and McArdle. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.—Wm. Kane, sec.

DARVEL C.B.C.

Usual monthly meeting held Dec. 19, pres. took the chair before a good turn-out of members. He intimated the receipt of 10s. from Mr. H. R. Cayner, Lanfine, as a donation towards club show. Also that Mr. McNair, who had procured the wood and made the staging used at our recent club show had given same as a donation to the club. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. McNair for the generous gift. Mr. G. Alston judged birds entered for table show. GOLDF.: 1, Murdoch; 2, Beaton and Campbell; 3 Bennet. BULLF.: 1, Beaton and Campbell; 2, Murdoch; 3, Bennet. LINN.: 1, Robertson; 2, Beaton and Campbell; 3, Morton. GREENF.: 1, Hopkins; 2, Robertson; 3, Morton. REDPOLL: 1, 2, 3, Hopkins. SISKIN: 1, Hopkins; 2, Taylor; 3, Richmond. After judging, and general discussion on the merits and demerits of birds on view Mr. Alston was awarded a hearty vote of thanks for his services. Annual general meeting arranged for Jan. 13. Treasurer's financial report will be read and election of office-bearers for 1914, etc., take place at this meeting. Table show of Canaries will be held same evening. Classes: Buff Bord., Yell Bord., Nor. ck., Nor. hen, Scotch Fancy cock, Scotch Fancy hen, Juvenile Members' Canary. Messrs. A. Beaton and H. Allan were appointed auditors of club books for 1913.—J. Robertson, junr., sec.

EDINBURGH AND DIST. C.B.S.

Financial meeting held Dec. 16th in Cairns Memorial Hall, president, Mr. A. W. Watson, in the chair, and a large turn-out of members present. Secretary submitted balance sheet for the year, the total income being £23 8s. 4d., against an expenditure of £21 1s. 1d., leaving a balance in hand of £2 7s. 3d. The auditor's report was received with satisfaction, and balance sheet was adopted. The president then moved, seconded by Mr. Rodger, that sec. write one of our members to refund all specials won by him at our late show, owing to his showing old birds in young bird classes; the same member having done this also in 1912. Mr. Staines moved a hearty vote of thanks to retiring office-bearers. Office-bearers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Mr. A. W. Watson; vice Mr. Gen. Staines; sec. and treas., Mr. J. C. Charlton; auditors, Messrs. R. Craig and J. Rodger; committee, Messrs. J. Stormont, W. Fergusson, W. Thomson, T. Russell, T. Sibbald, W. B. Adam, J. Illick, P. Hay, and Geo. Brown. Agreed to again have a smoking concert on Jan. 24 in Union Hotel, Lothian Road, the committee for smoker being Messrs. Lacey, Stormont, Dick, Watson, and Charlton. Decided to hold annual show last Saturday of Nov.; will other secs please note. Decided to elect judges at March meeting, also classification to come up for discussion same time. It was left in sec's. hands to draw up syllabus for ensuing year. Chair at smoking concert will be taken at 7 p.m., tickets 6d. each.—J. C. Charlton, hon. sec.

MALTON, NORTON.

Eighteenth annual open show held on Dec. 26. Cage Birds had 11 classes, and had the patronage of the Yorks. and Lancs. B.B. and M. Club. Entries totalled 141, averaging 10 per class, not bad for holiday fixture. Yorks. led the way, and Messrs. Dykes, J. Thomas and Wilkinson Bros. staged good teams. Norwich were a grand lot, the chief winners being J. Thomas, F. Bielby, J. Wilson, G. Harland, R. D. Parlett and Clayton and Smith. J. Thomas won spl. best Canary with his midnighted buff Nor. (This bird was bred by a member of Malton P.S.) Mules and Brit. were a grand show, splendid specimens being shown by Dr. M. A. Wilson, R. D. Parlett, J. Milne, T. H. Inman, L. Fanding, and others. The now noted Canary-Bullio came in for a lot of attention. Malton possesses a few who have successfully reared hybrids, and many opinions were heard. More than one expressed it a Greenfinch-Bullfinch, as it shows a yellow tinge on outer flights not generally seen in a Canary-Bullio. There was a good attendance. Mr. H. W. Battye judged.

The Critique.

YORKS., CK. (11): 1, Dykes, cl. yell., grand bird, great length, m line cond.; 2, Wilkinson Bros., tkd. buff, grand qual., close up; 3, 4, J. Wilson; hc, Roper; c, Schofield. LINNET (8): 1, 3, Parlett, two nice coloured ones, nicely pencilled and good size; 2, Harland, similar to winner, not so well mkd.; 4, Inman, grand one for size, well mkd., we thought might have been 2nd; vhc, Milne; hc, Kilpatrick; c, Gill. MULE OR HYB. (11): 1, 3, Parlett, the now noted Canary-Bullie, needs no further comment, in better cun. than we have seen him; 3rd grand jonque Goldie-Can., good condition, can win in his own class; 2, vhc, Dr. Wilson, Canary-Bullie, a contrast to winner, but a really nice exhibit, worth its place; 4, Inman, Goldie-Bullie, big one, might have been 3rd; hc, B. H. Wilson; c, Carter. A.O. HARDBILL (15), best class in show, no less than six Hawfinches, a hard class to judge: 1, Milne, grand Hawfinch, not a large one, shines like silk, splendid condition, wins; 2, Dr. M. A. Wilson, lovely Meadow Bunting, in faultless trim, an attractive exhibit; 3, Parlett, well spangled Bramble, nice size and qual., steady; 4, Axe, good Hawfinch, equal to winner in all but condition; vhc, Inman; hc, c, M. A. Wilson. SOFTBILL (6): 1, spl, best Brit., Milne, lovely Nightingale, well put down, steady as a rock; 2, hc, Fulding, grand Cornish Chough, not so large as we have seen them, caused quite an attraction, the first we believe exhibited at Malton; 3, 4, Parnaly, Redwing and Missel Thrush, two grand birds, well shown; vhc, Parlett.

HASTINGS & ST. LEONARDS C.B.S

Annual Prize Distribution.

Annual prize distribution of the Hastings and St. Leonards United Cage Birds Society held at the Royal Oak Hotel, December 24. There was a record attendance, over 100 being present, and many unable to find room. Mr. W. Ruskin Butterfield presided, and others present included: The hon. Secretary (Miss Kirk-Bullock), Dr. and Mrs. Frank Shaw, the President (Rev. J. M. Paterson), Mr. and Mrs. Dann, Mrs. C. W. Tagg, Miss M. Vale, Mr. and Mrs. Swaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Greengrass, Mr. and Miss Penuells, Mr. Dawson and Miss O. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Morris, Mr., Mrs., and the Misses Goddon, Mr. W. Ellis, Mr. T. Veness, Mr. Sherwood, Mr. Cramp, Mrs. and Miss Stubberfield, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. T. G. Coombs, and Mr. Stoakes. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Frank Shaw, a lady well known throughout Hastings and St. Leonards. The Chairman, in a neat speech, attributed the success of the society to the fact that it possessed a lady sec., the only society, he believed, with such a distinction. In accepting from Miss Kirk-Bullock a souvenir presented by the society, the Pres. said that the keeping of birds was a thorough education to every man, woman, and child. Every inhabitant of Hastings and St. Leonards should have a pet of some kind in the house. He sincerely hoped that as long as he remained in Hastings he would be in close connection with the society. A fountain pen was presented to Miss Kirk-Bullock, who, in responding, said that for some years the society had a deficiency at the end of the year. This year they had started with about 15s. in hand, and at the end they would have nearly £5. A warm vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. W. Ellis to Miss Kirk-Bullock for her generous contribution to the special prizes, especially the Kirk-Bullock trophy which he had the pleasure of winning. Mr. Greengrass seconded. Other votes of thanks were to Mrs. Shaw for distributing the prizes, the Pres., donors of specials, the hon. sec., the judges, and the chairman. During the evening an excellent musical programme was carried out, among those contributing being Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Horsey, and Messrs. Jones, Veness, Stevens, and Greengrass. Miss Alice Etheridge accompanied, and gave some much appreciated pianoforte solos.

How to Stop the Wheezing.

[Winner of Half-Crown Prize.]

Fanciers during this and the ensuing month may go into the bird-room and hear a little wheezing (or a lot). This is a grand cure: Go to the butcher and get one pennyworth of mutton suet. Put it in a saucepan with milk and let this boil gently for ten minutes. Have ready a piece of stale bread, sufficient for the birds you are treating. I give it to all mine. Scald the bread with the boiled milk and suet, and you will soon find the wheezing stop. You can sweeten with a little sugar.—W. Pain (Thornton Heath).

Sendpaper for Toe-Nails.

A useful idea to keep birds' nails in trim is to cut a strip of fine glass paper the length of the perch, and a little narrower. Glue this to the perch, on the under side. Every time birds hop on this perch the nails will be kept short. This should be fixed to only one perch.—W. Bibb (Camden Town).

A Home-made Varnish.

[Winner of Half-crown Prize.]

It may interest readers who are thinking of varnishing their cages when cleaning up prior to the breeding season (or even their furniture) to try the following for making their own varnish. I use it myself, and find it give a splendid finish to all woodwork: Get ½ worth methylated spirit of wine and put in a pint bottle. Then get 1d. worth of camphor ice and 1d. worth of resin. Grind camphor and resin together, and put into bottle. Set on top of oven (not too hot or too near fire) until all is melted. Do not cork until cool, when it is ready for use. Apply with soft brush, when it will dry almost immediately, leaving no smell.—A. B. Allardyce (Aberdeen).

The Cleanly Oilcloth.

One of our prominent Roller fanciers was inspecting my stock, and said to me, with a pleased smile: "Now I have learned something; all your cage floors are covered with oilcloth, so that you can scrape, scrub, sand, and return in a few minutes, sweet and clean."—A. Atherton (Preston).

SHOW DATES FIXED.

To secure insertion in this column, a guarantee that the show will be advertised in "C.B." to the extent of at least 25/- must be sent to our manager. Please note that we only insert those that guarantee, so our list is a bona-fide one.

Jan. 13, Llanelly
Jan. 20 and 21, Boscombe (Bournemouth).

Schedules can be obtained from the respective secretaries (note the show adverts. this week on page 583). Entries can be made on the terms specified in the paragraphs, published last week, headed "How Exhibitors Can Enter."

It costs but 6d. for each bird you enter to compete for CAGE BIRDS Diplomas, in themselves artistic, and most desirable prizes, and which, moreover, carry the right to the winner to enter for the splendid specials in the finale of our Championship Competition at the Crystal Palace.

At the Palace Show CAGE BIRDS will offer for competition solely amongst those who have won a diploma during the present season a £10 10s. challenge shield for best coupon bird.

£10 10s. cash for best champion coupon bird.

£10 10s. cash for best novice coupon bird, and

£78 in cash specials, divided into 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th prizes in the 12 sections specified below.

In addition we have decided also to give 24 hand-painted Diplomas of Honour to the 12 best champion and the 12 best novice coupon birds, two going to each of the sections we specify.

Here, surely, are prizes worthy of every exhibitor's attention. Readers, order your coupons at once.

THE NEW YEAR.

A Call to Cage Bird Fanciers.

WHAT will 1914 mean to the cage bird hobby? That depends upon you, reader, and the help you give to it. Every cage bird enthusiast must be an optimist. Do you know what an optimist is? A man who always tries to see the bright side of life, and to take a hopeful view of circumstances. Be an optimist. Don't preach hard times or hard times will surely follow. We require new blood—and more enthusiasm—and you reader can supply both.

I met a man the other day—he had a very long face. "The cage bird cult is rapidly going down," he ejaculated. "Business is bad." "Nonsense." I replied. "It is not the hobby that is declining—it is your energy—your vitality. Put a little more 'jip' into things. Be cheerful; work hard, and don't be afraid. Fear is always the herald of disaster."

When I first founded Cage Birds the outlook was as black as it possibly could be. Under the fostering influence of an "organ," the fancy grew with tremendous strides. Why? because of the enthusiasm and good fellowship and the spirit of energy created by this journal. Now, brother hobbyists, let your watchword for 1914 be "Energy and Hope." Don't spend all your time studying how to save three-halfpence on your advertisement, twopence on your seed bill, and threepence on the price of a bird. Get out and create other fanciers. Talk to strangers about birds. Leave your copies of this paper in trains, barbers' shops, and wherever people congregate. Wear your League Badge. Don't be afraid of being known as a Birdy Crank. Birds are wonderful and beautiful things, and it is your mission to spread the study of their welfare.

We extend to every one of our old and new friends the New Year greeting and heartiest wishes for bumping prosperity. Such shortcomings of ours as you have found occasion to grumble at we shall endeavour to make things of the past. But we beg your continued co-operation for the bird fanciers' guide and helpmate. Read it regularly; advertise in it; support all its special issues, and don't hesitate to blame us when we are not pleasing you.

So shall we continue to be of some small service to the cage bird fraternity and to you.

BE KIND TO THE WILD BIRDS IN WINTER'S GRIP.

NOW that our little feathered friends out in the open are experiencing the full terrors of Nature's wintry forces—most bitter of all foes—it once again devolves upon bird-lovers to help them to the utmost to survive their time of trial. Simple means—as our old readers will well know—can achieve much. Stale bread, preferably soaked in warm water, will be relished by all the wild birds—indeed, under stress of weather all kinds of table scraps become acceptable and good provender, pieces of fat meat or suet especially so. Do not waste anything of this kind; just place it where the birds can feast without danger of being pounced upon by prowling cats. Above all, don't forget a pan of water, frequently replenished in times of hard frost.—Editor, "C.B."

Will members of the Bootle C.B.S. please return all unsold tickets and moneys to the secretary as early as possible?

We hear that the open show of Brandon Colliery C.B.S. is fixed for Feb. 14. Mr. W. Reid, Sunderland, will judge.

Mr. H. W. Battye has been engaged to judge at the Coventry Godiva C.B.S. show on Oct. 24, writes Mr. H. Saunders, hon. sec.

I have received a letter, with the postmark "Portsmouth," from a Mr. J. Fairplay, enquiring about some Rollers, but he omitted to send his address.—E. E. Wilson (London, N.)

We hear that Mr. MacFadyen, of Lanark, the well-known breeder of Crests, and Plainheads, has removed to Dr. Davidson's house, 150, Main-street, Barrhead.

Buckhaven and District C.B.S. have changed their open show date from Nov. 22 to Nov. 7. The society is in a flourishing condition both with members and funds.—Wm. Foster, sec.

Palace Show, Feb. 6 to 10. Schedules will be posted to all exhibitors at last Palace, Horticultural Hall, Sheffield, Manchester, Bradford National, and Scottish National shows on Wednesday, Jan. 14.

Mr. J. Bryson, sec. Aberdeen O.S., asks us to correct mistakes in catalogue as follows: Class 10, 3rd Wm. Reid, Stonehaven, instead of Wilson. Class 75, 1st Scott, 2nd Wilson, 3rd Lawrie, 4th Fyfe, 5th Reid, 6th Davidson.

Notices of meetings of the following societies were received after we had gone to press with our last issue, and the meetings will have been held before the present issue is published: Huddersfield O.S., Stanley Viet, Craghead C.B.S., West Stanley C.B.S., Provincial Roller C.C., Falkirk Good Intent.

We are asked to say that the 5s. specials stated in the schedule of the Blackwood Show Jan. 6, as being for best in classes 53 to 55 and 59 to 61 are for most points throughout the three classes in each case, not for best birds. We hear that all birds will be returned on the night of the show.

Four Waxwings were seen in Chapel-en-le-Frith last week. They were feeding on hips, the fruit of the wild rose, a favourite winter food of the bird. Formerly the Waxwing was known as the Bohemian chatterer, but we must look upon the word Bohemian as referring to its nomadic habits and not to its place of origin.

Will all our members kindly note I. have received a letter from the secretary of Doncaster C.B.S. to say that one of their members is giving a cup, value 30s., for most points gained by a member of the Y. and L.B.B. and M.C., or any of the other specialist clubs, making not less than six entries. Give Doncaster a bumping entry.—T. H. Inman, hon. sec. Yorks and Lancs B.B. and M.C.

Fine Entry at Scottish National.

Scottish National C.B.S. closed with 2,000 entries. Borders, Mule and British sections are best; 63 champion and 11 novice Cage Birds Coupon competitors.—Pro. I. R. Meikle, D.M.

What a magnificent 'Xmas number you gave us for 1913, with a real good "Calendar," which is a great credit to the artist! Every success for the coming year.—J. Little, Oxford Street, W.C.

L. and P.O.S. Dinner.

The L. and P.O.S. Committee warmly invite any friends from other societies to be present with them on Thursday next, Jan. 8, at the Holborn Restaurant. Splendid musical programme. Ladies specially invited. Tickets 4s. each, from C. W. Law, Brimley House, Woodhouse-rd., N. Finchley.

Attractive Staging at Sunderland.

In sending us the schedule of Sunderland open show, to be held on Jan. 16 and 17, the hon. sec. writes: I might add that "A friend" has guaranteed cash special in each of British classes, and Mr. F. W. Goldstone, M.P., has presented a valuable special for best bird shown in members' classes, neither of which are recorded in schedule. Mr. G. Wilson gives a medal for best bird in British section, and there are numerous other specials in cash, etc., from other sources. This year we have arranged for almost double the quantity of staging on the three tier system and a local nurseryman has offered to send us a stock of plants, etc., for decoration, which, we hope, will prove an attraction to visitors, and also produce a good effect on the staging of exhibits. I have sent out over 1,400 schedules, but any fancier overlooked can have a copy on application to me.—John Peacock, 6, Whitburn terrace, Fulwell, Sunderland.

TWELVE YEARS!

The Twelfth Edition of "Cage Birds" Popular Annual and Year Book is now under preparation.

HAVE YOU SENT YOUR ADVERTISEMENT?

If the most successful business men of the day were asked to say what they considered the chief secret of their success they would reply "Persistence in Advertising." Oh, yes, says the working man fancier, that is all very well, but how about me, I cannot afford to be persistent in such an expensive hobby as advertising.

Now this advertisement (for that is what this announcement is), has set out to show you as a working man, how you can be persistent in your advertising at the smallest expense.

A single ad. in CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL will keep your name before thousands of fanciers week in and week out for the whole year at a very small charge. The advertiser has the satisfaction of knowing that CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL is constantly working for him and constantly doing its best to bring him a return for his outlay. There are some fanciers who swear by our Annual and want no better medium. Here are the rates—

My British Softbills include a Sandpiper which I have succeeded in making fairly steady, taking mealworms from myself, but it dislikes strangers very much.

A Cry from Doncaster.

G. Hunt, hon. sec. Doncaster and District C.B.S., writes:—"An error has occurred in our schedule, viz., Classes 14 to 17 are open novice, not confined to the Cinnamon marked Y.C.C. members. We must extend date of closing to Wednesday, first post, January 7. Entries to date are only four. Exhibitors! give us your support; we have one of the best rooms in England, heated by hot water and lighted by electricity at night, two popular judges, and the best railway centre in the British Isles, there being seven different companies running into Doncaster.

The Lilford Aviaries.

Lord Lilford has recently added several new and rare birds to his aviaries at Lilford Hall, which is near Oundle, in Northamptonshire. The collection was started by the late Lord Lilford, father of the present peer, and is certainly the most wonderful private collection of birds in this kingdom. Here are to be seen every variety of the Stork, and Waterfowl of all kinds. Both Lord and Lady Lilford are devoted to their pets, and some of the smaller birds will feed freely from their hands.

Announcements of forthcoming contests in the nature of advertisements must be paid for at advertisement rates, three words a penny.

CASTLEFORD.

Annual open Linnet contest for time held Dec. 26; 20 birds entered for three prizes. W. Nelson won all prizes. Dec. 27, 15 entered; 1, Smith; 2, 3, Nelson.—J. Brindley, Sec.

PONTEFRACT.

Weekly Linnet contest held Woodman Inn, Dec. 27; 19 entered for three prizes, and some good singing was done: 1, Williams; 2, Proctor; 3, Hinchcliffe. Dec. 28, open sing; 27 entered for three prizes: 1, Nelson; 2, Hartley; 3, Pugh.—S. Pugh, Sec.

LEEDS.

Open contest for quality Linnet singing held at Old Bird House, King's Head Shannon Street, Dec. 25; 19 sang for three prizes given by Mr. Wm. Tillotson: 1, Hardcastle; 2, Sissons; 3, Wigfield. Judges, D. Madden, C. Cooper. Also a grand Canary contest, when 14 birds sang for three good prizes: 1, Hardcastle; 2, Gomersall; 3, Smith. Judges, T. Johnson and H. Hayes. Open contest for quality Linnet singing held Dec. 26; 18 birds sang for three prizes: 1, Joseph Dobson, Pres. of Blackburn Linnet Club, the best Linnet heard in Leeds for many years; 2, Howarth; 3, Wood. Judges, Mellia, Cooper and Towers. Dec. 27, 16 sang for three prizes: 1, Wigfield; 2, Hardcastle; 3, Wood. Judges, W. Sissons and G. Towers. Dec. 28, 19 sang for three prizes: 1, P. Johnson; 2, Wigfield; 3, shared by Wood and Hardcastle. Judges, Mellia, Jennings, and Naylor.—Walter Naylor, Hon. Sec.

Quality Linnet singing contests held Skinner's Arms, Buslingthorpe, Dec. 25; 19 sang: 1, Ward; 2, King; 3, Ward. Also grand Roller contest: 1, Lipman; 2, Ward; 3, Binns. On Boxing Day we had a grand Linnet contest. Our host, Mr. Pickles, added a copper kettle to prizes, and we had friends from far and near to hear some good singing: 1, Ward; 2, Peace; 3, Binns. Dec. 27, 14 sang: 1, Ward; 2, King; 3, Appleyard. Dec. 28, 19 sang well: 1, Ward; 2, King; 3, Peace. Judges, C. Clayton and J. Granger.—C. Clayton, Hon. Sec.

KIPPAX.

First singing contest for 1914 season held Dec. 26 with just a moderate entry, and a nice company present; only two prizes were given, but there was some splendid singing. J. Liversidge won both prizes. Timekeepers, R. Plows and T. Hall. Tappers, O. Potter and W. Perkin. Members' sing. Jan. 2: first birds hung at 3. The headquarters are under new management, and all fanciers will be welcome to the singing contests.—A. Tomlin, Sec.

Mr. Dickson, sec., writes that the annual open show of Kelty and Blairadam C.B.A. will be held Nov. 7.

With the schedule of the show of the Llanelly, C.B.S., which is reviewed in another column, is included a balance-sheet of the society. This shows receipts for the year amounting to £53 15s. 7d., and an expenditure of £53 8s. The balance in hand is increased from £5 19s. 1d., brought forward, to £6 6s. 8d. As will be seen from the review of schedule, a liberal classification is again provided, and the enterprise should meet with a deserved success.

THE MASTER SINGER OF THE CANARY TRIBE

By J. TOMLINSON.

How to keep the Roller Canary in health, to breed for pleasure and profit, and train for exhibition.

ALL those methods have now practically given way to the use of a closed numbered ring, which is placed on the leg of the bird when it is young. A celluloid ring in various colours is also now being used by numerous Roller fanciers as a mark of identification (for their own purposes only), as by its use the parentage of any given bird can be ascertained without having first to catch the bird and inspect the number stamped on the ring. Another metal marking ring is called the open ring; this is made on the same principle as the above celluloid rings, to open and close, so that it can be placed at any time on the bird's leg; but these open rings are not used by Roller fanciers.

The closed ring was adopted by the British Roller Canary Club, as a mark to distinguish the young birds bred by English fanciers from those which are imported from Germany. A large number are now being used yearly. A member of any recognised Roller Canary Society, can obtain (and use) these rings through the Secretary of his own Club, without actually being a member of the B.R.C.C. Prizes are given at the shows to certain birds wearing these rings, but at present the medals are given only to the ring birds which are owned by members of the B.R.C.C.; but, as I have just intimated, it is possible for non-members using them to win other prizes given by the Society. I think I have made it perfectly clear that they are not supplied to a fancier who is not a member of any recognised Roller Canary Society.

The Trouble of Ringing.

It is by request that I give this short history of the closed ring; also a few hints on how and when to ring the young birds. Of course, it will be understood that it is unnatural for a Canary to wear a ring on its leg; and a certain amount of trouble has been experienced in consequence of the old hens objecting to their youngsters wearing the rings. The fancier has to keep a watch over the nests, and replace any of the youngsters that the hen may have dragged out. This led to many little "inventions" to render the ring less conspicuous; some used a dye made from permanganate of potash, others would darken them with ink. Brown paper also has been used for a covering, and the ordinary cycle valve tubing, too, has given satisfaction.

There are some birds, of both sexes, that never become reconciled to wearing a ring, and instances have been recorded where a bird preferred to play with its ring rather than to sing for the judge. Since the use of the rings became general, the trouble to a great extent has abated. I would not say that it is likely to become extinct, however, because cases will always be cropping up with those birds which never seem to become reconciled to wearing the ring. It is amusing to see this class of bird take the ring in its beak and pull with all its puny strength, trying to get it off the leg. There are some unrung hens that will not interfere with the young birds wearing the ring. But, of course, this cannot be ascertained until the hen has been tested; and the best course is to place an open ring on her leg in the autumn. This should allow plenty of time for her to become accustomed to it before the breeding commences. If she proves to be an objector, then the cleanest and most convenient device is to cover the ring with cycle valve tubing. It is not intentionally that the youngsters get pulled out of the nest, but the hen, in trying to remove the conspicuous looking ring from the nest, drags out the young bird as well.

When to Ring.

A precise age when to ring the young birds cannot be given, but an approximate one would be at four or five days' old. Much will depend upon the peculiar bodily formation of some youngsters. Some will possess a large body, yet only a thin leg and a small foot, while the reverse will be found in other nests. The difference in the sizes of the youngsters in various nests is also against a definite age being given; in nests of this description I have on numerous occasions ringed two at four days' old, another at five days, and the remaining one at six days. Instances of the varying sizes of the youngsters will often crop up, and my experience has been that the last youngster has in some nests been forgotten until too late to ring. Many can be conveniently ringed at four days old, whereas six to eight days will not be too late for others.

As a guide, the first attempt can be made with well-nourished youngsters at four days' old, afterwards testing each one to ascertain whether the ring is liable to slip off over the foot. Should this occur, a trial should be made again the following day, or the ring is liable to get lost in the nest.

Should an instance occur where ringing has been delayed, it is better to allow them to remain unrung, rather than to force the ring over a large foot, as it would cut away the skin, and cause the foot to bleed—a painful and far from humane operation which sometimes leaves the bird with deformed toes.

I first take the required number of rings and book their numbers against the parents of the young birds. Afterwards I place the rings in my mouth; this will assist them to slip easily over the foot, and the method is a little cleaner than smearing them over with soap, as some are in the habit of doing. I take the youngster in the left hand, laying it on its right side across the second joint of the fingers, with the head pointing towards the little finger. By turning the second and third fingers over its body, it keeps it steady, and forms for it a comfortable resting place in the hollow of the fingers. Then take the right foot between the thumb and first finger, grouping the three front toes, and allow them to project about one eighth of an inch, over thumb and finger tips. Slide the ring over these toes. Then hold them firmly, yet gently, with the thumb and first finger of the right hand.

How to Ring.

With the tip of the thumb and first finger of the left hand, gradually draw the ring over the foot, and well up the shank of the leg. Take hold of the ring with thumb and first finger of the left hand to hold the leg steady, and with the other thumb and finger draw the hind toe out from beneath the ring.

This may seem a complicated operation from the reading of the instructions, but with a little experience it will be found to be a very simple and a quick way of ringing, for a nest of youngsters can be ringed in far less time than it occupied in writing the instructions.

A short time ago the question was raised, "When purchasing our birds, shall we pay for the bird's singing abilities, or its pedigree?" If memory serves me correctly it was asked by a novice. I believe he said that he had bought stock bred from birds that were prize winners, and the fact that he had not been among the prizes with his own birds, had raised the doubt in his mind whether he had been fairly dealt with.

The Delights of an Outdoor Aviary

By Miss A. B. Ellis (Chertsey).

THE soft little trill, however, which serves them for a song is really quite pretty. Mine seem to be perfectly hardy, and they are always spick and span, never a feather out of place, and never dirty. How they manage to keep so clean during wet weather—the floor of the outside flight is plain earth, and gets rather muddy after a rainy spell—I cannot imagine, but there they are, always spotless and an object of admiration to all who come to look at the aviary.

I do not know if it is the same with most White Javas, but this particular pair have always shown a great desire to nest. When I first put them out of doors, I kept them in the cage they had been living in, in order that I might cover them up at night, as it was still rather cold. It was a single breeding cage, about twenty inches long, with a small all-wire travelling cage tied on one end for a sleeping place. In this they had built a circular domed nest of hay, and very soon after they were put out, the hen laid five eggs.

The cock and the hen shared the duty of incubation, and I left the door of the cage open so that whichever one was off the nest might fly about the aviary and get plenty of exercise. Only three of the eggs hatched, and the babies were not reared, but that, I think, was not entirely the parents' fault; I am afraid I looked at them too much and disturbed them. However, when I cleared out the unhatched eggs and the little dead bodies, they promptly set to work again, and successfully reared two nice birds.

The Saffron Finch is another handsome bird. My cock was given to me by a friend about two years ago, and this summer I bought him a wife. He was very keen on nesting, but she would have none of it, as she had hardly had time to get accustomed to her surroundings. The cock, however, still persisted in carrying bits of grass about in his beak, and started to refine an old Thrush's nest which I had put up in a box in a corner. Just as the hen was beginning to display some interest in his work, and I was hoping for a nest after all, I went away for the summer holidays, and was obliged to leave them to the care of some one else, and this seemed to upset them, for they got no further.

A hen Goldfinch which I left sitting on four eggs seems to have deserted her nest too, for I found it quite intact when I returned, with the eggs nearly ready to hatch out. I was not very surprised, as I only obtained her about May, and she was very shy. Still, I hope to have better luck next year, both with Saffron Finches and the Goldfinches.

About the same time as I had the hen Goldfinch, I bought a cock Greenfinch, hen Bullfinch, and a so-called hen Redpoll, as I had a hen Greenfinch and cocks of the other two. The Redpoll turned out to be a cock, rather to my disgust, as I was anxious to try and breed these birds. About a week after I received the hen Bullfinch the pair started to build a nest, and I lived in great hopes of a family of baby Bullfinches, but, unfortunately, the hen died before she laid any eggs.

The Greenfinches showed no disposition to take upon themselves the cares of a family until the beginning of July, when I found the hen on a lovely nest of moss and dried grass. She hatched her four eggs, but only succeeded in rearing two of the babies, the other two getting dragged out of the nest.

Last summer I tried a few experiments in rearing young Canaries with and without soft food. I had a hen sitting on four eggs in the outside flight of the aviary. As soon as they were hatched, I took two of the young birds and gave them to a hen I had in a cage and whose own eggs were clear. These two were reared in the usual way with egg and bread, while those in the aviary had nothing but seed and green food, with the result that they grew up bigger and stronger birds, and left the nest a day or two before the others in the cage. I thought perhaps the mother being loose in the aviary, and able to get all kinds of seed and green food, with perhaps a few insects, might have had something to do with it. I therefore tried the next family I had in a cage without any soft food, and they were all reared quite satisfactorily. I do not know if this method of rearing only on seed and greenstuff would succeed with highly-bred birds, as my experiments were all carried out with common Canaries, most of which had been hatched in an aviary, and that may perhaps make a difference. I might here mention that I use a great deal of seeding grass, as I find it one of the most useful forms of green food for Canaries with young ones.

For anyone who is fond of birds I can recommend no more delightful hobby than a well stocked outdoor aviary. It does not take a quarter the time to attend to that several cages do, and the birds are healthier and better in plumage, and display themselves to much greater advantage. Those who keep well-bred birds might cage them up for breeding at the beginning of the year, and let them fly loose in the aviary at the end of the season, for I always find the birds' health is much improved by plenty of exercise in the open air after the strain of breeding and during the moult. With regard to British birds, I think they moult better out-of-doors than in, and if a bird is required for show, I have generally found that once it has been thoroughly steadied, even after some months in the aviary, it very quickly settles down to cage life again.

Why Hybrids are Usually Unfertile:

Instructive views advanced by that eminent scientist Sir Ray Lankester, K.C.B., F.R.S.

THE consideration of this case throws some light on the significance of the non-occurrence of natural hybrids and on the remarkable and curious fact that hybrids are usually sterile. The questions to be answered are: (1) What advantage to a species is it not to be able to hybridise with other species and (2) how—that is to say, by what structure or by what subtle chemical differences or other features in their make-up and habit—are they prevented from so hybridising?

Then we come on further, to the question: Why should a hybrid, once produced, fail to bear healthy eggs, or sperms, according to its sex, although it grows up to full size and is to all appearance mature? And why should hybrids between parents of origin locally remote from one another not show this failure, but behave like ordinary healthy organisms?

Important Secrets Yet to be Revealed.

In the full solution of these inquiries we should get very near to some of the most important secrets of the living body which have still to be searched out. But a reply to these questions which is probably in large measure true, and serves to help us in the further collection and examination of facts, is as follows: First, the production and maintenance of "species" of plants and of animals by survival of favourable variations in the struggle for existence (Darwin's and Wallace's theory of the origin of species) necessitates the maintenance of the purity of the favourable stock which survives in the struggle. If it were continually liable to hybridisation by other species it would lose its own distinctive features. Thus the breeder, when he has selected a stock for propagation which approaches the standard at which he is aiming, keeps it apart, and does not allow it to be "crossed" by other stock.

This power of resistance or immunity to fertilisation by other species may be attained by several different methods. Amongst these are (1) a difference in the season of breeding or sexual ripening; (2) the production of secretions (whether by plant or animal) which poison or paralyse the fertilising sperms of neighbouring species, but are harmless to those of the secreting species; (3) the mechanical differences of size, etc., which prevent the fertilising material of a strange species from gaining access to the egg cells; (4) psychical activities (antipathies) in the case of animals, or mere attraction and repulsion by odoriferous substances, which serve to repel a strange species, but are attractive to individuals of the same species; (5) finally, a chemical and physiological incompatability between the sperms of one species and the germs of another (as distinct from the attraction or repulsion of the entire living individual), which, even when all other difficulties are absent or have been overcome, may be, and frequently is, present, so that the spermatozoon cannot penetrate the egg-cell even when resting upon it, but may be paralysed or repelled, and in any case is not guided and drawn into the aperture of the egg-covering (called the micropyle, or "little entry") so as to fuse with and fertilise the egg.

A Field But Little Explored.

The operations of these hindrances to hybrid fertilisation and breeding have been ascertained in several different instances. It is not always possible, and certainly not easy to ascertain, which is at work in any and every case. But we can well conceive that one or other of these agencies has been developed and accentuated, by survival of the fittest, so as to protect a species against fertilisation by a neighbouring species, and thus to enable it to maintain its own "bundle of characteristics." It is also thus intelligible that an allied species from a distant land against which our native species—struggling for purity of race—has had no occasion or opportunity to develop a repelling protection, will have no such difficulty in effecting the fertilisation of the native species as have those adjacent species against whose intrusions it (the native species) is trained and selected by long generations of severe natural selection.

The failure of hybrids generally to ripen their ova and sperms so as to reproduce themselves is a subject upon which, considering its enormous importance and significance, singularly little has been done in the way of investigation. Forty years ago it was usually taught that the mule between the horse and the ass, so largely produced under human superintendence, was unable to breed owing to some deformity in the reproductive passages. Even now no adequate study of the subject has been made, but it appears that whilst a female mule can be, and sometimes is, successfully mated to a horse or an ass, giving birth to a foal, the male does not produce fully-formed spermatozoa. What precisely is the nature of this failure, what the ultimate microscopic condition of the sperm cells in infertile male mules, or in any other infertile male hybrids, has never yet been properly worked out by modern methods. It would be a matter of vast interest to determine what is the difference in the structure of the sperm-cells of a fertile and of an infertile male hybrid. At present, so far as I know, this has not been done.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who desire letters of complaint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

INJURED LEG (Innocent Anxious).—It is quite possible that the bird may have broken the leg, but it is also probable that it may be less serious, and the injury may consist of nothing more serious than the tearing of the scale from the ligaments. There are certainly not two bones in the part of the leg indicated in your sketch so your remark that there seems to be two bones in this part would appear to indicate that a fracture has really taken place. Even if this is so, there is not the remotest chance of you succeeding in setting the part properly, and as you suggest that it has already become fixed or rigid, it would be sheer cruelty to attempt any manipulation of the part now. Keep the bird in a moderate sized cage with the perches placed conveniently for it, and let it remain as quiet as possible until the leg becomes quite sound, but you must not expect it to become perfectly normal again. In all probability it will be permanently deformed, though it may be quite useful. In case the scale only is torn loose, catch the bird carefully and gently anoint the place with Lanocyllin once a day until it is healed. On the other hand, if the place begins to suppurate and the foot gets swollen and inflamed, the only hope of saving the bird will be to get a veterinary or your medical man to amputate the foot.

CEASED SINGING (J. S. C.).—You have certainly been rather liberal in dosing the bird, perhaps too much so. The cessation of song may have been quite temporary and perhaps due to some slight change in diet or management consequent upon its change of ownership. See that it is not exposed to cold draughts or impure air, and do not hang it near or over a burning light in the evenings. A box cage is best, and it should be kept in a bright and healthful position, and the floor strewn regularly with clean gritty sand. Give a staple diet of a mixture of two parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition to this, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed daily for a week. Every second day give also a morsel of banana or a small spray of watercress, and on the alternate days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle. In the drinking water you may add a small pinch of sulphate of soda for two consecutive days, and follow this with 20 drops of whisky, and ten each of glycerine and lemon juice for three or four days. This should suffice to bring the bird back into song, but if it does not, give it a little of the paste advised to "Anxious, Rotherham," on December 20th, to peck at for a week or two.

MOULTING AND SORE FEET (H. D.).—(1) To stop the moulting you must first of all see that the bird is kept in healthful surroundings, and free from damp and cold draughts. Also see that it is not exposed to impure heated air or rapid and sudden extremes of heat and cold. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only. In addition give separately half a teaspoouful of summer rape every second day, and a morsel of banana every second day, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, millet, and teazle, and a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry well mixed in it, and maw sprinkled over it. In the water give a pinch of Epsom salts for one day only, and after this give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tinct. of steel every second day for a fortnight, if necessary. (2) In addition to making the perches with soft wood you must also see that they are of suitable size and shape. They should be just a little thicker than the bird can encircle with its claws. Make them round in shape, and then shave off the top to a flattened oval. Keep cage floor and perches as clean as possible and the floor strewn with gritty sand. Bathe the feet with a warm solution of boracic acid daily until well, and after bathing dry gently and anoint with Lanocyllin. Use the latter sparingly, and do not leave on any surplus to gather sand or dirt. A small teaspoonful of the acid dissolved in a saucerful of warm water is about the proper strength to use.

BREEDING QUERIES. (H. R. S.).—The plan you propose for running two hens with each cock will answer very well in all ordinary and normal cases. It is not essential to remove the cocks from the room when you take them away from the hens at the commencement of incubation, though there are certainly cases when it is advisable, as is the case with hens which will not sit properly when the cock is taken away and remains in the same room in sight of the hen, or even at times is within earshot, or with cocks which will not pair up with a second hen as long as he can see or hear his first mate. But these are all exceptional cases. When mating time comes if one of the hens for any particular cock is more forward than the other run the cock with that hen solely until she has gone to nest and commenced to sit, then remove him and mate him with the second hen. But in cases where both hens seem to be equally forward and anxious to get to nest you should run him with both hens concurrently, say, for half a day at a time with each hen. To save a double change every day allow the cock to run with one hen from midday one day until midday the next day, then with the second hen for the same period, and so on, thus moving him once each day instead of twice daily. If your Germans are of a good and reliable feeding strain you should have no trouble whatever in rearing any of the more valuable breeds that may be hatched. Your best plan will be to mate the Germans at the same time as the Crests and Belgians in order to get them nesting at or about the same time. Then when you are putting hens to sit give complete clutches or four or five of the eggs of the better breeds to the Germans to hatch and rear, and the commoner eggs place under the Crests or Belgians as the case may be, leaving them to hatch and rear them, or make a hash of the business according to their capabilities. In either case it will give the valuable hens the necessary rest between the laying of clutches of eggs. When a hen is left to hatch and rear the brood alone it is not absolutely necessary to remove the cock from the room. The same remark applies here as above. ?

RED MITES AND MOULTING (T. F. W.).—(1) It is labour lost to endeavour to exterminate red mites by devoting attention to the bird. It is the cage and its surroundings that require attention. Place the bird temporarily in a clean spare cage for a few days, and whilst there offer it a bath daily in which you have mixed a few drops of quassia extract. Then take the other cage and thoroughly saturate it with a mixture of camphor in methylated spirit—an ounce of the former to a half pint of spirit. Apply it liberally with a small paint brush working it well into the joints and any cracks, or small holes or crevices both inside and outside the cage. Destroy the mites you will soon see escaping and place the cage away until next day, then repeat the operation, and again on the succeeding day. Then repaint or distemper the inside, and re-stain and varnish the outside, if necessary, as the solution will spoil any spirit varnish that may be on the cage. When quite dry the bird may be returned. Do not omit applying the camphor solution to the nail or hook on which the cage has hung and to well rub down the wall. If wall is papered and the paper creased or torn it would be better to soak off the patch where cage has hung with the spirit, and recover with new. (2) For the moulting treat as advised in first part of reply to "H. D." in this issue for two or three weeks. You may also with advantage give a mealworm each day for a week or two if you have any available. Thanks for good wishes which are heartily reciprocated.

TOE TURNED UNDER (Nemo).—This is a rather common defect, and is more disfiguring than serious. If the toe is quite supple so that it can be brought to its proper position without any strain being put upon it, you can place it alongside the middle toe and whilst holding it in that position get someone to tie a single strand of very fine mending wool—lace wool is suitable—around the centre of the toes, and another similar tie at the end near the claws, thus binding the outer toe permanently to the centre one. Touch the knots, which should be under the toes with a little gum or liquid glue to prevent the knots coming unfastened. This will remove the eyesore, but that is all. If you leave it quite alone it will not make the least difference to the success or otherwise of the bird breeding, so that upon the whole, as the defect is so little noticeable and is so little detriment to the bird it is as well to leave such things severely alone.

BEATING TIME (Paddy).—I do not think there is much wrong with this hen. Possibly she has not quite thrown off the effect of the moult yet. If the room is quite free from draughts it is not advisable to cover over the cage at night, especially as you say the room is fairly warm, and I should gradually break off this habit by using only a very flimsy cover during very cold weather, and finally none at all. Treat as follows for a fortnight, and if she is not well in that time write again, and I will advise you further. In addition to the usual seed diet give a half teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry mixed in it every second day for a fortnight, and, if you have any available, a mealworm each during the same time would be very beneficial. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a [illegible] cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and in the next week dissolve a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a [illegible] of iron half as big in the drinking water and then add six drops of dilute sulphuric acid. Give this two days in every three in the second week At present I see no reason for not breeding with the bird.

AILING NORWICH (A. T., Willesden Green).—You make a big mistake in covering your cages closely and leaving windows wide open through the night at this season. It might answer in the summer but it is most injudicious now. It would be very much more healthful, assuming the room is free from draughts, to leave the cages uncovered and close the windows at or soon after sunset during the winter and spring. Do this now, and treat the birds as follows for two or three weeks. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only. In addition give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, and on the alternate days twice each week give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle; once a week a small teaspoonful of egg food, and twice a week a spray of watercress or other green salad as long as it is in a fit condition to use At other times substitute a little sweet apple or banana. For the next fortnight vary this regimen by giving half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry mixed in it every second day. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence daily for three days, and afterwards give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight. If birds are not well in that time, write again, and I will advise you further.

WHEEZING AND MOULTING (A Constant Reader).—(1) I assume you have carried out my previous instructions as to removing the exciting causes of this trouble, and have also been giving a little of the paste advised in last reply. If so you may continue the same general treatment for a few weeks longer, except that you should give the sponge cake only twice a week now. If you have any mealworms available give the bird one each day for a time. If it refuses to eat them mince two or three and mix with the sponge cake each time you give it, instead of the oil, etc. In the drinking water give 20 drops of the following mixture every second day for three or four weeks. Mixture: Two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one drachm each of chlorodyne and ipecac. wine, and eight grains of iodide of potassium Any chemist will mix this for you. I certainly do not advise you to breed with this bird. It would be most inadvisable to do so. (2) To stop the moulting of this bird treat it the same as advised to "H. D. (1)" in this issue, but instead of the gentian and steel in the water dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping. The bird will doubtless resume its song very soon after the moult is stopped.

TAIL WAGGING (A. E. A.).—(1) Thanks for report. Am very glad to know that you have quite got over the sore feet trouble since altering your perches and putting in some made out of soft wood. It is not remarkable that none of the older birds were affected, whilst so many of the young ones suffered so badly, as the feet of the young were, of course, so much more delicate and susceptible to injury of this kind. (2) Keep this bird in a comfortable temperature, not necessarily overheated, but still quite away from the cold chilly side. Give a diet of plain canary seed only as staple. In addition give a little green salad daily as long as you can get it in a condition fit to use. At other times give a morsel of banana. Twice a week give a half teaspoonful of scalded summer rape. Limit the diet to this for a month. Dissolve a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a split pea, and ditto of sulphate of iron half as big, in two tablespoonsful of water, add six drops of dilute sulphuric acid, and give this in place of plain water for drinking water two days in every three for a fortnight. If bird is not considerably better in this time discontinue the above mixture and give instead the chlorodyne mixture advised to "Paddy" in this issue for a fortnight or three weeks.

HOW TO START (J. W. W.).—As you appear to have yet to mount the bottom rung of the ladder, the best advice I can give you is to invest in a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," which our Manager would send you for 7d., post free, and be guided entirely by the advice you will find therein. It is not possible in these replies to go into all the details, and point out all the pitfalls into which you may fall, whereas, by following implicitly the instructions in this little handbook, and taking due care to get only strong healthy birds to begin with, you will easily steer clear of all the little rocks and shoals which lead to failure, and meet with a fair measure of success from the beginning. You ask what you should get to start breeding Norwich Canaries, which is really a trifle vague, as it is not clear whether you mean in birds only, or whether you desire a full list of appliances, etc., required. In either case the book referred to will give you the fullest information. As regards birds, I would advise you to get one or two pairs, or a trio, of Norwich Plainheads from some reliable dealer or breeder, and have them properly matched for breeding. I would also recommend a quite ordinary type of bird for you to try your hand upon for the first year, and then you can go on to a better class of bird as soon as you have acquired a little useful practical knowledge and experience in breeding the commoner birds. If, however, you prefer to choose your own stock birds, get for a trio, a clear yellow cock, and a lightly ticked, and a marked or variegated buff hens, or for a single pair have a clear yellow cock and a ticked buff hen, or vice versa. See that both birds are in the prime of health and condition. The best time to mate them is the last week in March or the first week in April. You would make a big mistake to mate them for March breeding, as you put it.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

YELLOW BUNTING AND CANARY (A. Ward).—No authentic Bunting-Canary Hybrid has yet appeared upon the show bench, and it never will unless some enthusiast like yourself is continually trying for it. Several crosses which are now almost common were at one time thought to be impossible, so you need not fear that I shall smile at your attempt. I am quite in sympathy with you, and wish you success. The tameness of your Bunting leads one to think he must be a young bird, which is, of course, somewhat in your favour. Keep him as steady as you can. His stock food should be Canary seed, but let him have the wild seed you mention, also a little cracked hemp and maw; he will not eat much of them, but every little makes a change. Get a few of the very best ants' eggs and BRITISH BIRD & HYBRID QUERISTS should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2, "Linnet," No. 3, "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11, "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 26 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." soak them in warm milk. Turn them out on a cloth to drain, and give him a spoonful occasionally. When he will take them, mix them in with a little good insectile food, as given to warblers. He should also have a few mealworms, beetles, or any insects you can procure; this will be a good training for him, and then when the spring comes try to get a few live ants' eggs, and all the insects you can lay your hands on. I am convinced that it is only by feeding these shy breeders as near to Nature as possible that one is likely to get fertile eggs. Respecting the hen Canary, a Norwich or stout Yorkshire will do equally as well. Let her be a young bird, yellow in colour if possible, and perfectly healthy. Feed her in the usual way—that is, canary as staple food, with a little mixed seed twice a week, and instead of giving her egg-food, gradually get her to eat the same insectile food that you give the Bunting, as this is much better than the ordinary egg food mixture for rearing Hybrids on. I would advise you to put them together as soon as you can, and let them fly together, or be in each other's company the remainder of the winter. Use the double breeder—you will find it much more convenient for future operations. Introduce them to each other gently, by placing one in each compartment for a few days before drawing the slide, as they may be a little bit shy of each other at first.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T PAGE, F.Z.S

CHINESE QUAIL AND WHYDAHS (M.M.P.).—(1) The clutch is variable, anything from 12 to 18. The incubation period (average), 21 days. As regards food, I have had them reared on seed and green-food alone, but it is certainly best to supply live ants' eggs and gentles, also insectile mixture, freely for the first seven days, then gradually decrease it as they take heartily of the ordinary aviary menu. (2) In my aviary no special food has been supplied, the parent birds living mostly upon canary and millet seed, and rearing their progeny upon the same. I have had six pairs of young birds fully reared from a single pair in the one season. (3) Usually about July, dropping their plumes from December to February—the period varies a little each way.

THANKS (J. R. B.).—Many thanks for your letter and appreciative remarks, which we highly esteem, and thank you for expressing same.—W. T. P.

RED-BELLIED WAXBILLS (A. J.).—Your birds are either Grey or St. Helena Waxbills, and their value 3/6 to 4/6. Both species have been bred in captivity, but the former are shy breeders, and there are but two or three cases of successful breeding; while the latter is a fairly free breeder in a garden aviary, where, of course, they capture many small insects, which materially assists in the upbringing of the young.

BANDED PARRAKEETS (J. R. B.).—Moustache and Banded Parrakeets are two names covering the same species, but both names are somewhat loosely applied to other species; for instance, I have had the Javan Parrakeet offered to me under both names. The following is a sketchy description: Beak, red; upper parts, yellowish olive-green; forehead, loral, moustacial and cheek stripes, black;

FOREIGN BIRD QUERISTS should consult Page's "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (1/1½); Arthur's "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" (6d.); Arthur's "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit" (7d.); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods and Wild Plants" (1/2); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-Keeping" (1/1); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each); No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Waxbills." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London, E.C.

sides of face, greyish-yellow; hind neck and nape grass-green; throat to abdomen, pale rose-red; remainder of underparts, yellowish-green. A seed mixture of: quart each canary and white millet seeds, pint oats, and half a pint each of paddy rice, oats, hemp, and sunflower seeds; well mix and keep supply in cage; also supply fruit, nuts, and dry biscuits, or stale crusts and green-food, not forgetting grit, cuttlebone, and water. Hardy when once acclimatised.

BIRDS FOR AVIARY (T. H. J.).—You ought not to keep more than thirty small birds in your aviary, and only half that number if you desire many of them to breed. You must not put birds out now, but turned out in the spring, those given below could be left out all the year round, and would agree with the Linnets and Redpolls. Zebra, Ribbon, and Alario Finches; Avadavats, Silverbills, Bengalese, Bronze and Black-headed Mannikins, and Gold-breasted Waxbills. For these a dietary of canary, white, millet, spray millet, a little wild Finch mixture, and green-food, would suffice; of course, you must supply grit, cuttlebone, and water regularly. For several nights it would be well to hang a covering over the wire netting at front and end.

A FEATHER PLUCKER (Staff-Sergeant).—Most probably it is the diet that has set up the trouble; stop the "kitchen scraps" and treat as under: add oats, hemp, and Canary seed to your seed mixture; it is not good for it to subsist on sunflower seed only. Also supply ripe fruit (most Parrots are very fond of sweet apple), nuts, plain crusts of household bread, or plain biscuit. Keep pieces of wood in the cage for the bird to cut up and play with, also keep up continuous supplies of grit, cuttlebone, and water. It will be best for the next two months to put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water twice a week to keep the bird's bowels moving quite freely, but if the voidings become watery-loose, then only give the magnesia once a week, on other days put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the water, letting it have clear water once a week. If it will take it, a piece of biscuit or crust lightly moistened in tepid water and then dusted with flowers of sulphur will be of benefit, this latter could be given daily. Keep the bird in some light, warm, well ventilated, but not draughty position. Spray it once or twice weekly with a tepid quassia solution, but keep carefully out of draught or a chill atmosphere till it is dry again. Report progress a few weeks hence.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Miss M. Howman.—Death resulted from apoplexy, due to the rupture of a small vessel on the meninges or membranes covering the brain. The symptoms you allude to are all referable to nervous distrubance, indicating pressure upon important motor nerve centres.

T. I. M.—Tubercular Enteritis.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

W. H. Butler.—There are two societies in your town, Coventry, Coventry Godiva C.B.S. (hon. sec., H. Saunders, 31, Vernon-st.), and Coventry O.S. (hon. sec., A. J. Barratt, 38, Craven St.).

Diplomas (J. Ellwood, R. W. Willis, Jas. C. Johnston, Frost and Rogers, and many others).—Thanks for appreciation of our diplomas.

Lark Cured (William Scott).—So glad to hear that the instructious given you proved successful, and that the bird has since proved himself such a prize winner.

Swindler Caught (Carnell and Bedwell).—We have forwarded you 5s. from the funds of the Cage Birds League.

G. Havver.—The latest address we have of the gentleman named is 9, Stoneleigh Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

R. McDonald.—Your inquiry has been forwarded to Mr. St. John, our Canary expert, who will reply in our next issue. Queries received after first post Monday cannot be answered in the same week.

FIFE AND KINROSS N.P.C.

Meeting held Dec. 27, T. Wildridge presiding. Agreed that classification for club show be yell. cock, do. hen, buff cock, do. hen, unflig. yell. cock, do. hen, unflig. buff cock, do hen, non-fed cock, do. hen, nov. cock, do hen. The show is to be held in conjunction with annual meeting, Jan. 10, judging at 4 o'clock. Entry, 6d. Prize money after expenses are paid. W. Spence gives 6s. for best Brit.; W. Grewar, medal for best team of four unflig. shown and bred by exhibitor (team to be marked against birds entered for medal). On the sec. reading over points for season it was agreed that his reading of two ties be accepted. W. Grewar claimed 3 more points, which makes him 37; D. McConville claims 1 point, which the sec. has to inquire into. Agreed to revise the rules at next meeting. All fanciers will be welcome to club show.—A. Dickson, Sec.

The particulars below. We want them for CAGE BIRDS 1914 ANNUAL, which is now being prepared for press.

SECRETARIES OF SOCIETIES.

We will insert free: Full particulars (name of society, latest list of officials, place, time, and nights of meetings) in the Alphabetical List of Cage Bird Clubs. Remember, no society should be missing, for this feature of CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL is the only Directory of its kind in existence. Secretaries who have moved, please let us know your new address.

JUDGES OF CAGE BIRDS.

We will insert free your name and address and the varieties in which you specialise in the List of Judges. The only condition is that judges must have officiated at one of the recognised shows. Remember this list is the only complete list published, and is universally consulted by show officials. Judges who have moved, should send on their new addresses.

TO OUR TRADING FRIENDS.

We will insert free: Names, addresses, and specialities in the Bird Trade Directory No matter what you sell, so long as it has to do with the Fancy, particulars are inserted free. This directory is of exceptional value, and fanciers the world over find it indispensable. For one shilling, names can be thrown up in heavy black type.

Breeders, Exhibitors, Judges, and Advertisers generally, who want something that will bring orders throughout next year for a "mere song" should

The Winning Hybrid at Preston Show.

Sir, I see Mr. Wellings, too, has seen the black rim of feathers round the eyes, and says that the latter are certainly not bigger than either those of a Canary or a Bullie. We expect them to be between the two, and they are not; but they are certainly not bigger than a Bullie's. I never said they were; but they are exactly the same size—that is my argument. Mr. Wellings also says that I may have got some of my information from the remarks he made whilst at the show. I never saw him there; and let me tell him that when I form an opinion of a bird, no information that he can give will influence me. I have reared too many Hybrids not to know what a Hybrid ought to be. Did he, after judging Preston show, remark to a well known Norwich fancier and judge, and also another fancier, that, although he had given the bird the prize, he believed it to be nothing but a rare feathered Bullie? And, as he is in the way of being a British expert, I would like his opinion on the following:—If a Waxwing were exhibited in a class for hardbills, would he give it a prize? We can't get away from the fact that, in spite of the apparent bonafides of the bird, many fanciers who see it can see little resemblance—except in colour—to a Canary; and, curious to say, most fanciers who think it genuine are Canary breeders only, and never bred a Hybrid in their lives.

The Infertility of Hybrids.

Also Some Notes on the Number of Eggs Laid by the Skylark.

Sir,—I was much interested in your splendid Christmas Double Number, especially in Professor Ray Lankester's article on the infertility of Hybrids. I admired the way he treated his subject. I see that Mrs. E. M. Sargeant's Skylark, which is seven years old, built twice this year, and laid three eggs each time. This goes to prove the correctness of my statement that three is a common clutch. Dr. Butler stated that three was too small a clutch for the Skylark, but the evidence was overwhelming; he then tried to get out of the difficulty by saying, "I believe most of the threes are imperfect clutches." That is the way error is perpetuated. The vast number of threes cannot be satisfactorily explained on the ground of imperfect clutches. No bird nester of the present day with a large experience would ever believe such a dogma. I know an experienced bird nester of the present day who has seen more threes than fours. My own experience is there are rather more fours than threes. I have seen several clutches of five, but five is unusual.

My Impressions of Bradford's Great Charity Show.

Sir,—My first visit to Bradford will remain as a landmark in my memory of bird shows. On entering the hall, I was absolutely struck dumb with astonishment at the number of birds on view. It was borne upon my mind very forcibly that this show was certainly the best all round one ever seen in the provinces, and undoubtedly the best from a Yorkshire Canary point of view. Never have I seen such numbers and such quality. Closer acquaintance with the exhibits revealed the fact that the winners in this section were only separated one from another by a breath, as it were, which shows the healthiness and the keenness of the competition in this variety. The society were fortunate in having the Lady Kathleen Pilkington to open the event on the second day, who very caustically alluded to the insidious efforts of the faddists who are trying to put a stop to the keeping of birds in cages. It would have done some of those anæmic-minded gentry good, and maybe have altered their arbitrary opinions to have seen Lady Pilkington attending to the needs of the birds in the insectivorous foreign section, and the extraordinary condition they were in. Another feature of the opening ceremony was the able oratory of the officials of the society—Messrs. Towers, Hill and Archer. Their rhetoric was equal to that of any Socialist who ever stood in Trafalgar Square! I did hear (though I can't vouch for the accuracy of the information, because I heard it in the vicinity of the bar) that these three gentlemen had a bet of a packet of "Woodbines" as to which made the best speech. I called it a dead heat! I noticed Mr. Archer piloting Capt. Boyd Carpenter round the Hybrid classes, and priming him in the intricacies of Hybrid breeding. The Captain thought it a curious anomaly that Hybrids couldn't reproduce their kind, seeing that if two breeds of dogs were crossed they would breed again. "Ah! but then," was the answer, "in that case both parents were dogs." I heard many fanciers inquiring who the City Alderman was, who was accompanied by a gentleman apparently his private secretary. I didn't wonder at them not being able to place him, but it turned out to be Mr. Joe Thomas, and the alteration in his countenance was due to him wearing a broader smile than usual, in honour of winning the N.P.C. trophy. Competition was very keen in the Norwich classes, it being about the best show we have seen this season. Mr. Thomas gained the award of merit with his now well-known neck-marked yellow unflighted, winner at L.C.B.A., Preston, Leeds, and Manchester. The first four birds were toppers, Mr. Thomas just getting home in quality and general showiness. By the way, the catalogue credited Mr. Turner with winning 2nd and 3rd, but the 3rd bird and the 4th were Mr. Cook's. We congratulate the judge, Mr. J. C. Barnes, on his consistency in finding the winners. I congratulate the management on a grand show.

Should Exhibitors Purchase Winners or Breed Them?

With a few Words about Some Southern Norwich Matters.

Sir,—I cannot help thinking that if some of the members of the S.N.P.C. were a little more reasonable, and a little more reflective, many of the complaints with which your columns are now being filled would never be penned.

Some of the suggestions made by your writers are excellent, such as, for instance, that there should be a fresh judge if possible at each club show—but have these ideas been previously officially brought forward by them? I have no recollection of it.

Many of your correspondents' grievances appear to be that time-honoured and perennial one, that some exhibiting members buy certain of their winners, and they seem to think that if exhibitors were compelled to breed their own, the "golden ago" from the members' point of view would immediately set in! Would it? Let us see. We are confronted incessantly in every text book, in every lecture, in every Fancy paper, in all advice upon the breeding of our birds, with the axiom "Buy the best." Why grumble when the advice is followed?

Is not this grumbling rather a proof that many of the writers are giving way to a spirit of jealousy and discontent, which is likely to wreck any club, whether the S.N.P.C. or any other in which it makes its appearance?

Is not one of the objects of the club to improve and advance the variety, and is not the way to do this, to introduce if possible better birds than one already has? If an exhibitor can breed his own winners, so much the better, and the more credit to him, but surely every one at some time or the other needs to buy a good bird or two, and to get the best return from them he can, on the show bench or elsewhere? Why not, and why prevent him?

And isn't it born of this self-same narrow view that members are so keen about exhibitors being the breeders and compelling them only to place in competition birds their stock have produced and to hall-mark them in just one certain way? Let it be insisted, say they, that all birds competing for the cups and trophies be bred by the members and be marked with closed rings. Why should they be so marked? Why should any member be compelled to use closed rings, if he prefer the open ring, or no ring at all? And what does it matter to us a specialist club whether the birds wear closed rings, open rings, or no rings at all? And here is just where it seems to me that the farce of the breeders' cup comes in. And even if closed rings were insisted on, is there still not room for fraudulent practices? I think so.

I think, with others, that our challenge cup is not an unmixed blessing, and am quite willing that when it has been won outright no other shall be put in competition, and I agree with all that is possible being done for the novice (other interests not being neglected), but may I suggest to our members that they be not so ready to see "the writing on the wall," but that they concert for the common interest in a more reasonable spirit, believing that by so doing and by sinking some little difference of opinion, and with less acrimonious discussion in the columns of the papers, the influence and welfare of the club will best be extended.

That Disqualified Yorkshire—

A Sensational Development.

Halifax Society resigns from the Yorkshire Union.

Sir,—At a special meeting of the Halifax O.S., held Dec. 20, 1913, at the Plummet Line Hotel, which was presided over by our president, Mr. J. J. Dunn, it was decided that we should resign our membership of the Yorkshire Union of Cage Bird Societies at the end of the present season.

H. Clegg, Sec.

Sir,—I feel sorely tempted to answer Mr. Walsh's long letter in the manner it deserves, but did I do so the matter would become a personal one between myself and the President of the Yorkshire Union. I have studiously avoided personalities thus far, and shall continue to do so.

At Halifax, in the exercise of my functions as judge appointed by the Yorkshire Council, I disqualified a certain exhibit. At the subsequent investigation before the Council I said the exhibit had been changed between the time of judging and the meeting. I stand by that statement, even as I stand by my action as judge. Thus far nothing has transpired to alter my opinion. The Yorkshire Union Council has dealt with the matter in a manner which I say is altogether wrong. The rules of the Union have not been observed. Therefore the decisions of the Council are not binding. To the Fancy this is more important than the disqualification, and subsequent changing of the exhibit. The question every member of the Union should ask himself is: Are the rules to be broken by the Council, who should see that they are upheld? This is the all-important question.

C. A. House.

Sir,—As an ex-Yorkshire Union member I should like to give my opinion on the above after reading reports of evidence. Mr. House did quite right in doing what he did at Halifax Show. The Y.U. Council did a sad wrong thing in undoing his decision and breaking their own show rules. I should not have written to your paper but when I read Mr. Walsh's letter in your edition of Dec. 20 I could not resist. I see that Mr. Walsh says he thinks Mr. House has an abnormal bump of self-estimation, as he seems to think it impossible for him to make a mistake. Now, in my opinion, Mr. Walsh ought to have been the last person to have made such a remark for he as President of the Y.U. must have an extra abnormal bump of self-estimation in ever allowing the Council meeting to have gone on at Halifax Show. He ought to have ruled it out of order at once and let it take its proper course with the Halifax Show Committee, according to rule, and perhaps have saved a lot of mischief. This has been my idea from the first. He also advises Mr. House not to press for further evidence, as it may be detrimental to his cause. For why? Is it not a well-known fact that if the proper and whole evidence was given in his support that it would lead to great complication of matters that would not do to be disclosed. Therefore, an innocent man must keep quiet and suffer to cover the wrong doings of a many. Wishing Mr. House the confidence and future support of all true fanciers.

The Hybrid Sensation of the Year.

Sir,—I can't quite see what "Interested" wants. The opinion I gave in your Nov. 29 issue was that "failing satisfactory evidence of its parentage, I should believe with many other fanciers, that it is nothing but a rare feathered Bullie." There is nothing emphatic about that. I said failing satisfactory proof. Mr. Vardy has said that he had seen it in the nest, and so far as I am concerned that is satisfactory evidence. Does he want me to stand with my back to the wall, as it were, and keep on asserting that it is a rare feathered Bullie, which would be as good as giving the lie direct to Mr. Vardy? Mustn't I be allowed to say that I believe these gentlemen are honest? Must my own conscience be as inelastic as we are told the laws of the Medes and Persians were? No, no, my friend, I am no "last ditcher." I said that if the bird was a Hybrid, it was a glorious one; and it hasn't its compeer as a Canary-Bullie, its light feathers notwithstanding. Compare the bird with the two well-known clear Greenie Canaries for size. He is as big as both; and mind you, bred from a Sib-bred Canary cock and a British Bullfinch hen. That is why—if the bird is a Hybrid—he must win, and that is why so many fanciers are doubtful of its parentage. It is so rare for a young Hybrid to be bigger than either or both of its parents. "Interested" likens the bird to a Greenie Bullie, and says that the light feathers hide traces of its Greenfinch parentage. Has he too a doubt? Have a mince pie, my friend, and read the two Gateshead reporters' opinions.

Southport. T. Johnson.

More Limit Classes Wanted.

Sir,—I note Mr. Ramsden intends a £5 limit class. This class should fill if he means Norwich or Yorkshire. I think it a step in the right direction. In such classes champions, amateurs, and novices can compete in fair competition. I think if show officials gave a little thought in the limit direction it would pay them. If classes like these are provided we can hold some of the birds we are at present compelled to discard as we have no use for them. Take, for instance, the number of birds bred that are good but not up to champion form. We would like to give some of these a run, but not against £20 birds. Take a Mule class, do we not know after the first show where we are? We have practically seen the winners for the season. Now, what are we going to do with the two or three very good ones we have bred? You say perhaps, show them at your members' shows. Quite so, only we would like perhaps to give them a run in the open if we had a sporting chance. It is just the same in the British. You perhaps moult a dozen likely ones and find you have two or three good ones, but could mention the names of two or three exhibitors who will have the beating of them at every show. As you are past the novice stage what are you going to do with these? I have never been quite able to understand a novice British class. I think a fair limit, say of £2, would cover all. With birds that we breed, of course, it is different, but competition in the British supply amounts to a few having a longer pocket or better opportunities of selecting.

The Limit.

Wigs on the Green in Wales.

Pentrebach and Pontypridd Show.

Sir,—I notice another letter from Mr. Brown (Pentrebach) in which he states "None of my letters were written in bad blood." Again, Mr. Brown, I honestly say I cannot believe you, for the simple reason that you refer to something that happened at our 1912 show, that is not necessary in this correspondence. Moreover, you still bear on the Federation matter, though I think to any unbiased mind my explanation was surely satisfactory; and further, you simply ignore my referring to the Pontypridd stationmaster to uphold my contention that labels were properly fixed. With regard to alteration of date and Federation, I distinctly stated in my last letter that it was thoroughly understood that if the Federation at their annual meeting considered we were violating any rule by clashing in our alteration of date, my Society was prepared to abide by the decision at that meeting. This is, I believe, quite clear and acceptable to anyone, with the exception of perhaps Mr. Brown. It is evident to me and to many more that Mr. Brown would be extremely pleased to see the Federation drop; whether it is because I am secretary, or not, I am not in a position to say. But I am satisfied the Federation has come to stay, and has done a large amount of good; and if it would be satisfactory to Mr. Brown and Pentrebach Society, I am quite prepared to relinquish that honour at our next annual meeting. Mr. Brown mentions he is secretary of another body (you may as well state Mr. Brown, the Welsh Cage Bird Club); and you refer to a blunder made in 1912 at our show held that year. I wish to draw your attention to this side stab in the dark again, Mr. Editor, and Mr. Brown's letters are supposed to be written not in bad blood. Why do you not state the case, Mr. Brown? Well, I will, instead of you. It is the case in which a Norwich Plainhead was alleged to be lost by Mr. George, of Swansea, at our 1912 show. You asked me for full particulars, Mr. Brown, as secretary of the Welsh Cage Bird Club, and I gave them you; and I maintain now, as I maintained then, that the bird was not lost at our show, but if lost, it was lost in transit from our show to Mr. George's house at Swansea. Are you anxious to reopen this matter, Mr. Brown? If so, we in Pontypridd are quite prepared to do so. I hold your letters to me on that question (I always keep correspondence), and also letters from you complimenting us very highly on certain matters in connection with that show of 1912. They would look well published by the side of your own in this present controversy. I have met Mr. George on several occasions at different meetings of the Federation, and he has not even referred to this loss of his; taking for granted, perhaps, that the bird had gone astray, as they do in many cases. I did all I could at the time to trace the bird, but failed. But you, in your bad blood, have thought fit to bring this matter up again. You seem to repudiate my referring you to the stationmaster at Pontypridd. I leave this for others to think over. You say later on, to uphold your charge of labels not properly fixed, "Why does a certain exhibitor complain?" Why not mention the name, Mr. Brown? I will do so for you, and give you an explanation. I see you have narrowed down the complaints to one exhibitor. This exhibitor, Mr. Brown, is Mr. Bown, of Brecon, and that gentleman knows, as well as I do, that the mistake was made by the railway company. The facts are as follows:—I received a letter from Mr. Bown, of Brecon, stating that his birds had arrived home, instead of being sent to Pentrebach. Knowing that all exhibits to be sent to Pentrebach were marked by carrier, "Carriage Paid" or "Carriage Forward," I wrote Mr. Bown, and asked him if he would kindly send me back the label, so that I could examine same, and pointing out to him that if the word "Paid" was written on the same side of the label as the address of the secretary of Pentrebach, that in itself was a clear proof that the basket, when handed over to the railway carrier, had the label properly fixed. Mr. Bown sent me back the label, and stated in his letter that the word "Paid" was on the proper side, and bore out my remarks. The same occurred to an exhibit of Messrs. Morgan Bros., Penybank, and in this case also the word "Paid" was on the proper side, and the fault was on the railway company. I wrote the stationmaster on this matter, and advised the aforesaid to claim their Pentrebach entry fees and carriage from the railway company. Again, therefore, Mr. Brown, you have failed in trying to place another black spot on Mr. Lucas and his Society.

The Cage Bird Keeper on His Defence.

REMARKABLE ATTACK BY MR. THOS. HARDY.
TRENCHANT REPLY BY MR. FULLJAMES OF C.B. LEAGUE.

The following extracts from a correspondence that has taken place in "The Times" will be read with interest.

Mr. Thos. Hardy, the well known novelist, after dealing with the question of performing animals, went on to remark:

There are cruelties of a more insidious kind produced by drugs. As to the caging of birds, the assertion that a caged skylark experiences none of the misery of a caged man makes demand upon our credulity. Anyhow, a caged skylark usually dies soon, while an imprisoned man will live out his natural years. There is, or was when I was young, a practice among boys of putting a nearly-fledged brood of young birds, with the nest, into a cage, and hanging the cage in the tree or bush where the nest was made. The parents came regularly to feed their young ones through the bars, and there seems no reason why they should not be successfully bred; but usually the young birds die. It used to be the tradition of schoolboys that the old birds poisoned their young at finding them imprisoned. However that may be, die they did.

It seems marvellous that the 20th century, with all its rhetoric on morality, should tolerate such useless inflictions, as making animals do what is unnatural to them or drag out an unnatural life in a wired cell. I would also include the keeping of tame rabbits in hutches among the prohibited cruelties in this kind.

THOMAS HARDY.

Max Gate, Dorchester.

This letter was replied to by our Mr. Fulljames, as follows:—

Mr. Hardy goes hopelessly wrong in the birdy portion of his letter.

It is distinctly not the case that "a caged skylark usually dies young." A caged skylark usually lives to a much greater age than one which spends a "natural" life. I am stating a fact which admits of indisputable proof when I say that skylarks live in captivity for any period up to 20 years, and I could quote very many instances of skylarks which have been kept in health and contentment to the age of 10 or 12 years. Do they live to anything approaching this age in a state of Nature? The answer obviously is in the negative. Let us take the very low estimate of four years as being the average duration of life in caged skylarks, and see what would happen if the natural average equalled this.

A hen skylark lays from three to five eggs in a clutch, and usually has two nests a year; it is reasonable, therefore, to take eight as the average number of young each year from each pair of birds. These young, if they live, are themselves able to reproduce their kind in the following spring. It is obvious, therefore, that the number of skylarks increases, or would increase, in geometrical progression with five as the ratio, and it is a matter of simple calculation to discover that in the fourth year the world's population of skylarks would be multiplied 625 times. It is perfectly obvious that they do not so increase; roughly, they do not increase at all, and the actual fact, therefore, is that the yearly mortality is equal to the yearly production—i.e., eight out of every ten, old or young, die annually.

Mr. Hardy is equally at sea when he, by imputation, accepts "the tradition of schoolboys that old birds poison their young at finding them imprisoned." The actual fact is that adult birds feed their young up to a certain point, and then leave them to fend for themselves, and they will do this, and no more, if the cage containing the young is hung in the tree or bush in which the nest was made. Afterwards, the young birds are not poisoned by their parents; they simply die of starvation if they are not taken in hand by their captors. In this 20th century very few, even among schoolboys, believe that "old birds poison their young at finding them imprisoned."

If Mr. Hardy will pardon me the use of his own expression, I would say that "it seems marvellous that the 20th century should tolerate" the idea that birds in cages experience the same sensations as a human being condemned to life-long imprisonment. It is only those who allow sentiment to obscure their observation who would express such a view. Many thousands of caged birds are kept in this and other countries in conditions of perfect health and happiness, and their keeping affords an innocent and harmless hobby to their owners. It is only a bare fact to say that a bird taken from its natural freedom, and properly treated, will improve in beauty of plumage from year to year, will sing better, and for a longer season, in a cage than in a state of Nature, and will live many times as long. This being so, it savours of absurdity to contend that the keeping of birds in cages entails the cruelty which is laid at the doors of bird-keepers by those who are obsessed with the idea that "the keeping of any kind of bird in any kind of cage is an acted blasphemy." These words are the actual ones used by one of the humanitarian writers, and express the doctrine of the whole of them. Arguments will not convince them; they do not wish to think otherwise, and they wilfully close their eyes to what they could see for themselves if they chose.

HENRY J. FULLJAMES, Secretary.
Cage Birds League, 154, Fleet-street, E.C.

A very able reply to Mr. Hardy also appeared in "The Express" from the pen of Mr. H. D. Astley, who said:—

Mr. Thomas Hardy quite evidently does not know his subject when he asserts that it is cruel to keep birds in cages. Because they are sometimes not properly treated, that is no reason why they should not be happy when well looked after.

I have kept birds of every description all my life, and can give Mr. Hardy and others who deal in false theories and sentiment many instances of birds which quite evidently treat their cages as humans do their houses.

On one occasion in Italy a blue rock thrush of mine flew into the garden of my villa, where it was frightened by some children in the road below. The bird took refuge on the roof of a small house and crouched in a gutter. On my climbing up to it with its cage, it hopped in with most evident joy, and sang happily to me as I carried it home again.

In my bird-room, which is a large one, where I keep about twenty rare foreign birds in separate cages, I let one or two at a time fly out for exercise, and almost invariably after they have had their baths and exercised themselves they return of their own accord into their cages.

At this moment a pair of blue budgerigars (a blue variety of the little green Australian parrakeet), which are in quite a small cage, have a clutch of eggs on the flooring of sawdust, and while the female incubates, the male sits by her warbling merrily. This looks like misery, does it not?

I have one of the finest collections of birds in England, and I can claim to know what I am writing about. My birds live well, and are most undoubtedly happy, besides being a great joy to me and a pleasure to many who see them. Why should Mr. Hardy take upon himself to belittle other people's joys, and, what is worse, belittle himself by writing nonsense?

Mr. Hardy and Cage Birds.

Sir,—What a thrust Mr. Hardy has given in the "Times" to all lovers of caged birds. Long ago I remember with what a strango delight I ministered to a Goldfinch, which I had given mo when a child. The feelings I had then run through mo now, on recollections I had, when young in London, and every night I would take the "little man" up to my bedroom, and at the first glimmer of daylight would awake to its twitter. The rising sun would enliven him as it shone into the room. Birds and flowers, they say, at least the love of them, and the seeing to them, humanises us. I have found this true amongst the most humble. Often, too, in a bird-shop I have conversed with the owner, and found him no unworthy a follower of Robert, Dick, and Thomas Edward, and surely with respect to flowers any reader of Dean Hole's "Book on Roses," will agree with me. But it is not about flowers that Mr. Hardy inveighs, and their lovers. It is the keeping of caged birds. It is fit to record this amongst the little anecdotes I know. It concerns a Skylark, which from its open cage-door would come and perch on the head of its mistress and burst into song, such a song as awakened in Shelley all the finer chords of the poet. There is a pathos in this remembrance, for soon after the lady died. Was it, I sometimes think, an anthem of the bird, introductory to that great swell of music which shall welcome those whose hearts are full of love, the love of which Coleridge was full when he wrote:—

"He prayeth best, who loveth best
All things both great and small;
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all."

OVER SEVENTY.

The Radius of Luton Society.

Sir,—The secretary of the above society states he has only five members from Bedford and two from Watford. I should like to ask him how many entries those five members made from Bedford at the annual show of 1912. I should like also to remind him that I myself made twenty entries, and Mr. Watts nine or ten at that show, which made about 30 entries from Watford. This, I consider, is equal to a dozen local members. Mr. Watts and mysolf have always taken great interest in their society, not because we have made a lot out of it, as all fanciers will know you are lucky to clear expenses when sending out a large team after railway and entries expenses, even if you win; but we have always looked forward to an enjoyable day's outing and to meet our brother fanciers. I am sure no one regrets more than I do, and had we have been informed of the meeting I should have made every effort to have attended the same. I consider, under the circumstances, it was quite out of order. I am sorry to see their show was a failure, especially the local classes, but the society have only themselves to blame. I trust, however, that, as the secretary remarks, they will come up smiling again next year, and that they may get seven good sportsmen in the place of seven outsiders is the wish of Proposed Cage Bird Society for Spalding and District.

Sir,—We, in the Metropolis of the Fens, now think it quite time that a cage-bird society should be formed in Spalding, to take in a radius of twenty miles or under, as a majority may deem fit. If open to a twenty mile radius, we should then be central for Peterboro' on the one side, and Boston on the other. We should be pleased if you would invite any fanciers who may be interested, to make any suggestions through your paper or communicate with either of the undermentioned:

How to Make Shows Attractive

Sir,—Mr. Ramsbottom should [illegible] ago of the whole fancy to [illegible] wish him every success. There [illegible] do the half prize money rule [illegible] the Fancy and should be done away. A society has the chance of amal[illegible] and where a class is not full they [illegible] either do this or cut the class out [illegible] sider if they make only half prize [illegible] they should only charge half entry [illegible] Look at the treatment I received at L[illegible] There was a special for most points [illegible] Norwich classes, my birds won 1st, 2nd [illegible] points; Mr. Goodman's birds won [illegible] and c, 13 points. Now, the rule states [illegible] most money wins. My birds won 1[illegible] win 10s., yet he gets the special [illegible] they say mine were not full classes, and [illegible] 7s. 6d. for 15s. Now, do they mean to say, Mr. Editor, this is fair to exhibitors? I say the Fancy is going down as fast [illegible] can with no other cause than what I have mentioned.

No. 633.
A Safe Heating Lamp.

Sent by G. W. Cripps, 5 and 7, Albert Road, Richmond, Surrey.

I have read with regret of many fanciers dosing their birds through artificial heat. A lamp I have used with great success is one that is used in chicken rearers, called a Brooder lamp. It has a patent burner, requires no chimney, and costs 3s. 6d. It is sold with a perforated sliding guard. I take off the guard and hang a large flower pot from the uprights with wire, so as to hang over four inches from the top of the burner (see sketch). It gives a good steady light, with no smell. You only require about an inch flare on the lamp. The flower pot gets very hot, and gives off a nice heat. A pint of oil lasts all night and day, and costs a penny. I scald the burner out once a fortnight. I trust this will help those who wish for a safe lamp.

No. 634.
A New Form of Spray.

Sent by J. Paterson, 84, Prescot Street, Darlington.

I found I was continually wanting new rubber pipes and balls to my bird sprays, and thought of the idea illustrated. No. 2 represents a bottle and spray, and No. 1 a valve one of a cycle inner tube. Insert No. 1 inside No 2, and solder them together, being careful not to have the soldering iron too hot. Then get a cycle pump and connect, and you will have a spray that will last. No. 3 is a strong wire handle to hold the bottle whilst spraying the birds.

ANNFIELD PLAIN'S BIG SUCCESS

Sixth annual show, held Dec. 20, the best show ever held by the society. The venue was again the Co-operative Hall, which, with the exception of being rather badly lighted, is in other respects an ideal place for holding a show, having plenty of size, free from draughts, and kept at a nice temperature. Entries came up splendidly, totalling exactly 260, this beating last year's record, and making the best number of show held in the district this season. Quality all through was exceedingly good. Norwich and Borders especially containing many birds true to type and teeming with colour and quality. The open Linnet class proved a great attraction, and despite not being advertised, brought forth an entry of eighteen toppers, the winner being a grandly pencilled specimen. The hon. sec., Mr. R. Peart, had everything in grand order, and evidently understands the work from end to end. He is grandly supported by a fine body of fanciers, all keen workers, but a special word of praise must be given to the stewards, Messrs. J. Armstrong, R. Goodchild, W. Thompson, J. L. Reed and partner, and several others whose names we do not remember, these getting through a good day's work with every credit. Silver cup for most points with five nominated birds was won by Mr. R. Peart. Mr. G. Bates won silver cup for young birds, with a very nice team of Borders. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

ELGIN C.B.A.

Fourth annual show held Corn Market Hall, Dec. 25. The hall is of good size, well lighted from the top, and very suitable for a show. The exhibits were well staged and well looked after. Entries showed an increase of nearly 100 on last year's total, and quality was far ahead of former years. Borders were a grand lot, 42 for three classes some outstanding exhibits amongst them. We think it would be advisable to add a few more classes next year, as they have been increasing in favour. In Nor. there were some grand classes, and some very hot ones for the judge to handle—many withm' tarkets. There were 34 for the two classes. Brit. and Mules were well supported. Silver cup for best Canary was won by Wm. Allison, silver cup best Hyb. or British, F Stanford; silver cup most points, J. D. Hird; silver centrepiece best unflig. Nor., A. W. McArthur; silver cup best Bord., R. Gentleman, also silver medal for second best Canary. Silver medals: Best Brit., J. D. Hird, also 2nd best Hyb. or Brit.; 2nd most points, Wm. Allison; most entries, G. Baxter, jun.; runner-up for centrepiece, W. Campbell; 2nd best Bord., J Craig. Hyde's sp. was won by Wm. Bremner; sp. most points local, Garden and Junner. The courteous and untiring sec., Mr. Jas. Lumsden, along with his committee, are to be complimented on the splendid success of the exhibition. The show was well patronised all day, and there were a good few exhibitors present from a distance. Mr. A. Chalmers (Kirkintilloch) judged, and his awards were well received all over.

LONGTON (Lancs.)

A nice open show of Norwich was run by the Longton F.S., in the National School, Dec. 27. Mr. Bob Johnson and his poultry confreres are to be congratulated on a nice little show, and we hope they will come out on the right side. Mr. T. S Howarth proved an efficient and courteous manager, and the thanks of cage bird fanciers are due to him for getting the classes put on. Mr. Bob Johnson was one of the secretaries, and especially looked after the cage bird section. Entries did not come up as well as they should have done. Four money prizes, with a cash special in each class ought to have brought forth more than 80 in eleven classes. Perhaps the festive season had something to do with it. The birds were packed and at the station by 6.30, and fanciers will do well to remember this next year when the Longton schedule comes round. Mr. Joe Thomas won gold medal for best Norwich. Mr. J. McAndrew medal best novice Norwich. Another outstanding bird was the winning unlighted buff belonging to Mr. Barnes, the popular president of the N.P.C. Mr. Tom Dent made the awards, and little fault could be found with his placings. In the afternoon the show was visited by quite a lot of the gentry from the immediate neighbourhood, and the cage birds seemed to have no little attraction for them.

TRURO.

Annual show held Dec 26, in the Public Baths, Norwich and York were a prohibited lot, birds of very high merit being staged, a new feature this year was a class for Buffs, which seem to be coming to the front in Cornwall. The Goldie class was champion, and two sets of winners could be found, the winner being claimed by many. Sec. Mr. C. H. Joy, got through his work without trouble either to himself or committee. He was well backed up by a lot of hard-working fanciers, and everything went off like clock work. The judges, Mr. E. Webb (Yorks), and Mr. E. White (the remainder), got through their work in good time.

STANLEY VICTORIA

Second annual show, held Dec. 6th, in the Club Hall, a really grand place for a show, large and roomy, plenty of light, both night and day, and provided with everything appertaining to the comfort of exhibits and visitors. Entries came up well, totalling 170, and quality all through was of a high standard. Mr. R. Peart is a grand secretary, and a keener fancier to work he would be hard to find. Everything he takes in hand is done with methodical precision, and everything passed off without the slightest hitch. He is secretary of three societies, yet even with his hands so full he never gets flurried, but is always the same genial, good-tempered fancier, willing at all times to oblige everybody. On the present occasion he was ably supported by a grand body of fanciers, chair., Mr. T. Curry; Mr. G. Lane, vice chair; Mr. J. Armitage, treas.; and Messrs. Goodchild, Gowland, Robinson, Emmerson, Keskey, and Metcalfe, committee, all doing their best for the welfare of the show. A splendid combined breeding and flight cage for most points with 4 nominated birds was won by Mr. R. Peart with a grand team, Mr. G. Lane being runner up. Other special winners were: Best Nor., P. Clark; 2nd best, R. Peart; Bord., P. Clark; 2nd, Jos. Teasdale; Brit., G. Lane. The "gate" was very good, and there is no doubt the show will be a financial success. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

11th annual show held at the Co-operative Hall, Nov. 22. The room is acknowledged to be the finest in the district for the purpose, being spacious, well ventilated, good heating arrangements, and well lighted, both by day and night. The show proved a great success, 285 entries, a record for the society. In Yorks. Messrs. J. W. Metcalfe (Liverpool), Benson and Young, Morton, Greatrex, Adams, Stott, Darlington, Alston, and Shaw staged some grand birds, many of which have won in open competition. Norwich were more numerous than we have had for years, Messrs. Burns, Howlett, Mealor, Caine, and Cave being the principal winners with real good birds. Borders were good, Miss K. Cooper, Mr. T. Edwards, and Mr. McElroy carrying off the principal honours. British came up grand, Mr. Redgate winning in the Softbill class with a perfect conditioned Redstart, a good Wheatear being second. Messrs. Barker, Walton, and Mealor were the leading winners in the Cardbills, with some real good Finches. The gate was good, many of the Liverpool fanciers visiting us. Much of the success of the show is due to the good specials for best birds presented by Messrs. T. Edwards, E. Radcliffe, Gaylard, and Norman Jones. Mr. W. A. Cowgill judged, and his awards gave satisfaction to all.

PETERHEAD C.B.A.

Sixth annual open show held in the Lower Music Hall, Peterhead, Dec. 19 and 20, under the patronage of the Provost Magistrates, and Town Council, Fenars' Managers, and Mr. John E. Sutherland, M.P. Entries were down from last year, numbering close on 200. The decrease was chiefly in the cage bird section. In the Canary classes, quality was good, and in some cases the judge found it difficult to select the winners. Mr. Jas. Wilson, Peterhead, won silver cup presented by the Town Council for most points, also silver medal. The arrangements were carried out by a committee consisting of Messrs. Berry, Coull, Cowie, G. Grant, J. Grant, Lillie, Milne, Park, Summers, Thomson, Wilson, Winter, Dalziel Bros., Morrice, Strachan, Cameron, Milne Bros., Reid, Urquhart, Ross, sen., Ross, jun., along with the Pres., Mr. A. Clark; vice pres., Mr. Jas. McIntosh, and the energetic sec., Mr. C. Cross, to all of whom thanks are due for the able manner in which the duties were carried out. Mr. J. Smeaton judged, and gave every satisfaction.

The Scottish National.

Superb Management, and a Splendid All-round Display of Over 2,000 Entries.

The twelfth annual show of the premier society of Scotland was held in the Corn Exchange, Glasgow, Dec. 30 and Jan. 1. Never before has the Grand Hall looked quite as well; it has been lavishly redecorated and cleaned and finely lit by arc lamps suspended from the roof. When we peeped in on the evening preceding the opening day to see how the preparations were going forward, we found Mr. Kinlayside, with a select staff, putting the finishing touches to some beautifully erected staging. The draped staging upon the outside was this year placed rather nearer the boundary wall, so as to allow rather more room for the huge crowd that generally visits this popular fixture. The birds of position are mostly located upon this draped staging, which makes a splendid background to show off the exhibits to perfection. A strong staff of working commissionermen were busy making the leadership of Mr. Craig dealing with the birds as soon as they arrived.

THE BRITISH BIRDS.

Mr. Sykes's Classes.

GOLDF. (39): 1, Pringle, marvel for depth and col. of blaze, rare moons and tans, leads easy in a very strong class, grand bloom; 2, Conkie and Louden, better weight than leader, but far behind in col. and expanse of blaze, yet a good Finch, excels moons and tans, very distinct in buttons; 3, Jeffreys, grand face, better col. and expanse than 2nd, but fails a little at thighs and hardly up to weight, just on dark side; 4, Fairhurst, good col. and expanse, excels condition and bloom, hardly clean cut; 5, Nicolson and Son; 6, 7, Brooks; 8, Messer. BULLF. (19): 1, Martin and Archer, grand breast col., expansive, and clean cut cap and bib, not largest but a grand shape, excels wings, put down by a master-hand; 2, Wilson, larger than leader, hardly so deep in tone of breast, but even better in head, fails under coverts, best shape in class; 3, Roy, F.M., real good Bullie in every respect except size, excels wings; 4, Woods, good size and shape, hardly depth of tone or solidity; 5, Nicolson and Son, better breast, quite equal in cap and wings, just a little slack at thighs; 6, Barkiss; 7, Palmer; 8, Brown. LINNET (33): 1, 3, McQuiston and Paterson, well-known winner, holds his own easily here, rare size, shape and breast work, looking his best to-day; 3rd, scarcely the desirable shape, but a gem for tone and pencilling, excels in bloom, best whites in class; 2, Parlett, even more defined in breast work, excels shape, just a little on dark side, beaten bloom; 4, Inman, we preferred, grand shape, nice tone and pencilling, might be better staged; 5, Oldham, nice one, just on dark side, and rather open in front; 6, Watt; 7, Stewart and Milne; 8, Jeffreys. F.M. (29): 1, Parlett, a gem, rare tone, excels all points, steady, wins well; 2, McQuiston and Paterson, well-known winner eclipsed here, no disgrace, not looking so well; 3, Stewart and Milne, nice breast, fails weight to leaders, steady, and in best of condition, well placed; 4, Conkie and Louden, grand shape and bloom, heavy pencils, just a little too dark in tone and fails to close up; 5, 8, Allan; 6, Breeder; 7, Barrie. BRAMBLE (10): 1, Reid, grand size and spangle, well defined flanks, scarcely depth of breast colour, yet wins well here; 2, Brotherhood, hardly up to subs., but better col. than leader, in grand order, and despite lack of weight must have pressed; 3, Conkie and Louden, nice cut of mantle, smokey a little in spangle, excels flanks, fails breast and subs.; 4, Fairhurst, good one, looking soft to-day; 4, McQuiston and Paterson; 6, Allan; 7, Pitchford. CHAFFINCH (11): 1, Nicolson and Son, grand size and shape, fine tone of breast, excels wings, fails a little in head, shines like glass; 2, Jeffreys, another nice one, better cap, but fails subs. and tone of breast to leader, well placed; 3, Lloyd James, well known winner, just a little pinched in front, rare col. and bloom; 4, Dr. Wilson, larger than leaders, good tone, loses in cond.; 5, Allan, bit too dark, grand bloom; 6, Watson; 7, Watt; 8, Mainland. GREENF., FED (11): 1, Stuart and Dalling, grand size, nice cobby shape, rather flat on skull, but a gem in all other points, wins; 2, McLean, hardly subs. of leader, but grand shape of head, judiciously fed, a good 2nd, put down to win; 4, Law, cobby shape, nice size, fails head, excels wings, in grand order; 5, McGregor Boyd, nice one, fails skull and rather loose in upper coverts; 6, McGavin; 7, Finnie; 8, Moreland. NON-FED. (13): 1, Bancroft, good size and subs., rare wings, fair skull, excels col. and bloom, wins; 2, Allan, hardly so cobby as leader, but equal condition, good wings, well placed; 3, Nicolson, similar stamp, but hardly so massive in head, excels wings, in good order; 4, Webster, good size and shape, fails tone, will make a good one; 5, Conkie and Louden, better head, fails front and tone; 6, Messer; 7, Gibbs; 8, Dunn. SISKIN, FED (16): 1, Stuart and Dalling, good size and shape, dense and expansive cap, faint bib, excels flanks, wins nicely, put down in grand order; 2, Hope, good col., but behind in subs. to leader, better bib, rare wings and sides, nasty break in breast feather, but still well placed here; 3, Edwards, not large, but nice col., rather pinched in head, no bib, well laced, good shape; 4, McDougal, even better col. and flanks, nice bib, hangs wing or would probably have gone up; 5, Conkie and Louden; 6, Wood; 7, Black and Hendrie; 8, Robertson. NON-FED (27): 1, Calder, C.M., good size, very cobby, dense cap, excels streak, faint bib, rare tone and flanks, good one, yet we preferred 2, Nicolson, even better size, more distinct bib, hardly so profuse in flanks, but very distinct, in grand order; 3, McDonald, F.M., good cap, excels bib, nicely pencilled, very steady; 4, Gentleman, very dense cap, nicely cut, best bib in class, fails tone and flanks to 2nd; 5, McGregor and Boyd, good size, no bib, fails tone and flanks; 6, Craig; 7, Bagg; 8, Cameron. LEATHERHEAD F.S.

19th annual members' show, held in the Drill Hall, Nov. 26, and was a great success. A. C. Otway, the hon. sec., is a host in himself, and he received splendid assistance from the members of his committee. The Drill Hall is a suitable place for holding an exhibition, the light being good, and the place ample and cosy. Challenge cup for best bird, sp., 2nd best, and sp. 3rd best went to Mr. L. M. Wade, a really good White Robin, a beautiful Crimson-wing Parrakeet, and a nearly white Blackbird of magnificent feather, and very tame. The Canaries were not numerous, Norwich and Yorkshires being the best classes, but the display of British and foreign and Albinos was a really remarkable one. At the judges' luncheon the President, the Rev. T. F. Hobson, made some exceedingly felicitous remarks concerning the influence of the Fancy upon the lives of those who kept and exhibited live stock. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards were well received.

NOR. (5): 1, 2, 3, hc, Soper, winner a romping eye'kd. buff, bold head, nice body, and good under col.; 2nd, grand shape, just a trifle free in feather; 3rd, silky feathered yell., probably a hen; vhc, Gunnell. YORKS, VEry. (5): All prizes and cards to Soper; 1st, an upstanding bird, good back, wing, leg, and action; 2nd, nice pos., but loses behind the leg; 3rd, good length, but a bit too chesty. BUFF (5): Mr. Soper again all honours with a really good team. NAT. COL. (6): 1, Dancer, great buff Yorks., stands well, nicely shown; 2, Pearce, shapely yell. Nor.; 3, Dancer, yell. Yorks, neat; vhc, Mrs. Reader; hc, French. BRIT., SEED EATERS (7): 1, 2, Gunnell, topping Linnet leading, and a nice Goldfinch, hardly up in face col.; 3, vhc, c, Wade, very smart Yellow Bunting leading; hc, Kingsworth. INSECTIV. (3): 1, 2, 3, Wade, winner very choice, Bearded Tit, rich in colour and fine in marking; 2nd, Yellow Wagtail, in nice feather; 3rd, Nightingale, not in condition. MULE, ETC. (5): 1, cup, 2, sp., vhc, hc, Wade, leader White Robin, excellent feather, very tame; 2nd, nearly White Blackbird; 3, Gunnell, four-pointed yellow Goldf.-Can. Mule, a good one. PARRAKEETS (2): 1, sp, 2, Wade, Crimson-wing Parrakeet at the head. PARROT (6): 1, sp, Mrs. Hewlins, grand Grey, large, lovely feather; 2, 3, vhc, hc, Wade, 2nd nice specimen of Salvin's Amazon; 3rd, Blue-headed Parrot. SEED EATERS, SMALL (4): 1, Wade, lovely pair of Spice Birds, in tip-top fettle; 2, 3, vhc, Pleace, Cordons Bleu and Golden-breasted Waxbills, in grand feather. LARGE (5): 1, vhc, hc, Wade, winner very nice Long-tailed Whydah; 2, Mrs. Reader, grand African Sulphur Finch; 3, Pleace, nice Atlas Weaver.

TRANENT.

30th annual show, held Nov. 29 in Sinclair's Hall. Entries were up on former years, and some very good birds were staged, and quality all round showed an improvement. The sec., Mr. McNeil, had everything well in hand, supported by an able committee. Cup most points in Scotch Fancy section, also cup best young Scotch Fancy, went to Mr. Jas. Gordon; cup most points Bord., J. Fairgrove. Mr. J. Hogg, Oakley, judged and his awards seemed to please everybody.

OPENSHAW, GORTON.

First annual show held Dec. 26 at Club Rooms, Alhambra Theatre, Openshaw. Entries were exceedingly good. Mr. Chilton won sps best bird and best in Norwich, Mr. Johnson best Bord. and best Mealy Redpoll, and Mr. Newton best Brit. The cottage class was well patronised. The main feature was the quantity of British on view, and keen competition all round. The show was well patronised by the public, and the door receipts were exceptionally good. The show was well managed by a body of willing workers, and Mr. Washbourne, sec., had arranged everything with the greatest satisfaction. Mr. Dooley judged, and his awards were well received.

HIGH WYCOMBE.

Fourteenth annual show, held at Oakley Memorial Hall, Dec. 26. The Hall is not a very suitable one, being somewhat dark, and the lights too high. The cage bird section contained only 12 classes, and 3 of them had to be cancelled. The entry numbered 65. Yorks. were the leading class. Norwich were good, but few, the winner, a var buff, being a nice bold bird that should get a few more prizes if shown. Mules or Hybrids only numbered 6, but 6 of the first water, the first three all being light, and the judge had no easy task in finding the winner. Goldfinches were a hot class of eleven good birds. The Society has a hard-working sec. in Mr. S. C. Pearce, ably assisted by Mr. A. Rivett, and a hard-working committee. Mr. G. H. Billet judged.

YORKS. CK. (13): 1, Dinmock, nice yell., beautiful head, well filled neck, beautiful wing carr. and tail, grand col. and qual., good cond.; 2, Dinmock, nice big buff, very straight, but rather loose in feather, nice head, but wings a little crossed, good col. and cond.; 3, Goldsmith, nicely mkd. bird, as neat and even as could be, very straight, lovely wing carr. and tail, small in head, good col., qual., and condition, much admired: 4, Price; vhc, Stellcott; hc, Collier; c, Bond. HEN (4): 1, Dinmock, nice buff, good size, neat head, well carried wings, good qual. and cond.; 2, Stellcott, rather slim yell., small head, wings sometimes crossed, could have done with a wash; 3, Stellcott, small buff, better shown than 2nd; 4, Ward. NOR. CK. (7): 1, 4, Bowler, var. buff, bold bird, plenty subs., good head, well filled neck, good wing carr., nice tail, lovely feather, good col. and cond.; 2, hc, Wood, var. buff, bit longer, good head, neat wings, not so tight in feather, good col. and cond.; 3, Rayner, var. yell., nice chest, well across perch, lovely col., qual. and cond.; vhc, Barrett; c, Abbott. HEN (4): 1, 3, Bowler, bold yell., bit browy, nice wing carr., good col. and cond.; 2, Wood, if a hen might have been above winner, it was a good singer, good head, nice wings, well across perch, lovely col., and tight in feather; 3rd, nice buff, good subs., good col., nice wings, well carried. A1 cond. MULE or HYB. (6): 1, Bowler, Light Goldf.-Can., nice size and shape, beautiful col., well carried wings and tail, lovely cond.; 2, Bowler, light Goldie-Can., similar, just fails in head; 3, Carter, light Goldf.-Can., not quite the stamp of first two, but a nice one; 4, Bowler, dark Goldf.-Can., good big bird with a good blaze, beautiful col. and qual., but stood no chance against the light ones; vhc, Bowler; hc, Carter. BULLF. (7): 1, Pearce, beautiful cap and bib, lovely coloured chest, well carried wings, very steady, grand cond.; 2, Carter, good size, but not the qual. of winner, appeared fresh caught; 3, Collier, about the same stamp as 2nd, but not so steady; 4, Pearce; vhc, Barrett; hc, Abbott; c, Ward. A.O.V. HARDBILL (6): 1, Collier, Chaffinch, beautiful colour, nice size, good head, feather tight and glossy, wins well; 2, Smith, Crossbill, good large bird, nice plumage, very steady, good qual. and cond., beaten by excellence of winner; 3, Smith, nice Chaffinch, nice shape and colour, not quite so steady, good cond.; 4, Collier, Bramblefinch. GOLDF. (11): 1, sp, best Brit., Carter, grand size, beautiful square blaze, lovely colour, markings perfect, well tanned chest, very steady, grand cond.; 2, J. Burnham, grand bird, not quite the blaze of winner, nicely mkd. wings, bars being grand, only just beaten; 3, Wood, smaller, nice blaze, good col., well mkd. wings, grand cond.; 4, vhc, Bowler, hc, Stellcott; c, Collier.

CLITHEROE C.B.S.

6th annual show held Dec. 6, National School Rooms, with a record entry of over 150 birds. Quality was extra good, particularly in Norwich. Yellow hens (20), unflig. buff hens (20), unflig. yell. cock (16), contained some tip-top specimens. Cup for best bird, J. Barnes. Sp., best old bird, Cook and Son; best mule or hyb., J. Briggs; Ramsden's special, J. Southworth. The show was opened by the President, Alderman J. T. Whip. Mr. J. Southworth makes an ideal sec. and show manager, and had everything in thorough working order. Mr. J. Walsh, Blackburn, judged, and his awards were well received.

What a Reader thinks of "OUR CANARIES."

5, The Station,
Shincliffe,
Durham.

I am very well satisfied with "Our Canaries," and, as far as I have gone into this wonderful book, I have found some very useful hints. Although only a Novice, I tried my hand at washing a few birds and getting them ready for our Local Show. I washed nine birds in all, only spoiling one. I have had them examined by a friend, who is considered an expert at the game, and he gave me credit for washing them very well, this being my first attempt. I am delighted to think I did so well. The information, which is very concise, that enabled me to wash them so well, was in "OUR CANARIES."

A New Year's Message for You.

Start the New Year right.—Successful Canary-rearing is a matter of science, not luck. Take the first step towards making 1914 a record year by filling in and forwarding the coupon on this page. The artistic 20-page Brochure you will receive will tell you how to win prizes at shows, and sell your surplus birds at good prices. It is a gift to you, and is sent post free.

In this booklet will be explained an easy method by which, for a small payment of 1/-, you can be the immediate possessor of the magnificent volume shown on this page, entitled "Our Canaries." It weighs 5lbs., and contains 133 illustrations and 32 Coloured plates. The balance is payable at the rate of about 1d. a day for a few months. This slight cost is not, of course, an expenditure at all, because the knowledge you will gain from this wonderful manual on Canaries will repay its cost many times over.

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

SOFT MOULT — NOT SINGING

Special offer to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season, that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the finest cure for soft moult ever sold. We have hundreds of testimonials for this complaint only. We are prepared to return full money if our medicines fail to do as advertised. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, dullness, feather plucking, diarrhœa, and inflammation of the bowels. Sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. For bronchitis, wheezing and hoarseness get Ditchfield's special lung tonic, the most perfect remedy ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds, also in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. For cases of constitutional weakness and debility get Ditchfield's famous "Revivo," there is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the birds; 7d. and 1/1 bottles. To advertise our medicines we will send two 7d. bottles of either of the above medicines for 1/-, or two 1/- bottles for 1/9. All medicines post paid per return at our risk. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed: Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. Two valuable seed recipes free. See last week's advert. (1169)

NO QUACKERY HERE.

and no "Cure-alls." If you have a bird with a cold, asthma, or any lung affection, give "Asthmarine" a trial. It will surprise you. HARRY ALLEN, THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING COCK OF THE NORTH FOR BRITISH

I am sending winners out every week; my birds have won prizes in all the recognised Linnet singing clubs that are published in C.B., throughout England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales; I glory in sending winners out. I have some splendid singing birds and show birds in at present, also some sure mulers. I hold the world's record for singing birds and mulers. Larks, singing daylight and gaslight, as straight as arrows, and as steady as rocks; they will sing on top of my table top, they are so steady. 1/6 and 2/6; a few hand-reared ones, right for contest singing, with loud voice, will sing anywhere, 3/6, and a few with quality notes, a treat to hear, can win anywhere, 4/6; these are real champions. Try one of these, rock Thrushes, singing with full loud voice, 3/-; a few hand-reared ones, will sing indoors or out, will sing anywhere, 4/6, cannot be beat, splendid cock Blackbird, singing, full voice, 3/-, 4/- and 5/-, they are real beauties. Extra large Linnets for the show bench. My A1 specials can beat the world for steadiness, size, colour and markings, 2/6, 3/6, and one of the best I have seen for some time, 5/-. Neat Siberian rock Goldfinches, the largest in the world, with deep square-cut scarlet blaze, 5/-, 6/-, and sure prize winners under any judge, 7/6 and 10/6. Real English Peartree Goldfinches, the largest in England, the same as the above, with grand broad heads and magnificent blazes, 3/-, 4/- and 5/-, and one that can win at the Palace, 7/6; now this is a gem. Very large cock Bullfinches, real beauties, 3/-; a real monster, can win anywhere, 7/6. Splendid cock Chaffinches, Greenfinches and Bramblefinches, Mealy Redpolls, sure prize winners, 2/6 each. Birds for aviaries, 2/- a pair. Real yellow cock Siskins, 3/- and 4/-; sure pure-winners, with perfect cap and bib, with perfect lacing, teeming with quality, 6/6 and 7/6. Try one of these Linnets, taught by the champion Linnet of the world; they are very beautiful, a treat to hear; with new cage and my book of secrets, 3/6, 4/6 and 5/-. I am the originator of this bird cage and book, and I defy any dealer in the world to supply the same for the money. Linnets taught by the champion Linnet of the world. They make the the gamest Linnets ever carried to a contest; they can run like Germans; this class of bird have won the English Derby and all the cups in England; working men's prices, 2/6 each; Linnet Mules, 10/-; Goldfinch Mules, 10/-; Greenfinch Mules, 8/6. All in full song. Splendid Red and Green Budgerigars, real pictures, 6/6 a pair. First-class Roller, 10/-, 15/- and 25/-. 2,000 birds in stock. Everybody cordially invited to see and hear what he is buying. only honest dealing done with me; please order early; post card before birds; thanking you all for your kind patronage, a happy New Year to everyone: Harry Allen, British Bird Champion, 1 Ivy Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds. (1161)

FRED ALLEN, BRITISH BIRD CHAMPION

and England's leading British bird dealer. I have hundreds in stock, not rubbish, and will willingly send all out on 7 days' approval for cash or deposit; only honest dealing done with me. Please note: I am in no way connected with any other dealer, so please beware of spurious imitations. I have a grand lot of Siberian cock Goldfinches, giants, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, winners 7/6 each. English Pentree cock Goldfinches, with deep supercrest blaze, broad heads, gems, cannot be beat, 3/6, 4/6, and one of the best caged, 5/6. Mr. Potter, Hull's cup winner, got one of these. Mr. Hayter, of Beeston, Notts, said, "They are a grand lot." He also got one. You cannot go away unless you take one, they are so good. I have also a good lot at 2/6 and 3/-, right for pairing and can win at small shows. Mealing cock Linnets, sing anywhere, 2/- each; one, a stormer, well pencilled, a gem, 2/6. Giant yellow cock Siskins, with dense caps and bibs, real gems, 5/6 each, others 2/- and 2/6, all on song; Goldfinch and Bullfinch hybrid, 35/-, worth 70/-; H.M. Corn Bunting, exhibited by Mr. Medley with success, only 10/6, another good one 3/6, cock Chaffinch, a stormer, can win, 2/-; gem Redpoll, 1/6; H.M. Linnets, used to catching, will sing anywhere, finger tame, 4/6, 5/6, 7/6 each; cock Linnet and hen Canary, paired, 4/6; Goldfinch mules, cock, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 each; Double fronted Amazon Parrots, 35/- each, in show condition; cock Reed Bunting, a stormer, 2/6. Gentlemen, if you want honest dealing send to me. If I fail to please you just return the birds and back comes your money. I have thousands of testimonials and hundreds of birds, all guaranteed as advertised. You get value for money here, hence the success of my business: Fred Allen, Porter-st. Aviaries, Hull. (1179)

The BULL-DOG STRAIN.

Winners of the N.P.C. Champion Trophy, 1913-14. Also numerous Diplomas, Gold Medals, etc., etc. See reports of all the leading champion shows. This strain needs no bounce. Its record speaks for itself. Not only are my birds bang at the top at all leading shows, but I am constantly receiving letters from clients who have won with birds supplied by me or with birds bred from my stock

I have now for disposal a large number of good birds, both cocks and hens, yellows or buffs, in clears, ticks, marked, or variegated.

Blood is sure to tell in the end, and now is the time for the amateur to make a start with the best possible stock, or for the old hand to introduce a little fresh blood into his room at a reasonable price. I can now send out good birds for stock or exhibition at the following prices:—Cocks or Hens, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each upwards. Pairs, specially matched for breeding winners, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, to 100/- per pair. I am prepared to give a guarantee that these are bred from my own strain, and will send to any address at my risk on seven days' approval with pleasure.

I KNOW IT'S RUDE

to point, but I must point out to you the very special qualities of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, imported solely by myself. For 22 years the breeders have devoted the whole of their skill to improving the song of this strain, and the result is round about perfection. They have none of the monotony of the ordinary Roller about them, their song being made up of a splendid variety of ever changing harmonious music, and this song they will retain during their whole lives, not merely for one year only. They are particularly strong and hardy, and thoroughly acclimatised before sent out. At present I have an exceptionally large stock (over 200) of these Leipzig Roller cock, all in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double roll, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jugging of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh, objectionable notes whatever, price 7/- and 8/- each. Special bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and bubbling water tours, 10/6 and 12/6 each. I also have a limited quantity of very special contest Rollers; these birds are of purest blood Germany can boast of, and are gems of very first water, fit for immediate contesting, 15/-, 17/6 and 21/- each. Leipzig Roller hens, 2/3 each, 4/- couple. No contest Roller hens yet. For those who like a loud, noisy singer, I have a splendid lot of free singing vigorous Hartz cocks in full loud song, day and gaslight. These are particularly good-looking birds, and will stand any amount of cold; just the thing for public bar or coffee house, etc.; price 5/- each; Hartz hens, 3/6 couple. Special travelling cages, 3d. extra. All safely and warmly packed with water and seed for 48-hour journey and sent on full week's trial at my sole risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. See following few letters and notice full address and date to each: "83, Cobham-rd., South Park, Ilford, Dec. 8. Sir,—Referring to birds from you a week ago, the cock bird has now begun to sing very nicely. I also beg to acknowledge receipt of hen you sent to replace one that died (owing to delay on railway.—W.G.). This is first transaction I have had with you, and in addition to giving me every satisfaction it has proved that I have been dealing with a straightforward business man. I shall not hesitate to send to you again. Yours, J. Chepcek." "Stonyhurst College, nr. Blackburn, Dec. 4. Sir,—A word to let you know how highly satisfied I am with Roller you sent me. His song is so soothing to the mind and quite different from that of other birds, whose song consists of a short, monotonous squeak, and thanking you for honest dealing. Yours, S. de Freitas." "1, Princess-sq., Longport, Nov. 28. Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Joynson." "11, Gethon-rd., Penygraig, Nov. 30. Sir.—Received Leipzig Roller in pink of condition. I thought I had some good singers, but he knocks them into a cocked hat, and has secured you another order. Yours, T. Watkins." "Thorpe Terrace, New-rd., Luddenden, Nov. 25. Sir,—Roller to hand on Wednesday. He commenced singing as soon as unpacked, and for beauty of song I have yet to find his equal. I am perfectly satisfied, and wish to tender my sincere thanks for your straightforward dealing. Yours, Wm. Murgatroyd." Please note, all Roller cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and as I am sole importer of this strain no other man can sell as much as one feather unless he first purchases it from me. I publish but a very few of the testimonials I receive, but the Editor has frequently examined bundles of them which have never been published. (1111)

GENUINE SONGSTERS

For many years I have supplied thousands of customers with the best singing Canaries that have ever been heard. If you require a genuine, reliable singing Canary I invite you to come and inspect my stock and select one for yourself, any day except Sunday. If you cannot come allow me to send you one on seven days' approval. You can see the quality and hear its song before deciding to keep it. I guarantee every customer satisfaction. I have many hundreds of unsolicited testimonials open for your inspection. The following is a sample of the many received this week:—23, Comer-terr., Cockfield, January 3rd, 1914.—I have given the Roller a fair trial and am pleased to say that we are more than satisfied. Many of my brother fanciers acknowledge he is a first-class songster at a reasonable price.—R. Heckley. Please remember that I import all my Rollers direct from the best and most reliable breeders, and can give the best possible quality for money. Every bird is tested as to its singing qualities before being dispatched, thus avoiding your disappointment. St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, with full change of song by day and artificial light, genuine, up-to-date songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each; a few extra good contest songsters, 15/, 17/6, 20/-; hens, same strain, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6 each (not common German rubbish). For cheap reliable songsters my Hartz cocks are unequalled, and acknowledged by all to be the real working man's friend. Birds in full, loud, free song by day and gaslight, real loud, sweet songsters. Hartz cocks, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each, according to quality of song. Matched pairs for breeding songsters, 7/6, 8/-, 8/6. Neat travelling cages, 3d. each; special quotations to clubs and dealers. Travelling cages from 2/- dozen, 20/6 per gross. All birds are on 7 days' approval at my sole risk; cash or deposit: E. L. Storey, The Roller Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

WINNERS WINNERS WINNERS

Read following from Ashleigh, Rumhill, Dec. 26, 1913. At our show recently I took two firsts with cock and first and second with the hens. I am well satisfied with them, and thank you for supplying me with such good birds. T. Roby, to L. Dykes. Another, from Castel Hill, Guernsey, 28 Dec., 1913. Just a line to tell you I won 1-1, 2nd, vhc, also special for best Canary, and spl. for best bird in show at our show. These are all bred from the pair you sent me, So am well pleased with your stock. J. Collenette, to L. Dykes. I have hundreds of testimonials similar to above, though these are the first I have published this season. If you want the very best blood in the Fancy I can supply you, as my strain of Yorkshires is unequalled for producing winners, or on the show bench. Having won twice as many 1sts during the past four years as any other exhibitor, also winning the Y.C.C. Challenge Cup for this season. See leading show reports. I still have over 200 for sale, all in the pink of condition, and cold rooms bred and kept. Clears, ticked, or marked pairs, matched to breed winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/- per pair; cocks, yellows or buffs, at 6/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; grand breeding hens, any colour, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Travelling cages, 3d. extra. All on seven days' approval at my risk. Cash, or deposit with Editor. And, remember, I have not had a single deposit to return for the past three years. (Editor holds proof.) This is proof of what I send out. I also have several big winners for sale. Inspection invited any time. Price list, post free. State wants to the old reliable breeder, and avoid disappointment: L. Dykes, 16, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford.

YORKSHIRE UNION OF C.B.S.

RESULTS OF COMPETITIONS FOR 1913 & 1914.

Huddersfield show brought the Union competitions to a close for the season, and below will be found a complete list of points. I am sorry to have to record a remarkable decrease in the average entries at Union shows, compared with previous years, and this is a factor to which societies will have to give most serious consideration. The struggle to carry through an open show so that the balance is on the right side at its termination is a very severe strain on those officials who are desirous of catering for the Fancy in its most progressive form, and the question of making the shows more attractive will have to be tackled sooner or later by societies who wish to meet with that success which is so often promised, and just as often denied them. The problem has been pending a good few years now, some fanciers have argued that there are too many shows, others that what we want is a few shows with an enlarged classification, but whatever the cause is, it will have to be faced with determination. Ogden Bros. win Ramsden's prize with 222 points in champ. section; L. Dykes, runner up, 205; Errington's prizes, champ. section, E. Clegg, 119 points; 2nd, S. Tidswell, 82, four amateur gold medals, presented by the Union, C. E. Hall 121, T. Tidswell 82, G. Snead 80, F. Binns 68; Ramsden's prize in nov. section, A. Sheard, with an average of 8 points per show; W. E. Hutchinson follows with 7.41; Errington's nov. prizes, W. Hirst, average 9.83; 2nd, R. Rhodes, 3.91. Union gold medals, first half of season, R. Seager, 53 points; J. W. Bedforth, 49; J. E. Hudson, 43; A. L. Ellis, 42 points, in Yorks.; B. Airton, 99 points, in Nor. Second half of season, W. Hirst, 131; A. Sheard, 107; C. H. Greenwood, 100; W. E. Hutchinson, 93; H. Chew, 85, win in Yorks.; and H. Lord, 54, and G. Hunter, 21, in Nor. A full list of CAGE BIRDS Union Competitions for Professionals and Amateurs will be published by Mr. F. Hammond (sec.) after the eight shows at which points count have been withdrawn by CAGE BIRDS Prizes Committee. All the above points have been taken from the catalogues, and any error should be communicated to me immediately, when same can be rectified by the judges' slips. The prizes will be presented at the annual prize distribution in March; particulars and full announcements respecting same will be published in due course. Alterations to rules and nominations for officials should be sent in before Feb. 1st. Will all secretaries of Union societies please bring this before their members?—H. Hill, Sec.

HAMILTON (Cadzow Oak) O.S.

Meeting held Jan. 3, on the occasion of Mr. Cant, one of our members, leaving Hamilton for Canterbury. Mr. Braidwood, pres., was appointed to make the presentation, and in a neat short speech handed over to Mr. Cant a small token of respect from the members and the friends who had associated with him for the past seven years. Mr Braidwood said he knew he was expressing the feelings of the members in saying that they were all sorry to part with Mr. Cant, but what was our loss would be the gain of some other cage bird society. Mr. Cant suitably replied, thanking the members and friends about Hamilton for their generosity, and said that he had gained a lot of experience since coming to Hamilton which he believed would be of great service to him in the future. Mr. Braidwood then said that the members had not forgotten Mr. Cant's good lady, as he also had a small token of respect for Mrs. Cant for her great kindness in entertaining the members who had visited her house from time to time. The presents were a handsome gold medal for Mr. Cant, and a gold brooch for Mrs. Cant. Long may they be spared to wear the presents and enjoy life as they have done in Hamilton. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Braidwood and Mr. Cant terminated the meeting.—Wm. Hamilton, Sec.

NEXT WEEK'S "CAGE BIRDS."

OUR GREAT

Birthday Issue

Next week we publish the finest issue of Cage Birds for the whole year. The extra pages we intend giving will enable us to work off a tremendous amount of interesting material that has accumulated in our editorial drawer for some months past. As the result, we can promise our readers such an unexampled treat as they have not experienced for some time past.

We are sparing no expense this year to make Cage Birds Birthday Issue more successful than hitherto, and to this end have decided to INCREASE THE SUPPLEMENT TO SIXTEEN PAGES.

These will be crammed full of clever illustrations, sketches, and photographs—articles, tit-bits of useful information, etc. The coloured plates are really fine. We have still room for a few short items of interest if our friends can spare time to send us any from their experiences. We want every reader to place an order at once with his newsagent or bookstall for this number, and for extra copies of it, and to advertise in it. The very wide circulation usually enjoyed by "C.B." will be considerably increased for this number, and sales of birds, etc., offered in it are assured. This issue will form a splendid one to send to absent friends, with the idea of keeping them in touch with the growth of our hobby in Great Britain. It will be a pleasant reminder of old faces and interests. Please bear in mind that positively the last day for receiving communications and advertisements for the Grand Birthday Issue will be Tuesday next, January 13th. We shall be grateful for all the help you can give us.—The Editor, Cage Birds.

A PRIZE OF 10/6 Cash

will be given to the reader who sends us the most interesting and useful letter for our Correspondence Columns before January 13th next.

RULES.

Letters must not exceed 300 words in length.

Editor's decision will be final.

NOW THEN! YOU EXPERT ENTHUSIASTS, GIVE OTHERS YOUR LITTLE WRINKLES AND TIPS.

Twitterings.

We hear that Mr. R. E. Helliwell (Halifax), along with Mr. A. Wellings (Prescot) is to judge the Green Canary Association's Old Bird Show on Jan. 17.

Secretaries, please note our show will be held on third Friday and Saturday in Nov., 1914, writes Mr. J. Stewart, City of Belfast Nor., Crest, and Yorks C.C.

Kindly accept the appreciation of North Staffs Roller C.C. Society for the coloured plate of Rollers recently published. Wishing you and all your staff the compliments of the season.—J. Tomlinson (Newcastle, Staffs).

Llanelly is a coupon show, with no novice classes in the schedule, writes Mr. D. John, the secretary, but novice exhibitors may enter in the open classes, and we will instruct judges to duly award the novice cash special and diplomas if the exhibitors will mark their entry forms "C.B.N."

I have been appointed judge at Worthing Show, writes Mr. H. T. Gibb (Brighton).

Palace Show, Feb. 6 to 10. Schedules will be posted on Wednesday, Jan. 14, to all exhibitors at last Palace, Horticultural Hall, Sheffield, Manchester, Bradford National, and Scottish National shows.

I have taken over the secretaryship of the Attercliffe and District Cage Bird Society, writes Mr. E. Johnson, Back 111, Worksop-road, Attercliffe. Wishing your esteemed paper every success.

Notices of meetings of the following societies were received too late for insertion in last week's number, and the meetings will have been held before this issue is published:—Clapham C.B.S., Bolton C.B.S., Sowerby Bridge C.B.S., Leeds C.B.S.

A very fine specimen of a pure white cock Blackbird, with rich amber beak, and pink eyes, has been captured near Bideford, writes Mr. R. Taylor, and just a few months ago a pure white Goldfinch was, unfortunately, shot near here.

ADDRESSES WANTED.

For the purposes of Cage Birds 1914 Annual, now in course of preparation, we want the new addresses of the following gentlemen, our communications to them having been returned by the post office officials marked "Gone away."

The DIRECTORY OF JUDGES.

W. Hamilton (Glasgow), W. Lorimer (Edinburgh), A. Steele (Aberdeen), J. W. Bancroft (Sale).

DIRECTORY OF CAGE BIRD CLUBS.

Where there have been changes of secretaries, we shall be glad if any member of the various societies will notify us, giving the new secretary's name and address, or tell us in cases where the society has been discontinued.

Fenechouses (Nor.) C.B.S., Mr. W. Halton. Liverpool Bird Breeders' Assn., Mr. F. Eccleston. Maryhill (Glasgow) O.C., Mr. R. A. G. McKissock. Govan, Kinning Park O.S., Mr. R. Fernie. Calder, Midlothian and Dist. B.P. and C.B.S., Mr. D. Anthony. Peterborough C.B.A., Mr. H. Popple. Leith Jubilee O.S., Mr. J. Sinclair.

A printed form has been posted to every secretary of a society, but a large number have not been returned filled in; we hope they will all be sent back this week-end.

NEXT WEEK. THE BEST EVER ISSUED.

TWELFTH BIRTHDAY NUMBER of "CAGE BIRDS."

The Most Wonderful Bird Journal in the World.

TWO COLOURED PLATES. LOVELY ART SUPPLEMENT.

A GALAXY OF PICTURES AND PHOTOS.

A BUDGET OF INTERESTING CONTRIBUTIONS BY LEADING AVICULTURISTS.

Nothing like it has ever been seen in the Cage Bird Fancy One final word: Don't Miss It.

There is certain to be a great demand for this, our twelfth, Birthday number, and we ask all our readers to avoid risk of disappointment by ordering their copies at once from their newsagent.

Advertisements will close finally on Tuesday, January 13th, and as an unique opportunity for appealing to the largest possible number of purchasers, our Birthday Number holds the field.

May we earnestly beg our friends not only to make certain of securing this number for themselves, but to tell all their bird-loving friends about it and advise them to secure a copy also.

Finally, remember all communications must reach us, at the very latest, first post Tuesday morning next, January 13th, and as the great amount of "copy" to be got through will entail a very heavy strain upon all departments, including our printers, we shall appreciate the early receipt of advertisements and all other communications intended for this great Birthday Issue.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C

Belper entries are extended until Jan. 12.

Mr. J. E. Conway, hon. sec. Gainsborough C.B.S., has removed to 7, Northolme-st., Gainsborough.

Mr. J. Elliott writes that Mr. J. Riseborough (Sunderland) and Mr. R. Tindale (Newcastle) will judge Cambois and Dis. Show, Nov. 21.

Walsall Open Show, Dec. 12 and 13: All prize-money paid. Anyone overlooked please communicate to F. Price, hon. sec., 18, Milton-st., Walsall.

We hear that prize-money won at the following shows has been paid. Anyone who has not received payment should write to the respective secs.: Wingate, Dunfermline.

I have disposed of unflighted Buff, 2nd Longton, 3rd Nottingham, to Mr. A. G. Smith, Manchester, at a good figure, and hope it will do him good service, writes E. H. Hulse, Leicester.

As I have now definitely settled date on which I am leaving London, I am compelled to resign the secretaryship of the L.B.F. Club, and the Metropolitan C.B.A. at annual general meetings.—F. Moore.

At High Wycombe Messrs. F. and T. Bowler won 2nd in Nor. hens, Rayner 3rd, Price 1st disq., not as given in report, and in Goldfinch class Messrs. Bowler won 1st and sp. best Brit., not Carter as stated.

Our date for closing of entries, writes Mr. D. John, hon. sec. Llanelly C.B.S., is scheduled for Jan. 8, but up to this post for 57 classes we have only a dozen entries, so will have to extend time to Sunday morning's post.

Would Mr. Swan, who bought a bird in the gift class at Dunfermline Show, and who has lifted the wrong bird, kindly return same, when we will forward his bird by return.—Robert T. Campbell, 19, Rolland-st., Dunfermline.

Kindly announce that the date of our next open show will be Nov. 5 and 6, writes Messrs. Forse and Son, hon. secs. Leyton C.B.A. We should be glad if other societies will avoid clashing as far as possible in their own interest as well as ours.

Mr. M. Cook, hon. sec. Boscombe C.B.A., writes that Class 16 in schedule should read, York, A.V., unflighted. Schedule also states full prize-money guaranteed; it should be in all classes with eight or more entries; prize-money will be 10s., 5s., and 2s. 6d.

We hear that Mr. R. E. Griffiths, Carnarvon, will judge Llandudno Members' Show, Jan. 10.

We hear from Mr. Muir, hon. sec., that the next annual show of the Lochgelly C.B.S. is fixed for Oct. 10.

Mr. A. G. Davis, Manchester, writes that he was judge at Garston B.B.A. show, Dec. 6, not Mr. J. Thornton, as in the report.

In Sheffield O.S. Members' Show, Class 1 should read York A.V. Yell.; Class 2, A.V. Buff. Young birds' classes 11 and 12 read as Class 1 and 2. In Novice Class 35 read Cl. or Tkd. Yell. or Buff Nor.

Although I am disposing of my birds, as advertised last week, writes Mr. W. Nichols, hon. sec. Richmond and Dis. C.B.S., I hope still to be able to carry out for a little time longer the duties of hon. sec. to my society.

I have resigned the secretarial duties of the Hetton-le-Hole and District Cage Bird Society, writes Mr. A. J. Notley, and in future all communications must be addressed to my successor, Mr. Geo. Vipond, 10, Fairy Street, Hetton-le-Hole, co. Durham.

The North Wales C.B.S. Show, held Dec. 26, having resulted in a loss of nearly £5, writes Mr. R. E. Griffiths, hon. sec., I beg to inform the prize winners that a percentage will be deducted from their prize-monies to make up the loss. If they will refer to their rule card they will see that Rule 9 reads as follows: "All members are equally liable in connection with the society." I hope each member will do his best by refunding some of his prize-money. Those who will do so kindly let me know, as we have printing, etc., to pay for.

Palace Show, Feb. 6 to 10.—Breeders should not fail to have their card or quarter-page advertisement inserted in the catalogue of this show. These advertisements are inserted in the classification of the variety mentioned, and not grouped together at the end of the catalogue. They are a cheap and lasting advertisement, for the Palace Show Catalogue is kept as a book of reference by most fanciers, and surplus copies of the catalogue (if any) are posted to colonial fanciers. Terms: Breeders' cards, 2s. 6d.; quarter-page advt., 7s. 6d. Advts., with remittance, should be sent to the Show Manager, J. W. Ramsden, 11, Josephine-avenue, Brixton, London, S.W.

Owing to pressure of business Mr. W. A. Wilson has resigned the secretaryship of Leeds C.B.S., and I have been appointed to the position. All correspondence re the above society should now be addressed to me, Ernest Norton, 11, Edgware-place, Bayswater-road, Roundhay-road, Leeds.

An Appeal for Yarm.

Your attention is called to the advertisement of the Yarm, Eaglescliffe, and District C.B.S., who are guaranteeing full prize-money, whether competition or not. Last year we received over 200 letters of congratulation from exhibitors. We sincerely hope all fanciers will rally round us again.—T. Wilson, sec.

Accident to Mr. Braybrook.

The many friends of Mr. H. Braybrook will be sorry to hear of the accident which befel him on Monday last. He had the misfortune to fall and break his leg on going home, and he is one of those fanciers that a club can ill spare. He has been president of the Burnley Club for a good many years, and I am sure all fanciers in Lancashire and Yorkshire will wish him a speedy recovery.—George Wharton, sec. Burnley Society.

OBITUARY.

Mr. W. Taylor, Alexandria.

A prominent member of the Vale of Leven C.B.C., in Mr. Wm. Taylor Alexandria, has just passed away on the 2nd inst., at the age of 57, writes Mr. A. H. M'Lean, sec. A famous football player in his younger days, having been a member of the Vale of Leven Football Club for nine years in its historical days, and he was for many years an enthusiastic fancier, model cards being displayed in his bird-room which he had won in the 'eighties. Though in bad health for the last few years, he stuck true to his hobby, having just put up ten pairs for the forthcoming season, nearly half of which he had purchased during the last few weeks, showing how little he expected to be called away in five minutes' time while sitting in a chair by the fireside. Much sympathy is felt for his widow and family, while his club feels the loss of one whom they ill could spare.

Abertillery C.B.S. Invites New Members.

An invitation is given to all fanciers of Monmouthshire to attend the general meeting held at the Prince of Wales Hotel, Jan. 10. The balance-sheet will be read. The society is in a good financial position, which speaks well, as it has only been in existence since Nov. 30, 1912. All members joining on this night, writes Mr. G. Broome, hon. sec., will be able to show at our Members' Show in Jan.; there are 13 classes and good spls. We intend running an open show this year, the date to be fixed at this meeting.

Boscombe C.B Show.

I have received a copy of the schedule of the Boscombe and Dis. Cage Bird Show, on the front cover of which I am much annoyed to notice that my name has been included under the heading of officials, without any authority whatever from me. I would like to point out that I am not in any way connected with the Boscombe C.B. Society, excepting as an ordinary advertiser in their schedule and catalogue, for which I am paying their charge. I am also giving a small special prize, both from a purely trade standpoint. I am asking you to publish this, as my name has been linked with the "Bournemouth and Dis. Cage Bird Society, founded 1890," as a prominent official, for a number of years, and much misunderstanding and confusion will undoubtedly be caused unless I make this disclaimer.—G. W. Jones, Chairman of Comm. Bournemouth and Dis. C.B.A.

SHOW EXTRA.

The amazing growth in the number of small Shows has compelled us to add Four Extra Pages this week to cope with Exhibition matter. Even now a large number remain in the Editorial drawer to be dealt with in our great issue of next week.

Wishaw's Record Entry.

Annual New Year Show held Jan. 1 in Watson's Hall, a very suitable one for the purpose, being roomy, with abundance of light, free from draughts, and kept at a fine temperature. Exhibits were neatly staged round the four sides of hall and up the centre, a credit to the management. Sec. and Treas. Jas. Watson worked hard, and had all arrangements well in hand, aided by a strong force of office bearers. Pres. Wm. Cringles, Vice. R. Gemmell, Assist. Sec. D. McPhee; committee, Messrs. McKenna, Richmond, Allardice, jun., Rae, Pollock, McAllister, Nimmo, W. Watson, Dickson, Allanson, Wright, McKie, and Sheen, who all did their best for the success of the show. Their efforts met with a record entry of well over 400 birds. The live classes allotted for Yorks. met with poor response, no doubt owing to the large number of shows being held at this season. Norwich showed a marked increase, and were an excellent lot for quality, the unlighted tkd. buff cock belonging to Mr. Lamb being worthy of special mention. Crests were a fine lot, though not too numerous. The unlighted C.B. cock shown by Mr. Hamilton is a bird of rare skull and exceptional length of feather, S.C.C. medal winner at Glasgow. British were the mainstay of the show, and were far in advance of last year, the district being a hotbed for British bird fanciers. The classes for Greenfinches, Linnets, Redpolls, both field and cage-moulted, were exceptionally strong, and contained some outstanding birds of great merit. The classes were carefully handled by Mr. G. Marlin, in his own quiet way, who appears to be happy among the 'Polls. The class for mules and hybrids brought out 15 very fine birds; this class might be split another year with advantage to all. We noticed a very fine Linnet-Bullie far down the class worthy of higher honours if the class had been divided.

Borders were about the same as in former years, and contained some very fine wee gems. Mr. Haddow winning B.F.C.C. medal for best with his well-known even mkd. yellow L.C.B.A. winner; much admired here. Owing to entries being left open till the morning of show there was slight delay in starting, but judging was finished in good time. Judges were: Nor. and Crests, Mr. A. Chalmers, Kirkintilloch; Bord., Mr. T. Ritchie, Lesmahagow; Brit. and For., Mr. G. Marlin, Hamilton, whose awards with few exceptions were well received.

FALKLAND.

54th annual show held Town Hall, Jan. 2. The hall is a nice one for the purpose, being well lighted, and the birds were staged in a fine position. The entry was very disappointing, all the Canary classes being cancelled, and many of the remainder having very few entries. This is to be explained by the fact that so many shows are being held during the New Year holidays, and we are afraid also by the fact that the show was very poorly advertised. The executive is a good one, headed by our old friend Baillie Angus, whom we congratulate on his promotion to such a prominent position. It is one of our earliest recollections in the Fancy, more than thirty years back, meeting John at Perth show in the palmy days of the Scots Fancy, and he is still pegging away, and enjoys a crack about old fanciers we both knew so well. (Long may he flourish! He was ably assisted by the treas., Mr. Birrel, while the cage bird steward, Mr. Melville, was only sorry he had so little work to do, and was a host in himself in doing what was to be done, while sec., Mr. W. Anderson, had all his arrangements in a forward condition, and was courteous and obliging to all. In the absence of the appointed judge, Mr. John Adams (Dundee), Mr. W. Reid (Falkland) judged.

LINNET (8): 1, sp, 2, Philip and Sons, leader nice one for size, fine distinct pencilling on breast and flanks, shows whites well; 2, Small, markings indistinct and blurred, could have given way to 3, Mackie, good one for size and fine warm col., capital markings; 4, Black and Lumsden, good size and col., beautiful markings, our choice for 2nd; 5, Lawson; 6, Wilkie. BULLF. (2): 1, sp, Summers, good size, dense cap, clearly defined, good wing bars, pale breast col.; 2, Mackie, not quite so big, but a beauty, rare good cap, good bars, fine slaty coloured back and rich breast, must have pressed. GOLDF. (3): 1, sp, Harrower, good size, fine wings and tail, good blaze of rather pale col., nicely tanned; 2, Mackie, good one, fine size, very rich coloured blaze, coming well back, nicely buttoned wings and tail, well tanned on chest, well shown; 3, Dryburgh, good Finch, nice wings and chest, not quite the size. GREENF. (7): 1, sp, Moyes, grand size and col., splendid wings, showing plenty gold, rather weak in head; 2, 6, Arch, Dryburgh, leader bouncer for size, grand col., rare depth of chest, and big bold head, might have won; 3, Alex. Dryburgh, grand size, splendid col., rare texture of feather and good head and wings; 4, Mackie; 5, Black and Lumsden. Best class in show. SISKIN, ETC. (8): 1, sp, Poulter, nice Siskin, good size, nicely barred wings, good cap and flank markings, rather poor col.; 2, 4, Arch. Dryburgh, 2nd good Mealy 'Poll, fine size, nice poll and bib; 4th, another Mealy, as good; 3, 5, Mackie, Siskin, not size of winner, but better bars and col.; 6, Alex. Dryburgh. A.O.V. (3): 1, sp, 2, Poulter, leader good Corn Bunting, fine size and cond.; 2nd, nice Yellow Bunting hen; 3, Mackie, nice Reed Bunting, good size and markings. MULE OR HYB. (2): 1, sp, Beattie, Linnet-Bullie, nice bird but small, shows cross well; 2, Wilkie, nice wee Siskin-Can., fine col. and markings. CAN., HEN (2): 1, sp, Melville, C.B., fair sized body, weak in head; 2, Angus, Yorkshire.

HEMSWORTH.

The Hemsworth, Doncaster, and Adwick [illegible] C.B. Societies held one of their series of [illegible] at Hemsworth, Dec. 26. The large club room at the [illegible] to the King's Head Hotel, kindly lent by Mr. Jno. Tait (the one time Yorkshire cricketer), being a very cosy and suitable room. Yorks. were the leaders, with Norwich and British good. The competition between these societies was keen, for the various trophies. Doncaster leads by about 5 points, Hemsworth; and 3rd, Adwick. Mr A. Gr[illegible] (Hemsworth sec.) is one of the right sort, and a capital controller. Mr. T. Tait acts as president in a most tactful and praiseworthy manner. Mr A. Taylor, vice-pres., well known as a York[illegible] exhibitor, renders valuable assistance. Stewards also executed their duties A1 were Messrs. Holroyd and Cook (Hemsworth), and Pogmore (Doncaster). Teas shown by Messrs. A. Taylor, T. Trueman, J. Hall, A. Graham, W. Blanchon, S. Kendrick, were a credit to them. Mr. J. Hall deserves a word for the good work he did, and is an asset to the society. The Waxwing shown successfully by S. Kendrick was a recent capture, not a mile from Hemsworth, so we were informed. The noted Goldie owned by Mr Blanchon looked a picture, and the six-year-old yellow Yorkie cock, the property of Mr. A. Taylor, won well, and appeared as sprightly as an artful [illegible] and Mr. J. Pogmore still knows how to put a Linnet down. The next and final amalgamated show takes place Jan. 31, and by what one heard strenuous battles will be fought. Mr. J. C. Barnes, Sheffield, judged, and his awards were well received.

YELL. YORKS (8): 1, Taylor, lovely qual., type, length, and style; 2, Trueman, longer, hardly texture; 3, Graham, shorter, but all there; vhc, Holroyd, he, Hunt; c, Middleton. BUFF (9): 1, Hall, true character, gem right through; 2, Taylor, not quite so waxy in feather; 3, c, Trueman, close up; vhc, Brooks; he, Holroyd. YELL. HEN (14): Choice class. 1, Trueman, wonderful length, stand, and feather; 2, Kendrick, not quite so level in col.; 3, Blanchon, smart, hardly the length; vhc, Hunt; he, Cook, c, Hall. BUFF (12): 1, 2, Trueman, very charming damsels; 3, Kelsey, tight as wax, not so lengthy; vhc, Parkes; he, Hunt; c, Brooks. YELL. UNFLIG. (8): 1, 2, Taylor, cl. and mkd. neck, very promising "gents."; 3, Trueman, hardly so stylish, yet good; vhc, Hunt; he, Blanchon; c, Kelsey. BUFF (8): 1, c, Taylor, shooty, magnificent qual.; 2, Hunt, close up, well shown; 3, Blanchon, falls a little in character; vhc, he, Middleton. YELL. NOR. WORKSOP.

3rd annual show, held Nov. 29. The Golden Ball Hotel was the venue, and a very suitable place. A couple of large rooms were utilised for the purpose. The birds were neatly staged at one end of the lightest room, and commanded great attention from the many visitors present. Mr. F. Potts put down a most pleasing team, annexing five 1sts and other honours. That well known old stager, Mr. T. Simpson, also benched gems, his noted buff mkd. Gold.-Can. looking a picture, and taking special for best in show. Yorks. predominated, and were a nice collection. Norwich were on the small side, more subs. required for present-day requirements. Brit, and For. drew great attraction. Special winners: Best in show, silver medal, Mr. T. Simpson; best in 74 and 75, F. Potts; Mule, T. Simpson; Brit., A. Woodhead; best and 2nd best in 76, 77, 78, F. Potts; 79, 80, 81, T. Simpson; 83, 84, T. Simpson; For., G. Gray; 86, 87, T. Simpson; Canary, F. Potts. President C. A. Longbottom and Vice., T. B. Dale and W. Smith, a trio of great assets to the society. Committee consist of well known and esteemed fanciers, every praise being due to the following for the many exertions put forth, Messrs. H. Smith (chair), Hett, H. P. Sissons, Sibson, Hewitt, Ogden, Green, Sugden, Staniland, Stafford, Howard, H. Taylor, Bowles, Blakeborough, W. Taylor, Forrest, Davidson, Lane, Holmes, and G. Redsdale. Treas., Mr. H. Marshall is the right man in the right place. Hon. Sec., Mr. A. Hooton, is worthy of many compliments for the manner in which he fills this office, a real worker and courteous to the fullest degree. In Mr. W. B. Foster he has a capable understudy, who got through judiciously an abundance of work. Mr. J. C. Barnes, Sheffield, judged; his awards met with every approval.

WINGATE.

Second annual show held Jan. 1, Boys' School. Cage birds were staged in a large room that is an ideal place—splendid light both day and night, and comfortable to a degree. Entries totalled 101, which, although hardly up to expectations, was fairly satisfactory, being an increase of 25 on last year. This old-time-honoured show seems to be beginning to take hold again. Quality was very good, several well-known winners being on view. Chairman is Mr. J. L. Good, with Mr. M. Gibson treas., while Mr. J. Burdett still retains hold of the sec. reins, and it would be difficult to find a better man for the position, for he takes to secretarial work as a duck takes to water. All his arrangements are perfect and carried out without the slightest hitch, while his courteous and obliging manner makes it a pleasure to meet him. The stewards were Messrs. W. Burdett and T. Stones, and these two keen fanciers did all that was required, while Messrs. W. Stogdale, R. Proudlock, and W. Hall, also rendered assistance during the show. The show was well patronised by visitors, and our section came in for a good deal of attention. We hope to hear of it having proved a financial success. Mr. J. Stanger (Pelton Fell) judged.

NOR. YELL (6): 1, Fraser, nice size, lovely shape, short and thick-set, good head and neck, excellent col. and qual., neatly carried wings and tail; 2, Wilson, plenty of size, grand thick-set bird, nice col., good head and neck, nice chest, just lacks the qual. and finish of leader; 3, c, Burdett, nice size and shape, bit longer in body, good col. and qual., neat head, nicely carried wings and tail; vhc, Peirson; he, Morrison. BUFF (8): 1, Briggs, big bouncing var., grand subs., rare head and neck, nice chest and back, capital col. and qual., well carried wings and tail; 2, Peirson, cl., plenty of size, grand shape, hardly so thick-set, lovely col. and qual., good head and neck, nice wing carr., well cleaned out; 3, Rev. Bennett, grizzled on rump, nice shape and size, neat head, nice front, bit long-sided and loses in col. to leaders; vhc, Wilson; he, Morrison; c, Gill. HEN (10): 1, vhc, Morrison, cl. yell., grand size, nice shape, teeming with col. and qual., neat round head, nice wing carr.; 2, Watson, variog. buff, a real topper for shape, short and cobby, grandly rounded front, nice head and neck, excellent col. and qual., throws wings over badly at times, or would take some stopping; 3, Seely Bros., cl. yell., not quite the size of leader, lovely shape, short all over, sweet head, lovely col., but hardly so good in qual.; he, Briggs; c, Burdett. 1913 (8): 1, 2, Russell and Teasdale, leader cl. yell., medium size, lovely shape, neat head and neck, nice chest, lovely col., qual. of the very best, nice wing carr.; 2nd, cl. buff, nice size, grand shape, well rounded chest, nice head, good col. and qual., well cut away; 3, Watson, cl. yell., more size than winner, nice shape, good head and neck, neat wing carr., lacks the col. and qual. of leaders; vhc, Burdett; he, Rev. Bennett; c, Peirson. YORKS., YELL (9): 1, Wigglesworth, cl., grand length, straight as a gun barrel, beautifully drawn, neatly rounded shoulders, nice head, lovely wings and tail; 2, Swinsco, fourpointed, bit shorter, nice pos., good shoulders and waist, neat head, grand qual., finish, and wing car., loses a bit in col.; 3, Wearmouth, very slim and stylish, straight up, finely tapered, neat head and wing carr., loses in col., and shade open in breast feather; vhc, Stevens; he, Chesworth and Mason; c, Pymon. BUFF (6): 1, Carlisle, fine length and pos., straight up, slim and finely drawn, neat head and neck, lovely wings and tail, bit patchy in col.; 2, Stevens, shorter, but a gem for col. and qual., straight as a rush, sweet head, grandly rounded shoulders, beautifully braced wings and tail, must have pressed closely; 3, Cattell, very slim and stylish, finely drawn, neat narrow shoulders, nice head, good col. and qual., not so well braced in wing carr.; vhc, Pyman; he, Swinsco; c, Wearmouth. 1913 (10): 1, 3, Carlisle, tkd. yell. leading, nice length and pos., good shoulders, well tapered body, nice col., lovely wings and tail; 3rd, variog. yell., fine length, not the col. of leader, but gem for finish, well up, neat head and neck, grandly braced wings and tail; 2, Wigglesworth, cl. buff, nice length, straight up, well rounded shoulders, neat head, lovely col. and qual., grand wings and tail, hardly so neat a waist; vhc, Wearmouth; he, Pyman; c, Rev. LINCOLN.

Annual show, held Dec. 6. The Central Hall, which is of good light, spacious, and void of draughts, was the venue. The entry was a record, and the exhibition the finest yet held in the city. Yorks. were the feature, Norwich and British good. Mr. W. H. Willerton, the worthy chairman, is one of the right metal, and a most capital and enthusiastic controller. Mr. A. Speakman acts as vice-chairman in a very praiseworthy manner. Committee, Messrs. A. Johnson, G. Boucher, W. Lowis, W. Coulson, and W. Sindell, are all workers, have the society fully at heart, and are liberal supporters, a very capable lot of officials. Stewards who rendered most useful help were Messrs. Spurr, Hill, and Boucher. Staging was neatly executed, and the show-room was very tastefully decorated with flags, bunting, foliage, etc. A very fine array of special prizes graced a large table. Silver cups, clocks, gold medals, etc. etc. Special winners were, cup best Canary, W. Sindell, a very stylish var. yell. York, doing the trick; cup for 2nd best, Mr. Harris, with a smart tkd. yell. Yorks.; cup best Brit., R. W. Sisson, with a grand Hawfinch, also Sandiford's sp. with a hot-fed buff Norwich cock. Mr. Sisson, the popular treas. and hon. sec., had all arrangements perfectly in hand. We must not forget to mention the good work done by Mrs. Sisson; practically all day long she was hard at it, her assistance being most valuable. Mr. J. C. Barnes, Sheffield, judged, and his awards were well received.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

NEW STEVENSTON (Holytown) O.S.

Annual show held Dec. 6 in Masonic Hall, New Stevenston. The staging was very neatly erected and allowed plenty of room for the exhibits, so that visitors had a splendid view of the birds. There was a large entry, and the show was well patronised throughout the day. Cup for best Scots Fancy was won by A. Allardice, sen.; this being the third win the cup now becomes his property. Cup best young Nor. and cup best old bird were won by D. Harper; cup best young Bord. and B.F.C.C. medal, A. Harper. The society has a splendid lot of trophies for competition, and is ably managed by a practical band of fanciers, who try to excel each other in the working of the show. Mr. Jas. Lamb, sec., had everything in fine order. Mr. Hunter judged Scots Fancy, Mr. Clark Borders, Mr. Marlin Nor. and British, and their awards were well received.

DUNFERMLINE.

Held Jan. 1 and 2 in Drill Hall, a very suitable hall, well lighted from roof and comfortable. Entries were hardly up to last year except in Borders, but quality was well maintained, quite a few sending their duplicate specimens here, while remainder were facing the music at the more important events on this crowded date. Everything worked out smoothly, judging being got over in good time, and Mr. R. F. Campbell, sec., wore that smile which is indicative of "All's well!" A good one at management is the opinion of all who see him at it, and he modestly attributes it to the splendid assistance of good stewards and a good director in Mr. Hynd who pilots the entire show well. Border medal was won by Mr. J. W. Duncan. In Norwich Mr. Moffat (Musselburgh) had a good team forward and annexed a share of the honours including specials for points over show and section. Crest and C.B. only mustered 39 in eight classes and though a few birds of really good quality were on view, that counter attractions had got the cream of the stables was evident. We noticed a regrettable occurrence at the station during the despatching, which was entirely caused by a lack of care on the part of porters, a truck of cases and hampers being upset. Judges were: Nor., A. Dickson; Crests, J. Young; Borders, G. Bislop; Brit. and For., W. Malcolm; and their awards were well received.

NOR. CL. YELL CK. (6): 1, Murray, good size, very cobby, excels head and front, just a trifle browed, wins nicely; 2, McCue (catalogue gives 3rd), nice col., hardly subs. or front, beaten wings, not looking his best here; 3, Thomson fails head and front to leaders, excels texture; 4, Moffat; 5, McGowan; absent, McCondill. HUDDERSFIELD.

Annual exhibition of Canaries Jan. 3, in the Primitive Methodist Schoolroom. 228 was the total number of entries, another poor entry for a union show. This has been the worst year on record for small entries. The show room is large enough to hold 500 exhibits. Quality was quite up to the standard. The room is ideal being very lofty and free from draughts, and close to the station, a great advantage to the exhibitors. The most notable feature was the small number of Norwich, only one class out of six being full, three half prize money, and the two novice classes void, and only three Yorks. classes paid their own prize money. Mr. L. Dykes won sp. for most points in champion Yorks. ; Messrs. Ogden Bros. 2nd, sp. In the Nor Mr. S. Heap wins 1st, and J. Thomas 2nd; Novice Yorks. 1, Mr. Chew; 2, Sheard. The management was excellent; Sec., Mr. A. Lawford, had charge of the work, and did his duty in a very able manner; he was well assisted by Mr. B. H. Clegg. Show stewards, Messrs. A. Gee, S. Lawford, and H. W. Battye, along with other members, got through their duties in the best possible manner. The packing and sending off was done in quick time. Mr. R. Halliday, the judge, seemed to give general satisfaction.

WAUNARLWYDD.

With a largely increased entry, a good gate, and a nice display of quality birds, the second show of the Waunarlwydd P. and C.B.S., held January 1, was a great success. Shepherd's Hall, in which the show was held in, a cosy little building, and most suitable for the purpose. The committee is composed of the following good fanciers: Messrs. Williams (chair), Hughes (vice-chair), J. Daniels, J. T. Daniels, P. Jones, E. Lucas, S. Lucas, D. J. Thomas, J. Johns, W. Evans, D. Jones, D. W. Jones, Wm. Daniels, W. Bidder, D. J. Rees, D. George, Fred Bateman, T. Jones, W. J. Jones, T. D. Jenkins, B. Griffiths, and Wm. Walters (treas.), and they attended to their duties in first-class style, whilst Mr. J. Walters made a most courteous and indefatigable sec. Canaries had only a small classification, but quality was there, especially in Yorks. Goldies were a big class, and very little separated the first half score. Some of them seemed to be feeling the cold a bit, but brightened up later in the day. In Linnets, Mr. Nicholas's stock was not looking quite so fit as we have seen it, and had to play second fiddle owing to condition. A grand lot of Greenies were staged, and a nice class of hen Britishs. Mr. Oldham won in Mules with a fine big Linnet-Bullie, but his second cage was empty. It arrived at the show with label attached, but there was no bird. We saw the cage unpacked, and so can say if the bird was sent it must have been taken out on the way to the show. Mrs. Longden won in the foreign class with one of the finest Blue Mountain Lories we have ever seen. Mr. C. A. House judged.

ANNFIELD PLAIN

F.F.C.B.S.

Second annual open show held January 8, in Schoolrooms. Cage birds had two rooms allocated to them, both being splendidly adapted for the purpose. The staging was nicely arranged on the tier system. Entries came up well, totalling 283, and although not quite up to last year's numbers, quality was well maintained, most sections containing birds of superlative merit. Norwich, Yorks, and Border all filled well, the latter being slightly ahead in point of numbers, but in each section were birds that have held their own in the strongest and keenest competition. Brit. were a grand lot and made a really fine show. The society appears to be progressing very favourably, and all connected with it, headed by the genial chairman, Mr. J. N. Elliott, seem to be determined to bring it right into the front rank as regards cage bird exhibitions. The popular sec., Mr. Matt. Archer, has a thorough grasp of the work, and understands his duties from end to end, and all his arrangements were carried out splendidly. He had a grand body of stewards, headed by Mr. Joe Williams, all keen fanciers. Mr. W. H. Butler secured the special for best bird and best cock with his well known clear Goldf. Mule. Spl. best hen, J. Moore, Border, J. Nicholson, Members' British, H. Oxley. Judges: Mr. J. Stanger (Pelton Fell), even numbers; Mr. T. Dixon (Bedlington) odd.

GUERNSEY.

Judging from the display made at the show of the Royal Guernsey Agricultural Show, in the Market Hall, on Dec. 3 and 4, the Cage Bird Fancy in the Channel Islands is not in the flourishing condition it was a few years since. The classification has dwindled, and quality is much below what it used to be. The arrangements were carefully carried out by the committee under the direction of Mr. H. Carre, the popular and businesslike sec. Mr. C. A. House judged.

SHETTLESTON C.B.S.

Sixth annual show, held Dec. 13, Bill Street Hall, where the most successful gathering in the history of the society passed off without a hitch. Entries came up well, and numbered over 370, with still brighter prospects for the future. Mr. Berry still holds the secretarial reins, and all seems to go well; he is supported by an enthusiastic band, and their efforts always seem to meet with the general approval of the members. Mr. C. Campbell, Glasgow, judged Canaries, and G. Maslin, Hamilton, British, and their awards were well received.

CREST (4): All Hood, a fine quartette, in cap, feather, leader D. C., variег., excels in headpiece, fine radiation and droop, nice veiny feather, wins nicely; not much between other three. C.B. (1): 1, Hood, fine size, nice feather, might be more full in skull and centre. CREST, 1913 (4): All, Hood, nice team youngsters, staged in rare feather and style. C.B., 1913 (1): 1, Hood, broken gr., nice feather, just on the fine side, may improve yet. NOR. YELL. CK. (13): 1, sp., Galloway, nice size and col., good subs., thick set, fine wings and neck, rather flat and browy in head; 2, sp., Williams, hot, even col., nicely built, neat top end, very hard up on leader; 3, Rankin, rare good qual., capital order, fine carr., only fails in subs.; 4, 6, Divens; 5, Hendrie. HEN (14): 1, 5, Divens, leader, nat. col., even wing, dark cap, nice size, neat carr. and shapely, in lit cond.; 2, Galloway, nicely fed, neat front, sweet feather and carr., runs well up on leader; 3, E. Taylor, short, neat, and typical, well braced, in top cond.; 4, Williams; 6, Carrick. BUFF CK. (13): 1, Galloway, neatly got up tick, nice qual., wet when we saw it; 2, Taylor, light var., in the pink, fine head, neck, neat carr., could do with trifle more front; 3rd, nice qual. and size, neatly braced wings and tail; 4, Henderson; 5, Thomson; 6, Inglis. HEN (13): 1, sp., Galloway, nice size and col., neat shape and carr., could be trifle better at entrance; 2, Henderson, fine qual. feather, not so massive, but neat through, and nicely placed; 3, Davidson, mkd. tail, good for type and style, unsteady, requires more head; 4, sp., Divens; 5, Rankin; 6, Henderson. YELL. CK., 1913 (11): 1, sp., Galloway, lovely hot even col., fine silky feather, cobby and neat through, fine stamp; 2, Henderson, nice size, good type, well braced; trifle weak at throat; 3, Rankin, cheek mark, top qual., shapely body, well braced, might be fuller in head and neck; 5, Divens; 6, Jackson. HEN (8): 1, Galloway, fine col., good qual. feather, cobby built, and stylish, just trifle faulty at throat; 2, Carrick, nice size, fine qual., neat, sweet front, more subs. in head and neck would improve; 3, Jackson, eye mark, fine feather, not so hot in col., but more evenly balanced, our choice for 2nd; 4, Divens; 5, 6, Kean. BUFF CK. (12): 1, No name, plenty size and subs., nice qual. and cond., might be better at top end; 2, Rankin, tkd. head, well up on lead all over; 3, sp., Divens, neck mark, fine subs., rare qual. feather, capital head and neck, many preferred as winner, our choice; 4, we missed; 5, Jackson; 6, Galloway. THE STOCK BOOK

Compiled by G. E. WESTON.

Simplifies the operations in the Bird room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. It affords facilities for the recording of the complete pedigree of all your birds; of your experiences during the season; an account of every bird reared. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird and Show Registers of simple and unique character; Cash and Profit and Loss Accounts for the year. Gives valuable hints for times of emergency during the breeding season.

Price 6d., from your Newsagent, or 7d. (postal order), post free, from "CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

How a Good Aviary may be Cheaply Built.

BY JOHN BARLEYCORN.

HOW often we hear novices say "Yes, I know an aviary is a jolly nice hobby, and a thing I should very much like to go in for myself, only just at present I have not the money to spare," or give some other lame excuse. When I first started with an aviary, or I should say to build an aviary, I was harder up than many. I was sitting over the fire one winter's evening with a friend, talking about what we were going to do next summer, when he suddenly said "You have a nice little garden at the back, why don't you build an aviary, try and breed a few birds of some sort or other, and buy the wife a new frock." I was thunderstruck. If he had said why don't you buy a motor car, or a steam yacht, or a house in the South of France I could not have been more surprised. Anyhow, we started talking the matter over, and we talked it over and over again, until before the beginning of the year I had made up my mind to make a start on building an aviary, and see what I could do at aviculture.

Getting out the Plans.

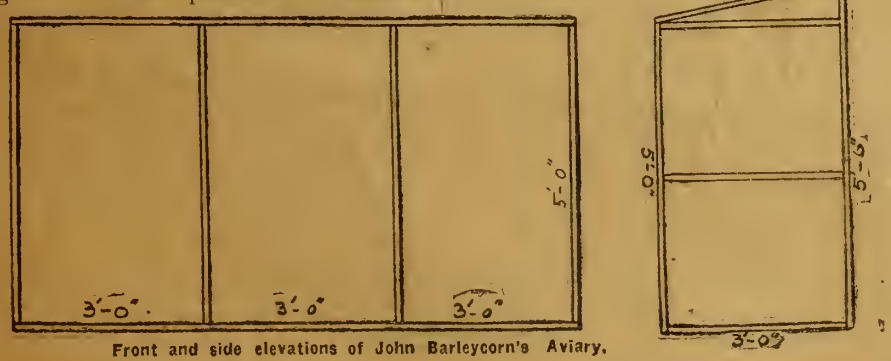
First of all we had to get the plans out. My friend, who was very keen on Canaries, had lots of back numbers of CAGE BIRDS, and we went all through them for photographs of aviaries others had built, but they all seemed to be more elaborate affairs than we would afford, and we were forced to put them on one side, but not before we had gathered plenty of useful ideas. Then he unearthed another book, "Aviaries, Bird Rooms and Cages," and although the plans given there were again too expensive for us to attempt, they put the finishing touches to our own idea. When I say that the plans we found were more than we could afford, it must be borne in mind that we, or rather I, had just enough to make ends meet at the end of each week, and if I did by any chance have a shilling or two to spare the wife usually found some use for it.

First of all we chose a site at the angle of two walls running about North and South and East and West. I don't say that they were exactly thus placed, but as far as we could judge that was the way they ran, and in the angle we dug a hole to lay the foundations. We planned it out that the flight was to face West, so as to be sheltered from the cold North-East and South-East winds, and the house was to be built at the South, and to give as much more shelter as possible. Of course we lost a lot of sun, but we meant to have our birds sheltered from the wind and cold as much as possible. I often laugh over that aviary when I think about it now-a-days; but, considering my friend had only seen two that had been built by carpenters, and I had only seen the grand erections one finds in pleasure parks and zoos, I think we made a very fair shape at it.

Laying the Foundation.

To get back to the hole again. We dug it 10ft. long by 4ft. wide, and about 1ft. deep, and put down a good 6in. of cinders, and then waited a day or two, for two reasons: to let them settle, and to collect more cinders. When we had what we considered to be enough for a second layer we trod down the first layer, laid on the second, and trod that down, and waited again. The next problem was what we were going to put on next. There was a piece of waste land not far from the street in which we were living, which was used as a general rubbish heap, etc., and there we found a lot of old bricks, just the very thing we wanted. At night time we used to steal out, collect as many bricks as we could carry, and steal back again in triumph. The following Saturday I bought a bucket of cement and begged a little sand, and there we had the best part of our foundation. We laid the bricks as closely together and as level as we could get them, and when we had our surface laid (9ft. by 3ft., for that was to be the size of the aviary) we mixed the sand and cement with water into a very thin state, so thin that we had over two buckets of the mixture, and poured it over the bricks. The first dressing was almost lost, for a great deal of it ran between the bricks, but most of the crevices were filled up, and that was a great help. Then we sat down and waited for another pay day. Next Saturday I bought another bucket of cement, and this time we had all the crevices filled up, and a moderate wash of cement and sand over the bricks, and there was our foundation laid, about 3in. higher than the surface of the garden.

"I am most pleased with CAGE BIRDS as an advertising medium and think it is a splendid paper in every way."—(MISS) MURIEL MAXWELL JACKSON (Harrogate).



The Problem of the Woodwork.

Now came the woodwork, a problem which had to be gone into very carefully, for you don't pick up wood suitable for building an aviary on waste pieces of land. There were two courses open to us; either to buy or to beg, so we had to do a little of each, but very little of the former. We begged old orange cases, old egg boxes, in fact any piece of old wood we could come across, until the coal-hole, where we had our store, was full up. Of course a lot of the wood was useless to us, but that came in handy for firewood, so none of it was wasted in the long run. The height of the back of the house was to be 5ft. 6in., the height of the wall, and the front was to be 5ft., and as it was to be 3ft. long by 3ft. wide we decided to build it in panels each 1ft. 3in. by 2ft., and nail them on to the frame.

Utilising Spare Evenings.

And the frame, how were we to get that? There we had to do some buying, for we found out that we wanted four pieces of at least 1½in. square, 5ft. long, two pieces 5ft. 6in., and one piece 9ft., to say nothing of a board at least 6in. wide, to go all round the bottom. I don't remember how much we paid for it, but I know it was very little, and then we set to work in real earnest. We saved as many nails as we could out of the old boxes we had, and made them go as far as possible, and we found also that by boring a hole with a gimlet and driving in a piece of wood which had been dipped in glue we had a very good substitute for a nail. We worked away in the evenings as well as we could, for we had very few tools, and neither of us was much of a carpenter. By the end of the week we had our framework all ready to put together, holes bored for the plugs, etc., and the panels in some sort of shape.

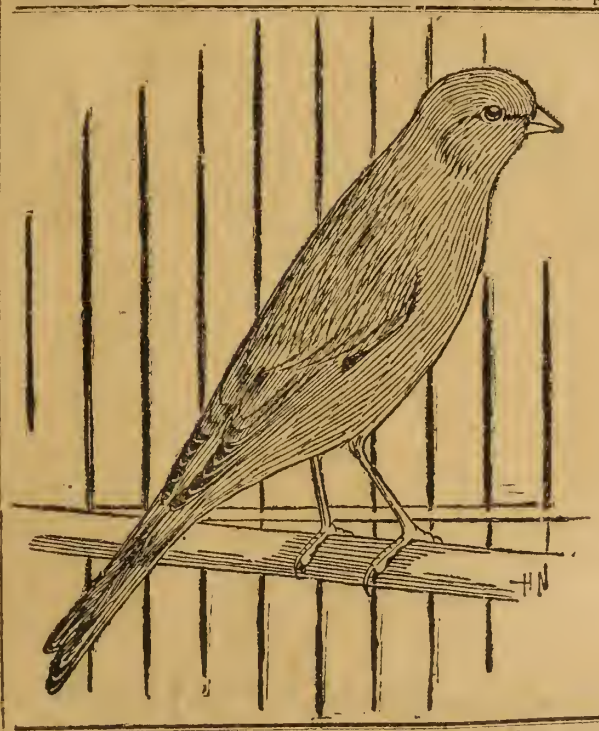
What Causes Soft Moult?



By SUB ROSA.

Soft moult, French moult, cross moult, whichever fanciers care to call it, is an unnatural and partial shedding of feathers which generally visits our birdrooms during the winter months. Occasionally we may have a bird drop off in the summer, but very rarely, except in cases of singing Canaries, which are kept in living rooms, and it is a usual cause of complaint with keepers of such birds. With these, it is a continual dropping of body feathers almost all the year round, and the cause is—I should say—the unequal temperature of living rooms. But with birds kept in separate rooms of more equal temperature, i.e., without a fire, soft moult generally lasts from a month to six weeks, and sometimes only the head is moulted; other times the whole of the body; but very rarely, if ever, the tail flights. I have seen and heard various reasons given for its cause, but I am not going to offer any opinion on them. It is a complaint that has attacked my stock a few times, and the last attack was in the winter of 1910, when I formed certain opinions of my own as to its cause. I don't want to force them upon anyone. I am simply going to give my reasons for forming them, and the reader can then please himself. My birdroom is a wooden structure, situated in my garden. I used to keep my birds in a spare bedroom, but the family said that either I had to get a larger house, or build a structure outside especially for them; so I chose the cheaper of two evils. As all fanciers know, a wooden structure is not proof against frost in winter, and I had a lamp which I burned to help keep out the cold and damp. "Ah!" I almost hear someone say, "that lamp again." But wait; I used the lamp all through the winter, and my birds were in the pink of condition. I also used to go into the room about 8 o'clock at night, and put on an extra light to allow them to have a feed, because I thought it was a long time from dark to light. By January the hens, especially the young ones, were screeching after the cocks, and beginning to carry small bits of sawdust about in their beaks. I can assure you I felt quite proud to have them in breeding condition so early in the season, and my prospects were very rosy for the next breeding season, so I thought. This was in January, 1910, and I believe I am right in saying that in that month, after a mild time, there was a sudden advent of heavy frost, when the thermometer rarely registered less than 25 degrees of frost. I kept my lamp burning, and got as much heat from it as I could, but the frost proved master. The water-glasses were frozen hard two or three times a day, and —to quote Charles Garvice—"it was a high old fortnight, I give you my word." At the end of the fortnight, those which had been most forward were dropping feathers galore, and looked miserable indeed. Only about two of the cocks dropped off, and they were two which had been most forward and were vieing with each other which could give forth the most "noisie." A few of the staid old customers, both cocks and hens—those birds which didn't wish to anticipate the proper breeding season—did not moult a feather, and that set me thinking. Now, I reasoned to myself, if the lamp is the cause, why didn't affect the whole lot? Why was it the most forward and the most healthy birds which dropped off? And then I began to see daylight. Those birds were in forward breeding condition, and the severe frost came and made the temperature so bitterly cold that it sent them back and caused them to drop into moult; and while the lamp was one of the indirect causes, along with the habit of feeding them at night, it was not the primary cause of the moult. The sudden advent of frost sent the birds into moult, but the primary cause was the birds being in too high a condition so early in the season. It must be so; else why didn't the backward birds moult as well? Since then I have only lighted my lamp in very severe weather, and have left off feeding them at night time. I have found that fasting from four o'clock in the afternoon to eight o'clock next morning is a grand thing for keeping them back, and preventing them from coming into condition before the proper time.

SELF CINNAMON BORDER FANCY CANARY.

One of the biggest winners ever bred of this variety. 1st prize at the Horticultural Hall Show, and many similar honours elsewhere. Exhibited by Mr. W. S. Wilson, of Hamilton, N.B.

"Am pleased to say I received orders for Cage Fronts from all the four countries in the United Kingdom through my advert. in the Christmas Number of CAGE BIRDS."—J. BARBER (Chesterton).

"There is no paper in the Fancy that brings me so many customers as CAGE BIRDS. This speaks well for your valuable paper."—F. STOUR (Chipping Norton).

Very many thanks for the lovely Diploma, won with my Canary-Bullfinch at Clapham Show, also the 10s. special, won at Portsmouth Show, which I am sure is a good help to all exhibitors when luck comes their way. Everyone has had a golden chance in your capital competition. I think the Diploma is grand. I wish CAGE BIRDS and its scheme every success.—H. Howick (Midhurst).

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems), will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who desire letters of complaint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to to the "Referee's" Poor Childreus' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

YORKSHIRE HENS SOFT (Yorkshire).—You must see that the hens are kept in a bright and healthy place, and free from draughts. Having done so, give in addition to the staple of plain canary seed half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, in which you have well mixed four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion, and sprinkled the whole with maw seed. Give this every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats. Add a small pinch of Epsom salts to the drinking water for one day only, and then dissolve a half drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, stir in a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three for a fortnight. If not quite tight in feather by the end of the fortnight, write again, and say whether they have lost or are losing any feathers. Allow the birds to bathe three or four times a week if they desire to do so, but always give the bath early in the day at this season.

NOT COMMENCED SINGING (A. Degg).—Considering the time at which the young were bred there is a very good chance of them being the wrong gender to sing much, if at all. Assuming they are really cocks, treat as follows for a month or so, by which time they should be coming into vigorous song. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only. In addition to this give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, and a pinch of maw seed strewn on top. Twice a week give a half teaspoonful of mixed seed, as advised to "Yorkshire" in this issue, and on two other days give a morsel of watercress when it is obtainable in a fit condition to use, and at other times substitute a small piece of banana, sweet apple, or any kind of sweet fruit in season. Continue this treatment for three weeks or so, and you should find the birds coming out strongly in about three weeks hence. If they make no attempt at all in that time I should seriously doubt their being cocks.

HENS IN SOFT MOULT (A. E. T.).—The first step towards treatment is to remove the cause, which will usually be found in the existence of cold draughts or damp. See that the birds are free from these exciting causes, and keep them in a nice bright healthy position, and in a fairly equable temperature, which need not, however, be a very high one. In addition to the staple diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and finally sprinkled with maw seed every second day for two or three weeks as may seem necessary. On the alternating days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats. Two or three times a week give a morsel of watercress or banana, using the latter as a substitute for the former when green-food is not in a fit condition to use on account of the weather. Add to the drinking water six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel two days in every three for a week, and then every second day for another week or fortnight as may be necessary until the feathers cease dropping.

HEN WITH DIARRHŒA (T. H. S.). You ought to have described the state or appearance of the stomach which leads you to think the bird is suffering from inflammation. If this is the case, it may very probably have been brought about by giving green-food injudiciously during the recent spell of severe weather. Keep the bird now in a cosy place, not overheated, nor yet on the cold, chilly side, and see that the seeds and all foods are perfectly sound and good. In addition to the staple of plain canary, give a piece of bread the size of a hazel nut, soaked in cold milk, drained, two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and finally sprinkled with a little soft sugar. Give this every second day for a week or fortnight, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape and a morsel of banana. Limit the diet to this until the bird is better. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece for two consecutive days, then omit the rhubarb and substitute in its place a crystal of sulphate of iron the size of a large hemp seed and six drops of dilute sulphuric acid, and continue giving this mixture two days in every three until bird is better. If bird is not quite well in a fortnight or so, write again and describe its condition more fully, especially with regard to the appearance of the stomach.

SLOVENLY HABITS (R. MacDonald).—The thing you describe is not infrequently seen temporarily in heavily and close-feathered birds, and also occurs with weakly birds, due in the latter case to an abnormally viscid condition of the droppings. As your bird seems to be in perfect health and condition, it is not unlikely that the cause may be simply due to a slovenly habit, as all birds are not equally particular about keeping their plumage spick and span. Try the following treatment for two or three weeks, which should set matters right unless it is due to habit, which I am afraid you cannot alter. Give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. Give a small spray of watercress every second day when you can get it in a condition fit for use, and at other times give as a substitute a morsel of sweet apple or a grape broken open and fastened to the end of a perch. Twice a week give a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw. Keep the cage floor strewn with clean, gritty sand, and allow the bird to bathe twice a week in mild weather, but give the bath early in the day at this season. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day for a week, and after this give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for another week. If this does not set matters right, write again, and I will advise you further.

WHAT TO DO (F. K.).—The best thing you could do for a Canary that sneezes is to look well into the conditions under which it is kept, and see whether it is exposed to direct cold draughts, extremes of heat and cold, or any similar exciting causes of colds, etc. If you find this is so, the first step towards treatment must be to remove these causes. Do not allow bird to hang near or over a burning light in the evenings, and strictly avoid keeping it in a cold draughty position, though this does not necessarily imply that you should keep it very warm. Having adopted these precautions, give in addition to the usual seed diet, half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, with three drops of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed, every second day for a week or so, and on the alternate days add to the drinking water 20 drops of whiskey, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together.

BALD AND SCALY (A. E., Didcott).—I am strongly inclined to think that the bareness is mainly, if not wholly, due to the irritating effects of insect pests. Thoroughly examine the cage for red mites, and if any are found, overhaul the cage and see that they are exterminated. Also examine the bird to see if it is troubled with grey lice, and if it is, give it a wash with a little Creolin in the first two waters, as you may have often seen advised in this column. Keep the cage and perches as clean as possible, and the floor of cage strewn with clean gritty sand. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only, and in addition give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake slightly dusted with flower of sulphur, and then sprinkled with maw seed. Twice a week you may give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts millet, niger, and teazle. In the drinking water give three times a week on the days when you are giving rape, five drops of syrup of saffron, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny piece. Continue this dietary for a month. Slightly moisten the scaly places twice a week with Lanocyllin.

CANARY LOSING FEATHERS (R. I. G.).—You certainly score a win when you say you think the loss of feathers is due to the cold at night affecting the bird hanging in the kitchen window. That being so, the first step towards treatment should have been equally obvious to you—the removal of the bird to a more healthful position. Do this at once, and keep the bird in a bright and cosy, though not necessarily very warm, position within the room, where the temperature will be fairly equable, but avoid any position exposed to cold draughts, and do not let it hang where it will be exposed to the heated fumes from burning lights in the evenings. Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition, give separately, every second day for a fortnight or so half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, in which you have well mixed four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion, and finally sprinkle it with maw seed. On the alternate day give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle, and a morsel of banana. Also dissolve half a dram of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the drinking water two days in every three, until the feathers cease dropping.

STARTING BREEDING ROLLERS (J. S.).—(1) You write as though you intend having the birds all in one compartment of the cage, although you say it is a three compartment one. If you attempt to keep all three birds in one compartment they will most assuredly disagree, and the chances will be all against you breeding anything, unless it is strife and dissension. You will succeed all right with these birds and the cage referred to if you place the hens in different compartments, preferably one in each end compartment, and the cock in the middle part. Then when the time comes to pair them, which will not be for another three months or so, you must mate the cock with the hen that is the most forward, and when she has gone to nest and commenced to sit, remove the cock, leaving her to hatch and rear the young by herself, and mate the cock with the other hen. When the second hen has gone to nest, remove the cock again and place him by himself in the centre compartment, until he is required again for the second round of nests, when you must proceed as before. (2) It is not wise to mate two yellows without any definite object for doing so, as you seem to be about doing. A buff cock would be more suitable for your hens, or it would be better to have a slightly ticked buff hen instead of the ticked yellow one. (3) I do not think there is anything wrong with this hen beyond a little constipation. Add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece to the water for two consecutive days, or break open a grape and fasten it to the end of a perch for her to peck at for a time.

A MATTER OF DISCIPLINE (Thrush).—It is nothing at all uncommon for Canaries to refuse canary seed if they can have an unlimited supply of a mixture of various seeds. Like some other bipeds, they will, when given a free choice of their own, reject the most wholesome items for those which "tickle their palates" more, which are rarely the best for long continued regular consumption. Some birds will withstand this luxurious system of feeding for a long time without apparent ill-effect, but others soon suffer from its effects. The only way in which you can deal with a case of this kind is to give as a staple diet in the seed boxes a plain mixture of three parts of canary to one part rape, and limit all other items to a small pinch in the egg drawer, or thrown on a clean portion of the sand on the cage floor, now and again. There is no fear of the birds starving, though they may waste a lot of seed for, perhaps, a week or two, in throwing it out of the box to look after the dainties to which they have been accustomed. This cannot be avoided. Give the staple just named, and for a week or two give some little addition each day, ringing the changes on a small pinch of the mixed seed for each bird, a morsel of bread and milk, egg-food, or any substitute you may use for this purpose, and give a little banana or green-food, when you can get the latter in a condition fit for use. With a little judicious management of this kind you should have no difficulty at all in getting the birds to take quite freely to a plain diet of canary and rape at most, long before it is time to commence breeding. But even if you should fail, it is not absolutely essential to have the birds on a diet of plain canary for breeding, however advisable it may be. Strong, robust health and activity, is of far greater importance in a stock bird.

FORCING A MOULT (M. J. D.).—(1) If the hen seems to be in good sound health and condition, as you seem to suggest, you would be best advised to let well alone. It is quite possible that she will drop into moult as soon as the weather becomes mild in the spring, when, by keeping her in a fairly warm place, and covered with a light cover to hasten the moulting process, you should get her through with at most the loss of an early first nest, and that would be much more satisfactory than any result you could hope to get from attempting to force on an unnatural moult. If, however, you prefer taking the risk you should keep the bird in a warm, cosy place for a week or fortnight, and meantime give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake slightly dusted with flower of sulphur, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day, and on the alternate days add as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece, and five drops of syrup of saffron to the water. Most chemists would be able to supply you with the syrup of saffron, but if you have any difficulty in getting it, procure a little hay saffron instead, and place ten or a dozen shreds of this in the water as a substitute. After a fortnight of this treatment, place the bird in a cold room, but see that it is free from draughts, and keep a light cover over the cage for a week or so. By this time it will probably have begun to cast its feathers freely. Then you may take it back to a rather warmer temperature, but be careful not to overdo it, and then let the moult proceed in the ordinary way, with the little extra warmth to hasten it. (2) Am sorry, but I cannot give the address of any breeder or dealer in this column. If you look in our prepaid advt. columns any week now you will find plenty of both offering stock for sale. Select any one of repute, and deposit your money with the Editor whilst you have the bird on approval, and you should get ample satisfaction.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

TAMING A SKYLARK (Gilbert Platt).—No. There is no royal road to the taming of wild birds; it requires patience and perseverance. To begin with, be careful where you hang him; let it be in a position where someone is continually passing, and do not hang him up too high—breast high is the best, if you can manage it. Whenever you go near him speak to him, and give him a mealworm or anything he is particularly fond of; after a time try to get him to take it out of your fingers. When cleaning the cage out, run him from one cage to another; this helps considerably. A gentle spraying occasionally is good for a Skylark, and when he is wet is a good time to approach him and handle the cage. Some people have a knack of taming birds; you may have, if you try to develop it.

BULLFINCH LOSING FEATHERS (C. Jarvis).—I have no doubt your bird is infested with insects, either red-mite or grey lice. Get a clean white cloth and cover over the bird and cage when he goes to roost; examine this an hour or two later, or early in the morning, and if there are any red-mite you will easily detect them—they are very small, so look closely. If you find them, either destroy the cage or place it in hot, soapy water with some soda in it, and give it a thorough cleansing, then paint all the cracks with turpentine that has had a spot or two of creosote put into every spoonful, work it well into the cracks with a stiff brush; repeat the operation in a week's time. Also catch the bird and hold it in the hand for a few minutes, and if it has any grey lice on it you will soon see them running about. Then procure some fresh insect powder and dust the bird well with it, working it into the feathers, using plenty, but do not let it get into his eyes. Then take a cloth and roll the bird in it and leave him there for ten minutes, take out, and replace in his cage. You must repeat this every four days until he is quite clear, when his feathers will probably commence to grow again. If you can find no insects whatever, you had better write again, giving particulars of food and general treatment.

'GALE WITH SORE FEET (W. F. Wilber).—I suspect you are not giving your 'Gale sufficient vegetable food. You should mix your insectile food with scraped raw carrot, boiled potato, or even ripe banana. This would not only prevent sore feet, but improve the breathing. I would advise you to give him at once a mild aperient, a small teaspoonful of effervescing citrate of magnesia in three tablespoonfuls of water; give him this for two or three days. Bathe his feet in half a cupfull of warm water to which has been added a teaspoonful of witch hazel. Only give the mealworms occasionally, or replace them with gentles. You can get some at the fishing tackle shops. Scour them first in a little bran.

LINNET OUT OF SORTS (Govan Linnet).—Change of situation and different treatment has no doubt upset your bird. I would advise you to give him a mild aperient first (say, a crystal of glauber salts in his drinking water) just for one day, repeating in a week's time. Then follow it up with this tonic: Get an ounce of the crystals of citrate of iron, and put as much as will cover a sixpence in his drinking water; this will regulate the looseness of the bowels, but get him a little green-food if you possibly can—if not, place a piece of apple between the bars of his cage, he will probably take a little of it. Get a packet of good wild seed mixture, and give him a teaspoonful of it, twice a week. Be sure that it is the wild seed mixture, not simply niger, maw, etc.; a little of these you can give separately.

AVIARY MATTERS (Wheat Sheaf).—Your aviary would do very nicely for a few British birds, and with good treatment you may get some of them to breed. I would advise you to cover the floor with some kind of oil cloth; or, a cheaper material is the tarred felt used for roofing purposes. This makes a capital flooring, especially if you nail a few strips of tile batten where you are in the habit of treading, so as to not wear it away too much. Sawdust would certainly do for the floor with a dish or two of grit placed about. I do not like your selection of birds. Four hen Bullfinches would keep you busy peace-making; it is seldom two of these ladies will live on good terms with each other, much more four of them. Anyway, you might try a couple, and if they will not settle down you must remove one. The other hens might be a couple of Greenfinches and a Redpoll. The cock birds I would advise are a Goldfinch, a Linnet, and a Siskin, and if you want another, a Twite. Do not put in two cocks of the same species, particularly Linnets and Siskins, they only waste time. Two Goldies will sometimes behave better. Put up plenty of nesting places so as to prevent quarrelling, and be liberal with building material, particularly moss and hair, short lengths of grass, and fine roots.

SIBERIAN GOLDIE (Urgent).—Give the bird at once a dose of glauber salts, a couple of crystals the size of a pea in his drinker; repeat in three or four days. His food should be hemp and good teazle three parts, canary two parts, linseed one part, and just a little summer rape. Maw and niger, frequently; and be pretty liberal with cracked sunflower. Get a good wild seed mixture and let him have a teaspoonful twice a week. Don't forget green-food. When these birds come over they are fed principally upon niger seed, and I expect it is this he is hunting for; just try him with some separately and see, and if it is so, you will have to supply him with it until you can manage to gradually wean him off it. The best thing to take its place is cracked sunflower, so be liberal with this, and as he takes to it diminish the niger. I would also advise you to offer him a pot of soaked teazle; this is a grand pick-me-up. When he appear to be pulling round somewhat he should have a tonic, as advised to "Govan Linnet" in this issue.

ANOTHER SIBERIAN (J. W. H.). Your feeding, as suggested in your letter, is quite right. No doubt the advice given to "Urgent" in this issue will assist you. Be sparing with grit, give only a pinch at a time, or he will gorge himself with it, and then you will probably have him droop.

LINNET'S EGGS AND A GOLDFINCH (A. T.).—You have omitted to send your address; perhaps you will let us have it on a p.c. As regards the Linnet's eggs, if quite fresh and the weather is not too warm, they should keep a week or ten days, place them in some bran and turn them every day, but remember the fresher they are the more probability of them hatching and your getting sturdy young ones. When collecting be very careful not to shake them. Your cock Goldie will do rapitally to breed with, but you would have a greater chance of obtaining young ones if you had a hen as tame as he is, as the rearing depends much more upon the temperament of the lady than the gentleman. Anyway, I have known two freshly-caught birds to nest, so you have every chance to succeed. Procure your hen bird as early as possible and try to get her steady before the spring. Your big flight is just the thing for your purpose. Put a thick bush, gorse or heather, up one end, and give them plenty of nesting materials.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

FINCHES FOR CAGES (E. A. B. N.).—(1) It is very seldom that males disagree when there are no females to stir up competition and strife among them. (2) Yes. (3) Yes, but with the Lavender Finch, Orange-cheeked Waxbill, and Silverbill it will be none too easy to get guaranteed males. Your best plan will be to see the birds before purchase, and seeing a number together the masculine demeanour of certain birds and song will enable you to arrive at a reasonably correct decision. (4) All species are subject to these plumatic aberrations; sometimes they occur in old age, but as they also occur with quite young birds, and as a rule this is occasioned by a temporary loss of vigour, and unless they are constitutionally lacking, matters usually right themselves at the next moult.

NONPAREIL BUNTING (Tobacco).—(1) The case of this bird is not abnormal. I have known of similar cases, even in an outdoor aviary, where they have remained partially unclad for over a year. Exercise your patience and continue the treatment. I certainly anticipate the bird recovering its plumage if the skin is intact. As soon as spring arrives give it all the natural green-food you can, and such spiders—smooth caterpillars, etc.—as you can capture. Offer ripe fruit as green-food during the winter months. (2) Linseed is an oily food, but providing you do not overdo it, a little makes a quite wholesome change. While for most foreign Finches, canary and the various millet should form the staple diet, they can have pinches occasionally of "wild seed mixture," "British Finch mixture," etc., with advantage to vary the dietary. A pinch of maw seed, linseed, hemp, etc., occasionally is beneficial in cold weather. The Nonpareil does not need actual heat; it is a hardy species, but within the limits of a cage, and while partially unclad, an even temperature, somewhere about 60 degrees Fah., will suit it admirably.

BIRDS FOR AVIARY (Sarum).—It does not do to overcrowd if you want any breeding results, and twelve to eighteen pairs must not be exceeded for this purpose, though simply as a home it would accommodate three times that number. I do not know your county, but, unless it is in the far north, all the following should succeed with you: White Java Sparrows; Magpie, Bronze and Rufous-backed Mannikins; Zebra, Ribbon, Red-headed, Ruficauda, and Bib Finches; Silverbills, Bengalese; Grey and Green Singing Finches; Masked and Long-tail Grassfinches; Avadavats, Gold-breasted, Orange-cheek, Grey and St. Helena Waxbills. As regards British species, these are best confined to Siskin, Redpoll, Twite, Bullfinch, Goldfinch, and Linnet—Chaffinches, Bramblings, and the Buntings frequently prove unsafe. If your flight has a solid back, put a thicket (hedge) of pea sticks against it, and plant the open flights ground with grass, dock, mallow, etc. In an aviary for Finches deciduous bushes have rather a short life, but such evergreens as common laurel, berberis, spruce fir, box, and aucuba usually last out pretty well, so does holly, but good sized bushes want putting in for a start to provide immediate cover. My book, "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d., from "C.B." manager, would give you a good general idea how to fit up and plant. From the above list you should be able to make a selection to meet your need.

LAMP FOR AVIARY (Coney).—A lamp that makes an objectionable smell is not suitable for the purpose. A suitable lamp, providing it is kept properly trimmed, should be almost odourless. I never accept the responsibility of advising their use, but, properly managed, they can be used; for instance, I have used a common "Gem" stove, with a 4-in. wick, for years, and never had a mishap with it, but it is personally regulated, and never left to servants to attend to. The main thing is watching it well for the first hour after lighting; by this I mean, have a look at it every 15 minutes. After the expiration of an hour there should be no danger of the flame rising and causing trouble. The species of birds you keep really do not require heat unless you are far north. I have told you I use a "Gem" oil-stove, but note, if you use one it must be on your own responsibility. If you have one, test it in some outhouse or room, and grip the management of it before using it in the aviary.

HIMALAYAN GOLDFINCH (E. J. G.).—Apparently this bird is only a little out of sorts; make its drinking water just saline with Epsom salts till the bowels have been well moved. When this occurs do not give any more Epsom salts unless the voidings show hard and stiff again. For about a month or more put 10 drops of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water every other day, and keep a slice of sweet apple between the bars of the cage till you are using green-food freely again. Keep a millet spray in the cage in addition to the mixture you are using. Keep also a small piece of cuttlebone in the cage, and supply grit (sprinkle this over sand tray) regularly. If there should be any change for the worse, write again at once with the fullest details you can give.

Another Roller Club Forming.

Newtown, Wigan, to be Represented.

Sir,—We are forming a Roller Canary Club in Newtown, Wigan, and district. Will any fancier, desirous of joining, please communicate with A Bristol Novice on His Success.

Says it is Due to "Cage Birds."

Sir, I beg to acknowledge 10s., won by me at Bristol Show in your Champion Coupon Scheme, and thank you for congratulations upon winning the same. Last year, 1913, was my first year of the Yorkshire Fancy, or, in fact, any other. I kept a few common Canaries for the past three years, and I have to thank CAGE BIRDS for the strides I have made in the Fancy that is so popular in this district. I hope to do better this year by the aid of CAGE BIRDS and "Cage Birds Annual," which I am sure bring success to the hobby.

The Winning Hybrid at Preston.

Sir,—I have been very interested in the letters for and against on the above bird. The weight of evidence seems to prove it genuine. I would like to congratulate the breeder on his success, but at the same time think him rather fortunate to get it accepted. I have always thought the beauty of a winning hybrid was when it showed evidence of both parents quite distinctly. Apparently this bird does not do so. I am looking forward to seeing him at the Palace.

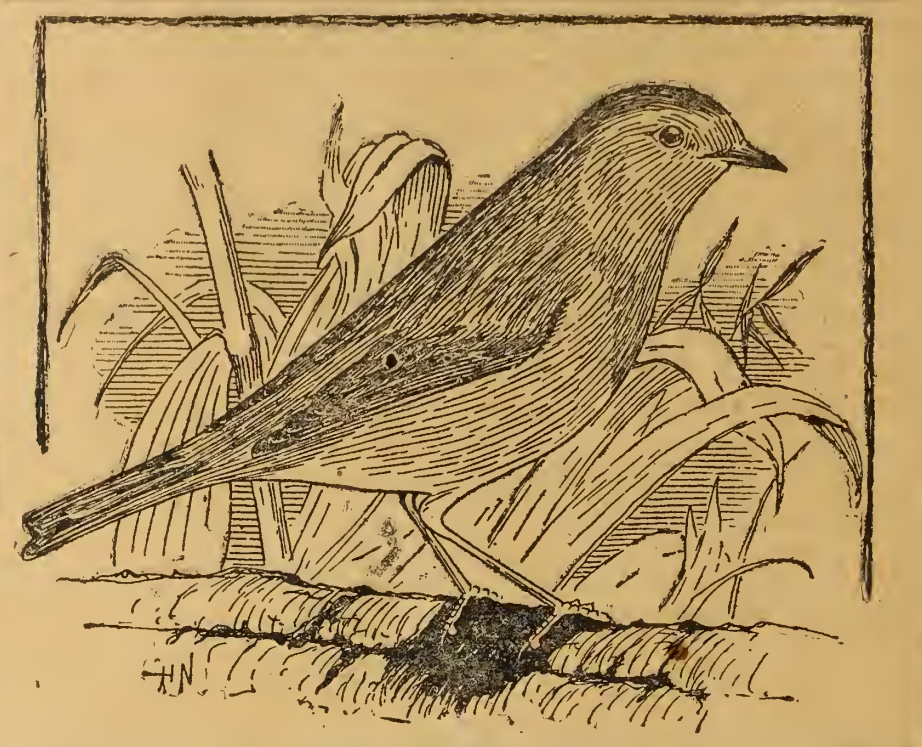
T. W. POPE.

Should Exhibitors Purchase Winners or Breed Them?

Sir,—Bumbleism, like custom, dies a hard death. Such was the thought when I read a letter in your welcome paper purporting to come from one "Yet Another Member," though, had he not so signed himself, one would never have thought it. His bump of fairness, if there be such a phrenological term, is strangely developed. He says: Buy what you like; show what you like; and get what you can on the show bench or elsewhere as a return for your outlay. He might have gone a little further, and started the English and Continental Bird Loan Society at reasonable fees, and special terms for teams, as a further return for his outlay. Not that this has never been near accomplishment, for the highest offer, as far as my records go, was one of 30s. offered by an exhibitor for the use of another man's birds, but which was as promptly refused, though the cash was tempting to this man of very moderate means. I have looked through the correspondence on the subject, and have so far failed to find the acrimonies he refers to, and this being the season of goodwill I hope they will not occur. The reason the controversy continues to be placed before your readers is because the grievance remains, and so long as the fester is there, so long will the poultice be applied. For any club to be healthy, it is necessary for all to compete on as near as possible equal terms, and not on the dictum of your correspondent, which is likened to the fact that a lord has as much to pay for his bread as a poor suburban clerk. I have not discouraged the purchase of birds; on the contrary, I have encouraged it, but I cannot for the life of me understand why Jack Jones should win a trophy of any description with a bird bred by Bill Smith. I have said, over and over again, that a bird may be purchased and shown, but the owner should be content with the prize money, and that those who breed the winners should have the trophies, and so encourage the breed. There is nothing wrong with challenge cups and trophies, for they are harmless—it is the terms of competition that are wrong. I should like to hear from this gentleman, or any other for that matter, what fraud is likely to take place if the bird wore a S.N.P.C. ring. I have read of the consternation that took place when Oliver Twist asked for more, and I knew Lazarus is not content with the crumbs. The proposed alteration in judging may or may not make the difficulties a little more difficult; it certainly will the nominators, but it will be small progress for the breeder. Pity your correspondent didn't make public his name, but suppose he could not. I can understand his position.

H. W. TOMSETT.

Yorks C.C. of Wales and Mon.



Sir,—A meeting will be held at the Greyhound Hotel, Llanelly, Jan. 13 (Llanelly Show day), at 5 p.m., when all members and fanciers who intend joining same are earnestly invited to attend. Any Yorkshire fancier who cannot attend, and wishes to join, can do so by forwarding 1s. entry fee to the hon. sec., Mr. H. Webster, 6, Upper Park Street, Llanelly. Annual subscription 2s. 6d., payable in March. As this is the only specialist club for one variety confined to Wales, it behoves all true fanciers to join, and especially novices, as it will increase the classification of Yorks at Welsh shows, and also be of great benefit to societies in increasing entries.

H. WEBSTER, Hon. Sec.

Class for Hen Hybrids.

Sir,—Replying to "Hybrid's" letter anent shows making a class for hen Mules and Hybrids, I quite agree with his suggestion. I have before suggested the same thing to some show secretaries, and they always said it would not do, but my personal opinion is that it would, and that it is a class, I am almost certain would be well supported; and seeing the show season is now nearing an end, show secretaries would do well to keep this class in mind when making up schedule for their next show. Could Mr. Ramsden see his way to put this class before his committee (if not too late) and endeavour to add it to the schedule for the coming Palace show, and thereby set an example to other big events?

Appreciation from a Roller Fancier in New Zealand.

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me, through the medium of CAGE BIRDS, to express my gratitude to Mr. Tomlinson for the very edifying articles on the Song of the Roller, which he so ably pens? The lucid explanations and illustrations make the song of our favourites easily understood, especially to novices, such as myself, exiled, so to speak, in this far-off land, where there is none to explain to the novice the rolls and tours, and how they ought to be rendered. I trust Mr. Tomlinson may long be able to write many more such articles, even though he may reiterate those relevant illustrations of sounds; to the true fancier they never read stale. While writing I would like to state that I am most indebted to CAGE BIRDS for the intrinsic information which I have garnered from its columns. Without a doubt it is the vertebra of the Fancy.

Llandudno Show.

Why No Class for Unflighted Hens?

Sir,—May I, through the columns of your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, call the attention of the above committee to Class 8 in their schedule, which reads Yorks hen, A.V., bred prior to 1913. How is it that they've altered the wording of the above class since their last show? Is it because of people who were exhibiting in the hen class and got beaten by unflighted hens at their last show? Or is it through one or two of the local exhibitors not having bred an unflighted hen fit to win? May I ask them why not have made a class for unflighted hens, as everyone who has the least bit of knowledge about Yorkshire classes ought to know that a young hen class would pay as well again as an old hen class. If the committee could not see their way clear to make separate classes, why not have left the wording of the class as it was? This kind of thing is nothing less than a local affair; it sounds very bad on the part of the Llandudno O.S., and this narrow-mindedness will not improve matters.

No wonder our societies are begging for members, etc. I can assure the Llandudno O.S. that they will not flourish on these lines.

EX-TOWNSMAN.

Don't miss next week's Great Number of C.B.

A Novice's Fine Record.

Sir,—Being a regular reader of your paper CAGE BIRDS, I cannot speak too highly of the same. It is a most valuable paper, giving sound and substantial advice for all those who are interested in cage birds, whatever the variety may be. It has been the mainspring of my success during the past breeding season. I started as a novice in 1913, my first year in breeding canaries, and ended same as a champion. My wins have been 14 specials, including CAGE BIRDS 10s. cash special and diploma, gold medal for most points in novice section, 13 firsts, 7 seconds, 9 thirds, 6 fourths, 3 vhc's, and 2 hc's.

By constantly reading your paper I have gathered most useful and valuable information, and would strongly recommend all lovers of birds to follow up, week by week, its various articles, and success will attend their labours.

Some British Bird Awards.

Sir,—In Bullfinch class, 5th should read R. D. Parlett; we had not an entry in this class. In non-fed Siskin class, 2nd should read Nicholson and Son. In non-fed Greenfinch class, 3rd should read Nicholson and Son. In claiming those awards we desire to give honour where it is due, and to say the Siskin was moulted and formerly exhibited by Mr. James Brown.

NICHOLSON AND SON.

The Hybrid Sensation of the Year.

Sir,—As I stated in your previous issue, I would let others fight the above subject out, as I am satisfied Mr. Welling's award at Preston Show gives his honest opinion. What he has said after, or any remark he may have made will never alter the award, which was a credit to his judgment. I don't think there is one expert in Mules who doubts the above's parentage. Why I write at this time is to give the visitors at Doncaster Show another treat. I am exhibiting the hen that laid the golden egg that produced the sensation of the season, "White Rose." One of your writers thought it rather strange that a Greenfinch should be her second nest partner. For his interest I may say she killed the cock Canary when she was going to nest the second time, so I can't show that, but she is a grand hen Bullie, the mother.

R. D. PARLETT.

Winning F.M. Linnet at Gateshead Show.

Sir,—Seeing that it was reported that it was the Linnet we purchased from Mr. Curry (secretary of Gateshead Show) that won for us at the above show, we thought it might interest fanciers to know that we bought it from Mr. J. Mackenzie, of Newcastle. It had only been in our possession about six or seven weeks before Gateshead Show, and that was only its second time on the bench. It stood 1st for us at Consett a week before. We have since sold it to Mr. Parlett of Sheffield at a good figure, and we are pleased to see it doing so well for him. The Linnet we purchased from Mr. Curry is still in our possession, but has not been out these last few weeks. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success.

JAMESON AND JOHNSON.

The Radius of Luton Society.

Sir,—For several years I have been a member and an exhibitor at Luton, having won the Norwich cup twice, and am now debarred from winning it again, when it would have become, according to the rules, my property. I should like to ask the Luton members if they consider this fair play and genuine sportsmanship to boycott old members in this high-handed and illegal manner. Unfortunately, I am not in the same position as Mr. Watts (the winner of the Foreign Bird cup), as I was not able to be present at the show on the last occasion that I won it, consequently the cup never came into my possession, or I should certainly have done as Mr. Watts has done, refuse to return it; and I consider it the height of impudence for the Luton Society to ask Mr. Watts to make the said cup a present to them. I notice the secretary says that they hope to come up smiling next year; if so they will have to act very different, as there is certainly nothing to smile about this year. I hope, however, they will acknowledge their mistake and seek to rectify it.

A. KEECH.

My Experience with the Norwich Plainhead.

Sir,—It was a pleasant surprise to find my bird so nicely shown on the front page of your paper last week, for which kindly accept my thanks. I commenced with Norwich Plainheads some seven years ago, and have carefully read the notes in CAGE BIRDS. Every man should have a hobby of some kind at which to turn his attention after business, and I find it a pleasant and highly interesting pastime.

I have never yet double yellowed or buffed or inbred, but kept to the hard and fast rule of yellow and buff and vice versa, using green blood with discretion, with the result that I have been steadily successful. My first best "hit" I consider was at Norwich Alliance All England Show, 1912, when I secured 1st with a bonny yellow hen in a class of 26 entries. The strain which placed me "on my feet" as an exhibitor was derived from a 50s. yellow cock (son of a Crystal Palace winner); therefore there is something in pedigree beside the good appearance of a bird.

My first year I was bewildered with the points of a Norwich Plainhead. Fanciers spoke of "quality of feather, heads, necks, size, shape, carriage, length, browed," etc., etc., when to me one bird looked very much like another but gradually I began to "tumble" or note the defects. In my opinion, the biggest difficulty of a beginner is to know a good bird when he sees it. He can, of course, "see it" on a show bench after the judge has been round, but "on his own" he is "at sea" to "see."

Specialise on one breed; do not overestimate your stock. There are just as many winners yet to be staged as have already been shown. The novice should certainly invite two or three old hands to call and give their candid opinion of his birds, and he will soon begin to hear the faults for correction. When he is sure his stock is fairly right, the ups and downs of his show birds by various judges' awards will not upset him, and he will hang on, always trying to go one better next year. The hobby is a test of patience, and many a disappointed angler can find both profit and pleasure for the time he turns to bird breeding.

E. OLLY.

Disputed Special at Dysart.

Sir,—In looking over Club Reports in CAGE BIRDS, I see there is a dispute about the 4th spl. in class 17, at Dysart show. I won that special. I had 4th card and spl card, also my cage number slip marked 4th and special by the judge in blue pencil, and I can get witnesses to prove that, if necessary.

THE DISQUALIFIED YORKSHIRE AT HALIFAX SHOW.

Mr. Hill defends the Yorkshire Union and asks for "Fair Play and no Favour."

Sir,—As secretary of the Yorkshire Union, I feel compelled to say a few words at this most inopportune time in respect to the correspondence which has taken place on the above subject through the columns of your valuable paper, and in doing so, Sir, I must say how strongly I regret that circumstances over which only perhaps a very small minority of your readers are aware of, have induced you to take sides in this great controversy, however much you may try to explain away the attitude you have adopted in the Editorial notes following certain contributions which have been made to it. Your opinions, which you have a perfect right to hold, and which will command as much respect as any other person's, should not have been asserted so repeatedly as they have been through the columns of your paper, when the attack has been led against the Yorkshire Union and its rulings by Mr. House and others, who have legitimately expressed their opinions in his support. This is where a great many Yorkshiremen differ entirely with you and your Editorial notes. It is not for me to say how you should conduct the correspondence through your valuable paper, you know this better than me; but I do hold the opinion that in all questions of a nature such as this, where governing bodies who are on the spot, and after due consideration come to a decision, should be shown a certain amount of impartiality until such times as that decision is proved to be wrong.

The question which the Council was called together to deliberate upon was in respect to a certain bird which had been trimmed, according to the judge's decision, and I venture to say that the question as to whether the Council or Halifax had it to deal with is not part of the question at all. It has simply been trotted out to mislead and take attention from the main point at issue. Some rather curious evidence has been given by several witnesses, including those who saw this said bird at Halifax; but still more curious has been the evidence voluntarily given by several of those who have indulged in writing and giving their opinions through the Fancy papers, and they have undoubtedly opened the eyes of many members of the Council and its officials. At first sight, on reading several of these efforts, it has almost led one to believe that instead of the Union standing for all those principles of right, justice and equity, of which in the past it has been justly proud, and at the same time has always stood by without fear or favour, that it was actually a guilty party to all that appertained to drag it down to the level of the gutter, along with its adherents; for one week we have a society saying that favour is shown to a certain class of exhibitor, and on two separate occasions individuals have said that there was some prevailing under-current which, if stirred up, would emit an unsavoury odour. Now this is a very unhealthy sign of the times, and you will agree with me I am sure, when I say that no true progress can be achieved where such like things exist, and the Council has recognised this on a good many occasions when called upon to tackle these very intricate, and at the same time delicate questions; it is also a very difficult thing to get at this under-current, and therefore I am very pleased that, by adopting "brer rabbit's" attitude of defence and lying low some of those persons who know far more than the members of the Council, have been induced to divulge to the Fancy at large through the Fancy press some of those serious insinuations, as contained in Mr. H. H. Mitchell's article last week, wherein he says that "if the whole evidence was given, it would lead to a great complication of matters that would not do to be disclosed."

Now this is just what the Council are desirous of getting at, as evidenced by the delegates at the last Council meeting, whereby they left the case entirely open for further evidence; therefore, I am writing Mr. Mitchell personally to invite him to appear at next week's Council meeting, in order that he can publicly divulge to the Council this very useful and acceptable information which we are so desirous to obtain, in order that the whole thing may be probed to its very bottom. I will go further than this, and give an invitation to any person to attend the Council meeting who can assist its members in any shape or form with evidence bearing direct on the disqualification, for it is needless of me to say that the Council has nothing whatever to fear from an open enquiry into all details concerning this case, and every action which they have taken is perfectly legitimate and covered in every detail by show rule No. 8, however you may try to explain it away by quoting other rules. There is a proper time and place to say everything, and I contend that instead of making a newspaper sensation, this thing ought to have been thrashed out in Council, for it has been left open for anyone since the case was heard at Halifax to bring forward any information in respect to the case. The Keighley Society will also have an opportunity of defending their action in the matter, as will one or two more persons who have been mentioned as being in possession of very important evidence.

Another thing, Mr. Editor, in respect to the sensational development, as reported in last week's issue, namely the resignation of Halifax. Is there any matter contained in the notification which you received from the Halifax Secretary to give you reasons for attributing their resignation as being directly brought about by this case? Because if so, then I beg to differ, for although it may have hastened the climax, still it has been pending for a good long time now (in fact it was expected last year), and under these circumstances, and by the heading of the article last week, the only conclusion that a reader could arrive at, after reading it, was that they had resigned as a protest against the Union's action. This may be all right from a newspaper standpoint, also it may carry weight to those who do not know the full facts of the case, and have a tendency to bear you out in your Editorial notes, but it is playing the game a little bit too far, and it is causing serious dissensions in the ranks of your esteemed readers. Fair play and no favour is all that is needed, and the question should have been left entirely between Mr. House, who is quite capable of dealing with it, and the Union. In Mr. House's last letter he says that the rules of the Union have been broken, and that the all-important question to Union members is to ask themselves if the Council are to be allowed to do so. I say that neither Mr. House nor anybody else can prove, to my satisfaction, that the action taken by Halifax and afterwards by myself on behalf of the Council, is contrary to the show rule quoted above, and I will even go further than this, and say that the fanciers who framed the rule interpreted it to mean exactly as it has been taken in this case, and all other cases of a similar nature since the rule was formed. Therefore I say the rule has never been broken, neither is it possible to misconstrue it to suit any particular case; but as I said previously, the question at issue is the disqualification of the bird by Mr. House, and it is going to be kept at that, and not allowed to drift off again on to any side issues. The Council is prepared to hear all the evidence it can get on the case, and will leave no stone unturned in their efforts to overthrow all the insinuations which have been hurled at the Union over this case; therefore I again appeal to all those who do possess information to kindly bring it to the fountain head, where it can be tackled in a manner which shall not subject Union members to periodical shocks given on perusing their weekly paper, but give each and all concerned an opportunity to get at the motive underlying this correspondence, which I have had to refer to.

Now, Sir, I have read your New Year's message to bird fanciers, and I beg to compliment you upon it. I am an optimist to the hilt, always trying to look for the better things in the Fancy; at times I am carried to the highest point of enthusiasm when all is running smoothly, and this is naturally what one expects from the optimist; but I also have the dark days and the dark clouds to face, and I know the Union which I have the honour of serving is at present passing through a very trying time in its history, and I am desirous of seeing it emerge from that ordeal with flying colours. This and other achievements can only be accomplished when that feeling exists which you have tried to inculcate into your readers' minds through your hearty message. We all have our opinions, we all have our failings and our shortcomings—to the conscious person these are ever before him. We can only urge upon one another the necessity of looking at all perplexing questions and problems from the broadest-minded standpoint, and if we cannot see eye to eye in all things, give each other credit for our opinions. I venture to think that if this feeling had permeated the question on which I have written at such length, that it would never have assumed the proportions it has developed into, and which have caused it to be the talk of fanciers the world over. It is just as possible for any exhibitor, however honest he may be, to be called upon to face a trying ordeal, such as this case has been, and an example of one case in point was given at the last Council meeting by a gentleman who is respected and revered by all who know him, who had to face a similar case to this, but who was afterwards cleared of any imputations by allowing the exhibit in question to stop with the show authorities, who found it exactly as he had told them. But unfortunately in this case, it is an impossibility to deal out that measure of justice which can only satisfy when every stigma has been removed. However, I thank you for allowing me space for this letter, and trust that even yet we shall be able to get at the most satisfactory conclusion to this much talked of case. See announcements for place and time of meeting. H. HILL.

Mr. Hill sends this long letter to me, to reach me on the eve of my going to press, when it is quite impossible for me to do little more than to repudiate emphatically the charges he makes against me.

I have expressed no opinion whatever on the merits or demerits of the disqualification, and so far as the resignation of the Halifax Society is concerned, if this is not solely caused by the affair in question, it is certainly an outcome of it, and I have a perfect right to draw my readers' attention to it, which was all I did.

Mr. Hill says the question should have been left to Mr. House and the Yorks. Union But it was Mr. House who first sought the hospitality of my columns, and it is Mr. House who is now contending that the Union has not given him fair play, in not abiding by their own rules. Mr. House solicited my view on the matter. I perused the rules carefully and felt compelled to express the view that his interpretation of them was correct. Mr. Hill apparently declines to deal with this side of the matter, which is the only one with which I am, or ever have been, concerned.

The principle involves, to my mind, the welfare of the cage-bird hobby. The Yorkshire Union has rules, which say distinctly "this case should have been dealt with by the Halifax Society," and that "the judge's decision is final." There is not a single judicial tribunal in the world which can afford to disregard its own prescribed course of regulations, and say: "Oh, what do rules matter? The end justifies the means. So long as we are right in our action, we can disregard regulations!!" On that point I must reluctantly disagree with the Union.

Mr. Hill is ungenerous enough to hint at ulterior motive on my part. I have none. With everything to lose and nothing to gain by doing so, I merely determined to express my firm conviction that the Union has acted ultra vires in this affair. However powerful the forces against me, I should adhere to that opinion and continue to express it, so long as I felt the injustice of it, until I could be convinced by common sense argument to the contrary. I have taken no side. I hold no brief for anyone, but I am not going to allow friendship and respect to muzzle me from voicing the very strong view I hold that arbitrary action, however well intentioned, and however honest, is prejudicial to our hobby, and therefore detrimental to my paper. "Fair Play and No Favour" is asked for by Mr. Hill. I would remind him that the first principle of fair play is that whatever rules you lay down for the game shall be adhered to.

EDITOR, CAGE BIRDS.

THE YORKSHIRE UNION RULES REFERRED TO ABOVE.

6.—The decision of the judge shall be final, unless it can be proved to the satisfaction of the Committee that a Bird has been entered in a wrong class, or is not the property of the Exhibitor, or has been fraudulently tampered with, in which case such decision shall be void; and the Committee reserve to themselves the right of adjudicating thereon.

8.—Any Exhibitor who shall be disqualified at any Show held under the Rules of the Union for fraudulent practices or false statement as to ownership, shall forfeit all or any prizes or specials that may be awarded to him or her at the Show, in addition to all entry fees. Such disqualifications must be reported to the Union Secretary, to be dealt with by the Council, who may inflict such other punishment as they may decide.

9.—Any Member or Exhibitor found guilty of dishonest practices at any Show held under the Rules of the Union shall be punished as the Committee of the said Show decide, in accordance with these Rules. Such person shall have the power to appeal to the Council of the Union, whose decision shall be final.

An Albino Thrush.

Sir, This summer in the garden I found a thrush's nest with four young birds, three being the ordinary colour, and the fourth perfectly white with pink eyes. I should be pleased to hear if any of your readers have had a similar experience. Is a white thrush a rarity? The bird has been reared from the nest, and is now in perfect feather.

NOVICE.

Downend.

P.S.—The bird was found in a Forest Hill garden.

[A white Thrush cannot really be called a rarity, as quite a good number have been put on record.—ED. "C.B."]

Cock Cutthroat's Parental Devotion Rewarded.

Sir,—No doubt some of your many readers will be interested to hear that a pair of my Cutthroats hatched a nest of young three weeks ago in an open outside aviary of mixed British and Foreign birds. A few days after hatching, the hen bird was killed by a cat, which got into the aviary and killed seven birds. Notwithstanding his loss the cock Cutthroat went steadily on feeding, quite undisturbed by me constantly taking down and looking into the nest husk. To-day, Jan. 1, two strong youngsters (cock and hen) have flown from the nest. One remains inside, which appears to be neglected, so my wife is trying her hand at feeding it. I hope to bring up all three. Is this not rather an unusual occurrence?

EBENEZER G. CORNWELL.

Non-fed Norwich at Brighton.

Sir,—There is a mistake on your part as to the winner's name placed below the Norwich Bird (Brighton Show, 1st) on your front cover this week. Mr. E. Olle (Lewes) did not win a 1st in any class at Brighton; but I find in looking through your "C.B." report of show, that you credit him with 1st in the Non-fed Norwich class. This is evidently how the mistake has arisen. The winner in this class was the Rev. T. Miller (Southwick), and his is evidently the bird portrayed on your cover.

WILL H. GIBB,
Hon. Sec. Brighton C.B.S.

PAISLEY'S DIAMOND JUBILEE.

"Roses! Roses! all the way."

Diamond Jubilee Show, held Drill Hall, Jan. 1 and 2. The hall is one of the best in Scotland for an exhibition, very spacious, and splendidly lighted from both sides of its arched roof. The place is kept at a temperature which makes it comfortable for everybody who foregather at this feathered battlefield. Seldom do mishaps occur at this event, as the rules are strictly carried out by a methodical band of fanciers, who have the wellbeing of their society at heart, and little wonder is it that among the many New Year fixtures Paisley can lay claim to be one of the most popular, and this, the Diamond Jubilee, was celebrated in modern fashion. Entries were in excess of last year, and everybody wore a smile of satisfaction equal to the occasion. Mr. John Sinclair (better known as "Jock") had the manipulating of the secretarial duties, and was supported by a large and efficient committee. Scots Fancy were just about the same for numbers, but many birds of real merit graced the staging, Mr. Allardice having his clear yellow hen, a beauty (open Members' Cup winner), claimed at catalogue price, £15 15s. We heard the plucky purchaser was the well known Mr. Brown, East Kilbride, and we wish him luck. Norwich were well filled classes, but the Crested section was so poorly supported as to cause the amalgamating of the four classes into two. Quality was quite up to standard.

Borders were a good collection, some hot ones being present; Mules and British were the feature of the show, and must have given the judge, Mr. J. W. Bruce, considerable anxiety to separate, the Brit. Goldie and Linnet classes being especially strong in quality, as well as numbers. Yorks. were quite a level lot, but the classification was not taken advantage of, as might have been expected. The foreign section was well patronised, and many specimens of real outstanding merit faced the judge who disposed of them with real credit. Grumbling was conspicuous by its absence, and we feel sure the awards, taking them as a whole, were well received. Judges were: Scots Fancy, A. Livingstoue, Paisley; J. Stewart, jun., Muirend; A. Nisbet, Galston; R. Menzies, Edinburgh; J. Main, Coatbridge; J. Smith, Howwood. Norwich and Clns., E. Barrow, Glasgow. Yorks., J. McLellan, Renfrew. Bords., J. Hutchison, Dysart. Mules, Hybrids, British and Foreign, J. W. Bruce, Coldstream.

WINSFORD C.B.S.

Show held Dec. 26, in the North Western Railway Club Rooms. 70 to 80 very good class exhibits turned up. Canaries were not quite so numerous as usual, but quality was very good. A grand buff Yorks. winning special best Canary. Brit. and Mules were very good, and competition keen all through. A very pretty Siskin took sp. for best seedeater. A very large variegated yell. Goldf.-Can. won sp. best Mule. The rooms are eminently suitable for a show, and quite the best in the district. Mr. S. S. Brooks, hon. sec., had all matters well in hand, and Mr. Chas. Houlton judged.

Northern Crest Club's Second Venture.

SUPERB COLLECTION OF CRESTS.

The second open venture of the Northern Crest Club, held Jany. 1, has come, and has turned out a success, as was to be expected, when in such capable hands as those of its worthy sec., Mr J. G. Hutchinson. With a lengthy experience as joint sec. and as show manager for the Newcastle C.B.S., he brought that experience and his own remarkable personality to bear upon the N.C.C.'s show, with a result that, from a Crest Fancier's point of view, left nothing to be desired. Through his own efforts, a schedule of wonderful worth was got together, with specials overlapping each other in general profusion. In addition there was a subscription list exceeding £14, which ought to be a grand stand-by in case of need. The entry was not what might have been expected in response to such generosity, though equal in numbers to that of the first venture. Champion classes provided 114 birds in 12 classes, and the novices 24 for two classes. The total entry was 220. The Scottish National Show being held on the same day would possibly have an adverse effect upon the entries; however, there was some excellent quality. It is almost an impossibility to single out any particular birds for special mention; but it is almost impossible not to mention Mr. George Dobson's old champion Crest cock, a winner at many shows; he has again added another to his long list of honours. Then Mr. Broad's famous hen was there; she is well known, and has had many wins to her credit, and here again the judge singled her out for many honours. She won the J. Ford Maling challenge cup for best old Crest or C.B. exhibited by a member of N.C.C., the china tea service, also given by Mr. Maling for best member's Crest, 5/- by Mr. F. W. Burnett for best Crest open, and the case of carvers by Mr. Anderson for best old Crest. Mr. A. J. Smith's yell. Crest and yell. C.B. also deserve especial mention, as do the same exhibitors' young birds, 1st in young Crests and 2nd young C.B. In fact, this exhibitor put down one of the finest teams of birds it has been our pleasure to see for a long time, accounting for four 1st and two 2nd. This would doubtless have been more but, having entered two or three birds in duplicate classes, there was no objection raised and upheld by the committee. The young Crest class was the strongest, and contained some excellent specimens, and when it is considered that Mr. Martin's Gateshead winner was out of the tickets, it may be readily understood that there were some eye-openers. Many seemed to prefer Mr. Martin's second to the winner, and though we agree with the judge's decision, no one could have grumbled if they had been reversed. They are both birds of exceptional merit. The young Crestbreds, though only numbering 11, was a very strong class for quality, and was well headed by Mr. Y. L. Martin's wing tkd., closely followed by Mr. A. J. Smith's variegated, another bird which has a promising future. The novices turned out some very creditable examples. Norwich turned up well in numbers, but the other classes were not exceptionally well supported. The Bird Market is very centrally situated, and is the Saturday meeting-place for fanciers for many miles round. It forms a nice room for a show, and the club is to be congratulated upon securing it for its show. This year it was a trifle cold, but was free from draughts, and the birds all seemed well, and none the worse for the elements, which were very unpropitious. The sec. was ably supported by a band of willing helpers, amongst whom we noticed Mr. T. Robson, chair; Mr. W. F. Swan, vice; and the members of committee present were: Messrs. Farrer, Riseborough, Armstrong, G. Dobson, Bewick (R. S.), Coutts, Mole. A familiar figure we missed was that of Mr. Cuthbert Dobson, who we were sorry to hear from his son George is far from well; he made his last entry as an exhibitor at this show. Failing health is preventing him from following his hobby. We trust that in his retirement better health may be given to him. Pres. Mr. J. Ford Maling was present, and looking keenly at the specimens. What a pleasure it would be to see this gentleman amongst the breeders and exhibitors of the Crested variety once again! It is years ago that he was amongst them with his birds, and it seems as though his enthusiasm has not waned. The judges were Mr. J. Brotherton, Crests: and Mr. T. Dixon, Linnet classes and members'. Their awards were well received.

D.C. BUFF CK. (7): 1, George Dobson, the old champion, one of the best, large round crest, very broad, leafy feather, well drooped; 2, Smith, cl. body dark, equal in size and shape of crest., but not same class of feather, bigger body; 3, R. S. Bewick, big as either, crest of good shape and density, but not so good centre; 4, Dickinson Bros.; vhc, Richardson; hc, Mrs. Taylor; c, Jeffries. LIGHT, ETC. (7): 1, Smith, well shaped crest, grey, not one of the largest, well radiated from closely packed centre; 2, Lister, cl. crest, larger both in body and size of crest, not so good in centre, looks to be deficient in feathers towards the back; 3, c, Hutchinson, variegd. Crest, well shaped, better behind than in front; 4, Dickinson Bros.; vhc, Swan; hc, Gillespie. D.C. BUFF HEN (12): 1, Broad, champion foul green, big in body as most cocks, splendidly shaped massive crest, close packed centre, perfect droop; 2, Hutchinson, another big-bodied hen with a large crest, very heavily feathered, not so good in shape, inclined to horn behind; 3, G. Dobson, not so big as 2nd, but better shape, splendid veiny feather, might have gone one up; 4, J. Taylor; vhc, Mrs. Taylor; hc, R. S. Bewick; c, Richardson. YELL. CREST (6): 1, Smith, variegd. good yell., nice sized crest of good formation, fine broad feather for a yell.; 2, J. Taylor, not quite so big, but very neat, almost green, grand shape and centre; 3, Richardson, D.C., mkd. wing, bigger body and larger crest, not so good in centre nor so good a shape; 4, Jeffries; vhc, Farrer; hc, Hutchinson. YELL. C.B. (6): 1, Smith, foul green, champion yell., head equal to many buffs, fine wide entrance, turnover more than covers a half-crown; 2, J. Taylor, monster for a yell., good head, well lashed, good entrance; 3, E. Richardson, variegd., good broad entrance, well domed head and well lashed; 4, Hutchinson; vhc, R. S. Bewick; hc, R. W. Mole. C.B. BUFF CK. (12): 1, Broad, variegd., good heavy bird, broad skull, well packed head, broad entrance, nice rise, good lashing; 2, Hugill, a big one, broad entrance, good rise and turnover; 3, J. Taylor, variegd., little narrower in entrance, broad behind, well packed head, nicely domed; 4, Gillespie; vhc, Cuthbert Dobson; hc, Smith; c, Hutchinson. HEN (6): 1, vhc, R. S. Bewick, big broad head, well packed with dense leafy feather, good browing; 2, Lister, lovely hen, big head, good broad entrance broad feather of good length; 3, Hugill, variegd., fine size, beautifully shaped head, well packed head, good rise; 4, Hutchinson; hc, Mrs. T. Taylor. YOUNG CREST BUFF (22), a strong class: 1, vhc, c, Smith, beauty, wing mkd. D.C., splashed on breast, beautiful round crest radiating from a fine centre, very broad leafy feather; 2, Martin, green, foul tail, some thought should have won, smaller body, but crest equal in size, probably denser feather, very little divides them; 3, Lawson, D.C., cl. body, big crest, nice leafy feather, split a little at front; 4, Mrs. Taylor; hc, Lister. BUFF (11): 1, Martin, spl. best C.B. over old birds, a truly marvellous youngster, fine bold head, grand brows and very lengthy turnover; 2, Smith, splendid turnover, bred from the yellow C.B. which shows that yellow blood does not shorten feather; 3, c, G. Dobson, a big bold head, nice broad entrance and long feather, good rise; 4, Broad; vhc, Jeffries; hc, J. Taylor. CREST YELL. (5): 1, Lister, Grizzled Crest, beautiful feather, nice dense crest, round as a coin; 2, Mole, variegd. D.C., good yell., well shaped, not so dense; 3, Lawson, good yell., not so long in front, shows too much beak; 4, Bewick. C.B. YELL. (10): 1, T. Bewick, big variegd., wide entrance, nice rise, long feather; 2, Hutchinson, almost gr., larger, good headpiece, not quite equal in turnover, but good; 3, 4, R. S. Bewick, lightly variegd., not so good in head properties as leaders, but nice loug feather; vhc, c, Smith; hc, Jeffries. NOV. CREST (11): 1, vhc, Simpson, big bouncing bird, with big round crest, well packed up to centre; 2, hc, Charlton, big crest, not quite so shapely, inclined to be egg-shaped, but very dense; 3, 4, Redpath, 3rd not so big, but nice shape, good centre; c, Morrison. C.B. (13): 1, Charlton, almost gr., huge head, good entrance, rise, and nicely domed; 2, Simpson, big bird, even broader bead than winner, nicely lashed, good broad entrance; 3, Tait, longer head, but narrower, good length of feather; 4, Bissett; vhc, Redpath; hc, Morrison; c, Bissett. PAIRS (10): 1, 3, G. Dobson, 1st nicely balanced pair, splendid shaped Crest cock to a fine bold-headed C.B. hen, a likely pair; 3rd, fine broad-headed C.B. cock, grand entrance and good rise, to a hen with an ideal crest to breed with; 4, vbc, T. Bewick; hc, Swan; c, R. S. Bewick. GIFT (14): 1, Gillespie; 2, Jeffries; 3, Scott; 4, Farrer; 5, Dickinson Bros.; 6, T. Robson; 7, R. S. Bewick; 8, Morrison; 9, Simpson. MEMB. NOR. (23): 1, c, Jeffries, good buff, easy win; 2, Morrison, nice qual. yell., good body, little pinched in head; 3, Hutchinson, unflig. yell., nice size and shape, might have been better in head; 4, hc, Newton; vhc, Morrison. YORKS. (8): 1, 2, 3, hc, Riseborough, leader cl. buff, good style, not one of the longest, but very neat; 2, 3, longer birds, both yell., lacking in shape and finish; 4, vhc, c, Swan. CINN. FALKIRK (Good Intent).

Fourth annual show, held Dec. 13, when a grand entry was put forward, especially in Norwich and British. Quality was well above the average for a confined show, some real champion Norwich gracing the benches. Crests were a grand lot, the medal winner being a real beauty. Bords. were not numerous, but a few good birds of nice type and qual. were staged. British were a choice lot; the medal for best went to a clinking Hawfinch staged to perfection. The hall has a good light, and is free from draughts, and the staging was nicely arranged round the sides, top, and down the centre. The society is blessed with a capable set of officials, headed by Mr. J. Muir, pres., and the worthy sec., Mr. Clarkson, and a hard-working committee, who one and all worked like Trojans. The judges were: Nor., Mr. R. Martin, Kirkintilloch; Bords., Mr. G. Brown, Leith. Brit., Mr. R. V. Raine, Cathcart, and they got through their work in good time, their awards being well received.

STOCKSBRIDGE.

Annual members' show, held Dec. 27, in the National Schoolroom. Entries did not turn up as well as wished, several of the most prominent members holding back. With a fair amount of members on the books, and several new faces ready to throw in their lot, Stocksbridge, with union, ought to present a good show. In Mr. G. L. Sampson no society could be better served with a sec; he is practical, enthusiastic, and courteous to the extreme. Others, "good and true" who rendered capital assistance were Messrs. W. Moore, R. Bradshaw, and W. Webb. We were very pleased to meet that over forty years' fancier, Mr. J. Evans, the noted Crest breeder. He wears well, and was in the pink. Yorks were a nice collection, with a fair assortment of Norwich, and a nice lot of Brit. and Crests. Special best in show, and spl. best Yorks. went to a clear yell. cock owned by Mr. G. L. Sampson; Nor., Mr. Tattersall, with a good yellow mkd. cock; Brit., Mr. Bradshaw, a prettily mkd. and good coloured Chaffinch. Staging was neatly carried out, and birds well attended to. Mr. J. C. Barnes, Sheffield, judged.

YELL. YORKS. (2): 1, sp., 2, Sampson, winner a gem of a clear. BUFF (6): All prizes, Sampson, 1st, full of true character, shooty, and waxy in feather. HEN (4): Again all to Sampson, a quartette of bonny damsels. UNFLIG. (4): 1, 2, vhc, Sampson, very promising cl.; 3, Webb, cl., non-fed, very neat. YELL. NOR. (6): 1, sp., Tattersall, mkd. hen, fine subs., shape, col., and feather; 2, 3, vhc, hc, c, Moore. BUFF (6): 1, hc, c, Moore, good all through; 2, 3, vhc, Tattersall. REDPOLL, ETC. (3): 1, Bradshaw, smart Redpoll, good in size and markings; 2, 3, Webb, Linnet and Redpoll respectively, neat specimens. HARDBILL (2): 1, sp., 2, Bradshaw, Chaff. and Goldie, both pleasing exhibits. CREST (4): 1, Moore, var. D.C., plenty of feather, neat Crest 2, 3, vhc, Evans, former presser hard. C.B. (4): 1, Moore, buff var., grand head points; 2, 3, vbc, Evans, close up. UNFLIG. BUFF. NOR. (2): 1, Moore, winner should make up into a good specimen with more time.

BIDEFORD F.S.

Annual show held Dec. 3, in the Market Hall. Entries were not large, but quality was of a high order. The birds were staged in two tiers, and the light was very good. Mr. Sing makes an ideal sec., and worked very hard in getting the show up to such a pitch. Mr. Geo. Dix judged.

NOR. (13): 1, sp., Taylor, buff cock, a real good Nor., grand cond., noted winner, good head and full neck, nice chubby body, short tail, wins; 2, 4, Richards, 2 yell., his cup winner, grand bird for a yell., tip-top cond., red-hot col., beautiful qual. of feather, a gem; 3, res, Shaddick, sons of 1st prize buff, two nice exhibits; vhc, hc, c, Nicholls. YORKS. and A.O.V. (9): 1, 2, 4, Richards, 1 buff cinn., Nor. type, bouncer for size, good head and body, nice cinn. col., 2 noted winning buff, real beauty, feathered like wax, beautiful back and body, well up on leg, 4 noted tkd. yell. hen, to-day out of cond.; 3, Collins, jonque cinn., grand size for a yell., hot col, simply grand, only fault a bit slack in feather; res, Fogaty; vhc, Violet; c, Violet. GOLDF. (9): 1, sp., vhc, c, Potter, grand Finch, noted winner, nice blaze, large and square cut, good body and tannings, wins; 2, Dart, good square blaze, of nice col., not quite so nicely tanned a buff; 3, Morgan, beautiful under blaze, of good col., fails top of head to winner; 4, Hughes; c, Dunn. A.O. BRIT.: 1, Collins, noted Hawfinch, grand exhibit, and great winner; 2, Taylor, Greenfinch, a topper, can win in his class, put down in A1 style; 3, Potter, hen Bullie, one of the best hens ever staged, beautiful shape, grand feather, noted winner; 4, Col. Williamson, cock Bullf.; c, Col. Williamson; vbc, Williams.

THE SCOTTISH NATIONAL.

Some Interesting Gossip about Scotland's Great Show.

A Show Amidst Snow.

Snow laid thickly all over the North country, and the weather was rather nippy, but with a little heat going during the night the spacious hall was fairly comfortable in the morning, although some of the Canaries looked a bit "Jumpy" when they faced the judges.

Entries this year numbered slightly over two thousand, although even with this fine collection the officials were somewhat disappointed, as with the inclusion of the Scotch fanciers they hoped to create a record. Unfortunately, there was rather a slump in both Nor. and Yorks. The small entry in the former was rather a surprise, as the National collection of chubby ones has always been one of the best in the country, and has attracted a lot of attention from the admirers of this popular variety. In Yorks the numbers have never been very enormous, but it was hoped that the average would be well maintained. This year there were only two classes of Cinnamons against five of last, so that the "Cinnies" were not quite so well represented. The Hybrids were possibly the finest collection ever seen, even in the North, where the popularity of these birds is well known, and good classes are generally the rule.

Early Birds at the Award Board.

Although a fine morning, a slight fog hung over the city, but this quickly cleared, so that by the time the judging was well under way there was a splendid light all over the huge hall. Quite a crowd collected at the barriers, many of them busy pencilling the winning numbers from the award board fixed at the end of the hall. This is a boon to those seeking early information regarding their entries, and was taken ample advantage of by the morning visitors.

The judging was over in good time, and the show declared open by Councillor Stevenson, who made a very eloquent speech upon the pleasures of bird-keeping. He was supported by Professor Ewart, of Edinburgh University.

Of all the two thousand odd birds on view, none attracted so much attention as Mr. Parlett's Light Hybrid. There was always a crowd of fanciers gathered round it, freely giving their views and discussing its parentage in no gentle tones. As a rule the Scotchmen accepted the bird for what he is reputed to be.

Where the Specials Went.

There was the usual interest evinced in the big specials, particularly the Dewar Shield; the winner proved to be Mr. Crone's Canary-Bullie, followed by Mr. Campbell's Scotch Fancy and Mr. McLaren's fine Crest, both of which secured equal number of points. CAGE BIRDS champion 10s. special was also won by Mr. Crone's Hybrid, the novice 10s. going to Mr. Levick's Goldf.-Can. Other special winners were —Best Nor., McGinn; Crest, McLaren; Hyb., Crone; Scotch Fancy, Campbell; Brit., McQuiston's Chough; Bord., Mr. Hy. Bennett; For., Mr. P. Arnott's Purple Sugar Bird. The Border Cup was won by Mr. J. Rodger.

Norwich were slightly down on last year, but the quality all over was of the very best. A great improvement was shown in quality and wing carriage, not nearly so many of the crossed wing birds being seen as formerly. Some of the classes were simply filled with really grand birds, and the judge had great difficulty in some cases in arriving at a decision owing to the closeness of the exhibits in point of merit. Mention must be made of the really grand team shown by Mr. Joe Thomas (Bradford), nearly every one of his birds being well in the money. Mr. Trengove judged, and his decisions gave satisfaction, very little fault being found with them.

The Scotch Fancy exhibits were forward greatly in excess of last year, and many well-known winners fought their battles over again. Mr. John Dalgleish, of Leith, had a grand team out and captured a fair share of the spoils. The cup for best young bird went to a buff pied hen belonging to Mr. G. T. Campbell, Clydebank, a rare stylish bird. This exhibitor also won spl. for most points over the section. The judges' decisions were well received, and they did well considering the coldness of the hall.

The Yorkshires were not particularly numerous, but some of the best from many of the North Country breeders were on view. They were an exceedingly level lot, just a bird here and there standing out above his fellows. Mr. Mundell was exceedingly patient with them, the nippy air of the big hall naturally affecting some of the birds.

The Green Yorks were a fine collection, being particularly level in type and col. The Norwich Greens were also a wonderfully fine lot, each year is showing a distinct improvement on the last, in both colour and type.

The Crests and Crestbreds made a fine section, grand birds, and every class well filled. The cream was naturally to be found in the old Crested cock class, where the first three or four were all of particularly high merit. The young birds were grand, and contained many future champions. Among them we particularly noticed Mr. McLaren's Crest cock, Mr. Taylor's hen, and Mr. Paul's C.B. hen, all very fine.

Green and Cinnamon Borders were forward in force; some grand birds were out. All the classes were very keenly contested, and carefully handled by Mr. J. Arnot, the well-known Green specialist, who seemed to please the majority.

The Hybrid section, as is usual, was extra good, most of the well-known cracks being forward. The light classes contained the cream of the Fancy, while the dark Mules were really marvellous for size, col. and cond. The Bullfinch Hybrid class was the attraction of the show, the much-discussed Bullie Hybrid being on view. The class for Hybrids from two British birds was very strong, quite a varied and interesting lot. Mr. J. Maddison judged, and his awards seemed well received.

Britishers in Strong Classes.

British birds were slightly down in numbers, but for quality were far in advance of previous events. British Goldies, 20 strong, contained grand specimens, many real cool ones having to fight down. The winner shown by Mr Pringle (Peebles) is a real cl. bird well worthy of his honours. Lancs came forward well, 6/ in two classes, a trifle only in size in balance separating the winners. The Judge must have had a task. Siskins numbered 43 in two classes, this season having been a good one for obtaining them, but the quality on the whole was hardly up to what we have seen here. The class for lid-mounted Redpolls failed to draw the entry of a few years ago, when over 50 appeared, and though a fine display were on view size was not up to that of the last influx. Yellow Buntings were the finest lot we have seen here, even the quality of some which had to take the lesser honours being very high. England has secured a good share of the honours in the British section. The decisions of Mr. J. Sykes and Mr. J. Maddison seemed to be generally approved.

British Softbills were a nice collection, some rare exhibits being forward, especially among the smaller varieties. The winning Chough was a gem, and well put down by Messrs. McQuiston and Patterson. The Foreign Goldfinches and Bullfinches were a great show, some gems of the first water being forward. The winning hen Bullfinch has now won a reputation of her own, having headed this class for three years in succession under three different judges!

The Men who did the Work.

One hardly knows what words to use to express properly the general opinion of the management. A big venture like the Scottish National must be managed on lines that leave no loophole for errors. From the arrival of the first bird until the end, everything went as smoothly as it possibly could; no waiting, no hitch anywhere. Mr. R. Craig, as manager, was just in his element; he had a particularly busy time, and carried out his duties in a very capital and efficient manner. As usual, the President, Mr. J. Winter, did yeoman service; he was always busy, yet always to hand when wanted. His assistance was invaluable. Every one of the committee realised that it was a National show they were running, and they each gave of their best. Among them were Messrs. Rodger, Finnie, Todd, Easter, Smart, Hoyle, Gourlay, Nelson, May, Spence, Turnbull, Carson, Morris, Cooper, Brown, Hutchinson, Murray, Stormont, Carlton, Allan, Paterson, Lile, Petrie, Sinclair, and McNiven. The duties of the secretarial offices were undertaken by Mr. J. R. Meikle, and in him the society have a most careful and painstaking worker. His duties were arduous, but were carried out with a zeal that left nothing to be desired. He had valuable assistance from his brother, Mr. D. Meikle.

The whole of the birds were well tended, and we heard no complaint of any kind. Miss Peddy Waddell (looking bright and bonny) had the foreign birds under her care, and their appearance testified to the excellence of her attentions.

The judges were Messrs. T. Trengove (Norwich), J. Young (Crests), J. Carson, J. Hogg, A. Hamilton, J. A. Stewart (Scots.), J. F. Dewar (Belgs.), W. Mossie, T. Arnot (Borders), W. Mundell (Yorks.), T. W. Walton (Rollers), J. Maddison (Hybrids), and part Brit., J. Sykes (British), and L. J. Arrighi (foreign). Their awards generally were very well received.

CAGE BIRDS stall was in its usual place, and there was a steady demand for plates, booklets, etc. Mackay and Sons had a fine collection of cages, beautifully made and finished. They also had on view some specially made light wood carriers, with strong steel corners, and special fasteners, for which they have a good demand. Messrs. Baron and Co.'s "Kosy Karriers" attracted a lot of attention, their strength and lightness surprising everybody, and we expect plenty of orders were placed for them.

Never before in the history of the Cage Bird Fancy has a bird been so much discussed, or attracted so much attention as Mr. Parlett's variegated Hybrid. All the time the show was open the crowd round the bird was simply wonderful. It only needed a stalwart policeman with his somewhat monotonous "Pass on, please," to make one think it was a Lord Mayor's show. The bird was absolutely tired out at the end of the exhibition, all eyes were on him, but through it all he was not a bit shy, and occasionally enlivened the proceedings with a burst of song that was almost laughable, he was the only one of the whole gathering that saw the humorous side of the affair, everyone present was in such deadly earnest, the discussion at times waxed hot and strong, he had quite a dozen parents, ranging from the Canary to the Snow Bunting, attributed to him. Some of the other Hybrids must have been almost green with envy; for all the attention they attracted they might just as well have been at home. Even the Greenfinch-Sparrow was so upset with the whole affair that she slunk into a corner of her cage and refused to budge, perhaps she will recover by the spring, when the sun shines, and some cheeky cock Sparrow wants to make love to her. The gate and sales were records, but we were unable to get the actual figures. Although much more space than usual was allowed, the crowd at times was so thick that one could scarcely move, particularly round the Hybrids, Scotch Fancies, and Borders. The admirers of the two latter cannot tear themselves away from their pets, the other birds in the show have no attractions for them whatever. One had a proof of this at the close for one hardly had time to turn round before these varieties were cleared from the staging, packed, and out of the hall.

Mr. Meikle and his brother were both kept pretty busy attending to the purchasers, and never before have we seen such spirited bidding at the auction of the winners in the limit classes. The keenest tussle of all was for Mr. Wilson's Buff Nor. Hen, in the fifteen shilling limit. We really thought the bidding would never stop, and expected to hear the auctioneer tell the bidders to wait while he had some tea, anyway, the end came at last, the bird finding a new owner at four pounds, two and six.

It was considerably warmer on the second day of the show, and many of the winners were quite out-classed. The judges who stayed behind had a roaring time. We noticed Pa Mundell with a crowd about six deep round him, when he was trying to explain why the cap marked buff was beaten by "you" class. We did not stop to hear the result, but we would gladly have laid odds on "Pa."

Mr. Shackleton's birds arrived during the evening of the first day, so also did Mr. Muscott's from Wales, they were, of course, too late for competition; we fancy the owners were trying to squeeze another day on to the old year, but Wednesday was the opening day not Thursday. Hard lines for some of them certainly looked winners.

PWLLHELI.

Annual open show held Jan. 1 in Owen's Garage, a very fine room for the purpose. Entries turned up well, including all the North Wales cracks. A few birds were absent when judging commenced through the late trains, notably Mr. Crawford's Hawfinch, of Llanelly, which arrived at 2.30 p.m. The room was packed with visitors. Norwich were not over strong, but Yorks. came out well. Bord. were charming in qual. and numbers, Goldfinches were quite a sight, as is the rule at all North Wales shows. Mules and Hyb. were worth a long journey to see, and must have taken some separating. Novices came well to the fore with 40 exhibits in the Canary class, and every one a credit. The management was in the hands of a hard-working committee headed by Mr. D. J. Jones, chair., and Mr. W. S. Lloyd, hon. treas. Sec. Mr. W. H. Davies, is a respected exhibitor and judge in Wales, and he carries out his duties in a most painstaking manner; he had cards up in no time, and the show open by 1.30. We are pleased to notice the Mayor of Pwllheli, Dr. R. Jones Evans, taking an active interest in the show. The room was cleared of all railway birds by 6.30 p.m., so as to catch the mail train, and exhibitors would get their birds same night. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, Liverpool, judged, and every one seemed pleased with his awards.

NOR. (7): 1, 2, Cup for best in show, W. H. Williams, noted even mkd. buff leading, put down in excellent order, 2nd cl. yell., grand head and neck, evenly balanced wings, short tail, clean cut; 3, Davies and Jones, smart buff, noble head, exquisite qual., capital form, just wants a bit more subs.; 4, R. Williams; vhc, W. Williams; hc, James; c, J. Roberts. YORKS. YELL. (13): 1, Nolan, mkd. cap and wings, stands like a guardsman, full of swank, rare shoulders, pipe tail and well finished; 2, Sgt. WIDNES C.B.S.

Eighteenth annual show held Nov. 14, 15, Milton Schools, Simm's Cross. The entry was a record, some 25 competitors showing 212 exhibits. The School is an admirable place for the show, and the exhibits were shown to considerable advantage. Mr. S. Andrew, the indefatigable sec., did well in his department, and his arrangements contributed in no small measure to the success of the show. Mr. A. G. Davis, Manchester, judged.

WORKINGTON.

3rd annual show held Jan. 1, in Covered Market. The birds were staged at one end of the hall at a nice convenient height, and were well looked after by the stewards appointed. The four classes of Borders averaged just under 11 per class, and contained some of the best in the north, the local exhibitor, Mr. J. S. Wilson, putting down a fine team and capturing all the first prizes with birds anyone might be proud of. Yorks. had six open and one novice class, and though held under the patronage of the C. and W.Y.C.C., were a disappointing entry numerically, two exhibitors having 22 entries betwixt them out of 37 entries in open classes. The novice class had a better response, and contained some very creditable birds. British, we think, were the best seen round here this season, many of the birds being quite capable of scoring at much larger shows. The insectivorous class was extremely interesting, both as regards the exhibits and the manner of staging. A large and capable band of well-known workers formed the committee, with Mr. J. Wilson treasurer, and Capt. Summers sec., who each worked energetically for the benefit of exhibits and visitors alike. Judge, Mr. J. Nicholson, who appeared to give full satisfaction. Members' silver cup for most points was won by Mr. J. Wilson, who had out a good team and scored well.

RHEUMATISM

MR. ELLAM, from photo.
34, Sloane-st., Brooks Bar, Manchester,
February 7, 1912.

Dear Sir,—To-day you see me as fit as a fiddle, and this I owe to Dr. Eric Hoff's "U.A.E.," a remedy which I consider the finest in existence for uric acid diseases. Never felt better in my life, am quite free from pain, and though the weather for weeks has been fearfully wet, yet I am not feeling the slightest twinge. I get up at 5 a.m., put in a good sound day's work, and feel more than indebted to "U.A.E." for all the good it has done.

Faithfully yours,
RICHARD ELLAM.

Kiln Cottage,
Bangor Isycoed, Wrexham,
December 16, 1912.

Dear Sir,—I am very glad to say that I found your remedy a success in my case. Trusting that your work will succeed to the relief of many.

Yours truly,
C. JOHNSON.

WELL-KNOWN DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY.

I have every confidence in Dr. Eric Hoff's Uric Acid Treatment known as "U.A.E." (Uric Acid Expeller), for, from an intimate knowledge of its elements and their amalgamation I am convinced it is the most effective dissolvent of uric acid excess. My experience has demonstrated its great value, even in confirmed and obstinate cases of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, and allied complaints.

A TYPISTS'S TROUBLE.—ELECTRICAL MASSAGE NO GOOD.—"U.A.E." A RECORD REMEDY.

20, Knightland-road, Upper Clapton.

Dear Sir,—For over four years I have been a continual sufferer from rheumatic neuralgia, in various stages, according to the state of my health. I attribute the commencement of this most painful complaint to working in a draughty office. After enduring most violent pains all over my head, and having experimented with a hundred and one "advertised cures," but without any good result, I determined to give up my situation, for I was not compelled to work. I rested at home for three months, but the complaint had got such a hold on me that I did not obtain any relief from my rest.

I then visited a specialist, as my nerves were breaking down, and I felt it a misery to live. I was advised to undergo a treatment of electrical massage. More expense and no relief.

My next move was a change of air, so I went to Bournemouth, and here I found my best friend, a lady who had been suffering like myself, but had been completely cured by Dr. Eric Hoff's "U.A.E." She had a few tablets left, so I commenced taking them at once, and anxiously awaited the arrival of a full box, for my pain was relieved in two days. By the time I had taken half of the quantity in the new box I felt a new woman, and was practically cured—but to make sure I continued until the box was empty, and since that time I have not had a single pain in my head. I keep the empty box as a souvenir, and now feel proud to write a word of praise in favour of Dr. Hoff's wonderful discovery.

I have now obtained a new situation, and feel wonderfully well. What a pleasant change!

Yours faithfully,
LAURA BUSBY.

A GUARANTEED REMEDY FREE.

1,250 4s. 6d. Treatments of Dr. Hoff's U.A.E.

To be given away FREE.

Dr. Hoff's U.A.E. (Uric Acid Expeller) is guaranteed to cure Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout, Stone, and all complaints caused by an excess of Uric Acid in the blood. To secure recommendations I have decided to distribute 1,250 full-sized 4s. 6d. Treatments FREE.

Dr. Hoff's U.A.E. dissolves and drives the Uric Acid which causes Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gout, etc., out of the system. IT IS THE ONLY KNOWN MEDICINE WHICH ACTS IN THIS WAY, and THEREFORE THE ONLY CERTAIN CURE. I do not care what remedies you have tried, how many magnetic belts or other appliances you have worn, or how many years you have suffered without relief. U.A.E. will cure you. Many thousands have been cured after trying all sorts of so-called cure-alls, remedies, appliances, belts, and after undergoing treatments in baths, spas, hospitals, etc.

Remember!

The cause of Rheumatism is in the blood. You cannot coax it out through the skin with plasters or belts. You cannot tease it out with oils and embrocations, or burn it out with impregnated wadding, or was it out with medicated waters. YOU MUST DISSOLVE AND DRIVE THE URIC ACID—WHICH CAUSES THESE COMPLAINTS—OUT OF THE BLOOD. This is just what Dr. Hoff's great remedy does: it expels the cause, and drives the Uric Acid out through the natural channels of the body. That is why it cures Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Gout, etc., and why I CAN GUARANTEE THAT IT WILL CURE YOU.

I Will Prove it to You at My Expense!

Simply fill in the coupon at the foot (or write mentioning "Cage Birds") and post to me to-day, and I will send you a 4s. 6d. box of Dr. Hoff's U.A.E. to try, together with Analyst's certificate of purity, doctors' opinions, and a book entitled "The Origin, Nature, and Treatment of Uric Acid Disorders," also a few extracts from the many thousands of testimonials received. Write at once; do not delay until your constitution is wrecked or your heart injured by Rheumatic poison.

What the X-Rays Reveal!

From these X-Ray illustrations it will be clear that uric acid is the cause of all Rheumatic maladies, whether your pain is in the back, legs, hands, shoulders, or feet; the cause is the same—Uric Acid. When the nerves are inflamed it causes Neuralgia and Neuritis. If you suffer from any of these complaints—Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Stone or Gravel, send [illegible] for a free treatment of Dr. Hoff's "U.A.E.," and commence your cure [illegible] To secure recommendations, I have decided to distribute 1,250 full-sized 4s. [illegible] ments Free.

This Coupon entitles any reader of "Cage Birds" to [illegible] box of Dr. Hoff's Celebrated Uric Acid Expeller (U.A.E.) free of charg[illegible] Cut here, fill in, or write mentioning, "Cage Birds."

Gray's Inn-road.

Dear Sir,—For several months I was crippled by rheumatism, it being especially bad in my legs, which made it very difficult for me to get about. In fact, I was for some time stopped from my work, and had to give it up altogether. At last I was recommended to try Dr. Eric Hoff's "U.A.E." by a friend who had derived benefit from taking it. I very quickly began to feel a great deal of relief and benefit from taking it, and after a short time I was able to get about again and perform my work as before.

I am thankful to say now that I am quite free from all symptoms of pain, and am very glad to tell of the good "U.A.E." has done me, as I consider it the best remedy for all rheumatic and uric acid troubles.

Yours truly,
Mrs. THAKE.

"U.A.E." THE ONLY NON-POISONOUS CURE.—A FAMOUS DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY.

I am satisfied that the principal ingredient contained in "U.A.E." is the only non-poisonous drug which has any real power over uric acid diseases, and I have continually used "U.A.E." in my own practice with most satisfactory results.

In cases of Gout, Sciatica, Lumbago, and severe cases of Rheumatism, I have usually found Vikwik Lotion a valuable accessory, as it relieves the acute pain after one or two applications.

NOW FREE FROM RHEUMATISM AND LUMBAGO BANISHED.—BOTTOM OF BACK PAINS AND SHOULDER AGONY ENDED.

Mr. JOHN SMITH,
13, Cardigan-terrace,
Leeds Centre.

Dear Sirs,—I've been a constant sufferer for years past from both rheumatism and lumbago, the first affecting my shoulders chiefly, and the latter attacking the bottom of my back, and if anyone knows what pain is, then I do. At my work I want free use of my arms, but this has been denied me, and also I've been quite prostrated with back pain. To do no work means to earn no money, and thus my troubles have cost me pounds, besides which I've spent a lot trying many advertised treatments.

It's a fact that nothing did me good until I was fortunate enough to hear of Dr. Hoff's "U.A.E.," and this is certainly the finest uric acid remedy in the world. Little by little it drew all the uric acid excess out of the system; I could see it departing, and I knew it as well, for the relief grew greater every day. It cured me and I've stayed cured, and am now able to do anything and everything. Let me sincerely recommend "U.A.E." to all other sufferers.

The sam[illegible] Acid,

28th annual show, held in Corn Market Hall, Jan. 1. The hall is fairly large and well lighted; 12 of the 44 classes were cancelled. Entries numbered only 80. We would greatly advise the committee to advertise more extensively another year. Economy in advertising spells lack of entries. The birds were staged in the centre of the Hall, but one drawback was that the passes were rather narrow. The local people take a great interest in the show, which adds considerably to its success. The exhibits were well staged and looked after, and some grand specimens were on view. The management was of the best. The secs., Messrs. Garden and Sinclair, were ably backed up by hard working and enthusiastic stewards. Silver cup best bird was won by J. C. Dressel, silver cup best bird in largest class, K. Maclean. Spend most points local, H. Garden, most points, J. C. Dressel, silver medals, members, J. C. Dressel, 1three, and H. Craigen one; Mr. A. Thompson judged, and his awards were well received.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Annual members' show, held Dec. 6. The entry was capital, upwards of 310, with splendid quality, in fact, we have seen open shows not equal. The Montgomery Hall, often described as being a most suitable venue, was utilised, and the birds were judiciously staged. President, Mr. F. Jones, is an ideal leader, and the vice-president, Messrs. T. Hemming and J. Thorpe, complete a trio of "toppers" as regards correct management. The committee consist of practical fanciers, praise being due to Messrs. Champion, Kelly, Walsh, Furniss, Cowley, Bingham, Bailey, Memmott, Tow, Drabble, Robson (C. W.), Tomlinson, and Curley. Mr. Wm. Oxley, treas., is a 20 years' trustworthy and genuine official, and a pleasure to chat to. Mr. A. Hobson, the capable sec., receives capital help from Mr. J. Woolhouse, who takes the role of understudy. Yorks. were the feature, Nor. good, and are once again gaining ground; Brit. made a fine display. Special winners. Silver cups: Champ., Yorks., W. T. What a Reader thinks of "OUR CANARIES."

5, The Station,

Durham.

I am very well satisfied with "Our Canaries," and, as far as I have gone into this wonderful book, I have found some very useful hints. Although only a Novice, I tried my hand at washing a few birds and getting them ready for our Local Show. I washed nine birds in all, only spoiling one. I have had them examined by a friend, who is considered an expert at the game, and he gave me credit for washing them very well, this being my first attempt. I am delighted to think I did so well. The information, which is very concise, that enabled me to wash them so well, was in "OUR CANARIES."
